SPREADING MORE RIOT PROPAGANDA

Negro Man in East Is Newest Disseminator of Misinformation

MAYOR GETS LETTER

Replies That Condition Here Not as Represented by Unknown Persons

The fact that a young negro was supposedly from Tulsa is spreading propaganda in the east to the effect that there are now 15,000 sufferers from the recent Tulsa riot for whom the city will do nothing has been brought to the attention of Mayor T. D. Evans. The minister of the Presbyterian church in Metuchen, N. J., wrote to H. D. Tomlin, managing editor of the Christian Herald, New York, to the effect that the negro had appeared before him with a story and asked him to investigate its truth. Heskin wrote the mayor and asked for a true statement of facts.

The negro, who was accompanied by the colored minister of that locality, stated that he represented the colored relief committee of Tulsa organized because the state and city had failed to do anything for the relief sufferers. He told the Presbyterian preacher that he was seeking funds to relieve the suffering of 15,000 negroes.

Few Need Assistance.

In his reply, the mayor pointed out the fact that the negro population of Tulsa totaled about 12,000, that there were now between 60 and 80 negroes needing help, who would get it, and that there were now five patients in the hospital, all of them being well cared for. He pointed out the fact that the Red Cross had had charge of relief work since the riot, that out of the $35,000 appropriated by the city for relief, $11,000 had recently been paid and that more than $20,000 had been paid out of the $80,000 appropriated for the purpose by the county.

Rebuild Many Houses.

There have been nearly as many houses built up as were destroyed by the riot, the mayor stated further. An effort is being made to have them move a little further to the north and east, where the most of the negro community is located, still retaining their property in the devastated area, whose value would be enhanced by its use for commercial purposes. Figures from abstract offices, he said, showed that less than 100 negroes (81 to be exact) suffered property loss, and that there were twice as many whites suffered loss. Extensions of improvements into that area was also pointed out.

Reeves to Make First Report to C. of C. Today

Col. Ira Reeves, managing director of the Chamber of Commerce, will offer part one of his first report to the members of the board of directors at the board meeting today. The directors will have luncheon at 12 o'clock in the Kennedy restaurant. This will be the first public statement made by the new managing director relative to the Chamber of Commerce since coming here a month ago.

Criminal Cases on Docket.

ENID, Sept. 1.—The court docket of the September term includes 17 criminal cases. The time set is from September 19 to 27.

Baby Monkey Will Be Sacrificed in Interest Scientific Research

PORT ARTHUR, Sept. 1.—A monkey born in captivity here, is being offered through medical journals by Zack T. Miller, one of the owners, in exchange for the purpose of furnishing glands for the rejuvenation of aged persons, an operation that has been made frequently in recent months according to press reports. Mr. Miller received a call of people from Americans interested in a call, and declared he was willing to do so. It is intended that the Millers are returning to America.

RECEIVE ENTRIES FOR COUNTY FAIR

Premiums Attract Many Exhibitors at Show to Be Held Here

Premiums for entries at the eighth annual Tulsa County Free fair, coming from prominent stock breeders and farmers, have been announced through the medium of the attractive list of premiums.

Bob Stoner, secretary of the fair association, said Saturday that the fair this year will be one of the most successful ever held. The premiums being offered for cattle and hogs in exhibitions outside Tulsa county are proving a big attraction and many entries in this as well as in other departments have already been received. The fair dates are September 16 to 20, inclusive.

Exhibitors from all over the United States are welcoming to the open classes. The success of the open classes heretofore has led the directors to make them a big feature of the fair this year. Some of the best shorthorn and whitefaced cattle in the United States is going to be shown at the fair this fall and W. L. Lewis, whose string of horses is repeating this year its sensational victories of 1920, expects to show them during the last few days of the fair. They will have just finished showing at the Louisville, Ky., state fair.

There are six or eight business booths left, Meyer stated. Each year Tulsa business men and merchants take advantage of the free booths offered by the fair management and use them for an advertising medium. There has been early demand for these booths this year, and there are but few that have not been taken to date. This is in charge of the assistant secretary.

Directors and officers of the Tulsa Free fair will hold a luncheon Saturday noon in the Kennedy restaurant at which Col. Ira Reeves, managing director of the Chamber of Commerce will speak and further plans for the fair will be discussed. D. A. Wilson is the president of the association, N. R. Graham, secretary, Meyer, assistant secretary. Directors from Tulsa are J. J. O'Connell and W. A. Rayson, from Sklatook P. I. Royce and F. F. Cochran, from Owasso N. R. Munger and S. J. Rogan, from Dawson, J. P. Wagoner and John Polston, from Lynn-Lane D. A. Wilson and Paul C. Meyer, from Red Fork Lewis Cline, from Wewika John Hall and M. S. Billington, from Sand Springs W. J. Boone, from Broken Arrow J. L. Lewis and M. C. Williams, from Boles W. G. McGechie and Elmer Mercer, from Willow Springs Forest Kramer and James Childers, from Glenpool Curt Graham and Pete Duck, from Fry A. H. Brown and John Shallenberger, from Bixby Dan White and Louis Peegler, from Jenks N. M. Phipps and L. J. Jenks and from Coweta J. M. Clark.

