COLD BLOOD.

Well Known Young Man at Kuttawa Was Killed Last Night.

From Friday's daily.

Newton Riley, age 18, was shot and instantly killed last night about 8 o'clock at Kuttawa, by Al Tumblin, age 25.

Tumblin then fled and had not been captured at last reports.

The affair has created much excitement and the little town is turned topsy turvey over it.

Riley and Tumblin were attending a baseball game and the former, in a joking manner, [illegible]ed Tumblin as the "Superinten[illegible] the Illinois Central railroad" and to this Tumblin replied in an insulting manner calling Riley a "s— o— a b—."

Riley then struck him in the face with his fist but the affair was soon straightened out and they parted apparently friends after apologies on both sides. Nothing more was thought of the incident until in the evening when Tumblin entered Saxton's drug store where Riley was seated in a chair. He pulled a pistol and fired at Riley killing him instantly. He then fled and has not been seen since the shooting.

Blood hounds have been secured and placed on the scent and it is a matter of a short time only before he will be captured.

Riley comes of a good family and was well known in Paducah. Tumblin is a married man and of a family and was an employe of the Illinois Central for years in the capacity of the operator of the pumping station before the people of Kuttawa placed in a public pump.

Since that time he has been employed in the Boli mills and has always been considered a peaceful man and this is the first trouble he has known to have been mixed up in.

The deceased was well-known here having often visited Mr. Harry Owen. He was here last Friday, returned home Friday night.

IS LOCATED.

From Saturday's daily.

Al Tumblin, the man who shot and killed Newton Riley, at Kuttawa night before last, has been located and it is a matter of a short time only before he is captured.

He was located in the swamps between Hillsville and Dycusburg yesterday afternoon and one of his pursuers took a shot at him. The shot missed, however, and Tumblin made his escape. He has been surrounded and a posse was sent out from Kuttawa last night to capture him.

The funeral of Mr. Riley was held this held this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

An effort was made to capture the murderer directly after the shooting but he drew his pistol and drove them back. It is said that he is a native of Tennessee and had to leave that state for killing two men.

ONE TRAGEDY

From Friday's daily.

Alex Cody, colored, was stabbed and almost instantly killed this morning about 3 o'clock at Ninth and Court streets by Will Anderson, alias "Frenchy." The trouble started in a saloon on the corner of Washington and Ninth, and the belligerents "worked" their way a block, and there the cutting occurred.

After being stabbed to the heart, Cody ran across the street and sank in a pool of his own blood just on the edge of the sidewalk near Mollie Nief's, and was about dead when Officers Rasor and Dugan arrived.

Captain Bailey and Officer Tom Potter were soon on the trail of the murderer, and caught him in the market house, near the south end, in front of Smith's butcher stall. He did not know that his victim was dead, although admitting that he had cut him, until informed of the consequences after being locked up.

The body was taken to Nance's undertaking establishment, where an inquest is being held this afternoon.

"Frenchy's" version of the trouble is that he was at the Washington and Ninth street saloon and gave a woman a dime to buy a can of beer. She took it and she and Cody drank it. When she came back for another dime, he declined to give it to her saying that she had divided the other with another man and he would give her no more.

Cody stepped up and called him a name, s— of a b—, he declares, and said that he, Anderson, drank a part of the beer. Anderson claims he then said, "Oh, you's lookin' fer trouble," and left.

He found that Cody was following him with a bottle. He increased his pace, and finally, being short winded, when Ninth and Court was reached, decided to run no farther, and as Cody came up and struck at him with a bottle, began cutting him with his knife. In his excitement he was unable to say how many times he cut him. After doing the work he made no effort to escape from the city and claims self-defense.

Anderson, who is well-known by his more familiar title, "Frenchy," has always been considered peaceable, and has resided in the Garrison creek section of the county for some time, having come here from Baltimore ten years ago. He is employed by a cement company.

Cody has been laying about the city for some time past, and according to Marshal Collins was only recently released from the penitentiary. He appears to be about 30 years old, and when killed wore working apparel. Anderson is 44 years old, but does not look it.

His case was called in the police court this morning and the charge of murder against him was continued until next Friday.

Cody was sentenced to the penitentiary in June, over a year ago, for malicious cutting and had been back but a few weeks.

Mr. Ed Long, the hackman, saw the trouble, and corroborates the prisoner in his version of the trouble, saying that Cody had a pop bottle trying to assault Anderson with it, and a knife as well.

