DOUGHNUT DAY TODAY; HAVE DOLLAR READY

Pretty Girls and Former Soldiers to Hand Out "Army Food" for Salvation Army

$5,000 SUBSCRIBED SO FAR

Joe Carson Post Members and Women Who Worked in Liberty Loan Drives Are Busy Again.

DOUGHNUTS GOING UP

The price of doughnuts has gone up.

But it is for a good cause and no labor discussion of fluctuation in price of materials is responsible.

As a feature of the drive in force here for $30,000 to be used in enlarging the Salvation Army, attaché ladies engaged in the work will appear on the streets today with baskets of doughnuts, the genuine Salvation Army brand, made by members of the army corps just like the boys had in France, holes in 'em and everything, which they will offer for sale at $1 each.

The Salvation Army ladies have prepared 1,000 doughnuts which they hope to sell today. The minimum price is $1, but this is not prohibitive of a more generous donation this reputedly in a similar sale conducted in an eastern city, one doughnut sold for $125.

The Salvation Army drive toward a goal of $30,000 has already netted a total in subscriptions of $5,000, according to an announcement Wednesday evening by Horace Hagan, chairman of the executive committee directing the campaign.

In the first two days of work the volunteer campaigners have obtained one fourth of the set quota and have hopes of finishing up the campaign before the allotted time specified by the committee.

Although the committee sets its goal at $30,000 the army is asking for but $20,000, which is to be used in enlarging its quarters here.

Women Are Helping.

It is estimated that at least 50 workers are engaged in the campaign and many of the ladies who assisted in Liberty loan work are back on the job in behalf of the army.

The city has been districted in a manner similar to that in which it was divided among workers during the loan drives and each district allotted to a worker. Workers have adopted the policy of visiting the subscribers of moderate means first; the larger subscribers will not be called upon until results of the campaign are in doubt. Special committees of business men will be appointed to call upon the banks and other institutions for donations.

As in other public subscription campaigns, the large oil corporations are managing their own drives. Officials of the Cosden and Texas Co. plants are handling the work with the same organization with which bonds were sold.

Auction Sale Tonight.

Throughout the campaign luncheons will be held daily at noon at the Hotel Tulsa where workers will gather and render reports. At these meetings Horace Hagan, president of the Joe Carson post of the American Legion will officiate. A speaking program will be arranged for every luncheon.

Aside from the sale of doughnuts which is to be conducted upon the streets today, there will be an auction tonight at 7:30 in the lobby of the Hotel Tulsa, of a large box of candy and an immense cherry pie which was donated to the cause by the culinary department of the hotel.

The auction will last from 7:30 until 9:00 o'clock.

Democrat Hollered "German Spies" When School Boys Were Ill; Doctors Tested and Declared "Rotten Water"

It was a Hun plot. The Page papers said so. Several high school boys got sick at the same time. The Page offensive Hun-phobe and the working Shell Creekites put up a roar of their highly paid private disinfectants on the job and they traced it back to some influence within the school which was attempting to make trouble with the students. The boys were sick, there was no doubt about that. They were sorrowful and for awhile it looked as if there was some grievous back of it all. That was in May, 1918.

The Page organs insisted that the council of defense take a run into the records of the high school teachers and others in authority and see if a cordon (sworn cordon on rats condition) had been placed in the basement where a foul well had been placed by the German fiend who hoped to bump off a line of the male students so that the business of teaching would not be so good.

The council of defense did its own disinfecting work. When the boys recovered from their attacks to the extent that a story of their experiences could be pieced together the council found out that the boys had been on a camping trip and while on this trip, they got thirsty as boys are wont to do, especially when they pitch their tents in a locality which is far removed from a pure water supply. They were asked where they got the water they drank. And they replied that they d scooped it up out of a puddle. And would you believe it, when asked to locate the puddle they replied that it was somewhere in the vicinity of the place where Shell Creek had been reported to be located. After the council of defense made public its findings, the wind was gone out of the Page organs. The boy who blew the bellows was shifted to another job. Shell Creek has been dry from that day to this.

Plenty of Typhoid Germs.

Here is a part of the statement given out at the time: "Most all the physicians who examined the boys agree that the illness was caused from the water used for drinking while on their camping trip. Dr. R. S. Wagner stated that the few cases he had been called upon to attend, he had diagnosed as typhoid. 'I had one blood test made and it showed conclusive typhoid germs,' said Dr. Wagner."

Well, Charles Page wants Tulsa to go camping on the banks of this same filled creek. The typhoid record sounds good doesn't it?

Well, that's not all. The council of defense which had really been led to believe that hun propaganda was being propagated here, went into the matter to the very bottom. The parents of the half hundred boys who sipped water from the Shell Creek puddle were interviewed; the boys were examined, the physicians told of the tests they had made and everything went into a record which shows that the water was so polluted with typhus germs that even an old fashioned election officer couldn't count them. It was found that the history of the Shell Creek section of the country showed that it has been the catch basin for the drainage of the Osage nation for fifty years. During that period, thousands of cattle have laid down and died and their carcasses left to rot after they had been stripped of what flesh the wolves and coyotes didn't care to feed on.

Some Hun Plot.

In other words, it was found to be the bog-mire of the big pasture, the receptacle into which Hun substance known to the oil fraternity as the "H. S." was drained. And apparently by this also the same element is playing a large part in the history of Shell Creek where fouled waters are to be placed before us at our dinner tables for the delectation of our own packed palates and all this with July the once not two weeks distant.