RIOTING TRIALS SET THIS MONTH

Case Against Two Blacks for Inciting Riots Set on Docket

The first trials of those charged with participating in the riot which began September 31 before District Judge Loren L. Cole, it was learned Saturday when John Gilliam, assistant county attorney, made public the docket.

Harrison Barden and Bill Dixon, both negroes, will be the first to face trial on a charge of inciting the race riot which raged in Tulsa June 1. Both were indicted by the grand jury.

A feature of the docket also is the number of auto theft cases. Fifteen charges of auto theft are scheduled for trial. The docket is very long, but it is expected that it will take longer to try.

R. P. Lee, Tulsa premier auto thief, according to the police, is slated for trial on seven charges. Among the others who are to be tried on auto theft charges are Jack Graham, Clyde Dandon, Will Carden, James A. Shaw, Clyde Greer, R. A. Armstrong, Isaac Foster, Elmer Tarkington, M. C. Hudson, R. E. Lancaster, L. E. Bailey, Henry Goddard and George Jones.

One charge of murder and one of manslaughter are due to be tried. Both are against negro women. Nettie Jones is charged with murder and Rosie McCullough with manslaughter.

Was a Good Judge of Liquor

Since a young man I had a liking for liquor and was considered a pretty good judge of it at one time. But excessive drinking gave me stomach trouble, which became chronic. My physician would have used a valuable addition to a gas factory. Doctors did not seem to relieve me. One day my druggist told me to try Mayo's Wonderful Remedy, and I am sure glad to say it. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the poisonous digestive form the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver or intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.

CLUB MAKES NO DECISION

Realtors Discuss But Take no Action On Tourist Park Controversy.

Because the matter of locating a tourist camp in Woodard park is now up to the courts for decision, the Real Estate Exchange at its Thursday noonday luncheon refused to commit itself on the proposition following an earnest protest against its location in this park by Phil Kates, one of the parties who is seeking to secure a permanent injunction. The discussion which followed Kates' remarks showed the board to be divided in its opinion concerning the question.

A committee consisting of Theodore Cox, Joseph Blair and C. H. Terwilleger was appointed by Chairman Whiteside to tender its services to the mayor in endeavoring to secure as early a hearing as possible before the state supreme court in the Crosbie Heights title case.

Want Merchant Police.

Special to The World.

CUSHING, Sept. 1.—The merchants of this city have agreed to pay the salary of a special policeman to patrol the downtown section if the mayor will appoint such an officer.

The Return of The Corseted Figure

TO wear the new fall suit or dress as it should be, presenting one's figure and the garment worn as the perfect complement one of the other, every woman should be properly corseted in the correct new model best adapted to one's needs. This is essential, for the corseted figure has come back.

By the "corseted figure" is not meant the high bust, long hipline, heavily boned corset—but the very low bust, or topless corset with long skirt extension and free hipline that gives proper confinement to the hips—the corset to be worn with brassiere or confiner to bring out the beauty of the natural lines of the body and develop all the style possibilities of the new women's wear modes.

All this is yours by choosing the correct corset from the following excellent lines and perfectly fitted by one of our expert corsetieres. These we consider unsurpassed corsets—

Modart, Gossard, Binner and H-A. Special Corsets

Shown in pink satins and cotton brocades, pink striped satins and serviceable coutils. Choose your new corset in the new lines before selecting your new dresses and suits—not afterward. That's the practical, sensible way if you stop to think of it. New corsets priced reasonably.

Wallace Reid in His Latest and Greatest Picture, "The Hell Diggers;" Rialto Sunday

Wallace Reid has driven almost every kind of vehicle in his latest recent screen offerings. In his coming picture, "The Love Special," he added a locomotive to the list and in the automobile race picture immediately following, he drove a fast racing car around the track at a speed of a hundred and ten miles per hour.

In "The Hell Diggers," his latest picture, written by Byron Morgan, which will be shown at the Rialto theater next Sunday, the star operates one of the most unusual machines in the world—the giant dredger which is used to pan the precious metal from the earth in northern California. On this occasion, however, he was shaken to make more than half a mile a day.

This lack of speed in the speed of the big machine, however, is more than compensated for by a thrilling fight when the dredger is converted into a Boston fortress and which is up to the fighting standard by Mr. Reid in shots and captions, and by many other unusual scenes and situations.

Wallace Reid is supported by an all-star cast headed by Lois Wilson who proved a dramatic delight in "The Lost Romance" and "Midsummer Madness."—Adv.
