SMALL CROWD SEES BIKE RACES

Labor Day's crowd at the Salt Palace saucer track last night was the smallest that has gathered at a meet in the arena this season. There were not more than fifteen hundred persons on the grounds. The program, however, was run off in good shape, save one long delay, and the "ball up" of the officials when they neglected to score the Australian race. Lawson awakened from his trance in the last event, the five-mile lap handicap, and rode in his old-time form. In the last half lap he sprinted out after being pulled up by McFarland and won by two lengths. Lawson and McFarland were pitted against Samuelson and Hollister and simply ran away from them in the last two laps. McFarland took second place by half a wheel from Downing, who followed Lawson's wheel throughout the entire race. Hollister won fourth money and Clark got fifth place. Samuelson was sixth in the race.

Wilcox carried off twelve laps at $12 per lap, and Bardgett took eleven. Agraz captured six, Achorn three and Mitten three. McFarland took the last lap in the final sprint.

Wilcox made a great ride in the final of the one-mile handicap, taking first place. He covered the distance in 1:52 2-5 with a handicap of eighty-five yards. Wilcox also won the first heat, making time one second slower. Lawson was completely shut out in the first heat and came in last. The second heat was won by Mitten and Monroe by three-quarters of a lap. They were the limit men and changing pace they were never caught. Clark got third place and McFarland barely got in fourth to qualify. McFarland played the part of the clown in the final and, getting a puncture, fell on the south curve.

Forget to Score Race.

Palmer won the Australian pursuit race, riding around Williams in two miles, two laps and 155 yards. The officials forgot to score the race until it was almost over. They then timed a lap and figured that in 7:31 Palmer rode three miles, seven laps and 155 yards. This makes a mark of 1:50 per mile, which beats Samuelson's unpaced mile track record. The Herald reporter, however, scored the race, and recorded that Palmer rode two miles, two laps and 155 yards, which gives an average of 2:25 to the mile.

In the start Wilcox went after Achorn and in two laps passed him. It took two miles for Palmer to get Wilcox, and then he finished Williams in one mile.

Holiday won first in the three-mile lap handicap amateur, with Giles a close second. McCormack slipped away from Hume and West three laps from home, and, catching the leaders, sprinted in third. Neither Hume nor West were able to get up to the bunch.

Hume won the half-mile amateur hands down. McCormack was second by half a wheel length, and West got third place.

The summary:

Half-mile open, amateur, final—Hume, McCormack, West. Time, 0:58 4-5.

Australian pursuit race—Palmer, Williams, Wilcox, Achorn. Distance, two miles, two laps and 155 yards; time, 7:31.

One-mile handicap, professional, final—Wilcox, Hollister, Bardgett, Pry, Downing. Time, 1:52 2-5.

Three-mile lap handicap, amateur—Holiday, Giles, McCormack, Schnell. Time, 6:09.

Five-mile lap, professional—Lawson, McFarland, Downing, Hollister. Time, 10:25 2-5.

After the match they served an excellent dinner to the Ogden players at the Wilson hotel. Umpires—A. Dickinson and George Parker.

NOLAN SAYS HE WAS JOBBED

Goldfield, Nev., Sept. 3.—In answer to the report that he had instructed Nelson to hit low, Billy Nolan said tonight:

"No, there is absolutely nothing in the report. Why, Nelson was as strong in the forty-second round as he was in the fifth. Gans was contenting himself throughout with loafing and resting and Nelson finally decided to do the same thing. Gans was all in at the time and would not have lasted another five rounds. I think I have been jobbed. You remember my statement to the press last night in which I told why I believed there was a job on foot to give the fight to Gans. I told you about the clique of San Francisco men who came here with as much Gans money as they could possibly get; of the remarks which I overheard that at last they had Nolan and Nelson just where they wanted them; of a certain Goldfield man who had in his custody thousands of dollars to be placed on the colored man at any old price. The significance of these things is now explained. I do not make any charges against Siler but I know that Nelson did not foul Gans. I don't care who says that he did."

