RED RIVER CASE TO BE REOPENED

Frederick Tyler Appointed to Supreme Court to Take New Evidence

SEEK TRUE BOUNDARY

Hearing to Begin Before August 15 and Conclude Before October 29

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The supreme court today appointed Frederick S. Tyler of Washington to take further testimony in the Red River boundary dispute between Texas and Oklahoma, ordering that the hearing begin before August 15 as to the location of the south bank of the Red River along the bank to the 98th meridian, and but without finding an opinion on his part.

The court, January 3, 1922, will render a decision as to what is the south bank of Red River along the bank to the 98th meridian, and as to the question of locating the 98th meridian.

The court, at the famous hearing in April, January shifts the boundary in Texas and Oklahoma, it was really a wrecked case when the court announced its next move in the case. Texas has been claiming all land south of the Red River, with the exception of the original Cureton of Texas. The court specified that the time of further evidence shall be the stipulation of Commissioner Tyler and all parties concerned, the beginning of take testimony shall not be later than August 15 and come to conclusion by the court said.

Evidence in Chief First.

The court also specified that unless other stipulate, the evidence in chief for the plaintiff shall be presented by the parties the same as if the case had been tried in the state of Texas next. The original evidence of the record shall be printed in the record. The hearing on the issue of the state of Texas and the taking of testimony shall be reserved for further order.

The court also gave its opinion without republication, holding in addition to the rulings in the Texas case, to be taken by Commissioner Tyler relating to the ownership of Red River and any material changes that have occurred since the treaty between the United States and Spain in 1819.

Makes Six New Orders.

In addition to the main order the court entered six additional orders. The first of these named Frederick S. Tyler commissioner also to hear evidence in the matter of Rowell, Texas, and other places minor matters in special issued permits issued by the state of Oklahoma, issuance of certain school lands. It is to report the evidence without findings.

It is stated to the receiver be authorized to be called in his fifth report to development work, for the effect purposes.

Also directed Judge James S. Wilson of the northern district of Texas to show cause why writ of prohibition should not be issued against him to desist from further proceedings in the injunction of the Texas case versus Receiver Commissioner Tyler was granted on the motion of Mr. Armstrong and others. The receiver's report was filed.

The court specified that the Oklahoma and Texas schools special of the court. This is exclusive of the Flood of interest in that of John Cureton, who claimed a large Oklahoma and Texas, but was thrown out by the court.

The court directed the receiver to sell for oil and gas according to A. E. Pearson and still ordered the receiver to sell on land between Geff.

Except for the announcement of the close of the Mary Family College in commencement exercises Tuesday evening marked the quietest event of the city for some time. There was nothing there quite about the service. Forty-seven graduates from the Holy Family Catholic schools participated in the program with instrumental numbers, choruses and a variety of song. The girls wore white dresses in the carnival of gold. After an address by Thomas Austin, taking as the value of higher education, diplomas were from the high school were presented to Misses Catherine Ogden, Mary Madden, Catherine Mitchell, Kathleen O'Brien, Mary Wright, Gertrude Neill and Emma Crump.

PEGGY HOPED TO CAPTURE PRINCE

Her Ambitions Frustrated by Joyce; Important Angle in Case

CHICAGO, June 1.—Anxious to wear a jeweled diadem as consort to a prince of the blood was the daring ambition of Peggy Hopkins Joyce. The one time musical star and stage star, but for the part of society according to developments today in the sensational Joyce marital tangle.

It was intimated that James Stanley Joyce her divorcing husband alone was responsible for the collapse of Peggy's royal dreams. She had dared to dream of marriage to Prince de Pleury (Vilora of Alfonda), and an ultra ambitious race with Princess Anastasia, formerly Mrs. William B. Leeds, for a place in Europe's first royal consort of American blood.

Her ambition Joyce has intimated, included the casting aside of the present Princess de Pleury, formerly Mrs. Helen Kelly Gould, divorced wife of Frank Gould, Joyce has openly charged she squandered some of the Gould wealth while the Princess de Pleury was paying court to her in Europe's capitals.

Indications were today that Peggy's aspirations to royalty would be the center of the bitter legal battle expected tomorrow when her petition of $120,000 alimony is given hearing before Judge Joseph Sabath in superior court.

It was also intimated that the Princess de Pleury may be one of Joyce's star witnesses at his divorce trial. It is presented that Joyce's agents have already approached the former Mrs. Gould and that she is not unfriendly to the cause.

If she did testify for Joyce, her action would be caused by the affront to her pride given by the open affaire de cour between Peggy and her princely companion.

