What an Englishman Thinks of the American People.

He says "they hurry, they eat quick, they gulp, they belch, they have stomach ache, headache, liver troubles and bowel complaint; they fret and they scold, they get cross at nothing and without cause; they look sallow and hollow-eyed; they look hungry and can't eat; they spit up food; they have wakeful nights. They die early because they disregard the true principles to correct."

These troubles and many others all grow out and from a torpid liver, and called dyspepsia or indigestion. They can be cured and have been cured, and in every case with a guaranty that they will be cured by the use of Dr. Mintie's English Dandelion Pills. Sold by all druggists. Price 50c. per bottle.

Health, strength and vigor of the Kidneys and Bladder always follow the use of the great Bucho compound, Dr. Mintie's Nephrecum. Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Inflammation, Smarting or Private Diseases are quickly cured by it. For Leucorrhœa it has no equal. Don't be persuaded to take any other preparation. Everyone who has tried it recommends it. For sale by all druggists.

SIR ASHLEY COOPER'S VITAL RESTORATIVE.—The great English remedy has made more cures of Nervous Debility, Seminal Weakness, Lost Manhood, nocturnal emissions, lassitude, despondency and inability for mental labor, despondency and such diseases as are induced by youthful follies and excesses, than all other medicines combined. It will not disappoint you. Try it!!!

TABERNACLE SERVICES.

There was an unusually large congregation at the Tabernacle on Sunday afternoon, among the number being many tourists and strangers. The services opened by the choir singing the hymn beginning:

Though deep'ning trials throng your way, etc.

Prayer by Elder George Nebeker.

Hymn:

O, Lord of Hosts, we now invoke, etc.

