OILERS LOSE IN TENTH -- BANTAMS IN FAST WORKOUT

SALISBURY'S BAD THROW IS FATAL

Lets Hulswitt Score With Winning Tally in the Tenth Round.

TODAY'S GAME CALLED 3:30

Starts Early to Permit the Miners to Catch a Train for Home.

By CHARLES I. BRIDE.

Henceforth the eighth inning is one to be dreaded by Tulsans. With the opening game with Joplin apparently tucked away on Wednesday, the Miners rallied in the eighth and tied the score, winning in the ninth. Yesterday the Oilers again were leading by what appeared to be a safe margin—three runs—as the eighth opened. Then the invaders again broke loose with an offensive that overcome this lead and they won out in the tenth, 8 to 7.

John Leroy Salisbury has no one save himself to blame for his defeat. He lost it four ways. In the seventh he issued a pass with the bases loaded. In the eighth he gave up two bases on balls and two home runs, surrendering a comfortable lead. In the second half of the same inning he hit into a double play when had he escaped this disaster the game never would have gone into extra innings, since the next two batters delivered two base hits. He lost it definitely in the tenth when he threw wild at third, enabling Hulswitt to trot home with the deciding tally.

Sal Over-Anxious.

But the fact that it was Sal who lost, took part of the sting out of the defeat for the home fans. Salisbury has been the one consistent hurler on the entire Tulsa staff, so consistently good while his battery mates have been so consistently bad that yesterday was the fifth time in a week he had been sent to the mound. If anyone is entitled to blow up it is John Leroy, and in recognition of his previously distinguished services there was little of the cabid censure among the fans that would have been according any other individual who might have experienced the same misfortune.

It was a hard-fought game throughout, one of the most intensely interesting defeats of the season.

Tulsa Starts Early.

Tulsa looked like a certain winner in the early innings.

Cleveland opened the round with a single to left. Davis sacrificed and then Goodwin drove Barney home with a hit to the north. Goodwin took second on the throw in and after O'Brien had grounded out scored on Sparks' scratch single through short.

Three more were added in the third. Wuffli started with a single, but was caught stealing. Two were down when Dilks fanned. Slattery started things going again with a blow to right. Cleveland hit also and Davis drove Slattery home. Then Cleveland registered while Goodwin was getting a life on Lamb's bobble, and Davis raced to third. A double steal, wherein Goodwin swiped second and Davis stole home, completed the scoring for the round.

Joplin's first pair of markers came in the fourth on home runs by Bochler and McIver. They got another in the seventh when Thompson drew a base on balls with the bases filled.

A base on balls, a couple of sacrifices and an error added one to Tulsa's total in the seventh.

Eighth Disastrous.

Then came the disastrous eighth. It started auspiciously enough for Briebeck, first up, fanned. Hulswitt, however, packed one over the center field fence. McIver walked when Salisbury missed a couple of corners and bounced a couple off the ground. Lamb's fly to Brokaw made it two down. When Collins drew a walk Hulswitt took a desperate chance on breaking up the game for he sent Crutcher in to run for his crippled catcher and ordered Burwell to the plate with a wee club. The pinch hitter delivered the goods, for he sent one just over the right field fence, giving the visitors a one-run advantage.

Tulsa immediately evened it up and had Salisbury been able to dump a sacrifice instead of hitting into a double play, the game never would have gone more than another half inning. Mapel having been withdrawn for Burwell to bat, Smith was sent to the mound and Diamond went behind the bat. Collins, first man engaged to left. In his eagerness to advance the runner, Salisbury attempted to hurl impossible high ones until he had two strikes called upon him, whereupon he swung at the ball, gathering in his bounder. Hulswitt threw to Lamb forcing Collins at second and then Lamb whipped the ball to first, catching Sal by a couple of steps. How serious was this disaster became apparent at once. Jay Brokaw walked a little wide to deep left which was good for two stations. Wuffli also shot a double to center, knocking the score. Dilks ended the rally by grounding to Briebeck.

Neither side got a man to first in the ninth. At the opening of the tenth Hulswitt tried a sacrifice and for two stations. Sparks remained a scratcher and a minute a bunt Salisbury changed, in order the play for Hulswitt at third. He fielded the ball well and would have been able to stop the runner, but by a good throw. But the throw was high and Hulswitt trotted in safe with the decisive run.

The final game of the series will be played this afternoon starting at 2:30 in order that the Joplin team might catch an early train for home.

COMMISSION FAILS TO AGREE ON TITLE SERIES

CINCINNATI, June 12.—The national baseball commission failed to reach a final agreement relative to any changes that might be made in the division of the world baseball championship series at its sitting here today, but announced that the commission would probably announce some changes within the next few days.

THE regularity with which invading teams are getting away with victories by barely topping the short walls at McNulty park is giving the home fans food for serious consideration and they are wondering what can be done to relieve the situation. Games of the last week have proved that no lead is large enough to make the game safe so long as hits which really should be easy outs are going for homers.

The management already has decided on one step and is going to add 10 feet to the right field barrier. When President Al Tearney of the eWstern league was here early in May he made a suggestion that might further rectify this evil. This was to move home plate back some 20 feet. Twenty more feet will make a wonderful difference in the fate of long wallops and when this is added to the 10 feet more of fence games will be decided more nearly upon their merits.

