BREEZY SKETCHES ALL THAT'S LEFT

Is What Local Men Call Checks of B. Martin Baker, Which Yet Remain Unpaid.

One pair of white flannel trousers, a black suit, a new derby hat, a set of poker chips, an old deck of cards, pictures of two nearly living women, a list of patrons of an art exhibit in Chicago which includes many of the prominent people of that city, and a number of checks which have been returned by a state bank stamped with the word "Insufficient" in big letters are all that remain of several months' salary and what little business that of B. Martin Baker, a few days prominent. He was the manager and promoter behind the Butte tenant art exhibit in the Auditorium, and he has been in the employment of a big Minneapolis department store. It is stated that he has taken hold of a big Chicago department store and is now in charge of its advertising department. Some days ago he left Butte, leaving behind him a number of unpaid bills and the checks referred to. The checks were given in payment for the services of a number of men who had worked for him during the time he was here. Among the men who received checks were Frank Wright, a new man here, who had charge of the Butte Hotel during the exhibition. The checks were given for considerable sums and represent the salaries of several weeks' work. The checks were returned because the bank in which they were deposited refused to honor them. The bank stamped on the checks the word "Insufficient" in big letters. The men who received the checks are now in Butte looking for Baker. It is stated that he left Butte owing a number of bills, and that he has left a trail behind him in the form of unpaid bills and worthless checks.

COLD WAVE IS RUSHING HERE

Main Cold Will Be on Eastern Side of Range—Below Zero to North.

A temperature-killing cold wave from the north, bearing directly south, is on its way in this direction from Canada and will send the mercury below the zero point within the next 24 hours, according to advice received here from the state weather bureau at Helena. However, the fact that the cold wave will be diverted to the east of the main range will probably save Butte from such low temperatures as will be found during the next 48 hours at Whitehall and other adjacent towns on the other side of the mountains.

Information received here is that at 4 o'clock yesterday morning temperatures of from 10 to 20 degrees below were found in the Canadian and Montana border, while today should find the mercury probably 30 degrees lower than that. The rise of the main range of the Rockies from northwest to southeast may deflect the more severe portion of the storm near Havre toward Billings and along down the line of the eastern side of the mountains, while Butte and the towns on the western slope will only get a whiff, sufficient, it is stated, however, to bring back a reminder of the November holiday weather.

The cold wave is raging in Canada at the present time, according to the Kalamazoo bulletin, being felt as far south as the Rocky mountains. The low barometer and pressure in the north and the high barometer in the south are causing the present winds and may be responsible for the big wind storm of two days ago.

The weather was mild in Butte last night, the coldest recorded being 10 above, just 2 degrees below the freezing point. However there was little difference between the maximum and minimum for the past 24 hours, the highest point recorded being 20 above. A light snow fell this morning and more snow is predicted for tonight unless there is a sudden drop in the temperature. The weather is generally unsettled and the wise ones will find themselves prepared for the worst.

GO-TO-CHURCH DAY AT BETHEL BAPTIST

Next Sunday is "Everybody-Go-to-Church" day. The children's story will be told at the morning service and the sermon will be "The Obedience of Faith." The regular choir of 14 voices will sing at the night service. The sermon will be "The Ark of Safety." Attention is called to "Go-to-Church" Sunday, with the cordial invitation to every one to attend.

Their Happiness Ruined by Irritable "Starved" Nerves

Says Families are Broken Up Because of "Nerves."

Supplying Nervous System Cadomene Tablets Quickly Rectifies—Brings Happiness.

A man or woman with a well-fortified nervous system has complete control of happiness. It is those who are impoverished by overwork, grief, worry, excesses and thoughtless dissipation, who wear the first cross, ugly words and accusations. Do not condemn them—their nerves are "on edge"—not a sense they are starved nerves. These nerves are depleted of energy and no thought is given to supplying them with food-energy which they need to be calm, strong and controllable.

Needless expenditure of nervous force turns a cheerful, happy person into a gloomy grouch, and that accounts for many separations.

Nature does her best to overcome the evil wrought by thoughtless mankind, but Nature requires aid, and Cadomene Tablets are vitally necessary in such conditions of nervousness, because they contain the elements of iron, phosphorous and powerful vegetable extracts of tonic-alterative qualities that quickly infused through the sensitive circulation, the food and help which the nervous system must have, if we are to correct the nervous-headache, the aching back and limbs, the fidgety, degenerated stomach, the dull brain, the tired-all-in-feeling, the sleeplessness and feelings of fear, timidity and the general lack of energy, ambition and cheerfulness that we now possessed.

Cadomene Tablets are easily assimilated by the digestive and nutritive organism and proceed to afford the relief just where it is most needed, and hundreds of thousands of people have experienced a renewal of life, energy, hope and efficiency after taking them.

Cadomene gets at the bottom of the weakness or trouble, because it directly feeds the blood stream, because it soothes the nerve centers, because it does these things naturally, persistently, and the sum total of such action must, naturally, to produce a general uplift of body and mind, a tonic strengthening of vitality and endurance—in brief: Sound and complete efficiency of body and mind. Obtain in 50c tubes with full directions from all live druggists.

"I DISCOVERED LLOYD GEORGE" SAYS WIFE OF EUROPE'S "MAN OF THE HOUR"

MRS LLOYD GEORGE

London, England, Jan. 11.—"It was I who discovered David Lloyd George; let that be said in my praise," said Mrs. Lloyd George as she smiled to the writer the breakfast table when I interviewed Mrs. Lloyd George at about the time the European war broke out.

"We were at Flatshop, you see, where Michael Davitt came to deliver an address," she continued. David opened the meeting. It was I who urged him to make that speech.

"Even in those days father was a fearless fighter. Presently he had a battle royal to wage.

"In his diary, about Nov. 11, 1885, he wrote: 'Went to meeting at the town hall. Never saw such confusion. Was warned that rioters wanted to kill me. Took M. O. home. She rather enjoyed it. I was Margaret Owen of Mynydd-bedwaldd in those days. Three years later we were married."

The girl who insisted on marrying the man now most powerful in Europe found few to approve her "discovery." Margaret was the child of cultured people, born of honorable stock and lived amid easy circumstances. Her parents hesitated to give their daughter to a struggling solicitor. Worldly-wise friends declared "Maggie" ought to do better. All Wales is wiser now.

Bride and groom came to London and made their home in "the temple." They had few friends and less money.

"I made a few firm resolutions," said Mrs. Lloyd George.

"First, that my chief care in life should be my husband.

"Second, that I'd never put an obstacle in his path.

"Third, that nothing is a sacrifice that helps a husband's progress.

"Fourth, that I'd be a thrifty, careful housekeeper, that I'd keep my husband quiet, if possible, after he was granted I had a task in that line for me."

Simplicity of life, Celtic charm and a quick sense of humor [illegible] to level the first [illegible] and [illegible].

Moreover, Margaret Lloyd George was—and still is—deeply religious, most faithful of Methodists, the daughter of a Methodist deacon.

"Father is going to win, d'ye [illegible] gaily," she insisted with Celtic [illegible].

Mrs. Lloyd George is thoroughly Welsh by heredity and [illegible] without a drop of English blood [illegible] veins. Today her children speak [illegible] Welsh, her maids and [illegible] are all from Wales.

From "the temple" to [illegible] from the commons to the [illegible] seems a straight path and a [illegible] now.