To those who have become acquainted to worshiping at the shrine of good old Oklahoma, fortified to Hun with its ingredients of doubtful ancestry, it may all go well but now those whose tastes permit them to relish water that is awful with rennig, pass the buck back on and sit down when it comes to drinking something of fair.

That friends, is the history of the infamous Hun plot of Shell Creek.

COMPANIES SELLING LEASES MUST GET KANSAS PERMIT

TOPEKA, Kan., June 18.—Companies organized to handle oil lease royalties must be investigated and obtain permission from the Kansas blue sky board before they can sell stock in the state, it was decided today at a meeting of the board. The board also advised newspapers accepting "royalty company" advertisements that they will be held responsible for finding out if the firms have secured authorization to do business in the state.

tive and referendum on constitutional amendments, one supporting all the legislation suggested by President Wilson in his recent message to congress, one favoring legislation permitting labor officers to the government employ to have leaves of absence to attend to labor business without injury to their standing, one favoring a "living wage" for government employes and advocating an eight-hour day and $5 a day minimum wage for immigration and customs inspectors on the Canadian border and one advocating the discontinuance by the government of civil employment for men and women in the military service upon the signing of the peace treaty.

A proposal to favor passage by congress of a law to govern prices and profits on all commodities was rejected. A federal budget system as a means of cutting down needless and "extravagant expenditures" by the government was favored. The committee "non-concurred" in a resolution putting the federation in favor of a civil service extension to guarantee that all government officers and employes of rank lower than cabinet officers would be permanently secure in their positions during efficient service. Strong arguments by advocates resulted in the convention voting to resubmit the memorial to the committee for further consideration.

UNION MEN TO TALK ON BONDS TONIGHT

Due to High Indirect Taxation Majority of Tradesmen Are in Favor of Spavinaw Project.

Falling in line with the other organizations of the city it was definitely decided by the officers of the union labor men yesterday morning to hold a meeting of all labor men in the city tonight in the carpenters hall to discuss the water bond issue and to make recommendations in reference to the proposition.

The majority of the men are in favor of the project. More than any other class, they feel the necessity of having pure water and the burden of indirect taxation incident to poor water supply. Purchasing bottled water and the large destruction of clothing and heavy plumbing expenses are important to them.

The question of a water supply is vital to all workingmen and families and every citizen of Tulsa who carries membership in any labor union is a member of the labor congress and is urged to be present.

Perfect Health Is Yours If the Blood Is Kept Pure

Almost Every Human Ailment Is Due to Blood Impurities.

You can not overestimate the importance of keeping the blood free of impurities. When you realize that the heart is constantly pumping this vital fluid to all parts of the body, you can easily see that any impurity in the blood will cause serious complications.

Any slight disorder or impurity that creeps into the blood is a source of danger, for every vital organ of the body depends upon the blood to properly perform its functions.

Many painful and dangerous diseases are the direct result of a bad condition of the blood. Among the most serious are Rheumatism, with its torturing pains; Catarrh often a forerunner of dread consumption; Eczema, Tetter, Erysipelas and other disfiguring skin diseases; Malaria, which makes the strongest men helpless, and many other diseases are the direct result of impure blood.

You can easily avoid all of these diseases, and rid the system of them, by the use of S. S. S., the wonderful blood remedy that has been in constant use for more than 50 years. S. S. S. cleanses the blood thoroughly and routs every vestige of impurity. It is sold by druggists everywhere.

BEST WAY TO WASH HAIR

We find you can bring out the beauty of your hair to its very best advantage by washing it with canthrox. It makes a very simple, inexpensive shampoo, which cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly of all the dandruff, dirt and excess oil, leaving a wonderfully clean, wholesome feeling. After its use you will find that the hair dries quickly and evenly, is never streaked in appearance and is always bright, soft and fluffy; so fluffy, in fact, that it looks more abundant than it is, and so soft that arranging it becomes a pleasure. Just use a teaspoonful of canthrox, which you can get from any good druggist's, dissolve it in a cup of hot water; this makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head.—Adv.

How Packard Balance Reduces Transportation Cost

The basic design of the Packard Twin Six motor has been wonderfully justified during the past few years of both peace and war work. So that any changes that may be made from time to time will be merely in the nature of refinements.

WHEN the average motor car buyer looks for "balance," he thinks he has found it so long as the car rests squarely on its wheels, gives a feeling of strength and power, and pleases his sense of proportion.

The trouble is generally that he stops right there.

Some people never do reach the point of reckoning balance in terms of operating cost, or in what they receive for their transportation dollar.

They miss the true relationship between the first cost of a car and its final cost—its running charges, upkeep and repairs through the life of the car.

Right balance is found when the cost of maintenance is low enough to offset a higher initial expenditure; when the used-value is sufficient to count materially towards the purchase of a new car; when the quality of the transportation is such that it delivers you at your destination fresh in nerves and body.

It does not take long for high upkeep and unreliability to out-weigh low purchase price.

And this is the secret of that well known fact that a compromise car always proves more costly in the long run than the Packard.

Because of the perfect balance of the Packard Twin Six, it is less expensive to maintain than automobiles costing two-thirds or one-half as much.

Its ease of motion, its freedom from vibration, its tremendous reserve of power, combine to give it the longest life of any car in America.

In fact, motor car investment is like any other investment—in the end the seasoned security pays better than the speculative stock.

The Packard people are transportation experts. They have more to tell you on this subject than any other organization in the world. You can ask them to discuss your car problem without obligation. It is to your interest and profit to do so.
