

THE DAILY UNION will be published every day except on Sundays and public holidays.

THE WEEKLY UNION will be published every Wednesday and Saturday.

THE DEFICIENCY BILL.

SPEECH OF MR. LETCHER, OF VIRGINIA.

Delivered in the House of Representatives on Monday, April 7, 1857.

On which general debate was closed. Mr. Letcher, who reported the bill, being entitled to the floor to make a closing speech.

CHAIRMAN: I regret that the hour allowed to me under the rules of the House is not as full sufficient to enable me to reply to various objections made to the provisions of this bill.

I feel, sir, that myself, and the committee with whom I act, are placed here in a very embarrassing position by the course adopted in this transaction.

My friend from Tennessee, [Mr. Jones], who opened the discussion, occupies the ground of general opposition to the whole of it.

For the last two or three years there has been a general complaint in the House of Congress, and throughout the country, that the late administration had not discharged its duty in allowing the Territory of Utah to be managed by officials maintaining the abominable sentiments and principles that characterize that people.

This, sir, was not a matter which was anticipated when the late administration went out of power. It was not in the contemplation of those who were then in power.

Now, let us see what rates supplies can be transported to Utah, to Fort Laramie, and Fort Kearney?

Mr. LOVEJOY: Will the gentleman allow me to make a statement right there?

Mr. LETCHER: I cannot yield, unless the committee will extend my time.

Mr. COLFAX: I trust the gentleman's time will be extended.

Mr. SHERMAN: This is an important subject.

THE DEFICIENCY BILL.

SPEECH OF MR. LETCHER, OF VIRGINIA.

Delivered in the House of Representatives on Monday, April 7, 1857.

On which general debate was closed. Mr. Letcher, who reported the bill, being entitled to the floor to make a closing speech.

CHAIRMAN: I regret that the hour allowed to me under the rules of the House is not as full sufficient to enable me to reply to various objections made to the provisions of this bill.

I feel, sir, that myself, and the committee with whom I act, are placed here in a very embarrassing position by the course adopted in this transaction.

My friend from Tennessee, [Mr. Jones], who opened the discussion, occupies the ground of general opposition to the whole of it.

For the last two or three years there has been a general complaint in the House of Congress, and throughout the country, that the late administration had not discharged its duty in allowing the Territory of Utah to be managed by officials maintaining the abominable sentiments and principles that characterize that people.

This, sir, was not a matter which was anticipated when the late administration went out of power. It was not in the contemplation of those who were then in power.

Now, let us see what rates supplies can be transported to Utah, to Fort Laramie, and Fort Kearney?

Mr. LOVEJOY: Will the gentleman allow me to make a statement right there?

Mr. LETCHER: I cannot yield, unless the committee will extend my time.

Mr. COLFAX: I trust the gentleman's time will be extended.

Mr. SHERMAN: This is an important subject.

THE DEFICIENCY BILL.

SPEECH OF MR. LETCHER, OF VIRGINIA.

Delivered in the House of Representatives on Monday, April 7, 1857.

On which general debate was closed. Mr. Letcher, who reported the bill, being entitled to the floor to make a closing speech.

CHAIRMAN: I regret that the hour allowed to me under the rules of the House is not as full sufficient to enable me to reply to various objections made to the provisions of this bill.

I feel, sir, that myself, and the committee with whom I act, are placed here in a very embarrassing position by the course adopted in this transaction.

My friend from Tennessee, [Mr. Jones], who opened the discussion, occupies the ground of general opposition to the whole of it.

For the last two or three years there has been a general complaint in the House of Congress, and throughout the country, that the late administration had not discharged its duty in allowing the Territory of Utah to be managed by officials maintaining the abominable sentiments and principles that characterize that people.

This, sir, was not a matter which was anticipated when the late administration went out of power. It was not in the contemplation of those who were then in power.

Now, let us see what rates supplies can be transported to Utah, to Fort Laramie, and Fort Kearney?

Mr. LOVEJOY: Will the gentleman allow me to make a statement right there?

Mr. LETCHER: I cannot yield, unless the committee will extend my time.

Mr. COLFAX: I trust the gentleman's time will be extended.

Mr. SHERMAN: This is an important subject.

THE DEFICIENCY BILL.

SPEECH OF MR. LETCHER, OF VIRGINIA.

Delivered in the House of Representatives on Monday, April 7, 1857.

On which general debate was closed. Mr. Letcher, who reported the bill, being entitled to the floor to make a closing speech.