ELDER JOHN MORGAN, president of the mission in the Southern States, who has just returned from the field of his labors, addressed the congregation. He said it was a highly prized privilege for an elder to return from a mission, and meet with the saints. When away he sometimes thought that when at home the people did not fully appreciate this privilege. During the past year he had been preaching the gospel in the Southern States. The labors of the elders in that section of the country had been attended with more or less success. Quite a change had taken place in the minds of the people relative to the doctrines the elders were promulgating. Twelve months ago a spirit of mobocracy, urged and stimulated by inflammatory articles in the newspapers and by pulpit abuse, of the Mormons, was prevalent, resulting in the mobbing of the elders, and others who had united with the church. The opposition was violent and unpleasant, but by the blessings of God and perseverance of the elders, the bitter feeling had been to a large degree overcome. The better class of people there had come out in opposition to the persecution and mobocracy. Editors opposed violence, as helping rather than hurting Mormonism. People there are anxious to emigrate—to escape from their unpleasant surroundings. The missionaries in that field had performed their duties faithfully, not count ng hunger, persecution and whatever came upon them as anything in comparison with the great principles they were promulgating. The young elders who had never been away from home, and therefore were unacquainted with the ways of the world, had been kindly received by the southern people, who were kind-hearted and generous. The earnestness of these missionaries had great influence upon the people among whom they traveled. The Southern States Mission had been divided into districts and conferences, but there were places where the elders had not yet visited owing to the insufficiency of their numbers. There was large room for elders to labor in the south. The missionaries seldom found a place where they could not obtain a house in which to preach and audiences to listen. In one instance a governor had offered the speaker the representatives hall in which to hold services. Newspapers had published notices of meetings and printed handbills free of charge, and, altogether the elders were being generously treated by the southern people. During the past year more than 400 saints had emigrated from the Southern States. They had located in Colorado, and the speaker had recently visited them, and found them prospering. The people of Colorado had welcomed them and treated them kindly. The railroad had reached within a few miles of the Mormon settlements, and had given low rates for transportation. There were now in Colorado from the Southern States, more than 500 saints, and the number would be augmented by 300 during the summer if thought advisable. Their health had not been as good as was desirable, owing to the sudden change of climate. Some few had died from measles and other causes. But they had not been alone in their affliction, as the other settlements thereabouts had suffered more in proportion to population than the saints had done. The saints there were satisfied with their location. Very little complaint was heard. Only four had returned to their former homes. The speaker had publicly made the offer that if any wanted to return he would see that they were helped back to their former homes. Adjacent to the Mormon settlements were many Mexican villages. The Mexicans had been looked upon as legal and lawful prey for the white people in Colorado. Their ignorance had been taken advantage of and they had been cheated and defrauded, until they had no confidence in the white people. However, these Mexicans had been treated honorably by the saints, and as a consequence, a good feeling now existed between them. They had elected one of the saints a magistrate of the county, and he was highly esteemed and respected in the community. The first thing the Colorado saints did, was to erect a schoolhouse, and during the past winter a school has been kept in session. There were also Sunday Schools among them. The speaker briefly referred to the social and political condition of the United States, saying it was deplorable. The people were divided, and it seems as if the Scripture prophecy would be fulfilled where it was said that every man's hand should be turned against his brother. During the trial of one of the men who assassinated Elder Joseph Standing, the speaker was astonished at the testimony there given. A religious revival was going on at the time, and the witnesses who, in the day time, had sworn to falsehoods, would attend the religious meetings and pretend to worship God in the night. Elder Morgan had asked the solicitor general, who conducted the prosecution, how many men he expected to get on the stand who would tell the truth. The reply was, "If I get one in ten, I am doing well." This was a terrible commentary on this land of Christianity, of education and advancement. The sentiment of the people of the United States was to let the saints alone; but there were preachers, and pretended pietists who were still actuated by the spirit of persecution. All the opposition and persecution that the speaker had encountered was from that class of men—men who could pray longest and profess most piety. The elders were blessed with the spirit of their mission. They were pleased to be privileged to carry the gospel to the world, and though they sometimes were not as pleasantly situated as they might desire, they did not complain. The young elders were having their eyes opened, and they expressed astonishment and surprise at the wickedness that they saw in the cities that they visited. Here at home they had no idea of the wrong that was going on in the world. When they saw the corruption and crime in the communities they visited, and then were refused in instances the privilege of preaching in schoolhouses or churches, lest they might corrupt the morals of the people, they were astonished and disgusted. Altogether Elder Morgan gave a favorable report of the proselyting mission in the south, the success of the elders during the past year having been unusually marked.

ELDER C. W. PARMOS next spoke. He had been interested in listening to the good report given by Elder Morgan, of the spread of the gospel in the southern states. Good reports of missionary work were coming from all parts of the world where the elders were at work. The gospel was being rapidly spread as a warning to the world, as commanded by Jesus. All had not yet heard it, many had heard something of the Mormons, but they know nothing of the principles, objects and purposes of the saints. The gospel was to be preached to all kindred, tongues and people, as a witness to all nations. In the church were something over seventy quorums of Seventies who were specially ordained for the work of preaching the gospel, and they should be preparing themselves, so as to be ready when called upon to go out to the world and proclaim the everlasting truth. Every person in the church should be a minister of the Lord, and prepared when called upon to perform his duty in bearing his testimony to the truth of the gospel. A great work was yet to be performed before the whole earth heard the sound of the gospel. The nations had gone astray from the Lord. They had gone away from God, and formed religions to suit their own inclinations. There had been no communication from heaven, no prophets, no angels upon the earth, and the people had been left to themselves. But now the gospel had been restored to the earth, and it must be proclaimed to the world, that all may be warned of the things that are to come, and the righteous gathered out that they may be saved. We are living on the earth in the last dispensation, when the Messiah will come. The signs that Jesus said would precede his coming are already beginning to appear. They were crowded one upon another—the wars, the rumors of wars, the plagues, the famines and the confusion. Now, was the period when the gospel must be preached, before the end shall come. All were not preparing for this coming of the Savior; they were wise and foolish, but the speaker hoped that all his hearers were preparing for the end, and that they will be ready for the day of salvation that was to come. A great many people in the world were careless, skeptical and negligent as to the commandments of the Lord, yet there were many who were honest and were doing what they thought to be right. They were the people whom the saints wanted to gather out and save. The work was upon the saints to warn and save the honest in heart. Elder Penrose said all could do something towards spreading the gospel, whether they went forth as missionaries or remained at home. The latter could send away church works, pamphlets, etc., and help sustain the families of those who were away preaching the gospel. The speaker concluded, bearing a strong testimony to the truth of the gospel.

