LAWYERS AWAIT REVISED CODE

Publishing Company Not Living Up to Contract and Work Is Lagging.

EXTRAS BEING ALLOWED

BOOK WILL NOT BE OUT BEFORE APRIL 1.

Considerable comment of an unfavorable nature has been caused among the legal profession of the state because of the inability of the commission appointed by the governor to revise the Utah statutes, to complete its work on time. The bill passed by the last legislature authorizing the revision and appropriating $7,000 for the expenses of the commission, contemplated the completion of the work by Jan. 1, and limited the salary of the commissioners, James T. Hammond and Grant H. Smith, to that date. It seems now that the work will not be entirely completed before April 1 at the earliest, and at that time there will not be more than 1,000 volumes ready for distribution. It is also intimated that the commission will apply to the next legislature for overtime pay.

The contract for printing the book was awarded to the Skelton Publishing company, its bid being $3.54 for each page. There will be approximately 1,600 pages in the new book, which will insure the company a compensation of $5,664.

1,000 Copies by Jan. 1.

The contract provides that 4,000 copies shall be printed, and that 1,000 copies shall be bound and delivered before Jan. 1, 1908; 1,000 to be bound and delivered before Feb. 1, 1908; 1,000 to be bound and delivered before March 1, 1908, and 1,000 unbound copies to be delivered before April 1, 1908. From the present rate of progress the first 1,000 copies will not be delivered much before April 1, and nobody knows when the remainder will be done.

The principal object in having the work done on time was to allow attorneys, judges and others interested in legal matters to have for at least a year a complete compilation of the state laws. But under the existing conditions it seems that the revised statutes will hardly be out before the 1909 legislature meets and amends the laws again, thus detracting considerably from the value of the revision.

The contract provides, among other things, for delay in completing the work. On that point it says:

Penalty for Delays.

"For delay in completing the work after the expiration of the time within which said work is to be completed, the contractor shall forfeit to the state the sum of $25 a day for the first fifteen days, and the sum of $50 for each and every day's delay after fifteen days, such amount to be deducted from the price to be agreed to be paid; provided, that the contractor shall not be held liable for such damages for any day or days the said work may be delayed on account of the failure or neglect of the compilation commission."

Now, according to the members of the compilation commission, at the most there has been a delay of one month on their part, which would extend the contractor's time to Feb. 1.

Up to date the Skelton company has received $1,945.58 for printing the first 916 pages of the statutes. This is 60 per cent of the price agreed upon, $3.54 a page. In addition, however, there has been paid $562.66 for 569 hours and forty minutes extra work, bringing the total up to $2,508.24. This extra work is for changes in copy and change in style. The commission in explaining the bill to the state board of examiners say that a charge of $1 an hour only allows a fair profit.

Up to date on 608 pages of the 916 pages finished, there has been paid $569.66 in extras, which, according to a strict construction of the contract, should never have been allowed. This means about $1,500 for extras before the work is done.

An examination of the other expenses incurred by the commission shows that to date it has expended $1,520 in clerk hire. The act creating it says that not more than $5 a day "in the aggregate" shall be expended for that purpose. The commission went into office Feb. 15, 1907. The first clerk hire began May 5, showing that before that date the members of the commission did but little work, as without the assistance of clerical help the task would have been impossible. The commission members were not to draw pay after Jan. 1, and this they have not attempted to do, but the clerks have been drawing a regular salary since that time. On a most liberal construction the clerk hire appropriation has been exhausted, but there is no promise of a let-up in this expense until the statutes are finished.

Hammonds Draw Well.

The Hammond family has reaped a rich harvest from the work. J. T. Hammond of the commission drew $200 a month from Feb. 15 to the beginning of the year, and his son, J. T. Hammond, jr., has drawn at the rate of $100 a month while working. His total stipend has been $670 to date.

The state board of examiners has been regularly asked to pass bills for the commission, and it has regularly done so without hesitancy. The money has been paid out, however, without results as yet.

Grant H. Smith's Statement.

"The principal delay in the work has been caused by the printers," said Grant H. Smith, a member of the commission, last evening. "The Skelton company did not realize the task it had before it when it undertook to do the work, and that has caused most of the trouble. Another thing was that the concern did not understand the infinite detail in a work of this character, and the many corrections that have been necessary in order to make it perfect. There has been doubtless some little delay occasioned by the commission in making changes in the copy, but this has amounted to comparatively nothing as compared to the delay in the whole work. In regard to the penalty, that is up to the board of examiners, and the commission has nothing to say concerning it. If it is to be enforced the board of examiners must do it. I should say that the extras charged by Skelton are allowable under the terms of the contract, because of the many changes made in the copy and matter after it had been set up, which the contractor could not have foreseen. I hope that the first copies of the statutes will be out by the middle of March, but they may not be out until April 1."