CHAIRMAN: I regret that the hour allowed to me under the rules of the House is not as full sufficient to enable me to reply to various objections made to the provisions of this bill.

I feel, sir, that myself, and the committee with whom I act, are placed here in a very embarrassing position by the course adopted in this transaction.

My friend from Tennessee, [Mr. Jones], who opened the discussion, occupies the ground of general opposition to the whole of it.

For the last two or three years there has been a general complaint in the House of Congress, and throughout the country, that the late administration had not discharged its duty in allowing the Territory of Utah to be managed by officials maintaining the abominable sentiments and principles that characterize that people.

This, sir, was not a matter which was anticipated when the late administration went out of power. It was not in the contemplation of those who were then in power.

Now, let us see what rates supplies can be transported to Utah, to Fort Laramie, and Fort Kearney?

Mr. LOVEJOY: Will the gentleman allow me to make a statement right there?

Mr. LETCHER: I cannot yield, unless the committee will extend my time.

Mr. COLFAX: I trust the gentleman's time will be extended.

Mr. SHERMAN: This is an important subject.

THE DEFICIENCY BILL.

SPEECH OF MR. LETCHER, OF VIRGINIA.

Delivered in the House of Representatives on Monday, April 7, 1857.

On which general debate was closed. Mr. Letcher, who reported the bill, being entitled to the floor to make a closing speech.

CHAIRMAN: I regret that the hour allowed to me under the rules of the House is not as full sufficient to enable me to reply to various objections made to the provisions of this bill.

I feel, sir, that myself, and the committee with whom I act, are placed here in a very embarrassing position by the course adopted in this transaction.

My friend from Tennessee, [Mr. Jones], who opened the discussion, occupies the ground of general opposition to the whole of it.

For the last two or three years there has been a general complaint in the House of Congress, and throughout the country, that the late administration had not discharged its duty in allowing the Territory of Utah to be managed by officials maintaining the abominable sentiments and principles that characterize that people.

This, sir, was not a matter which was anticipated when the late administration went out of power. It was not in the contemplation of those who were then in power.

Now, let us see what rates supplies can be transported to Utah, to Fort Laramie, and Fort Kearney?

Mr. LOVEJOY: Will the gentleman allow me to make a statement right there?

Mr. LETCHER: I cannot yield, unless the committee will extend my time.

Mr. COLFAX: I trust the gentleman's time will be extended.

Mr. SHERMAN: This is an important subject.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS.

Payment for subscriptions must be made in advance, and the paper will not be sent until the amount is received.

Table with 2 columns: Duration (1 year, 6 months, 3 months, 1 month) and Price (1.00, .75, .50, .25).

Right lines or less make a square; larger advertisements in exact proportion to the space occupied.

There is another objection to this bill of my friend from Alabama, [Mr. Houston]. He proposes to strike out the head of the appropriation for the payment of the furniture in the Speaker's room.

For All Parts of the West. BALTIMORE AND OHIO RAILROAD. NEW AND IMPROVED ARRANGEMENTS.

THREE TRAINS DAILY from Baltimore, for Cumberland, Wheeling, and all parts of the West.

PHOTOGRAPH OIL PAINTING. PROFESSOR J. F. CURCHILL, Artist, respectfully requests thanks to his friends and patrons for past encouragement.

CHARLES'S LONDON CORDIAL GIN.—THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY LONDON GIN IMPORTED.—This gin, distilled in London from sound barley.

MODERN LANGUAGES.—PROFESSOR DANIEL E. GIBSON, Teacher and Translator of Modern Languages.

COMPLETION OF PANAMA RAILROAD.—Reduction of fare to California by the United States mail route.

GEORGE W. BRIGA, ATTORNEY AND COUNSELLOR AT LAW, No. 15 Wall Street, New York.

NEW SPRING GOODS FOR GENTLEMEN.—J. R. STEER, Merchant Tailor, No. 428 Seventh Street.

On reading Mr. Jones's published remarks, I find that he did not intend to make any allusion to the bill.

Mr. Letcher's remarks, in relation to the bill, were not intended to be taken as a personal attack on the late administration.

Mr. Lovejoy's remarks, in relation to the bill, were not intended to be taken as a personal attack on the late administration.

Mr. Sherman's remarks, in relation to the bill, were not intended to be taken as a personal attack on the late administration.

Mr. Jones's remarks, in relation to the bill, were not intended to be taken as a personal attack on the late administration.

Mr. Houston's remarks, in relation to the bill, were not intended to be taken as a personal attack on the late administration.