The choir sang an anthem,

"Hear my prayer," etc.

Elder Royal B. Young pronounced a benediction.

The Lucerne Foe.

The article published in Sunday's HERALD on the report brought to us of the fact that large patches of lucerne are being killed out by a weed has attracted the attention of several persons and yesterday we were shown the stuff with verifications of its destructive powers. It is a small plant, growing about a foot high, with white blossoms and seed-vessels heart shaped, is in flower and seed now, and is called by some "Shepherd's Purse." It can be pulled out easily when the ground is moist and as it is wonderfully prolific should be thoroughly eradicated and effectually destroyed. It is certain in its devastating spread if allowed to remain and no one can too urgently advocate its annihilation, so that the useful lucerne crop may not be destroyed.

An Unblemished Complexion

Is, like a sweet voice, "an excellent thing in woman." Where it does not exist naturally, it may be imparted by artificial means. "GLENN'S SULPHUR SOAP" removes all the unpleasant effects of dust and perspiration, obliterating blotches, tan and all other discolorations of the skin; more than this, it gives a healthy tint to the cheeks, and a lustrous whiteness and smoothness to the neck and arms. It is the fashionable cosmetic at the watering places, and, as science vouches for its harmlessness, no lady need be afraid to use it. Beware of counterfeits. See that "C. N. CRITTENTON, Proprietor," is printed on each packet, without which none is genuine. Sold by druggists at 25c., three cakes 60c. A fitting toilet accompaniment is "HILL'S INSTANTANEOUS HAIR DYE," which changes gray or any obnoxious color to a beautiful black or brown in the space of a few minutes, and contains no mineral poison. Another Card.

SALT LAKE CITY, May 24th, 1880.

Editors Herald:

In regard to the card published in last Saturday's HERALD, headed, "Excommunication," allow me to state that it was a mistake my name being to that card. I endorse all it contained, except the latter part, wherein it infers I acknowledge having sinned and that I ask to be taken back into fellowship. I do not consider I have sinned, or that I have done anything for which I should be severed from the church. If my brothers and sisters in the church have turned against me because I obtained by law that which I firmly believe is my own, then I suppose I must forego the pleasure of their fellowship. VILATE Y. DECKER.

[In explanation of the above we will state that Mr. Edmund Ellsworth, husband of Mrs. Elizabeth Ellsworth, brought the former card to the HERALD office, and earnestly requested its publication. The ladies' names were signed, as they appeared in the card, and the relation that Mr. E. held to the signers, being husband of one, and brother-in-law of the other, naturally disarmed us of all suspicion that anything irregular or improper was being practised upon us and the public. The HERALD cannot be placed in any false position in this matter, and we only regret that Mrs. Decker has been so placed. EDS. HERALD.]

She Wants the Asylum—Some Gossip.

CITY OF PROVO, May 22, 1880.

