U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, November 15.—Last 24 Hours' Rainfall, .00. Temperature, Max. 80; Min. 71. Weather, fair.

HARMONIZE, NOT ANTAGONIZE.

[illegible] weeks yet before the legislature convenes and any [illegible] is or is not entitled to is not only premature [illegible]. To start off by promoting a row between the Oahu [illegible] Kauai or any other county, is poor politics and will [illegible] good. The delegation from this island is a business delegation [illegible] from Kauai has already successfully demonstrated the fact [illegible] now let the business men of the house get together. [illegible] starting rocks to scrapping. Honolulu only wants what is fair and [illegible] to get without having to antagonize anyone. The personnel of the [illegible] next spring is superior in very many respects to that of the [illegible] and a share of this superiority comes in in the delegation this island sends from the fifth district. Kauiho is removed, by way of improvement, from the outside; Naumine and Hihio are politically no more, and generally there is an improvement all around.

The members elected are determined to do some efficient work for Hawaii nei in the session, we believe, and with less hyphay. That idea should be fostered, and the idea that the work of the members is to scramble for their own particular districts.

The doctors engaged in the tuberculosis work in the poorer districts report that they encounter a frequent menace in the kahunas surviving and practising their unlawful occupations. If the doctors knew just how important the politicians find those same kahunas, they would refer to them more respectfully. Although not included in a list of campaign expenses filed, one kahuna drew down a cool thousand dollar fee for his recent political activity, and the doctors who are doing charity work will go a long while before they see a fee of that magnitude. Do away with the kahuna? Indeed not! To enforce the law against the breed would be more disastrous than to pass a modern building ordinance!

The Outlook continues to discuss Hawaii as an "island dependency," still sandwiching the Territory between Porto Rico and the Philippines. In reporting the various Mohonk conference debates, the persistent error is made, while in the same paragraph The Outlook reports the Mohonk conferees as agreeing that statehood was not the ultimate goal to be sought by the "dependencies" and that "there should be some central bureau in the United States government for the administration of all dependencies."

The Star announces on behalf of the "chuck-hole" supervisors that they don't like the way The Advertiser talks about them; well, The Advertiser doesn't like the way they build roads, so it's about an even break. Fortunately, The Advertiser will be here after the chuck-holes and the ones responsible for them have gone.

Among the matters discussed at the recent Mohonk conference was the question of the establishment of the port of Honolulu as a free port, similar to the port of Curacao. Full reports of the discussion are not at hand, but the fact that the question was raised at all shows that the idea is not confined to a few enthusiasts in the Islands.

It is easy to find the reason of the success of an association which scours the South Seas and establishes a chain of experimental stations for the sole purpose of getting a half dozen seasick flies to Honolulu. The thoroughness of the land for the exclusive paradise as outlined in the report to the planters' association yesterday is typical of Hawaiian endeavor in the sugar industry. The results speak for themselves.

The courts have decided that the owner of a ship may obtain damages for injuries caused his vessel by reason of the drunkenness of a tug captain, even though he knew the latter was drunk before he started off in tow. This is no reason, however, why the one who goes autoing with a chauffeur who has had only a few has anyone but himself to blame when the usual happens.

An afternoon paper announces "New Board Will Tackle Fort Street." One would almost be led to believe that Fort street was a problem, instead of a disgrace.

An interesting comparison would be the relative cost per laborer of the immigrants brought here by the planters' association and those brought under the auspices of the bureau of immigration.

By the way, where did those thousand votes go that Charley Axtl was going to swing for Lane? With the Republican committee is sending grounds for a protest, why not extend the inquiry?

No one can say that the present board of supervisors have not left their mark on the town. King street is all marks.

"No part of our dear country has greater cause for thankfulness for general good will, prosperity and progress."—Governor Frear.

It has been suggested that the Red Cross and the board of health unite in adopting as a motto: "A dead mosquito carries no germs."