LANDS CANNOT BE SECURED

Department Corrects Erroneous Impression Concerning Tracts in Oregon and Washington.

The register and receiver of the local land office have received a letter from R. A. Ballinger, commissioner, to the effect that railroad lands in Oregon and California are for sale, in spite of numerous advertisements to the contrary. The letter reads:

"There has been industriously circulated by way of newspaper advertisements and otherwise, over the name of F. P. Rolfe, statements to the effect that Congressman Tawney, after a conference with the commissioner of the general land office, advised his son that persons filing on the Oregon and California railroad lands would, without doubt, be able to secure the lands. These advertisements are untrue and misleading. The tendency of such advertisements is to impose on innocent and unsuspecting persons. You will please give as wide publicity as possible to the statements above set forth."

It is said that the railroads are refusing to sell any of the lands remaining in their grants.

Because of the Christmas holidays and the enforced idleness during the week following, when the schools were closed because of the contagious disease epidemic, the teachers have received nothing for five weeks. In addition, they will receive pay for Christmas and New Year's day. The payroll will approximate $20,000.

STREET CAR HITS DELIVERY WAGON

Two Persons Injured in Crash at Sixth East and Second South.

TROLLEY POLE LEVELED

BOTH CAR AND VEHICLE DAMAGED BY COLLISION.

Two persons were injured yesterday afternoon when a Second South street car smashed into a Keith-O'Brien furniture wagon at Sixth East and Second South streets. The injured are:

George Smith, the driver, of 25 South Fifth West street; right leg injured and bruises upon the body.

Willis Hardy, wagon boy, of 617 South Sixth East street; contusion of head and bruises.

The furniture wagon was going north on Sixth East street. It is claimed that the street car was going west on Second South street and struck the wagon as it was crossing the car tracks. The horses had cleared the tracks and the car struck near the center of the wagon, badly damaging it. Smith was thrown from his seat. Hardy, who was inside the wagon, was thrown against the side of the vehicle and was unconscious when taken out.

Dr. Samuel G. Paul, the police surgeon, attended the injured men at the emergency hospital. Both were later sent to their homes.

The force of the collision drove the furniture wagon against a trolley pole in the center of the street, knocking it down. The street car, like the wagon, was damaged.

The car was No. 325, and was in charge of O. R. Brake, conductor, and Thomas Connory, motorman.

The street car men explained that an eastbound Second South car passed the corner of Sixth East street just before the accident. They say that the driver of the furniture wagon attempted to cross the tracks behind the eastbound car, without noticing that No. 325 was coming from the east. They claim that they expected the wagon to wait until both the cars had passed.

JOHN KOOYMAN TESTIFIES

Thinks He Can Handle Children Better Than Wife and Frequent Fights Result.

John Kooyman, the parent of them all—that is the Kooyman family—was the star attraction at yesterday morning's session of the juvenile court. John was before the court in order to ascertain whether he was a proper person to have charge of the four minor children who have been a source of annoyance to the police as well as their elders have been for the past six months.

"Can you control your children?" asked Assistant County Attorney Carlson.

"Sure I can, if I know where they are," was John's response.

"Don't you and your wife have frequent fights," asked the attorney.

"Well, yes. You see, I think I can handle the children better than my wife can, being better educated and knowing how better, but she don't just exactly see things that way and we have trouble."

"Don't you frequently hurl pots, kettles and pans at each other?"

"Well, of course little things like that happen some time, but it really don't amount to much."

"Do you fight often?"

"Well, I want to say that I don't know how much often is. Will you please tell me?"

The examination was of this character during the entire morning. Kooyman would go into a long detail as to his family regulations, and the conduct of his children and neither his attorney, James Smith, nor the attorney for the county could stop him. He insisted on explaining everything in his own way and his flow of speech could not be curbed.

Judge Gowans set next Saturday morning for the examination of the other members of the family.

BAKER AND BOWEN IN COUR

Alleged Assailants of Green Are Given Time to Plead.

Richard Baker and Arthur Bowen, who held up and robbed Ed Green, a junk dealer, the night of Dec. 19, in the western section of the city, were arraigned before Judge Armstrong yesterday on the charge of highway robbery.

Baker and Bowen are said to have lured Green to a lonely spot, where they claimed they had concealed some junk, and there attacked him. He was found in an unconscious condition, with his skull fractured in five places, and the physicians who attended him say that it was a miracle that he lived.