Editors Herald:

We have noticed some of the arguments in favor of the location of the Insane Asylum in other places, and while not wishing to criticise or speak disrespectful of any, we do think the advantages of this locality are entitled to some consideration, and if we could show these advantages up in a proper manner, we believe the directors who have the matter in charge would listen to us. Situated near the centre of Utah Valley, between the grand old mountains of the Wasatch range and the beautiful Utah Lake, and surrounded on every side with scenery that is magnificent beyond description and picturesque in the extreme; we believe this is destined to become the most attractive portion of the territory. The lofty mountains rising one above another and rearing their snowy peaks high above the clouds; the rocky cañons, each with their little amateur river rushing down through rocky chasms and across the beautiful valley to the placid waters of the lake, all together go to make up a variety of scenery nowhere else to be found. This is also as healthy a place as any other; and with our clear atmosphere all these grand exhibitions of nature may be seen without the aid of glasses. We could also mention advantages of a pecuniary nature, but do not think they ought to have much weight in the matter, while we do think the asylum ought to be located near Provo.

One of our principle M. Ds. has succeeded in creating a small sensation with a large knife, lately in Springville. The particulars are yet shrouded in mystery though the doctor has been arrested and we understand is to have an examination next Tuesday, the 25th inst.

We are promised another dramatic entertainment soon by our home company, and "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is to be the attraction. The "greatest living comedian" John, may sneer at our "country amateurs" as much as he pleases. They are good enough for us and we don't care much if some of the great actors do pass us by.

The ladies of the Fourth Ward Relief Society gave an anniversary picnic last Thursday the 20th inst., which was said to be a grand affair. The poor who were unable to attend had their portion of the good things sent to them. We can speak from experience in this matter. The Walking Match.

The long-talked-of championship go-as-you-please match begins Friday evening, at 9 o'clock, in the commodious enclosure in course of erection adjoining the Walker House on the north. The base ball ground seats are being put up and covered and ample accommodation for the large audience is being made. In a match of this kind the contestants are permitted to either run or walk, hence, with the large amount of running that will probably be done, a very fine record may be made. The list of starters embraces some very good runners, and some others not yet publicly tried; but enough is known of all the contestants to guarantee a spirited struggle and the covering of between 100 and 120 miles.

The Answer.

A short time since, it will be recalled, suit was commenced in the Third District Court by Marshal Shaughnessy against the Ontario Silver Mining Company, for $1,000,000, the ground being the alleged trespass by the Ontario Company upon the Henrietta Mining Claim. The answer of the Ontario was filed yesterday and is a general and specific denial of all that the complaint asserts. No date has yet been set for hearing the motion for an injunction.

Decay of the Teeth

Arises from various causes, but principally it may be attributed to early neglect or the indiscriminate use of tooth powders and pastes, which give a momentary whiteness to the teeth while they corrode the enamel. The timely use of that delicate aromatic tooth-wash, Fragiant SOZODONT, will speedily arrest the progress of decay, harden the gums, and impart a delightful fragrance to the breath. It removes those ravages which people sustain in their teeth from the use of sweet and acid articles. my8

A Good Thing.

German Syrup is the special prescription of Dr. A. Boschee, a celebrated German Physician, and is acknowledged to be one of the most fortunate discoveries in Medicine. It quickly cures Coughs, Colds and all Lung troubles of the severest nature, removing, as it does, the cause of the affection and leaving the parts in a strong and healthy condition. It is not an experimental medicine, but has stood the test of years, giving satisfaction in every case, which its rapidly increasing sale every season confirms. Two million bottles sold annually. Beware of medicines of similar names, lately introduced. Boschee's German Syrup was introduced in the United States in 1868, and is now sold in every town and village in the civilized world. Three doses will relieve any ordinary cough. Price 75 cents. Sample bottle, 10 cents. m1

Pouted by the window fair;
Thus she stood in pensive fashion,
Breathing freely Spring's mild air.
Thus she stood in pensive fashion,
Tapping at the window pane;
Thinking of the home preparing
Where she soon would go to reign.
Not in joyous, happy manner,
As a bride that's soon to be,
But in brooding o'er a sorrow,
Sad in one so young to see.
All her lifetime had been Summer;
Never Winter—never Fall—
But, alas! the coming future
Did her little heart appal.
