LOAN BEING MADE.

Noticeable Improvement in Financial and Business Circles.

There has been a noticeable improvement in business during the past week and the feeling among the financial men of the city and territory seems to be much easier. The promised influx of eastern money has already set in and a number of the local correspondents of eastern capitalists and loan agencies have received instructions to place Salt Lake's loans at 8 per cent. The security, naturally, must be of the best. Long time loans are much preferred. The city banks are not making general loans as yet, but they are keeping their customers supplied with the needful, and it seems to be only a question of a few weeks when even they will again throw open their vault doors.

AFFAIRS OF GOLDSMITH & CO.

New York Creditors Agree to Dismiss the Attachments.

Word was received in this city yesterday to the effect that the New York creditors of Goldsmith and company had followed in the footsteps of the Baltimore creditors and agreed to dismiss the attachments under which the Salt Lake and Ogden houses of the company were closed and allow the assignee to continue the business of both branch houses. Henry Seigel is still in the east but his return is expected about the end of the coming week. Upon his arrival here the full terms of the agreement which the creditors of the company will be known. It is anticipated that the local houses will be again open for business sometime next week.

MORE CASH FROM UTAH.

Another County Makes Payment on Territorial Taxes.

Utah county yesterday made another payment on her territorial taxes for the year 1893 and has now very nearly reached the final payment. Territorial Treasurer Barnett received from the collector of the county named, $1,089.57.

There are still a large number of delinquent county collectors and the amount of the outstanding taxes which should have been paid into the treasury not later than January, is in the neighborhood of $25,000.

Six per Cent. Payment.

Assignee Moyle of the Burton-Gardner company yesterday made his second payment to the creditors of the company, amounting to $5,400, being 6 per cent. of the liabilities. The former payment was 12½ per cent. and Mr. Moyle was holding off in the hope of securing enough money to make a larger payment this time but on account of the slowness of collections he was forced to content himself with the 6 per cent. As yet none of the real estate of the company has been sold but in the near future it will be placed upon the market. It is expected to more than cover the remaining liabilities.

THAT PROPOSED FAIR.

Utah Manufacturers to Show Off Their Products.

On Tuesday night the manufacturers of Utah will hold another meeting at the chamber of commerce rooms for the purpose of perfecting the plans for the exposition of Utah manufactured products in the very near future. The present idea is to secure a large room in one of the principal business blocks of the city and therein make a full display of every line of manufactured goods turned out by the manufacturers of this territory. It has often been said that one reason the people of the territory do not make better patrons of home industry is because they do not know what is made at home. They will now be given an opportunity of making a personal inspection of the various home products.

THE COPPER PLANT.

What Probable Investors Will Read Regarding Its Capabilities.

Speaking of Salt Lake's great copper plant the pamphlet just issued by the chamber of commerce and Midwinter fair committee says:

On the outskirts of Salt Lake city there has been almost completed one of the most stupendous industrial enterprises that exist in the western country. It consists of the largest copper plant of its kind in the world, to be owned and operated by the Salt Lake City Copper Manufacturing company. It will begin operations within a month or two, and by that time $500,000 will have been spent on the plant alone. It will have a capacity for smelting from 250 to 300 tons of copper per day; the principal source of ore supply being from the Copperopolis group in Juab county, the Copper Mountain in Box Elder county, and the Nancy Hanks group in Nevada. The product of these works will be fine copper in the shape of wire, bars, cakes, sheets or ingots as the market demands, and in the refining department fine gold and silver will be produced. Storage houses have been erected capable of holding 5,000 tons of ore, and the heavy handling at the works will be done by electric travelers. Powerful crushers will reduce the ore for the blasting furnaces, which latter have a capacity of 150 tons per day; here ores will be reduced or transformed to copper matte. Thence the product will be taken to the converter plant, from which the copper will be delivered 98 per cent. pure. It is then ready for casting into shape for treatment by the electrolitical process. This will be accomplished in a building 364 feet long and 180 feet wide, supplied with five large Elwell dynamos with a capacity for turning out forty tons of fine copper per day. The power for this portion of the plant is derived from a one thousand horse power triple expansion engine, the one which secured the first prize in Machinery hall at the World's fair, and was pronounced the finest engine of its kind ever made. It is now being put in place. The process consists of dissolving the copper in an acid solution, from which the electric current deposits it in an absolutely pure condition on sheets of paper. During this process the gold and silver contained in the copper are separately collected, and after undergoing a cleansing process are ready for the mint. The boiler house contains eleven boilers and another triple expansion engine of three hundred horse power supplies the motive power for other portions of the plant. The operations of this concern will not only furnish a ready market for the copper produced in our midst, but other industries will spring up in the manufacture of copper-ware of every description. Salt Lake city contributed a bonus of $100,000 to induce the location of these works within its limits, and this alone should be proof of the willingness of our people to contribute towards the inauguration of legitimate manufacturing institutions.