Both Baker and Brown asked for time in which to enter pleas, and they were given until Jan. 30.

It appearing that Bowen is under 21 years of age, Carl A. Badger, who was appointed to defend him, was also appointed his guardian ad litem.

NEXT FAIR WILL BE OCT. 6-11

Directors of Association Discuss How to Make It Better Than Ever.

PREMIUMS TO BE LARGER

RECEIPTS LAST FALL NEARLY $4,000 MORE THAN EXPENSES.

At the annual meeting of the directors of the Utah State Fair association last evening the annual report of the secretary on the receipts and disbursements at the last fair was presented. It showed that the receipts at the last fair were $26,047.10 from general admission, grand stand, entrance fees, and the sale of pools, concessions and advertising. The disbursements were $22,090.80, leaving a balance of $3,956.30.

The dates of the next fair will be from Oct. 6 to 11. If the present plans of the management are carried out the fair will doubtless surpass all others ever held in the state and the attendance will be even greater than last year. The board appropriated $6,000 to be given in purses for the horse races next fall. This is the largest amount ever given in prizes at any race meet in the state and it will insure some fast races.

The Percheron society of America in a communication requested permission to offer as special premiums for the best Percheron horses exhibited next fall, eight gold medals, eight special blue ribbons and a $100 silver cup. The Short Horn Breeders' association asked permission to give $300 in prizes for the best Short Horn cattle. In both cases the permission was granted.

The directors decided to make arrangements at once for the improvement of the grounds, the enlarging of the grand stand, increasing the number of entrances to the grounds and other material improvements. The next meeting will be on Feb. 10, at which the supervisors of the different departments of the fair will be present. Changes and suggestions with reference to rules and premiums will be discussed.

EDLER CAN'T CHANGE IT

Judge Ritchie Holds Reduction in Salary Constitutional—Means Increases Also Are Valid.

A. B. Edler yesterday had his hope of securing a return of his old salary badly punctured by Judge Ritchie of the district court.

Edler is the reporter of decisions of the supreme court. When the last legislature met he thought that he ought to have more than $800 a year, and applied for an increase to $1,000. His salary was cut to $600 as a result of his plea before the senate committee on appropriations.

Then he sought to have the law decreasing his salary declared unconstitutional, and began an action in the district court for a writ of mandamus to compel J. A. Edwards, state auditor, to pay him according to the old scale.

Judge Ritchie decided this suit against him yesterday and, incidentally, relieved the minds of a lot of other officeholders who had their salaries raised by the same bill which cut Edler down $200. Among these was Adjutant General E. A. Wedgwood of the national guard.

If the court had sustained Edler's contentions he would have been the only gainer, and a lot of job holders would have been deprived of extra stipends awarded by the last legislature.

An appeal to the supreme court is not considered likely.

WIFE KICKED AND BEATEN

Maude E. Perkins Seeks Divorce From Howard Perkins on Ground of Extreme Cruelty.

Alleging that her husband had been extremely cruel to her, Maude E. Perkins yesterday petitioned the district court for a divorce from Howard Perkins.

On Sept. 15, 1907, she says her husband beat her until her body was black and blue and that on many other occasions between April 7, 1907 and Dec. 31 of the same year he kicked and beat her and often threatened to drive her from their domicile.

They were married at Pocatello, Ida., Nov. 28, 1905, and there is one child, 18 months old, in the custody of the mother. Since April 1, 1907, she claims that Howard has failed to support her.

The wife asks that the husband be compelled to pay her $75 for attorney's fees and such alimony as the court may deem just and proper. She also requests that Perkins be restrained from interfering with her in any manner and that she be given the custody of the child.

DIRECT UPON STOMACH.

Possibility of Administering Local Treatment to That Organ.

After a series of experiments covering a period of many years, a well known specialist in stomach disorders discovered that to administer local treatment to the stomach was a possibility.

As a result of his study of the diseases of digestion and nutrition, he prepared a prescription called Mi-o-na stomach tablets that act directly upon the stomach and bowels, increasing their strength and power to digest whatever food is eaten.

Headaches, giddiness, palpitations, heartburn, sleeplessness, flatulence, bad taste in the mouth, irritability, drowsiness, coated tongue and full feeling after eating are results of indigestion and cured by Mi-o-na.

BID FAREWELL TO CASHIERS' CHECKS

Issue of Salt Lake Banks Has Practically Disappeared From Circulation.

CONDITIONS AGAIN NORMAL

MONEY PROBLEM HAS BEEN SOLVED, SAYS MR. M'CORNICK.

