JEWELRY SALESLADY ARRESTED FOR THEFT

Miss Cammille Hayes Says She Is Innocent of Charges Made Against Her.

HELD IN THE COUNTY JAIL

Employer Says She Took Rings and Stick Pins Valued at $3,250 From His Store

Denying her guilt and declaring her arrest was unwarranted, Miss Cammille Hayes, formerly of Memphis, Tenn., held in the county jail under a warrant issued in the court of Justice S. C. Maxey, charging her with larceny of $3,250 worth of jewelry from the Montrose Jewelry company, Fifth and Main streets, said yesterday that while she had been advised by her lawyer not to talk, she was not responsible for the alleged loss of rings and stick pins from the store in which she served as a clerk for several months.

The information filed Monday night, charges that the defendant while a saleslady in charge of several show cases of valuables appropriated goods to the value of $3,250 to her own use.

The proprietor of the store also claims that Miss Hayes, while in his employ, on one occasion attempted to obtain the combination to the safe on the pretext that she had a prospect in whom she might sell a valuable diamond.

Miss Hayes claims that as an agent of the proprietor of the store she had in her charge many valuable pieces of jewelry, and that it was due to her methods of checking the goods that shortage was found. She said that she had come to this city for the purpose of earning money with which to bring her mother and father from their home in West Virginia to Tulsa and that she intended to stay in this city after she disproves the charges against her which she says she will be able to do within a few days.

Information relative to the defendant, received from an operative of the Foster N. Burns Detective agency in this city, indicates that Miss Hayes has been in several difficulties in Memphis, and that several months ago she was arrested in this city in possession of $25,000 worth of oil stock stolen from a stock salesman in Jonesboro, Ark., last summer. The report reads that Miss Hayes was arrested in this city and taken to Oklahoma City, the headquarters of the oil company, and when she returned the stock to the owners, she was released without prosecution. The defendant claims there is nothing to the story that she took the oil stock and that she can prove how she obtained possession of it and why she turned it over to the owners.

The report shows that Miss Hayes was employed for some time by two jewelry stores in Memphis and she is looked upon as an expert jewelry saleslady, but the report also shows that she was discharged by her employers because of her personal habits.

NEGRO GETS TEN YEARS FOR ENTERING GROCERY

Finding the defendant guilty and fixing his sentence at ten years in the penitentiary, the jury in district court before which J. E. Williams, a negro, was tried yesterday on the charge of robbery, returned its verdict last night at 8 o'clock after a short consideration of the case in the jury room.

Testimony introduced by the state went to show that on the night of May 17, a negro identified as Williams, entered the grocery store of L. Hoffman, on North Elgin avenue and robbed the proprietor of $480 in money and a revolver. Counsel for Williams contended that Hoffman, in the store alone at the time, was not sure of his identification and on this ground asked the jury to discharge the defendant.

Doctors and Poison Fail to Kill Nerve of Marine Sergeant

Speaking of almost nerve-a marine has it.

He is Field Sergeant David Rinder of the marine corps recruiting station, 212½ South Main street. Two doctors have been trying to kill it for three weeks. Every dose of arsenic has been administered but the marine sergeant continues to go about as fine as anybody could wish he had.

The nerve is located in the right shoulder, social touch. The new medical treatment which he has been receiving, treatment here, increased the belief that the sergeant's entire service record has been galvanized against shock by the five battles of the war he went through. He is a mass of souvenirs.

BOY SCOUTS NEEDING MORE YOUNG LEADERS

John M. Lindly Compared Work of Organization to Factory in Talk To Scouts Club.

The Boy Scouts of America which has 13 troops in Tulsa, was pilloried as a manufacturing industry on Wednesday noon by John M. Lindly, scout executive of Tulsa, in a talk before the Scouts club.

"The organization is likened unto a factory, with the business men of the city as the directors, the young boys the raw product, and the finished articles men and useful American citizens," said Lindly. "If the city does not get in behind the scouts the efficiency of the factory is impaired."

Mr. Lindly urged the club to aid him in promoting young men who would train to become scout masters and scout executives so that the Tulsa force might be doubled. He said that 12 churches here were asked to establish patrols if efficient men could be found to take charge.

J. Hunter Stagg, of the Midland Savings & Loan company, explained in detail the steps necessary to borrow money on real estate.

Fred Johnson, advertising manager of the Exchange National bank and secretary of the club, announced his resignation. He goes to Fort Worth, to enter the oil business.

Next Wednesday, Col. C. B. Douglas secretary of the chamber of commerce, will talk on the junior chamber of commerce, of which a unit is proposed for the Wonder City.

VERDICT IS WITHHELD IN THE CASE OF J. T. BOOZE

Suit of J. T. Booze against W. H. Hand and others, in which judgment of $750 was asked for the plaintiff for work performed in the construction of a building on West Ninth street, was concluded in superior court yesterday and the matter taken under advisement by the court.

Booze claimed that W. F. England performed the work on the building and that the plaintiff purchased the assignment of the claim. England denied he signed a receipt for $200 presented to the court by Hand, claiming the signature to be a forgery. Several handwriting experts were called by the plaintiff and defendant in an effort to decide the issue.

ZELMA OIL COMPANY MUST GIVE ACCOUNT BY ORDER

Holding that fraud was practiced on stockholders of an oil company in this city when members of the board of directors issued to themselves stock at a large value than the par value at which the stock was sold to other subscribers, the decision made in district court two years ago in the case of W. C. Rodgers et al. against the Zelma Oil company, Neosho Oil company et al., was reversed by the state supreme court. The court was asked to the mandate to compel an accounting on the part of the Neosho company of all profits arising from the purchase of the holdings of the Zelma company, of which latter company the plaintiffs were stockholders.