TAKING UP THE NOTES.

Debt of the World's Fair Commission Rapidly Decreasing.

The notes given by the Utah World's fair commissioners and endorsed by some of the most prominent business men of the territory, upon which the money used in defraying the expenses of properly representing Utah at the World's fair, are being taken up very rapidly. Within the next few days the last of them will have passed without the jurisdiction of the banks which now have them in their possession and the commission and its endorsers will be relieved from all further financial responsibility. The aggregate amount of the notes already taken up, with the interest added, is $23,117.25.

Annual Meeting.

The stockholders of the Salt Lake Building and Loan association have just held their annual election,at which the following officers were elected: President, F. E. McGurrin; vice-president, Elijah Sells; secretary, Edward Horne; treasurer, Frank L. Holland; directors, F. E. McGurrin, Charles S. Kinney, A. B. Miller, Elijah Sells, W. H. Roy, F. L. Holland, M. L. Ritchie, Edward Horne and F. E. McCann.

The Clearings.

Yesterday's clearings were $141,760, as compared with $221,096 for the same day of last year. The clearings for the week were $1,054,690, as compared with $1,367,474 for the same week of 1893.

Tramps in Austria.

In Austria the state considers itself bound to leave nothing undone to lessen pauperism and crime, and, with this object in view, enjoins upon every individual the duty of bearing about with him legal proofs of his identity and of his belonging to some one of the communes into which the empire is divided. Everyone found without these serviceable documents is liable to arrest until such time as his native place has been ascertained, whereupon he is sent there. If a Hungarian or a foreigner he is thus escorted to the frontier. Considering that the communes are liable to be charged with the maintenance of the poor, it is natural enough that they should roughly shake off outsiders who are likely to become a burden to them; and, if we take into account the desire of the state to lessen the frequency of crime, we can not wonder at its eagerness to get rid of the contingent from which the army of criminals is recruited. But the end never sanctifies the means, and it has now been proved that the latter too often result in horrible barbarities.

For men and women, innocent of crime and misdemeanor, are frequently arrested and put in prison simply because they are not in possession of the needful documents. There they lie, buried for weeks, months—nay, for whole years—awaiting the decision of the authorities, and gradually growing unfit for work. Sometimes a man simply loses his paper; then a few weeks' imprisonment may suffice to right matters. If he himself can not solve the question the authorities begin an endless correspondence with all the communes in the empire, besides publicly announcing the person's name and demanding information. If a Hungarian, the chances are ten to one that the commune authorities in that half of the empire will not reply at all, or else only after the lapse of several months to the questions asked of them. Meanwhile the unfortunate man, who has done no wrong to anyone, is locked up for an indefinite time, cut off from the world, and subjected to the hardships of prison life, which, especially during the cold of winter, are often intolerable. The case of one such ill-starred individual was discussed in the diet, who, though guilty of no crime whatever, was thus immured for nine months. Another instance, likewise commented upon, was that of a workman who was thus imprisoned for three years, until the authorities ascertained his belongings. As these wretches are then sent off without a brass farthing in their pockets or a friend in the world—a worse condition than that of hardened criminals, who, when they have served their time, are helped on by benevolent societies.

A horrible illustration of the evils of this system is to be found in the fate of a passportless man, arrested some two years ago in a little village of the Austrian province of Silesia. He was hungry and begged for bread, and the head of the commune gave orders that he was to be locked up, pending inquiries as to his native commune. The ordinary communal servant being temporarily absent, someone else carried out the order, and conveyed the man to the special place of detention reserved for vagabonds and tramps, but forgot to mention the matter to the communal servant. After the lapse of a number of days somebody recollected the beggar who had been taken to the lock up and going to the place found his corpse. These horrors constitute a somewhat high price for the diminution of pauperism and crime.—London Telegraph.

