On Sunday mornings the office is open from 8 until 10.

Around the Police Station

There was a hurry call for the police patrol yesterday when an express-wagon belonging to John Kanaka smashed into a Rapid Transit car and injured Dolores Satra, one of the passengers. The accident occurred on Nuuanu avenue near Bates. Kanaka was driving makai when his horse took fright and swerved into the car, the wagon hitting it amidships, whereupon the woman became badly frightened and in attempting to jump, bruised her leg and promptly went into a fit, according to witnesses. She was taken to Queen's Hospital where her slight injuries were attended to.

Heavy Fines.

Yamanaka and Kumiya, the latter a woman, were heavily fined by Judge Andrade yesterday morning in police court, the first being soaked fifty and the other thirty dollars. A Japanese had reported to McDuffie the night before, just as the latter was preparing to go home, that he had discovered his wife who had run off with another man about two years before. McDuffie went out with the man who led him to the house where he had seen his wife enter and the chief, after breaking down the door, found the two as the man had said. Yamanaka admitted that the woman was not his wife.

Thornton Again.

Chief McDuffie has added to the charges against W. G. Thornton who was arrested Sunday by Captain Baker for assaulting a Chinaman, and has placed another charge of assault and battery after his name with still another pending. It seems that Thornton assaulted three Chinamen late Saturday night, Captain Baker and McDuffie both connecting him with one assault each and a third Chinaman is yet to come and identify the man. There is little doubt but that he is guilty of all three cowardly acts. He was arraigned on two of the charges in the police court yesterday morning and his case was set over until May tenth.

Police Notes.

Yee Dong You, a "bad" Korean was arrested yesterday charged with vagrancy by Chief McDuffie. The man was connected with some petty thievery some time ago, but as McDuffie was unable to secure binding evidence he was allowed to go with the warning that he would be charged as a vagrant if he did not reform at once. He persisted in his loafing, however, and is in for a good long term on the reef.

Hirano, a Japanese was arrested on a warrant charging him with assault and battery.

PHONOGRAPH DROVE THE AUDIENCE OUT

Operahouse Orchestra Dwindles to a Wheezy Machine for Canned Music.

Though it had not been announced, there was a double bill presented at the operahouse last evening. Two comedies were offered—"The Gentleman From Mississippi" by the members of the Henry Mollie stock company, and "A Comedy of Errors" by the management of the house (with apologies to William Shakespeare).

The center of the stage in the first named piece was held by that sporting actor, Louis Morrison, while the star part in the second piece is played by a second hand phonograph of the model of the year one. Unfortunately here—that genius must be accorded, for that voice could only belong to a very broken down grand opera diva—singing had so far improved by the treatment she had received from her former owners, and anyway it was only a bargain sale voice to start with.

Of course she could not see, or rather hear, herself as others heard her, so she alternated for three acts with the other comedy scenes and inflicted on the audience everything from a grand opera duet to a Harry Lauder song that would drive that comedian back up into his kilts in a hurry if he could have heard it. Not to be outdone by the counter attraction in the fourth act, she kindly loaned her last grand opera record to be used in the drawing room musicale in Washington and fondly imagined that the audience was deceived into believing they were listening to the real article.

The cast for the Comedy of Errors was run right along on the printed program with the other cast, and the audience was left to guess for four acts whether Senator Peabody from Pennsylvania was Representative Charles Norton from Mississippi or vice versa. And William Franklin, who kept the newsstand in the hotel lobby turned out to be a little, dark-eyed girl, who said her name was Miss Silverstone.

The first named play was a problem play as well as a comedy. The problem was to figure out how a senator could be in a Washington hotel and register with a clerk who was in New York. To add full measure to the double bill, an impromptu scene was introduced into the third act of the first play, and the senator walked down to the footlights after the audience was half way out of the theatre and announced that there would be a fourth act which was not on the program. The audience was persuaded to stay, after being assured that the phonograph would not annoy us again.
