ROOSEVELT AT MEMPHIS, TENN.

Enormous Crowds Greeted the President When He Landed From River Steamer.

CONFEDERATES AS ESCORT

ADDRESS BEFORE DEEP WATERWAYS CONVENTION.

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 4.—With bands playing, children singing and enthusiastic men shouting the slogan of deep waterways, Memphis threw wide her gates this afternoon to President Roosevelt, a score of governors and many other distinguished men of the Mississippi valley. The president arrived on the steamer Mississippi shortl yafter 1 o'clock. The boat houses overlooking the river were packed with people who gave the chief executive a warm welcome. As the steamer landed the whistles of all craft in the harbor were sounded. Immediately following the steamer Mississippi was the steamer Alton, carrying visiting governors and other notables. When all had landed the president was conducted to a carriage by Governor Patterson of Tennessee and Major Malone of Memphis, and the most imposing parade ever given here was begun. The president was continuously cheered throughout the march.

Escort of Veterans.

The city was a waving mass of color, not only along the line of parade, but on many other streets as well. When the president's carriage turned into Main street, he was saluted by a regiment of confederate veterans, who from that point acted as a bodyguard. The president arose and warmly greeted the grizzled warriors of a half century ago.

Despite a lively downpour of rain, which lasted until noon, the streets were jammed with people. Passing north on Second street, 2,000 school children were seated on a decorated arch and sang patriotic airs as the president passed. The president arose in his carriage and bowed repeatedly to the little ones.

Arriving at the Auditorium rink, where the deep waterways convention is being held, President Roosevelt alighted and, after chatting with several friends, ascended the platform. The huge structure filled up rapidly, and when Governor Patterson arose to present the president an immense assemblage greeted him.

Roosevelt's Address.

President Roosevelt departed from his printed speech in several instances. Speaking of the confederate guard of honor, he said it was a touching sight to see these old confederate soldiers carrying the flag of this great Union. If anyone wanted to know how they would fight for that flag, let them ask the boys in blue how they fought against it. He said with emphasis that he was as much the president of the south as of the north, and was devoted to its interests. He said he was half a southerner, and when he told of two or three of his uncles having worn the gray he was greatly applauded.

Speaking of a deep water channel from the gulf to the lakes, the president said he favored rapid improvement of the Mississippi river.

Deep Water Problem.

"Like Davy Crockett, the great Tennesseean," he said, "I favor his motto: 'Be sure you are right, then go ahead,' and this deep water problem is almost up to the 'go ahead' stage, but we want to be sure about it."

When the Panama canal has been completed, he said, this nation would not ask other governments to "kindly not bother the canal." We would protect it.

"We must have a larger and highly efficient navy to patrol our coasts, not only on the Atlantic, but on the Pacific," he said. He urged the people to disregard party lines in all purely national matters.

In conclusion, with his discussion of the corporations, the president said his experience in the past few years had brought him to the point of feeling sincere sympathy for certain gentlemen who were cast into a frenzy by the most common-sense remarks. It has come to the point where a remark of his that honesty was the best policy is liable to lead to a run on the banks. He did not want to punish anyone except for wrongdoing, but he would punish the wrongdoer who is poor as freely as the one who is rich.

Harriman Again.

"I will use my utmost power to stamp out murderous and lawless anarchism," he declared, "and I will no more stay my hand because a wrongdoer masquerades as a labor leader than if he masquerades as a captain of industry. I have heretofore expressed myself on the subject of undesirable citizens, and I stand by what I said, alike when he is a great capitalist who wins a fortune by chicanery and wrongdoing, and when he is a man who under the guise of standing up for labor preaches and encourages violence and murder."

When the president closed his address he was driven rapidly to his train at the Missouri Pacific railroad station and departed at 5 o'clock for Lake Providence, La., for a hunting trip.

NOW FOR THE HUNT.

President Out of Speech-Making Business for a Few Days.

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 4.—President Roosevelt's special train, which leaves Memphis early tonight, will be run over the line of the Missouri Pacific-Iron Mountain railroad system. The train, consisting of three coaches, which was used by the president on his trip from Washington to Keokuk, reached Memphis this morning via St. Louis. Attached to it will be the private cars of Vice President Clarke and General Manager Sullivan of the Iron Mountain road. All arrangements connected with the trip are in charge of Passenger Traffic Manager C. L. Stone.