IN THE SOCIAL REALM.

No Large Affairs During the Past Week.

TEAS AND SMALL PARTIES.

ENGAGEMENT OF MISS ALLACE HOOPER AND LIEUT. PALMER.

Luncheon to Be Given at the Alta Club By Mrs. Brubaek Next Saturday Afternoon—A German—Other Coming Events—Movements of Society People.

The past week has been exceedingly quiet, Mrs. Jones' tea, Mrs. John N. Sharpe's Kensington tea, and Mrs. Royle's afternoon party being the largest events. This week gives no more promise of gayety than the last. Mrs. Brubaek's luncheon at the Alta club will be the most elegant of the social function. The chief event toward which the younger people are looking with much anticipation is the german on the 28th inst., to be given by some of the young men.

On Thursday afternoon Mrs. Elmer B. Jones gave a tea from 2 to 6 o'clock at Woodbine cottage. The rooms were handsomely decorated with potted plants and cut flowers and the tables were models of beauty and daintiness. The embroidered centrepieces and floral decorations corresponded in color and design. A cut glass bowl of violets rested upon a lavender centrepiece, a bowl of daffodils on a centrepiece of a yellow and a mass of pink carnations on a bit of the same shade. The refreshments were as dainty as their setting. Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Wightman entertained the guests with some charming recitations.

Among the invited guests were Mesdames W. A. Nelden, F. A. Vincent, William Wightman, Arthur Brown, T. J. Almy, Schroeder, Gray, Shores, Van Arnam, Hadley, Beatty, McBurney, Sells, C. D. Moore, Platt, C. E. Allen, Dart and McVicker.

Mrs. Royle gave a charming semi-literary, semi-social entertainment on Wednesday afternoon to about twenty-five members of the Ladies' Literary club, who live in the vicinity of her home. It was an outgrowth of Mrs. Royle's able address on "The School of Realism in Dutch Art" which she gave at the club a short time ago. Much interest was manifested in the subject, hence it was continued on this occasion. Mrs. Royle spoke of Rembrandt's realistic methods, Mrs. Fabian of his celebrated painting "The Night Watch," Mrs. Moore on Rembrandt's domestic life, Mrs. Bennett gave some anecdotes of Dutch artists and exhibited some copies of their works, and Mrs. Eugene Lewis briefly sketched the life of Van Dyke. Besides the "feast of reason and flow of soul" so much enjoyed by the ladies present there was a more substantial feast. The afternoon was a most enjoyable one.

Miss Olive Donellan and Miss Warde, daughter of the famous actor, were classmates, and the young ladies took much pleasure in renewing their acquaintanceship last week. On Wednesday evening Mr. Warde gave a stall party to Mr. and Mrs. John Tilton Donellan, their guest Miss Gibbs, of Denver, Misses Olive and Edna Donellan, Mrs. and Miss Warde, Mr. Kenneth Donellan and Lieutenant Gregg. On Thursday Mrs. Donellan gave a luncheon in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Warde and Miss Warde, the other guests being Miss Gibbs, Miss Donellan and Lieutenants Gregg and Spence.

Mrs. S. J. Kenyon gave a party yesterday afternoon in celebration of her little daughter, Miss Jessie's birthday. The children were in high spirits and greatly enjoyed the novel feature which was a game originated by their entertainers. This was called "Bell the cat" and consisted in fastening tiny bells on the neck ribbon of a large "paper cat." Miss Wenona Jones won the prize for this, a copy of comical cats." Several of the little ladies executed some fancy dances to the delight of the lookers on. Dainty refreshments were served at the close of a pleasant afternoon and the guests left bearing a tiny bell and a pretty box of confectionary as souvenirs. The tables looked very pretty with their decorations of marguerites, carnations, and ferns.

The guests were Misses Alice Goodwin, Helen Gillespie, Hattie Jennings, Nettie, Carrie and Mignon Abbott, Hattie Young, Claire Yardley, Irma Wagner, Alice Littleton, Ora Dunford, Marguerite Donellan, Eva Davis, Katherine Yardley, Claire Young, Bessie Dunford, Grace Emery, and Lillie Buckle.

