TULSA BEST CITY THIS SIDE OF FRISCO, SAY AUTOISTS

There are lots of good cities and towns between San Francisco and Tulsa, but Tulsa is the best of them all, according to Edmund and Arthur A. Poirier, prominent Frisco business men, who reached Tulsa yesterday afternoon after two weeks of motoring from the coast city.

The Messrs. Poirier motored over the southern route, which leads through Arizona, touching at Phoenix, through New Mexico via Albuquerque to Amarillo, then to Oklahoma City and to Tulsa. "We choose Tulsa in preference to them all," they said.

While in Tulsa the visitors will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Claude L. Hough of 318 South Elgin. Their trip was made for business purposes.

An English inventor has perfected a steam motor truck which uses coke for fuel.

Multimillionaires No Curiosity to Texans

Undreamed-of Riches Come to Men, Women and Children in Wonderful Oil Fields in Lone Star State.

By Charles W. Barton
(Assistant Publisher of The Morning Telegraph.)

When I boarded the train for Texas a month ago I was somewhat skepitcal about the reports of the fabulous wealth which was coming to oil investors in Texas. I was prepared to meet a lot of smooth-talking, silvery tongued oil stock salesmen. To say the least, I expected that the oil men I was to meet would show me the bright side of the oil business and put their best foot forward. Thus I was prepared to discount about 80 per cent of what they told me and take what I saw with a grain of salt.

After having spent this month in going over the oil fields, my greatest worry is that if I tell the actual truth—the bare, cold facts—I will be considered a candidate for the presidency of the AnaniasClub, o r, speaking in the vernacular, the best liar east of the Mississippi.

(The Morning Telegraph, New York, April 13, 1919.)

"THE sudden fortunes made in oil cannot be exaggerated," says a writerintheSaturdayEvening Post, and he also adds that "Oil is no respecter of persons.

Yet this same man has for years had the reputation of being on e of the most conservative financial editors and prior to his visit to the Texas field would never admit that it was possible for money to earn more than 6 or 7 per cent.

"The greatest oil field the World has ever known—from a human interest standpoint," quotes the Los Angeles Times.
