Now for a New Building

The Petroleum club is certainly ready now for a new building and everyone is of the opinion that with the new board of directors just elected the actual construction will begin at once.

The board elected Tuesday night was James K. Crawford, who received a total of 174 votes out of 175 cast by members of the club. E. W. Sinclair, who ran second with 142 votes, Charles F. Farren, E. R. Perry, J. B. Ryan, J. F. Darby and C. J. Wrightsman. It is a board that can do anything and will have the entire confidence of this—the only live petroleum club in the world.

Tuesday's meeting was largely devoted to routine work and members gave careful attention to the adoption of by-laws, and there will henceforth be perfect harmony of action. There will be no misconception as to minor details as everything has been fully covered in the rules laid down.

Tonight the newly elected board will select officers from the above directorate and the chances are that James K. Crawford will be elected president, a position to which he is justly entitled, so strong is he in the hearts of the membership. It is a great board.

With the Oil Men

F. B. Henderson, who was associated with the British government under S. Pearson & Sons in England, is back in Tulsa. Mr. Henderson furnished a report concerning an oil well in Derbyshire which is producing ten barrels natural daily and is a very high gravity oil. The well is said to be producing from a limey sand at a depth of 3,931 feet. Seven strings of tools are said to be operating in Chesterfield, which is the county seat of Derbyshire, while other operation is being carried on in different parts of England as well as Scotland. It is Mr. Henderson's opinion, however, that it is not an oil country as the area as a whole is an entire disruption due to volcanic and glacial eruptions.

Mr. Henderson was very elusive in his expression of the manner in which the English people treat the Americans, and says that during all his travels, which have been quite extensive, he has never received more genteel and courteous consideration than he received during his stay in England. Mr. Henderson's stay in the foreign field, however, was somewhat shortened due to a motor accident and while he expressed himself as having the utmost confidence in the English methods of using the Americans, he did state that he had more faith in the hospitals and medical service of the U. S. A., where he returned for treatment after his accident. Mr. Henderson is now fully recovered and expects to become a resident of Tulsa.

G. W. Webster has just returned from a trip to Arkansas. Mr. Webster says that a showing of oil reported at a depth of 2,260 feet with 25 feet of sand near Centerton. They are shut down at present waiting for casing. Mr. Webster further reports that he has just drilled in his No. 2 in the northeast of the southwest of 24-19-13. Wagoner county, in what is known as the Inola extension, and the well is making 100 barrels. He and his associates have drilled five wells in the center of this section none of which have made less than 100 barrels initial production.

Herbert Fowler of New York, who effected the deal whereby an eastern banking syndicate financed the merging of the Livingston Petroleum company, is in the city. Mr. Fowler is very favorably inclined toward Oklahoma oil properties and expresses the view that eastern capital is firmly convinced of the stability of the fields of this state.

Arthur Jelly, with H. W. Noble company of Detroit, who is vice president of the Charles F. Noble company, was in the city for a few hours yesterday and left for Florence, Kan., where the Charles F. Noble company is about due with a well in the big stuff. Mr. Jelly is very popular here.

E. R. Perry, vice president of the Cosden Oil & Gas Co., returned from Kansas City yesterday afternoon via airplane. Mr. Perry made the flight from here last Monday afternoon.

A. W. Bowser, representing the National Auto Supply company at Oklahoma City, who is well known to all the oil men, is in the city on business.

The Markets

Prices Drop.

NEW YORK, June 3.—The stock market was in a state of suspended animation during a greater part of today's dreamiest dealings, transactions for the full session nearly totaling 400,000 shares.

Price reductions were mostly downward again, although losses, except among selected issues, were fairly trimmed when the money market developed unexpected ease and the shorts found it expedient to cover.

Call money opened at 8 per cent, a reflection of yesterday's sharp rise but relaxed to 6 per cent.

A steadier tone prevailed in foreign exchange, especially the London quotation, which rose about 5 cents to the pound over yesterday's final price.

Aside from the relative firmness of low priced rails and pressure against investment issues of that group, stocks showed no attention from their recent brilliant tone. The moderate rails in the final trading made greater headway in speculative issues than among standard shares, where net declines ruled.

Dullness in stocks extended to the bond market, with Liberty issues experiencing further depreciation in some instances yielding 1 per cent. Speculative or semi-speculative issues were firm and foreign issues were featured by the strength of Anglo-French 5s. Total sales, par value, aggregated $12,450,000.

Old United States bonds were unchanged on call.