President Tearney said that he believed the fact that it would bring the catcher only a few feet from the grandstand would not be nearly so bad as to continue to let undeserved home runs be chalked up. He argued that the opportunity for spectacular fielding plays in the outfield would outnumber those of the catcher on foul balls many to one. "I'd let the high fouls land on top of the grandstand and give the outfielders a chance," he declared. "It will make the games much more interesting from a spectator's standpoint. Furthermore, I believe the time is not far distant when they are not going to allow a putout on a foul fly."

This advice of the league president sounds good. There is little thrill to seeing a catcher get under a high foul, but there is a real sensation when an outfielder makes a spectacular catch in the field and there would be many more of them on the local lot if it were 20 feet farther to the fence.

John Reisler is continually butting up against serious competition in his attempts to get eastern boxers of national reputation to come west. After Britton had run out of his agreement to come here and meet Loughlin, Reisler centered his efforts on getting Harry Greb to come out and take on Bill Brennon on July 4. Now comes word that Greb has been offered $15,000 to go to France and meet Georges Carpentier sometime in July with the further inducement that an effort will be made to get the winner of the Willard-Dempsey fight to go to Europe later and fight for the title.

Billy Recap has notified Major Biddle that it will be impossible for him to accept the job of refereeing the heavyweight match. Now then let's hear someone nominate Edward Cochrane. Two engineers at least have been definitely eliminated.

Bantams In All-Star Card Work Out at Brady Today

Kayo Brown Arrives Today, Fresh From Triumph Over Jimmy Murphy.

GREAT CARD PROMISED FANS

Best Show Ever Offered in Tulsa, Given at Popular Prices, $1, $2, $3.

By LARRY DAILEY.

With the arrival in Tulsa of K. O. Brown this morning the six principals who appear in the all-star card of the Tulsa Sporting club next Monday night will work at the Brady hotel this afternoon.

Brown returns to Tulsa from Camp Pike where he defeated Jimmy Murphy of St. Louis in 10 rounds of spirited mauling Wednesday night. The winner of the interallied flyweight championship in London last winter put up a grand battle at Camp Pike and earned enthusiastic praise from the ring siders. In Murphy Brown met one of the toughest boys in the bantam division and the K. O. wallopers victory indicates that Nate Jackson is going to be forced to the limit.

Brown Popular Here.

While in Tulsa before leaving for Camp Pike Brown made numerous friends. Although this is his first appearance in Tulsa, Brown has many supporters who will be pulling for him to beat Jackson.

Brown was to arrive in Tulsa early this morning and will work at the Brady this afternoon at 2:45 o'clock. Bobby Hughes has refused to work with Brown, which will force the latter to secure other sparring partners.

Mutt McKee, who meets Hughes in the 12-round semi-final of this brilliant all-star card, and Nate Jackson went through a hard work out yesterday to a capacity house. After taking three miles of road work in the morning they spent over half an hour working in the afternoon. Six rounds of fast mauling in addition to the usual gymnasium routine constituted their day's work.

In Fighting Condition

Both boys are in splendid condition and need only to add finishing touches to their work to be ready for the gong. Jackson is the same clever, speedy, two-fisted puncher as of old. There is no difference in the fighting style of the little Oklahoma City scrapper from the time he invaded and defeated the best 116 pound boys in the last three years and now.

Those who saw Fowler (Marty McKee start his ring career relate three years ago and even a year back, when he lost to Hughes here, would hardly know the boy who is to attempt to avenge that defeat next Monday. Mutt was shaved of the game for nearly a year. His first return was the engagement here with Bobby. McKee was in good shape physically for that tilt. But weeks of ring inactivity made it impossible for him to show the stuff that he has exhibited during the winter.

Hughes is likewise a different boy a bunch improved scrapper over that of last year. He has adding only three or four pounds of weight but that increased poundage has greatly increased his hitting power. A year of meeting top-much boys, including Nate Jackson and Eddie Clayton and victories over some of the best in the game, entitles him to consideration. Bobby Hughes has arrived as a championship contender.

Three Classy Bouts.

The class of the bantam title has detracted to some extent from interest in the 10-round curtain raiser between Glen Bartles and Kid George, welterweights. This 10-round tilt should prove a fast slugging match. Bartles is a Tulsa boy who engaged in scraps with some exceedingly tough lads in Hot Springs and Little Rock during the winter. Glen emerged with credit from each encounter. His work in past bouts here and his improvement the last year, with just a little more experience, will make Bartles a hard man for any welter to beat. George is the proper person to give Bartles that work out. The Pacific coast scrapper demonstrated in his bout with Art Magill of a few weeks ago that he is clever and that with a little more training he will be a hard man to beat.

Jackson and McKee will work at 2 o'clock, Brown at 2:45 and Hughes at 3:30 at the Brady hotel today.

Daily Dope

By Larry Dailey..

With three more months left to play, and the Oilers in sixth place in the Western league pennant race, disappointment over the showing of the club to date has been expressed by fans. Although the locals are in two places above the bottom, only a few games separate them from the top and a two weeks of winning ball would make them contenders.

It is too early yet to consign the Abbotts to a place under the first four or to count them out of the running in the flag hunt. Much can happen before the last game is played. Just why the Oilers are not higher in the race is difficult to explain. Potentially, the club appears to class about as strong as any in the league.

The batting has been good, the fielding about as reliable as any other. It is pitching weakness and inability to hit and field when the pitchers do their share that has lost the Oilers more games than they have won.

The club is at home only three days in July and six days in August. During the long road trek, its fate is to be decided. Whether it is to be 1-2-3 as or whether it is counted