One of Nelson's seconds stated tonight that Nelson was dizzy when he was called for the forty-second round, and this may have had something to do with the fouling of Gans.

Nelson was seen tonight but he was in bad shape and would not talk. His left eye was entirely closed and his face badly marked up.

Most of the special trains left Goldfield late tonight for home.

WITH KIND REGARDS TO "CASEY AT THE BAT."

In Franklin Lane, and Darktown, too, the sun is shining bright;
The Coons are laughing loudly and talking 'bout the fight;
They're eating big and drinking deep—Oh, hear the darkies shout!
But there is no joy for white men—Battling Nelson's down and out!

JOE GANS WINS BATTLE IN FORTY-SECOND ROUND

partly wrestled and stalled. Gans sent Nelson back against the referee with a left clip to the jaw. Both men were very weak as the gong rang, Nelson for the first time showing great weariness. It was Gans' round.

Round Thirty-four.

The men wrestled and stalled for an opening, both seeming content to rest up. This continued, neither landing a blow. It was wrestle, stall, wrestle and stall again. Nelson forced Gans to the ropes and received right and left swings on the head. Nelson worked in two short-arm lefts to the stomach and both men wrestled. Gans nearly put Nelson through the ropes. Joe was the fresher of the two as the round ended. Nelson appeared very tired.

Round Thirty-five.

It is the same old story—wrestle, stall and rest, without a blow being struck. Gans finally ripped in a straight left to the jaw and again they rested each other's head against one another's shoulders. Gans put in a right uppercut that lacked force, and they went quickly to a clinch. Both men tottered about the ring, not landing a blow. Nelson, at close quarters, worked two left short-arm blows to the face and the bell closed a very slow and tiresome round.

Round Thirty-six.

Both sparred and then Gans started something with a straight left to the face. Again the wrestling. Nelson missed a forceful uppercut intended for the jaw, and for a brief moment it looked as if the men were going to fight, but such was not the case. Gans cleverly ducked a right swing and then ran into a right hook over the heart. Nelson hooked a left to the stomach and at close quarters got his right lightly to the jaw. Nelson pushed Gans against the ropes and Gans just did step out of the way of a right uppercut.

Round Thirty-seven.

Nelson was again told to stop fighting with his head, Gans vigorously objecting to Referee Siler against his style of scrapping. The men went again to the wrestling style and Nelson swung a left to the jaw, but missed its mark three feet. They leaned up against each other and little attempts to strike a blow were made. Then Gans whipped a powerful left to the wind and they clinched. Both men are very careful. Gans won the crowd by catching Nelson at long range and putting in several straight lefts to the face. Then came the bell and a rest.

Round Thirty-eight.

Nelson rushed in and Gans backed up quickly, trying to keep the Dane at a distance and force him to spar at long range. Gans complained later about Nelson resting on his (Gans) chin and shoulders. Nelson swung a left to the jaw and after a clinch Gans put in two rights to the Dane's face. Both men were leg weary and stalled and clinched as much as they could. It was next to impossible to get the Dane to fight at long range and he realized that his only hope of winning lay in close range fighting, or rather wrestling. Gans likewise seemed perfectly content to rest.

Round Thirty-nine.

Gans jabbed his left twice to the face before Nelson could get to close quarters. Then followed stalling and wrestling, which was broken up by Gans punishing Nelson viciously over the heart with the right. Gans followed this with two straight rights to the face, and again it looked as if the deadlock would be broken. It was only a flash in the pan, however and the men resumed the tiresome stalling, Nelson being the chief offender. Nelson, by way of variety, sent in a hard left to the jaw and Gans came back with two lefts to the jaw. Nelson's left eye is closed entirely now, and he appears to be tiring rapidly.

Round Forty.

