Letters From The People

MORMON INCONSISTENCY.

Editor Advertiser:—I was rather amused to read the article, entitled "Mormons Order Polygamy Ended," in The Advertiser of November 22, which says that the followers of Brigham Young in Utah have recently given a definite command to the members that they must observe the Woodruff manifesto and cease plural marriages.

Francis M. Lyman, through whom the recent instructions are reported as given, is already on record in this matter, together with Jos. F. Smith, the president of the Utah church. And that the public may be more fully informed, I would like to call their attention to the testimony of these men before the United States senate committee at Washington, D. C., in 1905.

The Woodruff manifesto not only forbids plural marriages, but it prohibits a man from living with his plural wives—i. e., he is to have only one wife. On the occasion above referred to Mr. Lyman testified that he was living with two wives and intended to continue doing so. When questioned regarding his breaking this principle of the manifesto, note what he says:

"Senator Hoar—You have said more than once that in living in polygamous relations with your wives, which you do and intend to do, you knew that you were disobeying this revelation?

"Mr. Lyman—Yes, sir.

"Senator Hoar—Very well. So that you say that you, an apostle of your church, expecting to succeed, if you survive Mr. Smith, to the office in which you will be the person to be the medium of divine revelations, are living, and are known to your people to live, in disobedience to the law of God and the law of the land?

"Mr. Lyman—Yes, sir."—Testimony of witnesses in the Reed Smoot investigation, p. 219.

The case of Jos. F. Smith, president of the Utah church, is a parallel to that of Mr. Lyman, except that Mr. Smith has five wives instead of two. And he testified that he was living with all of them, and that all of his wives had given birth to one or more children since 1890, when the manifesto became effective.

He acknowledged this to be in violation of the law of the land and the law of God as given through the manifesto, and stated also, as did Mr. Lyman, that he intended to continue living in opposition to the law.

Now these two leading men of the church have been being as lawbreakers for about twenty years, and it certainly seems like a farce for them to come forward at this late date and demand that the members observe the law, which their prophet (?) and the president of their apostles continues to violate.

In spite of the professed desire to see plural marriage cease, I note that Mr. Lyman takes advantage of the opportunity and puts in a few words for polygamy. He is reported as follows: "What reason God had for taking from the earth this principle of plural marriage I am not prepared to say. In ancient days he gave it to his servants, and then took it away again. Nevertheless, it is the true order of marriage. It has been so from the beginning and will be so throughout all eternity."

The God whose law is revealed in my Bible does not change (Mal. iii, 6); neither is he a respecter of persons (Acts x, 34). He does not give one nation the privilege of practising polygamy and deny another that right.

My Bible says that Adam only had one wife, and when the earth was repeopled after the flood it was by the one wife system. And according to the Book of Mormon, which Mr. Lyman asks us to believe, the land of North and South America was peopled by monogamists. So "in the beginning" I find that polygamy was not the law of marriage which God gave unto man, and I have not yet found out where God ever gave such a law.

Mr. Lyman claims to believe the Book of Mormon which says: "For there shall not any man among you have save it be one wife, and concubines he shall have none." Jacob ii, 36. He also claims to believe what was given as a revelation through Joseph Smith, the founder of the church, which says: "Wherefore it is lawful that he (man) should have one wife, and they twain shall be one flesh."—Utah Doc. and Cov., 49:16.

But the followers of Brigham Young have obeyed these laws just about the same way they have the Woodruff manifesto—when they were forced to do so.

If the Utah people had kept the laws of God the church would be the leader instead of Brigham Young. Facts speak louder than words in the case of the Woodruff manifesto and they would not be in the position they are in now if they had changed the marriage law. In the Utah Doc. and Cov., 49:23, we read: "Let no man break the laws of the land, for he that keeps the laws of God has no need to break the laws of the land."

This ought to prove to Mr. Lyman that God does not change and that what was wrong in the days of Jacob and Joseph Smith is wrong now, and that Joseph Smith, Jr., was a true prophet when he said that the laws of God and the laws of the land go together. Mr. Lyman and Joseph Smith have taken the first step in the direction of the devil's kingdom when they have decided to violate the laws of the land. The next step will be to violate the laws of God. Young and others have taken that step.

TOO CUTTING

[illegible] Charles Hanning talk. He sat one day in the Garrick Club, in Garrick's chair under Garrick's portrait. To him came Henry Hamilton, who looked first at the portrait, and then at Wyndham. "Charles," said Hamilton, "you are growing more like Garrick every day." "Do you think so?" returned Wyndham. "I am very glad." "It's true," said Hamilton. "And less like him every night," he added, thoughtfully.