DEATH KNELL FOR MOSQUITO

Asa Legislative Help.

[illegible]

Young persons have been removed from [illegible] poor surroundings, mention being made of a boy who was sleeping in the open in a dog kennel.

A conference had been held with the trustees of the Leahi Home and a committee was appointed to secure funds for erecting there two pavilions to cost $150,000. One of these is about to be built, funds having been subscribed.

The city has been divided into seven sections each in charge of a nurse. She makes a tour through her district every day, doing settlement work as well, for both go hand in hand. They are brought to a physician, those ailing from tuberculosis. Seventy-five per cent of the cases on the records have been reported by these nurses, and they have shown commendable zeal, and as a general thing have been well received.

The campaign of education is working ahead slowly. It is difficult to prevent the adult, who is proud, from spitting on all sides as he walks down Fort street, but the hope is with the children in the schools.

Before the Christmas holidays a special tuberculosis address will be in readiness, and each school will be visited by a physician and an address made to all the pupils on tuberculosis. The physicians of the city have offered their services as a staff of educators and they will all be assigned to make addresses at all the schools.

Kahuna Menace.

One of the most difficult things to contend with is the insidious meddling of the Hawaiian kahunas. Oftentimes the nurses and physicians have been contracted by the kahuna obstacle. The child is obedient to the will of the parents when the latter believe more in the kahuna than in the science of the physician and the nurse. They have encountered several instances where the kahuna has been listened to instead of the doctor.

MIGHT DISTURB THE SOCIAL ATMOSPHERE

Secretary Super of the Y. M. C. A. Discusses Application of a Japanese.

A somewhat remarkable state of affairs has developed at the Y. M. C. A. incident on the application of Japanese vice-consul for membership.

The matter was passed up to the membership committee who turned the application down, the committee feeling that the association should be maintained in as large a degree as possible for the English-speaking race.

Interviewed on the matter last night, Secretary Super said:

"The racial problem encountered in conducting the association is already a serious one, and to add another race would only complicate matters more. The directors' attitude toward the Japanese is not unfriendly, indeed they would be glad to do their part toward developing a Japanese Y. M. C. A. out of the present small nucleus.

"The objection was not of a racial nature, but was interposed on account of the incompatibility of the Japanese in regard to their social relations with the other members of the institution. The chief drawingcard of the association is its general social life, and we agree to provide our members with a social atmosphere which shall be agreeable to them. The majority of the members prefer to find sociability among members of their own race.

"Any element or factor entering into association work which produces lack of harmony is bad for the association. The views of the majority of our members with regard to admitting Japanese to membership seems conclusively that there would be an 'incongruous element' in the association."

ALL READY FOR TODAY'S CONSERVATION MEETING

The joint committee which is arranging the conservation meeting scheduled for this afternoon in the throne room of the capitol has issued a general invitation to the public to be present. The entire membership of the H. S. P. A. will form a large part of the audience, the event being one in the principal items on the association's program.

The conservation meeting marks an innovation in the annals of the association, being the first meeting which it has conducted with the general public in mind. The committee feel that it has taken up its whole heartedly the subject which will be presented before it this afternoon. Marston Campbell, president of the board of agriculture will preside.

Following is the program: Marston Campbell, presiding, opening remarks; W. D. Frear, "Conservation from Practical Thing"; R. S. Hosmer, "The Best Policy for the Forest from a Lumberman's Standpoint"; Dr. E. V. Wilcox, "Conservation of Water in Relation to Agriculture"; Dr. H. Lyon, "Conservation of the Land"; Dr. H. Walker, "The Conservation of Water for Irrigation"; W. M. Giffard, "Conservation of Our Forests"; Dr. C. S. Judd, "Conservation of Our Birds"; Dr. C. H. Bishop, "Conservation of Our Game Birds"; Dr. C. H. Bishop, "Conservation of Our Game Fish"; Dr. C. H. Bishop, "Conservation of Our Game Animals