Peggy's ambition to wear a royal diadem, it was pointed out by Joyce, was proven by the fact that she was not only discarded by the Duc de Duroal when the prince appeared, but deserted a trunk filled with jewels and gowns to follow him about the continent.

The gowns, it was said, were among the finest creations of Paris' most exclusive modistes.

Joyce has also mentioned the exchange of photos between Peggy and the prince.

MYSTERY IN GIRL'S DEATH

Body Found Floating in River Provides a Puzzle.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., June 1.—An effort was to be made today by the Tippecanoe grand jury to solve the death of Margaret Van Camp, pretty 20-year-old girl of Battle Ground, whose body was found floating in the Tippecanoe river May 18. The girl had taken an automobile ride the night before with her lover, Ray Runkle, a farmer, aged 20.

Sheriff William Weinhart has summoned a large number of witnesses who will be questioned by the grand jury today. These include girl friends with whom Runkle also "kept company."

Citizens of Battle Ground are open in their assertions that the girl was murdered. Dr. F. M. Biddle of Battle Ground said the spot where the girl's body was found was seven miles from the Van Camp home, and he agreed with Sheriff Weinhart that no girl in Miss Van Camp's condition would have walked seven miles.

WAR PRICE TAGS STILL ON GOODS

Believed to Be One Reason for Living Costs Staying So High

By GEORGE E. HOLMES,
(Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The administration has found what it believes to be one of the principal causes for the high cost of living.

And in finding it, there is also found an answer to the question everywhere being asked by the farmers: "Why is it that everything we have to buy still has the wartime prices tag attached while everything we sell is down to rock bottom prices?"

The answer, according to surveys already made by the department of justice and the department of commerce, is found in the 300 odd associations organized along industrial lines, which have not dissolved since the war and which are still operating under "amicable understandings" and "settlement agreements" regarding prices and selling territories.

The investigation of these associations by government agents has so far only tapped the surface of conditions but they have disclosed enough to warrant Attorney General Daugherty announcing today that criminal proceedings are going to be brought against several of the more open "combinations."

Attorney General Daugherty today characterized some of these associations as the most "ingenious schemes he ever saw." So cleverly have the associations been made among various competing businesses that in many cases there is grave doubt whether they can be dissolved under existing laws and in such instances, he said, moral suasion is being attempted. If they are recalcitrant and stubborn then the government will take them into court under civil and criminal statutes.

Lumber and coal men, cement men, manufacturers engaged in the same line—all have their associations, their organizations and their "understandings." The farmer has none of these, broadly speaking and therein lies the cause for the present wide difference between the price of the product the farmer has to sell and the product he has to buy.

Whether these organizations come within the pale of antitrust law, will be discussed in the courts.

The administration leaders think they do.

STATE SUPERVISORS ONLY

Prohibition Enforcement Machinery Due to Sweeping Reorganization.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—A sweeping reorganization of the federal prohibition enforcement machinery will be one of the first official acts of David H. Blair, new commissioner of internal revenue.

Plans under contemplation now, which are likely to be put into effect within a few days, call for the elimination of the 11 federal supervisors who are now in charge of the 11 districts into which the country was divided. These are said to be unnecessary. In their stead will be appointed a state supervisor in each state, where activities and duties will be confined solely to the state.

TEXAS ACCUSED AS 'LAND HOG'

New Mexico Enters Fight for a Portion of Red River Wealth

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Texas millions in area and of its present boundary as the Red River, followed by Oklahoma, found a new enemy in the southwest today when New Mexico asking for determination of the boundary, alleged in the bitterest fight a million in the original court.

The interest New Mexico was in 19 miles in Quay and Curry counties in the Lone Star state as a contested strip.

Quay and Curry Texas had been "peacably and quietly" [illegible] a number of years, it became a contested in 1919. The present claims of Texas put the Rio Grande river on a crooked line so small [illegible] and possibly changed it since.

MAY CONSOLIDATE SYSTEMS

Bill Introduced in Congress Provides for Unification of Phone Co.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Consolidation of all the telephone systems in the United States is authorized in a bill reported favorably to the house interstate commerce committee.

The following cities have competing systems and would be affected by the proposed consolidation: St. Louis, Louisville, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Grand Rapids, Cleveland, Columbus, Toledo, Dayton, Youngstown and Akron.

The Clayton anti-trust act hitherto prevented such consolidation, it is stated. The present bill, however, does not interfere with state powers to regulate or prevent such consolidations.
