Villa Apparently Waiting in Northern Mexico For Constitutionalist Chief to Establish Authority

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 23.—Regionaldo Capoda, Senator from the State of Chihuahua, and an intimate friend of Carranza has been selected by Provisional President Carbajal to negotiate the transfer of the government of Mexico City to the Constitutionalists. Capoda has been hiding in Mexico City during the Huerta regime.

He left Vera Cruz today for Tampico to meet Carranza.

Carranza has indicated a willingness to declare a truce during the negotiations. Carbajal's envoy is instructed to ask for two things, complete amnesty for all political offenders and guarantees of protection of lives and property of the people generally. It is believed the Constitutionalists will reserve the right to punish those responsible for the death of Madero, and Suarez.

Reports received today indicate the possibility of danger of the Zapata forces entering Mexico. Another factor of the developments today is the attitude of Villa.

It is believed Villa will wait in the north until Carranza has established his government, then make a vigorous demand for a share of the government, or promotion of his friends.

JONES GIVES UP FIGHT FOR PLACE

PRESIDENT TRANSMITS LETTERS WITH NOTICE WITHDRAWAL OF BANKER

WILSON SORRY TO YIELD

Declared Time Has Come When Petty Discrimination Against Classes Should Be Laid Aside

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 23.—The Sodden withdrawal by president Wilston of his nomination of Thomas D. Jones of Chicago as a member of the Federal Reserve Board today ended the bitter controversy over his confirmation in the senate.

Letters passed between the president and Jones accompanied the executive massage which showed that the Chicago lawyer requested that action and the president complied with regret that the fight could not be carried to a finish.

Senator Reed of Missouri, had just finished a diatribe against the International Harvester Company, of which the nominee is a director when his withdrawal shut off further debate.

"The time has come when discriminations against particular classes of men should be laid aside as unworthy of the counsels of a great people" said the president in his letter to Jones. "Partisan prejudice" and "class antagonism" were decried and a militant tone prevaded the entire epistle.

Opposition of his nomination has been based on Jones' connection with the Harvester Company which is under indictment as a trust and the Senate banking committee had submitted a majority report adverse to his confirmation.

Jones wrote that this report was based on a distortion of facts and perversions of truth, but expressed the opinion that as a result of the contest even if his nomination were confirmed his usefulness as a member of the Reserve Board would be seriously impaired.

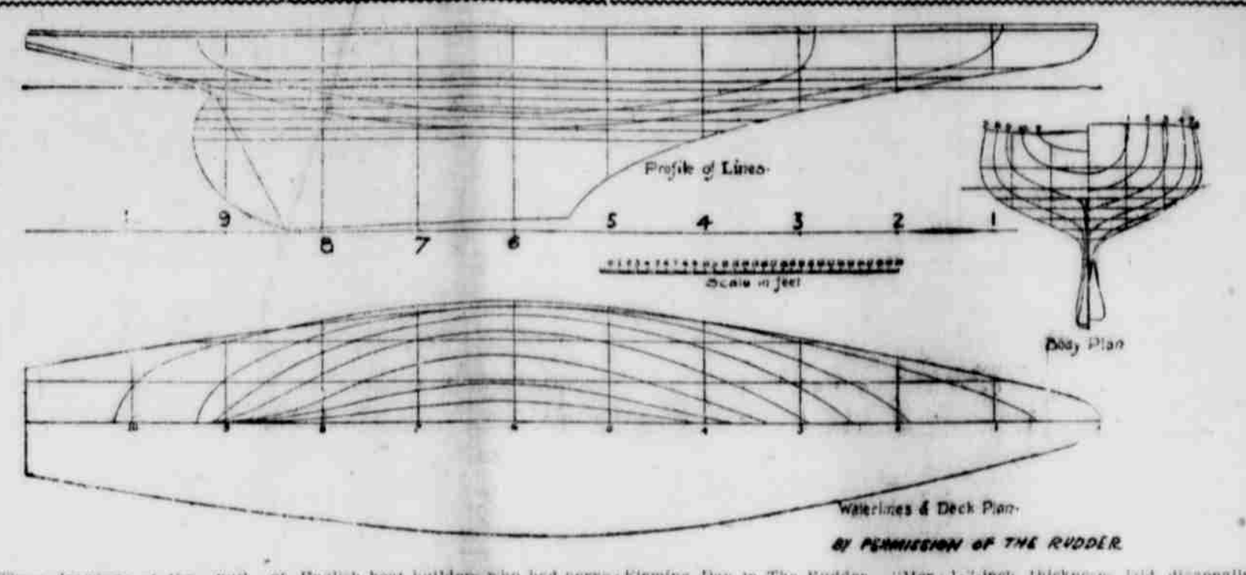
Lines of Shamrock IV., Sir Thomas Lipton's Cup Challenger



