4 BOND ISSUES HIT NEW LEVELS

United States Securities Contribute Notable to the Trading

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—United States government bonds, as represented by the Liberty group, again contributed notably to the trading on the stock exchange today. Four of these issues made new high levels for the year.

At the maximum quotations of 95.50, the 2 1-2's showed a gain of 150 points, while the second, third and four 4 1-4's were 38 to 56 points higher. Some foreign war issues also hardened, but domestic rails and industrials reflected the dullness of the day. Total sales, par value, $9,850,000.

High grade oils were inclined to strengthened but junior oils reacted under pressure directed mainly against Union Oil.

Sales 235,000.

German marks collapsed to the new low price of 39 1-4 cents. The important foreign exchanges ignored this condition, however. British bills especially showed decided activity and strength.

PRICE OF GRAIN RUNS IRREGULAR

Steadier Undertone Develops Later When Pressure Eases

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Grain prices fluctuated on the board of trade today but with less disposition to press the selling side in wheat a steadier undertone developed. Wheat registered a net gain of 1-8c, corn closed unchanged to 1-8c lower, and ots finished 1-4c higher. Provisions gained from 2 1-2c to 12 12c, the latter in November lard.

Wheat started easy and lower, under some scattered selling.

After the first hour, however, this movement was played out. Prices turned upward on word that 1,500,000 bushels had been worked for export, and reports that Winnipeg had absorbed early offerings.

Corn and oats alternated and stiffened and sagged in sympathy with wheat.

Provisions were unusually dull but prices were steady.

SKEPTIC OF BANK PLAN

German Financiers Suspicious of Proposed Gold Reserve System Modeled on U. S. Plan.

BERLIN, Nov. 5.—German financiers and industrialists are skeptic of the results of the proposed gold reserve bank for the economic rehabilitation of central Europe. The scheme for the creation of the banks, which was to be modeled after the federal reserve bank system in the United States, came from Frank A. Vanderlip, New York financier. It was learned today that practically all of the German bankers and business men with whom Vanderlip talked told him that they did not believe that Germany could be relieved by any other than revision of the Versailles treaty. Among the financiers with whom Vanderlip conferred was Arthur von Gwinner, head of the Deutsche bank.

One German banker told Vanderlip:

"Germany is like a man who has just been struck by a terrible volley of machine gun fire and is momentarily expecting another. The offer of a gold reserve bank is like offering the wounded man a piece of court plaster."

The views of the German financiers and industrials might be summed up in the fatalistic phrase: "What's the use?"
