NORTHERN TEXAS FLOODED FOLLOWING HEAVY RAINS

DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 22.—Flood conditions were prevalent over a large portion of north Texas tonight as the result of heavy rains during the past 48 hours, which continued in some sections tonight. Considerable crop damage was reported and dwellers in the lowlands of the northern reaches of the Trinity river were seeking safety on higher ground. Several railroad washouts were reported.

Whether there will be a serious flood in the Trinity and Brazos rivers depends almost entirely on the amount of rainfall during the next 24 hours, according to the Dallas weather bureau, which predicted a stage of 33 to 35 feet in the Trinity at Dallas by Thursday night. Flood stage at Dallas is 25 feet, which stage had been passed tonight. At Waco the Brazos river registered a four-foot rise during the day, which added to serious conditions already existing along that swollen water way.

The Atchison Topeka and Santa Fe railroad reported washouts on that line between Dallas and Paris and between Cleburne and Fort Worth. Trains are being detoured.

DROP IN PRICE OF HOGS EXPECTED BEFORE SNOW

That the prices of hogs will surely drop to 10 cents and possibly lower before snow falls is what John S. Malone, county farm agent, says. On Wednesday some were quoted at $14.75 on account of the big packer kids, quite a decline from $29.35, the top price.

Corn is also getting cheaper, and if this grain keeps going down Mr. Malone says it will be profitable for Tulsa county farmers to buy it and feed hogs for the spring market of prices. However, he says that present prices are too high for this grain.

HAGAN APPEALS FOR CAMPAIGN WORKERS

Efforts Will Be Made To Raise Fund Needed for Salvation Army to Rebuild Citadel.

Stressing the necessity for immediate action, Horace H. Hagan, Tulsa county chairman for the Salvation Army fund service campaign for $10,000 with which to enlarge the Tulsa Salvation Army home, called for campaign workers last night to complete the campaign by Saturday night.

The campaign is still $2,500 short of the mark set for the drive, Hagan declared last night. Teams of workers from the city will work the city tomorrow in an effort to complete the campaign. The drive has already been closed in other cities of the southwest. Oklahoma City, Sapulpa, Ardmore and Enid have raised building funds successfully.

"I am very anxious that this campaign be closed at once," Hagan said last night. "Tulsa owes it to its obligation to the Salvation Army. The present quarters of the organization are inadequate. The money given for building will be for the advancement of the welfare of the citizens of Tulsa."

SAND SPRINGS SCHOOL HAS INSTRUCTOR IN FARMING

A big boost for the agricultural course now offered in the high school curriculum of Oklahoma is found at Sand Springs, according to John S. Malone, county farm agent. In the high school there 34 students elected to take agriculture, on class laboratory, and in field work at home.

As a result Sand Springs already is to become a South Western set town, and to A. Giles, a graduate of the Oklahoma A. & M. college, was chosen as agricultural instructor. The South Hughes will consider for the expense of the teacher and work to be paid jointly by the state and government.

It is hoped that Tulsa high school and that high will follow in this, as Tulsa is a manufacturing center. Tulsa civic clubs and commercial are actively engaged in teaching agriculture.