The inquest was finished at 3 o'clock this afternoon, and the verdict of the jury was that the deceased came to his death from a knife wound inflicted by Will Anderson. It did not undertake to fix the responsibility.

COME CLEAR.

From Saturday's daily.

Will Anderson, alias "Frenchy," charged with the murder of Alex Cody, who was stabbed to death at Ninth and Washington streets night before last, was given a preliminary trial this morning in Judge Sanders' court, and acquitted. The case was clearly one of self-defense.

The coroner's jury yesterday afternoon heard a part of the evidence, and did not decide who was in fault. A warrant had been issued against Anderson for murder, however, and the evidence was heard today.

Messrs. Ed Long and Will Bishop, who were on a hack, did not see any one as they passed the corner, but after they had gone about a third of a block Long looked back and saw the two men fighting. They rushed to where the two belligerents were, and saw Anderson, who was shouting "police," knock Cody down, and Cody jump up and make at Anderson again.

They also saw the bottle that Anderson claimed Cody was trying to strike him with, and Anderson remained on the corner as they approached, while Cody ran away. Anderson showed them a cut on his finger, and said Cody had cut him, and that he believed he had cut Cody too. He was advised to "dig" and started down Court street.

The young men presently heard groans, and a short distance away found Cody in a dying condition. A large knife was found in his hand by Officer Rasor.

WANTS HER PAY

From Friday's daily.

Miss Jennie Downs a well known young lady of the Maxon's Mill section of the county, this morning through Greer and Reed filed suit in the circuit court against C. H. Pace, administrator of the estate of the late H. B. Carper, a former wealthy resident of near Scale, Marshall county, who had separated from his wife, divided the property and come to McCracken county to reside.

He located in Mechanicsburg and became ill from pneumonia. About December 31 last he wrote the young lady, with whom he had been infatuated for some time past, and asked her to come and wait on him during his illness.

The letter, which doubtless denotes considerable affection for the girl, is a part of the suit, and shows that he thought a great deal of her, and intended to marry her when he secured a divorce.

He agreed to give her, in case he died one thousand dollars.

The girl left her home and at his request went to administer to his wants, and he died. He would have married her had he recovered.

The girl now, in return for her affectionate devotion, and for the actual time and trouble taken on his account, sues for the $1,000 and asks that it be apportioned to her from the estate, which is valued at about $20,000.

The young lady is well known in the lower section of the county, and is about nineteen years old, while the deceased was about 55.

LAST DAY

From Friday's daily.

The county teachers convened this morning at 8:30 o'clock. After the session this afternoon the institute will adjourn until next year.

Physiology and hygiene was taken up and discussed by Prof. Smart. Oral lessons and at what grade should they be introduced, teacher's duty to be physically able to teach, practical experiments, are teachers doing their whole duty on the question of narcotics, how much physical culture should the common school undertake and sanitary condition of school house grounds, were all touched on and the talk interesting.

Miss Laura Thomas spoke on the social functions of the teacher, and should we have a county board of education clothed with the authority to employ all teachers?

Prof. W. W. Morris told how to elevate the profession of a teacher and the morning session was then adjourned.

Prof. Joe Ragsdale, the conductor, discussed the following topics which closed the afternoon session for the year.

Teaching as a trade, teaching as a profession, teaching: What is it? The institute then prepared a list of the best professional works and after the adjustment of some miscellaneous work the afternoon session closed.

The following resolutions were passed at yesterday afternoon's meeting:

To provide for a seven months school term in the rural districts.

To provide for a county taxation in lieu of a district taxation.

To provide for a fair and uniform salary of teachers holding the same class of certificates.

To provide for a county board of trustees composed of two men elected from each magisterial district to act with the county superintendent in the selection of teachers and the distribution of the school funds and to provide for a local trustee to act as custodian of the house and local interests.

The latter resolution was passed after several votes and the last vote stood 31 to 6.

The enrollment this morning was only 2, but the attendance as a whole was large and above the average.

Out of twenty-seven text books only two remained unchanged.

CHILDLESS IN AN HOUR.

Van Buren, Ark., August 10.—Three children of James Malone, living near Uniontown, this county, met a violent death within an hour of each other this morning in a most remarkable manner. The two oldest, sons 3 and 4 years of age, respectively, were left at home while the mother, with her nine months old babe, was at Leeds creek, doing the family washing. Hearing her older children's screams, the mother rushed to her cabin, to find that they had been bitten by a rattlesnake. The children died one hour later. Remembering the babe she had left crawling about the banks of the stream, Mrs. Malone hurried back, only to find it had fallen in and drowned the body having lodged in some driftwood a hundred yards below. The three children were buried in the same grave this afternoon at Stillwell, I. T.