The train will be run direct to Lake Providence, where a short stop will be made at 10 o'clock Saturday. The train then will be run to Alsatia, La., a small way station, where the cars will be sidetracked. Here horses and guides will be awaiting the visitors and the trip to the camp will be begun upon arrival.

Besides several railway officials, only a few friends will accompany the president on this trip. Among these will be his host, John McIlhinney, and Representative Joe Ransdell of Louisiana. A pilot engine will precede the presidential train over the entire route.

Convention Probable.

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 4.—The announcement was made today on the steamer Alton, carrying the governors of the different states on their way to the Memphis waterways convention, that President Roosevelt will probably issue soon a call for a convention to be held in Washington, Jan. 3, to advocate the preservation and conservation of the natural resources of the country, including coal, oil, waterpower, etc.

Yucaipa valley supplies a large part of southern California with apples.

LICENSE TO BE REVOKED

Master of the Steamer Fred Hartweg Incurs Displeasure of President Roosevelt.

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 4.—United States Inspector of Hulls Williams, for the local port, this afternoon received a telegram signed by President Roosevelt, directing that the license for the steamer Fred Hartweg, carrying the Pittsburg delegation in the present river trip, be immediately suspended. The telegram follows:

"Memphis, Oct. 4, on Board U. S. S. Mississippi.—Supervising Inspector of Vessels, Evansville, Ind.: I direct that the license of the master, or whoever is responsible for the Fred Hartweg during the present voyage, be suspended at once for ninety days. I wish this done by telegraph wherever it may be, if such procedure is possible. Colonel Sears can give you the details of the misconduct, which has been of serious nature, and might have at any time caused an accident to this boat as well as to other boats.

(Signed) "THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

The steamer Fred Hartweg's home port is Cairo, and it is inspected at Evansville.

MAY ORGANIZE A BATTERY

Captain W. C. Webb Is Planning to Form Company of Light Artillery for the National Guard.

Plans for the organization of a battery of light artillery to be attached to the First regiment of infantry, National Guard of Utah, are being urged. Captain W. C. Webb, adjutant of the First regiment and military director of the High school cadets, is taking an active interest in the project and will be captain of the battery if it is organized. Alex. Thomas and Max Brown are talked of for first lieutenants and Fred Smith for second lieutenant.

If the plan of Captain Webb is carried out an association will be incorporated by the members of the battery and horses purchased to be used in drills and at other times be rented out for other purposes. An effort will be made to bring the battery strength up to 133 men, the regular army complement.

All of the old battery with the exception of ten men in charge of the government equipment, have been mustered out. Internal dissension caused the disruption of the battery and the organization was in a poor condition at the time of the last official inspection.

Captain Webb was a member of the famous Utah battery that won honors in the Philippines and he will endeavor to enlist in the organization to be formed as many veteran artillerymen as possible. Adjutant General Wedgwood was captain of the Utah battery at the time of the war with Spain and he is encouraging the present project.

HADLEY GOES AFTER MISSOURI PACIFIC

Jefferson City, Mo., Oct. 4.—Attorney General Hadley today filed in the supreme court a return in the quo warranto proceedings against the Missouri Pacific railroad and the Western Coal & Mining company, the Rich Hill Coal Mining company and the Kansas-Missouri Elevator company of Kansas City, in which he alleges the railroad's ownership of the other companies named was not simply for the purpose of supplying itself with fuel, but to engage in the business of selling coal to the general public, in violation of the law, and the tenor of the railroad's charter. The case has been set for hearing before the supreme court en banc October 23.

STRIKE-BREAKER REMOVED.

Federal Government Prevents Its Employe From Working for W. U.

The federal government aided the striking telegraphers yesterday by removing a strikebreaker employed at local Western Union office. Loring Houghton, a railway mail clerk, has been working for the Western Union as an operator during the time that he was not on the road. The officers of the local telegraphers' union notified the postal department at Washington and yesterday Mr. Houghton was officially notified by the government that he must not accept employment outside of the postal department. This means that he will have to resign his position or quit the telegraph job.
