CRUSADING FOR CORRECT HISTORY

Some Very Important Men Have Not Been Recognized

BY JOHN H. KENNEDY

If Thomas A. Edison had contended he had invented an American navy he would probably be asked how he found a similar government in the rear. Answers from university graduates that he did so by his hat or moved his wife's chemical engraving tool and photographed the result. The reason for this is that American history is not sufficiently explored by Americans.

The Knights of Columbus national offices have in preparation today an inquiry against 1,000 of American history, accompanied that has for, which is to ask one to place Americans in the gallery of Alexandria. They dine and commune in front the bust of Washington, Franklin, Jefferson, Lincoln, Roosevelt, Wilson, with a blank space left for the part of this or that man who has driven of most important one story to find its touch which has gone to make up the whole.

The congress of Columbus Knights is to meet Americans by 50 years of Pilgrim economics, to a period of a quite and as a second historian philosophy whose influence and will left their mark on the age of his times and continued much to the beginnings of American culture. How many Americans are familiar with the much more important contribution of Benjamin Franklin to his country's welfare, his work as a statesman, as an ambassador in a time of difficult consular and historical queries. The Atlantic communications, when an ambassador had a truly important part to play in the destiny of his country?

How many Americans know the truly great service that Beaumarchais of France rendered the colonies during the war of the revolution? Lafayette is deservedly glorified in American history, but Beaumarchais gave so much of his time and talents to the furthering of the cause of American freedom. The career of the Adams in Europe with their significance on American international relations is sufficiently treated in American historical textbooks, as the recent publication of the Adams letters shows.

These and other subjects bearing on critical periods in American history will form the base of pamphlets to be printed by the Knights of Columbus and distributed free throughout the length and breadth of the country. They will be written by acknowledged authorities in American history, men of the stamp of Charles S. McCarthy of Washington, Dr. James J. Walsh and Dr. Conde B. Pallen of New York.

HOW TOASTS ORIGINATED

Romans and Greeks Poured Wine in Honor of the Gods.

When John Smith gets up at a banquet and, lifting a glass of legitimate or illegitimate liquor, calls out, "The ladies, God bless 'em!" or "Robert Brown, our honored guest!" or whatever else comes to his mind, he doesn't realize that in thus proposing a toast he is only going through the relic of an ancient ceremony.

Originally, when the ancient Greeks or Romans were at a feast, the custom was to bow before the statue of Bacchus, the god of wine, exclaiming: "Be propitious, O Bacchus!" and pouring a little wine on the ground. This was also done to other gods. Emperors being defied, this honor was paid them. Then wealthy people and beautiful women were thus toasted, and the habit of toasting was established and later people decided to drink the liquor instead of wasting it.

Barrett Commends Tulsa for Co-operation With the State Military Authorities

Special Order No. 5, issued at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon, withdraws martial law from Tulsa and places the authority for conduct of the city solely upon local officials. In addition to lifting Tulsa, Adjutant General Charles F. Barrett issued a statement expressing his thanks to Tulsans for the co-operation given to him while here, and to the splendid manner in which the city responded to its duties to the refugees.

The order lifting martial law and the adjutant general's statement follow in the press notice:

Withdraw Martial Law.

By authority of the governor and commander in chief of Oklahoma, it is hereby ordered that the proclamation and proclamations contained in the military order putting into effect martial law in the county of Tulsa, Oklahoma, be and the same is hereby rescinded, and the authority and responsibility upon Tulsa city and county officials to deal with the situation created by the great fire and assistance rendered by the good men and women of Tulsa who are effectively administering to the refugees in supplying the necessary relief, food, shelter and medical attention.

I wish to express my thanks, the Tulsa chamber of commerce and the Tulsa chapter of the Red Cross and various other organizations who have rendered valuable assistance to the officials and the people in securing law and operating for the best interest of relief work. The press of the city is to be commended for its efforts and the special success in which it has awakened the conscience of the public is remarkable. It goes without saying that the city of Tulsa having and assuming responsibility during an indefinite period of time and it is hoped and believed that the good citizens will response to their indications and carry out the necessary program of reconstruction and rehabilitation.

