Boots Are New Fad For Spring

Boots to the right of us.
Boots to the left of us.

Russian boots. They've made their appearance as the popular early spring footgear for the Grand Forks flapper—and them as isn't flappers. The aforementioned boots came out in droves on Saturday and Sunday, the muddy streets providing a perfectly legitimate excuse for the faddy new footwear.

These boots are not worn like the old-fashioned boot would have been worn. Far be it. In this day, when most every girl rolls her own, the boots are rolled down, so there is a very decided "cuff" at the top, which leaves the silk-clad ankle well exposed to the cold breezes and the mud, and thereby renders the boot quite useless and fashionable.

There was such a run on the shoe shops here during the last two days of last week, that by Saturday night, it was said, not even one lone pair of boots remained for sale in the entire town. But Grand Forks girls are just joining with girls in other cities, who have found an interesting new fad in these boots. Some of them are hand painted with the wearer's monogram, or some fantastic design of which she approves, and others prefer them in their plain, black, shiney state.

ESSAY CONTEST ON GOOD ROADS IS ANNOUNCED

Special List of Prizes Offered Children In North Dakota

Announcement of the rules for a second essay writing contest between the children of the different states has been made by A. H. Yoder, who as head of the extension department of the State University, has been asked to take charge of the contest in North Dakota. The national contest is under the direction of the Highway and Highway Transport Education Committee of Washington, D. C., and the winner of the prize for the best essay written in the United States will receive the expenses of a four years college education at any school the winner may choose.

The contest is open to any high school student in North Dakota, public as well as private schools being included. The subject is: "How Good Roads Have Helped My Community," and the length of the essay cannot be more than seven hundred words.

Essays from the students must be in the hands of the high school teachers in seven weeks, or by May 1. The teachers will select the three best essays from each high school and forward them to the Extension Division of the State University by May 5. At the University, a committee headed by A. D. Keator, University Librarian, will select the ten best essays and these ten essays will be presented to a final judging committee whose members are President John Lee Coulter of North Dakota Agricultural College, Fred R. Mann of Devils Lake, President of the North Dakota Retail Merchants association, Julius Bacon of the Grand Forks Herald and Will E. Holbein of Bismarck, Secretary of the North Dakota Good Roads Association.

Professor Yoder states that a system of state prizes will be offered in connection with the contest to stimulate interest among the students. The writer of the best essay in each county will receive a membership in the North Dakota Good Roads association and a subscription to the good roads magazine for one year. The names of the winners will be published and the winning essay will be printed for publication.

Prizes of $75, $50 and $25 to students wishing to enter the college will be offered by the state agricultural college. The state university will also offer a series of prizes, amounts of which have not been announced.

A few of the best essays not awarded prizes will be printed and the writers given prizes of $3 each.

Mr. Yoder, judging from the experience of most of the states a year ago, believes that most of the high schools of the state will enter the contest. The award of the winner of first place in North Dakota will be announced about June 1.

The winner of the first contest, held a year ago was Miss Garland Johnson of Bridgeport, West Virginia. The subject of the essay a year ago was "Good Roads and Highway Transport."

OVER-SUBSCRIBE QUOTA.

Minneapolis, March 13.—With subscriptions still arriving from the American Jewish war relief the state quota set at $250,000, will reach approximately $350,000, according to announcement made today by Joseph Schanfeld, state campaign chairman.

Rev. A. J. Hulteng Commends THE GREAT NORTHERN LIFE

March 10, 1922.

The Great Northern Life Insurance Company,

Dear Sirs:

In acknowledging receipt of check from the Great Northern Life Insurance Company in the payment of the claim under Policy No. 1617, Joseph G. Hulteng, I desire to express my appreciation on the promptness with which this claim was adjusted, claim having been paid immediately upon presentation of proof of loss. I can cheerfully recommend The Great Northern Life Insurance Company to anyone needing life insurance.

(Signed) Rev. A. J. Hulteng.

The Great Northern Life has established a record for prompt payment of its insurance claims. Invariably claims under its policies have always been paid immediately upon presentation of proof of death. That is the time when assistance in very many instances is needed.

Ready money! This quality of life insurance is the chief consideration that leads even persons of great wealth to carry large insurance policies. Immediate accessibility to CASH is usually necessary in the occurrence of death in a family, not merely to meet present needs, but to protect the rest of the estate from depreciation and possible sacrifice.

The Great Northern Life is a strong, growing, progressive institution, meriting your full confidence and patronage.

THE GREAT NORTHERN LIFE INS. CO.
