IRON WORKER WAS SO DIZZY

Ira Irving Relates How He is Now Able to Hold a Responsible Position.

In a recent magazine article the statement was made that over 250,000 men engaged in structural steel work (that is the building of skyscrapers, bridge work, etc.) met death from accident yearly. This is a fearful death toll, but statistics prove that it is a correct estimate. This work requires men of nerve, not nervous men. Men of nerve are few and must be absolutely healthy. Their life is the forfeit paid for failing to keep healthy. It is only logical to suppose that the high tension that they daily work under must affect their nervous systems more or less, and it is just as logical to suppose that they need some good, vitalizing tonic if they are to keep the nerve centers in perfect accord. Plant Juice has been found to be the most remarkable of these, in that it is a nerve-builder and system-revitalizer, and so tones up the stomach that the nerve centers are properly fed with the nourishment they require to sustain them. To prove that these contentions are borne out by facts it is only necessary to read the following signed statement of Mr. Ira Irving, who resides at No. 215 Kirkwood street, Carnegie, Pa., a structural iron worker by trade, who said:

"I have suffered from pains in my shoulders and arms and was told that I had stagnation of the blood and rheumatism. I was very nervous and at times unable to put on my coat. In the morning I was sick at my stomach and could eat no breakfast. I became so bad that I was unable to work, as I was so dizzy I was afraid that I would fall from the tall buildings. One year ago I began taking Plant Juice and it has cured my rheumatism and stomach trouble. I feel better in every way and I am now able to hold a responsible position at my trade. I give entire thanks to Plant Juice for my present good health."

Plant Juice is sold in Butte at the Newbro Drug Co. and in Anaconda at the Smith Drug Co.