Back to Civil Authority.

"The city has been handed back to the duly constituted civil authorities, but a sufficient military guard will be maintained indefinitely in Tulsa, and the full strength of that organization will be instantly available on the order of the governor. Martial law ceases the public and the state and it is seriously hoped that it will not be necessary for military forces to again resume control of the city, for if such a situation should develop, the city would necessarily be subject to the strictest military law and discipline with serious results to general activities and social life.

"It is not my duty, and it is entirely foreign to my desire to sit in criticism on any local agency which might or might not have contributed through negligence or indifference to the awful horrors that have marked this insurrection against the law.

Wants Responsibility Fixed.

"A court of inquiry and grand jury investigation will, I hope, fix these responsibilities so that the guilty parties may be brought to justice and the citizens of Tulsa be vindicated from the inference that their indifference has been responsible for a lack of law enforcement.

"It is my duty to point out the danger that exists in Tulsa and every other community, and to the peace and safety of innocent citizens everywhere when white men and negroes through political favor or otherwise are permitted to keep large private arsenals on hand to be used on occasions of this kind, and I most seriously trust that such action will be taken that the people of Tulsa can repose upon the immediate and complete disarmament of all its citizens except the duly authorized officers of the law and military organizations.

"I have found no disposition on the part of the Tulsa press to antagonize the efforts of the military authorities to re-establish law and order. On the other hand, every facility at their disposal was placed at our service.

Gratitude for Courtesies.

"On behalf of the officers and soldiers of the Oklahoma national guard I desire to express our gratitude for the courtesy and hospitality of the Tulsa people, and to assure them that in responding to their call for help in the hour of distress the national guard of Oklahoma, as represented by the men who had the privilege of serving them, sought to thank them and all those who are glad to have been able to participate in an effort this way to the reconstruction of law and order.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—After hearing denunciation of the shipping board for its mismanagement of the merchant marine by Senator Kenyon, republican of Iowa, and others, the senate today approved a $115,000,000 deficiency appropriation bill carrying a total of $1,156,000,000 including the shipping board item.

LABRADOR DOG MESSENGERS

Natives Have Unique But Effective Transportation Means.

In the bleak land of Labrador, where the winter distances are vast snow spaces, neighbors is sometimes a matter of serious inconvenience. Their only means of communication is by dog sledge or on foot. But I once saw an interesting example of Labradorean ingenuity in the sending of a message.

The man with whom I had come to spend the night had a brother whom he wished me to meet. This brother lived five miles across what appeared to be an unbroken stretch of snow and ice, without even a tree between. My host spoke of sending his brother word to come over for a visit, and I wondered how he was going to do it. I was soon enlightened.

He took a stout piece of board, wrote his message on it, attached to it a rope, and then called his dog team to him. Harnessing the leader, he tied the rope to the trace, and then, with a cut of his long whip, sent the leader dashing away. After him ran all the team, marking and yelping at the board that bounced and skidded over the snow.

In an amazingly short space of time the brother appeared, his sled double-harnessed, with my host's team in the lead. The leader seemed very proud, and I think he knew what had been required of him, and that he had accomplished his mission faithfully.

HIGHEST, LOWEST POINTS

Mount Everest Towers 11 1-2 Miles Above Ocean's Deepest Bed.

The difference between the highest and lowest points of land in the United States is 14,577 feet, according to the United States geological survey, department of the interior. Mount Whitney, the highest point, is 14,501 feet above sea level, and in Death Valley there is a depression that lies 275 feet below sea level. These two points, which are both in California, are less than [illegible] apart. This difference in height is small, however, as compared with the difference in the height and depth of land in Asia. Mount Everest rises 29,002 feet above sea level, whereas the shores of the [illegible] lie 1,290 feet below sea level, a difference in height of [illegible]. Mount Everest has never been climbed.

The greatest depth we have found in any ocean is 32,088 feet, the depth at a point about forty miles east of the island of Mindanao, one of the Philippine islands. The [illegible] the sea at this point is therefore more than 11 1-2 miles below the summit of Mount Everest.