The shock was too much for the devoted mother, whose mental condition is considered serious.

A SHINING MARK.

Sad Death This Afternoon of Miss Mary Halloran.

One of Paducah's Most Lovable Young Ladies No More.

From Friday's daily.

Miss Mary Halloran, one of the most popular young ladies of the city, died from typhoid fever shortly after noon today at the Illinois Central hospital, after a four weeks' illness. She was taken to the hospital on July 24, and her condition gradually grew worse until several days ago when her life was despaired of, and at noon today she peacefully passed away.

It is seldom that death awakens such widespread sorrow as that of Miss Halloran has. She has been a resident of Paducah for many years, and no one was more liked and respected in a large circles of friends and acquaintances than she. Her admirers were many, and in society she was deservedly popular, and was a favorite wherever she was known.

A sad feature of her death was the departure of her sister, Mrs. G. W. Stickney, for her new home in Michigan about two weeks ago, when Miss Halloran's illness was thought not to be serious. Mrs. Stickney did not know of her critical condition until yesterday, and started at once for the city and will arrive tomorrow afternoon.

Miss Halloran was born and reared in Paducah, and spent most of her life here. She was 24 years old, and leaves besides a sister, Mrs. Stickney, three brothers, Messrs. Pat, John and Will Halloran, the latter of Evansville.

The funeral will be held at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon from the church. The remains will be taken to the residence of Mr. W. F. Paxton, on Jefferson street, tomorrow morning.

"Wilt" Disease in Cotton.

The cause of the "wilt" disease of cotton, which has been more or less destructive during the past two or three seasons, is a fungus which attacks the plant from the soil. It first enters the small roots and subsequently grows into the tap or stem. The result is that the supply of food and moisture carried up from the roots is greatly decreased.

Burton's Resemblance to Ingalls.

Emperor Friederich's Letters.

Among the letters advertised in a recent catalogue of a Berlin bookseller are several written by Emperor Friedrich during the ninety-nine days of his reign. One of them gives expression to his aversions to courtly ceremonies, and refers to various reasons why he should not be expected to attend the receptions given by ambassadors.

Old Clover Hay.

In 1879 D. Tennyson, a Marshall county, Kansas, farmer, built a barn, and to add to its weight, so that it would not be blown away by a cyclone, as the old one was, he stored twenty tons of clover hay in the loft, where it remained untouched until recently. He is now feeding it to his stock and it is as bright and wholesome as if it were of this year's crop.

Railroad Up Mountain Side.

It is contemplated to construct a railroad similar to the Jungfrau line to the summit of Mont Blanc. M. Vallot, the director of the Mont Blanc observatory, and M. Deperet, professor of mineralogy at the Lyons university, in conjunction with M. Fabre, a French engineer, have been engaged for some time past in surveying the sides of the mountain to ascertain a suitable route and the atmospheric conditions. The result of these investigations is the projection of a line probably starting from the village of Houches, on the Savoy side, to the summit, to have a total length of eleven miles.

Last year 7,798 cases of smallpox were reported in the United States, as against 2,487 in 1899.

Ease Brings on Obesity.

The Medical Press and Circular of London declares that the tendency to obesity depends largely on racial and individual predisposition, but occupation and personal habits are also potent factors in determining the proneness to the deposition of fat in excessive quantity. The multiplication of cheap modes of transport unquestionably favors the tendency to obesity, so that with the rapid development of underground and above ground electric traction in London and other large cities the next generation must be prepared for an evolution in this direction.

Turquois Mining in Southwest.

Turquois mining in New Mexico is of very remote origin. Many of the present mines, when located, indicated operations by the inhabitants of New Mexico at a time prior to or contemporaneous with the Aztecs, stone and earthen vessels of great antiquity being found in the workings.

Congressman Receives Chessmen.

Congressman Taylor, who represents President McKinley's old Ohio district, received from the Philippines the other day a magnificent set of chessmen. Each piece is elaborately and artistically carved, the kings and queens being six inches high. The set is of Chinese manufacture, and is a present from an army officer now on duty in the islands. Chess enthusiasts declare the set is of the class used only by imperial persons in China.