These drawings of the hull of Shamrock IV, the cup challenger which Sir Thomas Lipton hopes will beat anything produced in the United States, show her to be a freak. She may be a racing marvel or a very poor failure. But designer Nicholson has admitted that he has built a freak. He is one of the few English boat builders who had nerve enough to get away from the conventional lines.

"Shamrock is a semi-screw, resembling in this some of the fast racing boats built about ten or twelve years ago under the old rule, such as Hugueno and Rochelle turned out by Huntington," says Thomas Fleming Day in The Rudder. "Her bow resembles the Crosby cats and her forebody the sloop Dragon, a very fast-reaching craft built by Webber, about 1895. She has all the ear marks of a fast racing freak.

"Shamrock is planked with three thicknesses of mahogany, the total thickness being 1 3-4 inches. Two 1-2-inch thicknesses laid diagonally, and one 3-4-inch, fore-and-aft. Her stringers are of wood, five of a side. Her deck is of Russian birch veneer, five thicknesses pressed together in sheets 7 feet by 15 feet. This deck is laid on light steel beams. The thickness is 3-4 of an inch."

The emotional climax came when other private letters were handed over by Mme. Gueydan to Ferdinand Labori, counsel for Mme. Caillaux. One of the most dramatic incidents in the annals of French courts was witnessed, and the remarkable personality of the woman dominated the proceedings.

She more than held her own against the great advocates, Labori and Chenu and the judge gave up trying to direct the deposition. She laid bare many secrets in her life with Caillaux, and characterized him as an "unfaithful husband."

ROOSEVELT GETS SUED FOR LIBEL

PLAINTIFF DECLARES HE IS MERELY FOLLOWING COLONEL'S PRECEDENT

By Associated Press.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., July 23.—The obligation to appear in court and defend himself against the $50,000 libel suit filed by William Barnes, Jr., chairman of the Republican State Committee, was imposed on Col. Theodore Roosevelt tonight with the serving of papers on him in the case. A copy of the complaint was handed the former president by James S. Y. Ivins of the law firm acting for Barnes.

According to Ivins, it rests with Roosevelt whether the suit will be tried before the election or will be delayed, perhaps two years.

Ivins said that Barnes when looking over the papers, remarked: "Roosevelt last year did a very unusual thing in suing for libel the Michigan editor who called him a drunkard. I'm simply following the precedent he set."

The only comment from Roosevelt was: "Let Barnes go on, I've never said anything I couldn't prove."

DALLAS, Tex., July 23.—The new $30,000 addition to the Texas Baptist Memorial Sanitarium is now finished, and the first step toward complete occupation was taken yesterday when the free clinic dispensary was opened in the left wing. This new addition was designed for negroes, Mexicans and white people who can not afford to pay for medical attention, and who are not sick enough to be taken into the hospital wards. It has been in process of construction for several months.

The free clinic will be in charge of specialists from the Baylor Medical College. There are special rooms provided for general surgery, internal medicine, gynecology, genito-urinary diseases and diseases of the eye, ear, nose and throat, separate waiting rooms for both white and black are also provided. Its doors were opened to the public yesterday.

In both the first and second floors of the rear are large sun porches, the door leading to them from the inner of the building being of sufficient width to allow beds to be moved out bodily. This will afford entertainments to hundreds who are able to be moved out in rolling chairs.