The cashier's check in Salt Lake is now practically obsolete. For the last two weeks the Salt Lake banks have been quietly retiring the paper that they had issued during the height of the recent panicky condition. As a result there are now only a few thousand dollars of the checks still in circulation. The banks are now on a cash basis and as fast as the cashiers' checks appear at the banks they are retired. It is hoped that within a fortnight the securities deposited with the clearing house association can be withdrawn and the entire issue of the cashiers' checks retired.

The banks raised the $100 limit last week and depositors are now free to withdraw any or all of their money. Most of the savings banks are now waiving the ten and thirty-day notices which were required at one time before a depositor could withdraw his savings. The reason for the improvement in the financial conditions is the fact that in New York the banks are ready to return the reserves of local and other western banks which were held during the stringency.

Issued in November.

Cashiers' checks were deemed necessary early last November and in Salt Lake an issue of $200,000 was made on Nov. 9 by the clearing association. Of this amount approximately $140,000 went into circulation. Much of it came back to the banks with the first deposits. Less and less of the cashiers' checks and more of the real money were given out each week until two weeks ago, when no more were put out to the public.

As a security for the issue of the checks the banks issuing the checks deposited collateral of double the amount of the issue with the executive committee of the clearing association. This will be returned to the banks as soon as the issue is retired.

W. S. McCornick said yesterday with reference to the local financial conditions:

"The turning point has been reached and we are once more on the upward grade. The return to normal conditions has been exceedingly slow, but as far as the money problem is concerned it has been solved for a time at least. In New York money is very low, while in Salt Lake the demand for ready money still keeps the price up.

"The volume of business for Utah, naturally shows a great falling off. The closing down of the mines and smelters and the low price of metals have united in hurting the business of the state and it will probably be months before the business recovers from the setback it has received."

WILL ENFORCE THE CURFEW

Juvenile Court Authorities Determined to Keep Youngsters Off the Streets at Night.

The juvenile court is determined to enforce the curfew ordinance. Every evening two of the probation officers will make a tour of the down-town district, visiting theatres and places of amusement in order to ascertain if they are frequented by children after 9 o'clock in the evening.

When Roderick McKenzie was named chief of police he started in to enforce the ordinance. The police department under Tom Pitt has paid little or no attention to children disobeying the curfew ordinance.

As a result many complaints have been received by the juvenile court and it has been determined to make another determined effort to see that the law is obyed.

The officers will apprehend all children without escorts on the streets and send them home, at the same time notifying parents of the fact. It is believed that in this manner the streets can be again cleared of youngsters by 9 o'clock and that the crimes among youths will be decreased.

AUSTRIANS ARE ENRAGED.

Find No Work at Milner and Are Compelled to Walk Back.

With wrath in their eyes, a party of Austrians, who returned yesterday morning from Milner, Ida., hurried to the office of George B. Smyth, jr., a Commercial street employment agent, to demand the return of money which, they alleged, he had secured from them by falsely representing that he could find work for them at Milner. They were not able to find Smyth. He had not been at his office for many days, and no one seemed to know where he had gone.

The Austrians claimed that they had paid Smyth $8 each to send them to Milner. That sum represented nearly all the money some of them had. There was no work for them in Milner. They claimed that they suffered great hardship in making their way back to Salt Lake.

The matter was not reported to the police.

COACH IS A VITAL FACTOR

He Determines Standard of College Athletics, Declares Dean Briggs in Addressing Students.

Le Baron Russell Briggs, dean of the faculty of Harvard college, addressed the students of the university yesterday morning. His address was full of college spirit. His subject was "Athletics and College Loyalty," and his views were in sympathy with the views of the students, as he was constantly interrupted by bursts of applause.

President J. T. Kingsbury introduced Dean Briggs after the Glee club had sung a number of Harvard songs.

"College loyalty," said Dean Briggs, "is often ancestral and ofttimes traditional, being fostered in the students at the preparatory school, but as a rule it begins with the freshmen year in college and is inspired by the songs and the mass meetings. It is a grand thing and one of the best features of a college education. Football as played today is not a mere game of strength and skill, but it is the supreme expression of college loyalty.

"In football, ethical questions are perplexing. The coach is the element in football which needs the closest scrutiny of today. No teacher can do what the coach can in maintaining among the students a clean life. He works in a field that they love and his influence is among thousands. If a coach teaches a clean game the standard of his college is thus raised. What we need is larger men in this larger field. There is no competitive sport that does not throw a searchlight on the competitors. The whole force of athletics and its social success comes from the coaches.

"There is a need of a purification in college athletics and the purification of athletics and not their abolition is a work for broad-minded men."
