War Service Committee Is Revived

If the coal miners have been thinking for a minute that the government would discriminate in favor of oil men now that people are freezing to death in many parts of the country, they are mighty badly mistaken. Because already active steps have been taken to control the price of fuel oil and regulate its destination with a view toward keeping prices at the minimum.

And with this end in view the old committee on refining and marketing which did such great good service during the war has been revived and will be in session Monday morning at 10 o'clock to go over the situation and to see if some measures that will have an immediate effect cannot be adopted as for instance placing an embargo on all shipments of fuel oil from the mid-continent field to points east of the Mississippi.

J. E. Cosden is chairman of this committee and states that "some of the marketers have been asking as high as $6 a barrel for fuel oil within the past few days and this of course must be stopped. Our committee will meet and will be addressed by the secretary of the National Petroleum Institute, R. E. Welsh, who is also a member of the committee on account of his former affiliation with the Western Petroleum Refiners' association."

This action is all based on the proposition that the Lever bill, a war time measure, is still in effect and can be used to control the price of fuel oil just as it is being used to control the price of coal. The miners have claimed that this war time measure is not now in effect and have paid but little attention to the arguments set forth by government officials and have simply refused to mine coal and have brought down upon their own heads the condemnation of all American citizens without regard to union labor affiliations or any other.

Refiners have always protested against anything that smacks of profiteering and this in spite of the fact that the price of crude oil has been raised without regard to the price of gasoline and with no corresponding raise in the price of refined products. They have been storing gasoline of late which had no market and have sold fuel oil on old contracts at old prices and have not refused to ship on the old contracts when offered double the price by new customers who have recently installed oil-burning devices.

Many of them were ready to quit at the time the last 25 cent raise was posted by the Prairie Oil & Gas Co. and now, according to advices from Burkburnett, they are looking over the field in the hope of finding something that they can purchase in the way of producing wells and thus insure themselves against another raise in price without an advance in refined products and thereby escape complete annihilation.

And now that the government is taking a hand in price making there is a disposition among them all to meet the government half way and settle the matter by agreeing on a stated price that is reasonable and fair to all concerned. It is a situation that has brought out the loyalty and patriotism of every man in the refining business and they deserve the utmost credit for the stand they are now taking.

If there has been profiteering it has not come from, nor can be charged to, the owner of a refinery in spite of the fact that frantic offers for fuel oil have been coming in by the score. Whatever profiteering has been done, and an investigation will show that there has been mighty little of it, has been done by the marketers who have simply grasped an opportunity that our few would pass up under any circumstances.

By all means let the investigation be started but if there were a few strings of empty tank cars headed this way it would do more to stop profiteering than all the committee meeting that were ever convened. Tank cars are standing idle on every switch all over the country. It is not the refiner or the marketer who is keeping them there.

The refiners in the mid-continent field kept things going to win the war and they will keep things going now if given half a chance.

Two Very Important Wells Are Showing

The Producers and Refiners corporation, Letcher and Robinson, have a showing for a mighty good well in the deep pay the first in that township located in the northeast corner of the northwest of 23-15-12 near the gas well known as the Buingiseca well, which was completed last summer at 2,300 feet. The new find got sand at 2,710 feet and at five feet in the well filled up 1,500 feet in 10 minutes. The location is east of Beggs and will do much toward opening up a tremendous lot of drilling.

The other is a well drilled by Franchot and Cosden in 24-13-10 which is 12 miles west of Okmulgee which has 8,000,000 feet of gas at 2,630 feet and is almost certain to show oil below this gas sand. It has been frequently referred to as a mighty likely looking test and from present appearances is going to make good.

Gilliland Reorganized.

The Gilliland Oil company, which was organized by J. W. Gilliland in 1916 and incorporated under the laws of Delaware, has been reorganized. All of the outstanding stock of the company has been called in and there has been issued in lieu thereof 400,000 shares of common stock of no par value. There has also been issued 50,000 shares of preferred stock of a par value of $100 per share. Aside from this there has been authorized an additional 100,000 shares of common stock which is to be held for the conversion of the preferred stock on the basis of two shares of common stock for one share of preferred stock. This preferred stock was placed on the market by Knauth, Nachod and Kuhne, Hallgarten & Co. and Dominick and Dominick, New York bankers, on December 1, 1919, and was over-subscribed five times the first day.

The company has production in the El Dorado, Towanda and Augusta fields of Kansas, the Osage and Cushing fields of Oklahoma, the Burkburnett and Ranger fields of Texas and in the Homer and Bull Bayou districts of Louisiana—its production being in excess of 16,000 barrels per day, which will be very largely increased on the completion of wells now on the sand in the district of large producers in the Homer and Bull Bayou fields, which have not been drilled in.

In addition to the above, the company is operating seven casing-head gasoline plants, six of which are compression plants—the other an absorption plant—with a daily production of 12,000 gallons.

The general offices of the company will remain in Tulsa, the First National bank building. J. W. Gilliland continues as president and active manager of the company.

Morris County, Kan.

O. B. Jones and H. O. Bland of Tulsa have made a location in the southwest coner of the northeast of 17-17-9 and will drill. The rig is up. Mr. Jones is just back from the location and says that in spite of the bad weather he has succeeded in having a rig built and the well will be drilled immediately. There are four wells drilling in west Morris county but most of them are shut down on account of severe weather. They are all looking for parallel trend with the Peabody and Elbing pool. Mr. Jones says they are paying $5 and $10 per acre for stuff in the vicinity of his well and that the geologist who located this structure is the same who found the gas sand in Amarillo which is now causing so much excitement.

Seek Whereabouts of Driller.

Anybody knowing the present whereabouts of Walter S. Wolfe, 48 years of age, a driller in the fields about Tulsa seven or eight years ago, please communicate with E. L. Neiswander of the Buckeye Machine company, Lima, Ohio.

The foregoing request was made of the Mid-Continent Oil & Gas association, which has asked The World to aid in the search for this missing man.

South of Bristow.

There are two important wells in the same township that the Texas company has recently completed. Its good well in 11-14-8 that has not yet been reported in this column. The Skelly Oil company No. 1 Agnew in the southeast of the northwest of 22-14-8, which is drilling at 100 feet and the same company's No. 1 Davies in the southeast of the southeast of 27-14-8, which is fishing at 2,400 feet.

With the Oil Men

Walter Downing of Cisco, Texas is here on business.

Frank Weightman of the accounting department of the Sun Oil company in Philadelphia, is visiting this city on business.

Pat Malloy, president of the Western Petroleum Refiners' association, is back from an eastern trip and is preparing a statement of the situation with regard to the price of fuel oil for The World, which will be published Sunday.

James K. Crawford, who has been confined to the house with a bad case of la grippe, is out again and is about as busy looking after the accumulated odds and ends of the business as any man ever was. He is looking as though the experience had been beneficial and has made a quick recovery.

Senator N. V. V. Franchot, E. W. Sinclair, L. J. Martin, J. J. Shea, Doctor O'Hearn, James A. Veasey, Clint Moore, Hal Moore, Douglas Franchot, Doctor Cook, Captain Arnold, John Markham and C. M. Carter are all back from a hunting trip in the Klamaichi mountains in Clinton county. They report poor luck as far as game was concerned, it being the closed season for deer, but everybody had a good time anyway.
