GRID BATTLES THAT WILL HOLD INTEREST OF FANS

Illinois and Ohio State to Battle for "Big Ten" Honors. Michigan Clashes With Old Foe at Philadelphia, While Maroons and Gophers Hold Their Annual Scrap at Minneapolis. Dope Favors Buckeyes Over Illinois.

Ohio State vs. Illinois, at Columbus.
Minnesota vs. Chicago, at Minneapolis.
Montana vs. Washington State, at Pullman.
Brown vs. Colby, at Providence.
Columbia vs. Wesleyan, at New York.
Dartmouth vs. Tufts, at Manchester.
Harvard vs. Carlisle, at Cambridge.
Pennsylvania vs. Michigan, at Philadelphia.
Indiana vs. Depauw, at Bloomington.
Northwestern vs. University of Iowa, at Evanston.
Phillips Exeter vs. Andover, at Exeter.
Syracuse vs. Colgate, at Syracuse.
Williams vs. Amherst at Williamstown.
Cornell vs. Coe, at Cedar Rapids.
Notre Dame vs. Michigan Aggies.

Three big football contests will take place tomorrow.

Perhaps the most interesting of the two is that between Ohio State, the "baby eleven" of the Big Ten conference, and Illinois.

Next comes the intersectional game between Michigan and Pennsylvania which will this year be played in Philadelphia. Finally comes Chicago vs. Minnesota.

Indications are that Ohio State will repeat and win the Big Ten championship for the second time. Illinois will attempt to dislodge Ohio, but the general impression among the gridiron experts is that the attempt will fail. Both Ohio State and Illinois are undefeated this season. Ohio State, however, made a much better showing against Wisconsin than did Illinois, and for this reason the odds favor the Buckeye state boys.

The Michigan eleven, which recently rejoined the conference, meets its old foe in Penney. This is one of the big intersectional games of the season. This game should be a toss up. The Wolverines are among the strongest teams in the middle west, while Penney has one of the most formidable teams in the east. Experts look for a battle royal when the two elevens clash.

Coach Stagg is putting forth all his efforts toward a victory for Chicago over Minnesota. The latter team is out of the race but Chicago must win tomorrow to remain in the running for the title.

Minnesota has been defeated by Wisconsin while Chicago has a clean slate. The Chicago team is one of possibilities and it will be a formidable eleven that faces Minnesota tomorrow.