They started in at a lively pace, Gans landing his left to the ear. Then they stopped. In a clinch Gans drove a left to the jaw and Nelson retaliated with a left uppercut to the jaw. The men did very little fighting. Gans got Nelson at arm's length and took advantage of this concession by sending his left twice to the Dane's sore head. Gans complains again about Nelson's head and sent Nelson's head back with left uppercut to the jaw.

Round Forty-one.

They came up slowly and clinched. Gans asked Billy Nolan face to face, "What time is it?" They then resumed the clinching contest. Gans got a straight right to the mouth and Nelson rebuked him with two lefts to the stomach. Nelson whipped his left to the face and the men ceased fighting entirely. Suddenly Nelson landed a hard left hook to the jaw and Gans fought him away, landing two lefts to the face and a right to the body. Both men were wrestled about the ring and it was hard to tell which was the more tired of the two as the men went to their corners.

Round Forty-two.

Gans started the round with a straight left to the face and they clinched. As the men broke out from a clinch Nelson deliberately struck Gans low and the colored man slowly sank to the floor. The blow was clearly observed by everyone in the arena and there was not a murmur of dissent from the spectators as the long drawn out battle was terminated. Gans was given the decision on the foul.

BELL 'PHONES WIN.

The Bell 'Phone team had little trouble in defeating the Z. C. M. I. aggregation yesterday afternoon at Walker's field. The game was played instead of the scheduled game with Salt Lake, this being forfeited to the Bells by a score of 9 to 0 by Umpire Ferrin.

The Electrical Line Workers defeated the Sheet Metal and Iron Workers at the Salt Palace yesterday by a score of 11 to 7.

SALISBURY BOYS RETAIN TITLES

In one of the best exhibitions of lawn tennis ever seen on a local court, the Salisbury brothers, Walker and Jimmy, successfully defended their title of intermountain champions yesterday afternoon on the Miller courts. By doing so they defeated R. T. Badger and A. S. Brown, the winners of the intermountain tournament, but not until after this pair proved themselves as one of the most dangerous teams that ever entered a Utah tournament. While too much credit cannot be given the victors for their great victory, the match simmered down to a question of endurance, and at this part of the game the Salisbury boys proved themselves the stronger. Brown and Badger played a hard contest Sunday and were probably not on edge for yesterday's grueling match for this reason.

The first two sets went to the B.-B. combination, and it was in face of these odds that the Salisbury boys pulled themselves together and fought it out to the end, gaining strength as the match proceeded. In the third set the Brown and Badger combination maintained the lead until the fourth game was played.

The game were 1-0, 2-1, 3-2 and 4-3. Then the Salisbury boys took a brace, making it four all winning the next two games and the set. This victory seemed to give them more confidence and they won the next two sets and the match, thereby retaining their titles as intermountain champions.

The scores of the games: 4-6, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4, 6-1.

Women's Doubles Finals.

After the men's doubles were over the finals in the women's doubles were played. The playing was splendid and was a revelation to those who thought men only excelled in this particular line of sport. Miss Lyons and Miss Hutchinson won in two straight sets from Miss Williams and Miss Griffin, the scores being 6-2, 6-4. Usually a final match goes three out of five, but it was decided in the women's tournament to make it two out of three.

Schedule for today, Miller courts:

Miss Lyons vs. Miss Williams, 4:30, for championship Intermountain association ladies' singles.

The finals in the singles between Brown and Jimmy Salisbury will be played at 5 p. m. Wednesday.

CONFESSES TO THEFT.

Frank Chippo, 9 years of age, was arrested yesterday by Police Officer George Moore on the charge of petty larceny. The youth is accused of stealing $17.50 from a room in a boarding house on Second South street near the Rio Grande Western depot. The boy implicates Fred Franz in the theft and told Officer Moore that Franz got him to go into the room while he kept watch outside. They divided the money, according to Chippo's story and spent it for watermelons, candy and soda water.

The police are searching for Franz, but have been unable to find out where he lives. Chippo lives at 147 West South Temple street, where his father keeps a small grocery store.