The top floor for patients is equipped with an operating room and a dining room for convalescents. There are also numerous rooms and cubicles, separate water and power and for males and females, the male department being on the left side and the women's on the right. There is only regular hospital for negroes in the State, according to Mr. Franklin. A passenger elevator has been installed for use in emergency cases.

The whole building when occupied will have the same service in every way as that provided for the main sanitarium.

The addition has which is to connect to an organ and operating room Franklin Gee contracted the place of its construction.

CARDINAL NOW EIGHTY YEARS

RECEIVES HUNDREDS OF CONGRATULATIONS FROM COMMUNICANTS

IS OF IRISH PARENTAGE

Will Resume Customary Routine of Duties as Soon as Warm Weather is Passed For This Season

Special to The News

BALTIMORE, Md., July 23.—Apparently in excellent health, though still suffering slightly from the fatigue of his recent journey to Rome, Cardinal Gibons today reached his eightieth birthday anniversary. In accordance with the rules and traditions of the Roman Cathalic hierarchy the anniversary was not made the occasion for any special celebration or observance of a public character, but the arrival of hundreds of letters and telegrams of congratulation bore witness to the fact that the venerable prelate has many friends and admirers throughout the world, who did not fail to remember this memorable day in the life of the Cardinal.

Some of the messages of felicitation received by the Cardinal came from fellow members of the Sacred College. The Pope's greeting was included in the cablegrams, as were also congratulations from some of the rulers of Europe. His Baltimore friends also showered him with messages and many of them sent flowers.

As soon as the warm weather has passed the Cardinal expects to resume the customary routine of his duties. It is expected that he will preach several times at the cathedral before Chistmas. These sermons attract great crowds each month, and all who attned marvel at the aged prelate's strong voice and vigorous delivery.

Cardinal Gibbons was born in Baltimore, of Irish parentage, on July 23, 1834. While he was still a boy he was taken to Ireland by his father, and there he received the elements of a liberal education. On his return to America he entered St. Charles' College, Maryland, from which he graduated with distinction in 1857. He then entered St. Mary's Seminary, in this city, and after the usual course of philosophy and theology was ordained a priest in 1861 by the late Archbishop Kendrick. He immediately entered upon the duties of his calling, serving first as assistant at St. Patrick's Church, and afterwards as the pastor of St. Bridget's church.

In 1868 he was named vicar apostolic of North Carolina. He remained four years in North Carolina and displayed such remarkable administrative abilities that on the death of Bishop McGill he was transferred to Richmond, Va., where he was installed bishop by the late Archbishop Bayley in 1872.

Bishop Gibbons' administration in Richmond was marked by an almost immediate revival of religious interest and by practical results of the most important revival of religious interest and by practical results of the most important character. In the course of five years several new churches were erected, and academies and parochial schools were founded.

On May 20, 1877, Bishop Gibbons was appointed coadjutor with the right of succession to the late Archbishop Bayley of Baltimore. He was installed archbishop at the cathedral February 10, 1878. On March 15, 1887, he received the red hat of the cardinalate from Pope Leo XIII., having previously been invested with the insignia of the office at the Baltimore cathedral. On May 25 of the same year he took possession of his titular church in Rome and, when he returned from Rome June 27, 1887, he was welcomed in Baltimore by one of the largest and most enthusiastic public demonstrations ever witnessed in this city.

Cardinal Gibbons was one of the founders of the Catholic University and for many years its chancellor. His influence at the Vatican has always been great and it is said that his representations were the cause of the late Pope's famous encyclicals on the labor question relative to popular government in the United States.

As an author Cardinal Gibbons holds high rank in the literature of his church, and his "Faith of Our Fathers" is regarded by eminent scholars and divines of every creed as a masterpiece of logic and literary attainment. With all his learning and attainments Cardinal Gibbons is one of the most modest and unassuming of men and deeply beloved not only by the priests in his charge but by the people of all classes who venerate him for his sublime charity and truly democratic affability.

Few of those who see the Cardinal casually realize that he has reached his eighteen milestone. He is still vigorous, expresses of vitality has caused expressions of amazement many times and this vigor is attributed to his systematic method of living. Every hour of the day is regulated. His food is light but substantial and he takes his meals at regular hours. He strictly adheres to the old rule of early to bed and early to rise.