The supreme court held that the stockholders of the Zelma company, sold to the Neosho company were defrauded of their rights by the directors of the Zelma company in organizing in Mississippi county.

I. W. W. LEADERS MAY GET THEIR FREEDOM

Court Expected to Hold That Leaders In Drumright Trouble Were Not Participants.

That possibly seven of the 19 alleged I. W. W. leaders who were bound over to the Creek county district court on a charge of inciting the Drumright riot on Sept. 22, at Sapulpa on last Friday may win their discharge, was the theory of Attorney F. C. Reynolds of Sapulpa, who spent Wednesday in Tulsa. The Oklahoma supreme court has just rendered a new ruling on riot, said Mr. Reynolds, which holds that no one can be held on a charge of riot, unless evidence adduced shows that the defendant was an actual participant in the riot. The law holds that no riot can be incited unless the inciter takes part in such an affair.

Mr. Reynolds' contention was the dismissal of five of the 19 prisoners arraigned before Justice of the Peace J. J. McDonald and he believes that others will be dismissed on demurrers when their cases come up in the district court.

The hour glass principle has been employed in an almost automatic concrete mixer in which the ingredients fall through three cone-shaped hoppers in succession and are thus kneaded together.

THE OCTOBER LIST OF EDISON RE-CREATIONS

Maggie Teyte, "The Favorite of Two Continents," heads the list of artists featured in the six worthy white numbers on the October List of RE-CREATIONS for the New Edison.

Miss Teyte chose for RE-CREATION two simple but beautiful melodies, "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms" and "My Ain Folk." Her limpid soprano voice, exceedingly beautiful, makes these songs the dearer and the memories they bring the more vivid and appealing.

Albert Spalding, "America's Greatest Violinist," recently released from fighting service overseas, delightfully plays Schumann's lovable "Romance in A" and the differentiated "Sheren-Valse" by Chaminade-Leeffler.

Good dance numbers now-a-days are hard to find, but the October list serves to introduce several really worthy dancable tunes. There's "The Vamp," an infectious tobacco flavored fox trot; "Sweetness," and "My Cabin Love," a rhythmically magic Earington-performed fox trot, played by a master melody aggregation, the Green Bros. Novelty Orchestra. "Rumpana," the irresistible one step that kept Broadway dancing overtime, and "Gypsy Girl," a "peppy" fox trot, are contributed by New York's popular singing instrumentalists, the Tyzedo Dance Orchestra.

The big musical hit written for the Red Lantern moving picture in which Nazimova starred, occupies a prominent place on the list. "Shine On, Red Lantern," as sung by the adorable Metropolitan Quartet, has wonderful musical effects and a weird flavor of the Orient.

Helen Clark and George William Ballard, the popular concrete and tenor, charmingly harmonize in "When You Hold Me In Your Arms."

Among the instrumental numbers are the funeral dirge "Ave Maria" remarkably well played by the American Symphony Orchestra, "The Elephant and the Fly," an unique musical composition played by Wenzel A. Moor, piccolo and Benjamin Kohlmann, bassoon, and "Sunshine," a waltz caprice, with H. Benne Henton, the world famous saxophonist, as the soloist.

A number of beautiful ballads are offered. Betty Lane Shepherd sings "I'll Remember You Love In My Prayers," the well known tenor, Arthur C. Hibbs, follows with "Roses of Twilight," Rachael Grant sings the sentimental ballad, "You're Making a Mistake of Me," and Lewis Janes, a gifted tenor new to Edison owners, renders "Why Did You Come Into My Life?" Helen Clark and George William Ballard's duet blend beautifully in "When I Met You" and Rachael Grant and the inimitable Billy Murray make a hit in their conversational duet, "I'm Not Flirting." "There's a Bright Golden Crown Said to Murray and Steele, I Adore Dixie No Song to Have the Blues."

A selection that will be called for again and again is "Characteristic Negro Medley," a revelation in close harmony by the Premier Quartet. Harlan E. Knight and Company cause an eruption of laughter with "The Trial of Josiah Brown."

There are two sacred selections, "In the Shade of the Tamarind" an old favorite, a splendid song by Hare and Shaw. The Metropolitan Quartet impressively renders the solemn "Valley of Peace." The first is marked by the phrase "My guide I am and shall be."

The song quartet sings with perfect sympathy a lovely "Lullaby" song, the seventh sentimental "Little Old Log Cabin in the Lane."

STUDENTS PUBLISH WEEKLY NEWSPAPER

"Tulsa School Life" Makes First Appearance; Edited by Class in Journalism.

Just off the press is the first copy of "Tulsa School Life," a weekly publication issued by the High school class in journalism. Although written, edited and printed entirely by high school students, the publication presents a comprehensive news resume of the activities of all public schools of the city.

Aside from the news features the issue which made its appearance yesterday carried some timely matter in the editorial column, an abundance of gossiping over the recent victory of Tulsa High's football team over the Pawhuska braves and a "flash" column containing the humorous side of school life.

Just enough advertising is carried in the paper to give the entire journalistic experience in that phase of the game. Ralph S. Ellis, instructor in journalism, is supervising the work while the following members of the classes are putting out the sheet: Editor, Lucy May Marquis; Ada Dickinson, reporter; Wallace Hounsell, Layne Perry, sport writer; Harvey Stone, society; Lillian Rudd, Mildred Leslie, humor; Joe Dwyer, exchanges; R. LAXATIVE for Aged People

THE BANE of old age is constipation. The bowels become weak and unable to perform their functions without aid. For this purpose only the mildest and gentlest laxative should be used. The use of harsh cathartics aggravates the trouble and makes the constipation worse. Chamberlain's Tablets are a favorite with people of middle age and older on account of their gentle action.

Chamberlain's Tablets
