HIGH CASH PRICE SENDS MARKET UP

Good Demand for Corn—For Settling Day Traders Send Wheat Higher.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—Light offerings of corn caused price figures to advance in the early trading. Another influence was low temperatures in the northwest. Opening prices ranged from ¼c lower to ⅝c higher with December at $1.09 to $1.09¼, and May at $1.07 to $1.07¼. The initial rally carried December to $1.10 and May to $1.07¾.

Toward the close of the session strength of the cash market affected trades and prices rallied to well above the early figures. The close was strong and near the top, ⅞ to 1½c net higher with December at $1.10½ to $1.10⅝, and May at $1.07⅞ to $1.08.

Wheat kept its recent dull routine with occasional transactions of an evening up character. The opening was 3c higher, September price being $2.10. Later trades were at a decline of 2c.

Evening up trades continued to rule the wheat market. The close was strong, September selling 5c higher at $2.12, the high point of the day.

Scattered buying of oats gave firmness to the market which opened unchanged to ⅜c higher. Fractional advances were followed by equally moderate recessions.

Provisions were moderately lower. Trading was light and scattering under the influence of the lower prices commanded by live hogs.