Miss Jessie Kennard gave a party on Friday evening last to the circle of young friends of which she is a popular member. The amusements were of a varied character. Among her guests were Mrs. D. L. Woodmansee, Misses Fannie Bird, Louise Odell, Lucille Sears, Matie Mack and Julia Phillips, and Messrs Harry Brink, Sam Porter, Walter Druehl, Fred Odell, Ed. Kennard, Austin Brooks, O. K. McGraw, Bert Reading and Austin Brooks.

Mrs. George T. Brice, 307 Park avenue, entertained a few friends at high five on Thursday evening. The winners of first prizes were Mrs. Stiehl and Mr. A. H. Parsons, of consolation prizes, Mrs. F. Hill and Mr. A. H. Parsons. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. H. Rivers, Mr. and Mrs. F. Hills, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Lynch, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Parsons, Mr. and Mrs. Melton, Dr. and Mrs. Stiehl, Mr. and Mrs. Whittemore, Mr. and Mrs. F. Slade, Mr. and Mrs. Houghton.

Miss Margaret Reed gave a small party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Orson Arnold on Thursday evening. Cards and music furnished the amusements and refreshments served from daintily decorated tables contributed to the pleasure of the guests. Among the guests were Mrs. Orson Rogers, Misses Lizzie and Birdie Arnold, Gertie and Mattie Read, Florence Moyle, Ida Cope, Elva Snyder, May Sorenson, Lu Platt, Eva Platt, Lizzie Loyd, and Messrs. Will Hyams, Oscar Johnson, Frank Cope, Dan Lang, Fred Nicholson, Samuel Read, J. C. Platt, Sam Arnold and Fred Wilson.

On Tuesday Mrs. John N. Sharp gave one of the delightful Kensington teas so much enjoyed by fair guests. Her guests were Mrs. Sam Park, Mrs. Fred Scarff, Mrs. Frank Dewey Richards, Mrs. J. F. Richards, Mrs. Walter Jennings, Mrs. James Jennings, Mrs. W. V. Rice, Mrs. R. W. Whittemore, Mrs. Ben Eldredge, Mrs. Ernest Romney, Mrs. Ben Eldredge, Mrs. John Sharp, Miss Blanch Kimball, Miss Kate Lawrence, Miss Clara Bailey, Miss Margaret Park, Miss Mary Teasdel, Mrs Minnie Sadler, Miss Helen Crawford, Miss Celia Sharp, the Misses Webber, Miss Millie Glass, Dr. Lucila Miles and Miss Frankie Sharp.

The Circle of Strangers was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Knox on last Tuesday evening, and a large number of guests and members enjoyed the highly amusing piece of "Sarah's Young Man," as presented by the "Knocker Krazy Komedy Kompany," with the following cast of characters:

Mr. Moggridge (rather jealous), Mr. C. Lawrence Bi Hawley.

Mrs. Moggridge (rather gay), Jane Hading Archer.

To Picturesque Subscribers.

Part two has been received and can be had at The Herald counting rooms.

"Paul Jones," the globe trotter for $5,000, had a busy day in Providence, R. I., lately. He entertained people all night, and went to bed at 6 a. m., but arose at 10 a. m. He sold soda water to a circus mob for two hours, then went to a reception of women in a hotel. Went to Pawtucket and sawed a stick of wood and gave a ten minute's talk in the opera house and then took a special train for Boston, making the trip of forty-four miles in fifty minutes, to attend a concert at which he sang. He then returned to Providence to proceed on his chase around the world.

In Vienna landlords have blacklists. Vienna, it is said, contains more people who live beyond their means than any city in the world, and for some time householders have been trying to find means of self defense against the growing army which prefers to move rather than pay rent. The tenants' directory is the result. It is a blacklist in which the desirable tenants are merely named, while the undesirable are designated with stars opposite their names. While it does not duplicate the Almanach de Gotha, the names of counts, countesses and barons are not excluded from its starred columns.

If afflicted with scalp diseases, hair falling out, and premature baldness, do not use grease or alcoholic preparations, but apply Hall's Hair Renewer.
