UTAH BANK CASE SET FOR TRIAL

Indictment Against A. W. Nelson to Be Aired Dec. 7—Supreme Court Calendar.

Cases to be heard in the November term of the federal court were set Monday morning. The most important case set for the term was that of the United States against A. W. Nelson, which will air the famous Utah National bank robbery in open court. The trial was set for Dec. 7. At the time of his indictment Mr. Nelson was cashier of the bank at West Jordan. He will be represented at his trial by A. B. Irvine.

Another case which will be heard during the fall term is that of Eben J. Gregory, charged with "coin sweating" and having a counterfeiting outfit in his possession. This case has been set for Nov. 16. Gregory was arrested on East First South street last spring by secret service men, who had been watching him for several weeks. His home was later searched by the government officers and a complete chemical outfit for taking gold from the coins was found in the attic. A counterfeiting outfit was also found.

The cases against Albert Swain, Shirley D. Parker and Grace Fuller, charged with purchasing supplies and clothing from United States soldiers, was set for Wednesday, Nov. 11.

The other cases on the calendar consist in greater part of damage suits against railroads and mining companies. The calendar is as follows:

Monday, Nov. 9—1180, U. S. vs. Jack Lacey.
Tuesday, Nov. 10—1179, U. S. vs. P. & P. Poules.

Saturday, Jan. 16—952, John Hilli vs. Daly-Judge.

BATTLESHIPS ENTER PORT

Alabama at New York and Maine at Portsmouth, N. H., After Trip Around the World.

New York, Oct. 19.—Through a dull brown curtain of haze and smoke which overhung the tortuous entrance to New York harbor this afternoon, the battleship Alabama crept cautiously into port and dropped anchor off Thompkinsville, completing a voyage around the world in 309 days. More than 35,000 miles of all the seas of all the world lay behind her.

Except in one particular the Alabama finished her trip as fit for a fight as when she sailed from Hampton Roads on Dec. 15 last, as one of the great fleet which went forth on a mission of peace. Constant steaming has put the boilers of the great ship to a severe test and repairs are necessary.

In a few days the Alabama will go into the navy yard at Brooklyn to undergo an overhauling.

Portsmouth, N. H., Oct. 19.—The battleship Maine, after making a circuit of the globe, arrived off Portsmouth harbor at 7 a. m. today, under a convoy of three tugs which had waited outside to meet her. A thick bank of fog delayed the arrival somewhat, but the Maine was successfully docked at 8:15 a. m. As she swung around Henderson's point under her own steam her guns boomed out a salute of thirteen guns, which was immediately followed by a commander's salute of seven guns by the navy yards battery. As the big battleship was warped into the dock the jackies on board and those stationed in the yards gave prolonged cheers.

POLICE COURT GLIMPSES

Annie Fairchilds entertained at an "at home" in the police court yesterday. Annie has occupied the bench in the court room so many times now that her very appearance gives a familiar air. This time Annie was up for not only indulging too freely in the "red-stuff," but also for hurling a rock through the window of the Lone Star saloon.

Prosecutor Rogers suggested to the court that a light sentence did not seem to make any impression on Annie, and that it was about time she received a substantial lesson. She got fifteen days and $15.

Owing to the slight illness of Judge Diehl, Judge Whitaker yesterday presided over the municipal court.

"Stung!" was the muttered expression from "Bill" Bailey, a healthy, able-bodied man, as he turned away from the judge yesterday after receiving a sentence of twenty-five day and $25. Bailey, although he gives every appearance of being able to work at almost any task, chose to make his living by working the charitably inclined. He was taken in Saturday night after he had been caught begging in the downtown district. Probably expecting a "floater," Bailey put in a ready plea of guilty to the charge against him, but was staggered when he received his sentence.

"Sixty dollars and sixty days."

With these words ringing in his ears, Johnson Deane, colored, was led back to the jail cell yesterday from the court room. The sixty days will give him ample time to reflect on his own alleged weakness—that of having "bad spells," during which he does not know what he is doing—and the $60 will help to impress upon him that he had better cure the same weakness.

Deane was charged with improper conduct, his actions late Saturday afternoon in a residential neighborhood having caused terror among women and children. That Deane is no stranger to the court room was evidenced in his ready and glib, yet at the same time, contradictory manner.

When the complaint was ready to him he pleaded guilty, and in the same breath went on to tell the court that he did not know what he had been doing Saturday; that he had been drinking and that he was subject to bad spells, during which his actions were those of an irresponsible.

"If you'll let me go this time, judge," he pleaded, "I'll promise to leave town tonight, and I'll never bother you again."

"I think," Judge Whitaker replied, "that this case is of too serious a nature to be passed over. You will be sentenced to pay a fine of $60 and serve sixty days in the city jail."

Uncle Sam's army blue intermingled with the shabby colors of the prisoner's bench in the city court room yesterday, two soldiers appearing before the court. Thomas B. McConnell readily admitted that he had been drunk, and was as promptly discharged. Richard Ryan, who is accused of having broken a window in a Commercial street resort, however, pleaded not guilty, and asked for a trial. Prosecutor Rogers stated that he would be ready today, but the defendant asked for further time, informing the court that for the remainder of the week he would be on extra duty at the garrison. Mr. Rogers suggested to the court that he could obtain permission for Bryan to be present at the court today, but to this Ryan objected, pleading with the court that he did not wish his commanding officer to know of the trouble. Judge Whitaker gave the prisoner the benefit of the doubt and the case was set for a week from Wednesday, Ryan being released on his own recognizance.

Bertha Lemhart, an aged woman, and evidently the victim of the neighborhood row, pleaded not guilty to a charge of having used abusive language. The state was not ready to proceed with the trial and the hearing was fixed for today at 2 o'clock.

Hugh McCarry made a bad blunder Saturday night, and his mistake is costing him the alternative of $25 or twenty-five days in jail. McCarry was broke and wanted some money. The inspiration came to him that the easiest means of getting it was to "tap" some passerby—and it was that inspiration that led to his present predicament. At the time he happened to be in the vicinity of the police station, and, seizing on the inspiration, the first person he tackled happened to be a plain clothes man. As McCarry had no very good excuse to offer, he was given the choice of the "25."

After an admonition by the court John D. Gibbs, the young man who undertook to and succeeded in rescuing a small boy from A. A. Peterson, janitor of the Lowell school, was dismissed yesterday from the charge of battery by Judge Whitaker.

The court incident was due to Gibbs' readiness to help a small boy.

Gibbs' story was to the effect that as he had passed the school building he found Peterson holding the boy, who was a cripple, and shaking and jamming him up against the fence. The boy told him that another lad, a schoolboy, had taken his cane, used as a crutch, away from him, and that he had thrown a rock at him.

In discharging the defendant the court stated that, while the defendant had erred in his judgment, and should not have attacked the janitor, who, in a manner, had police powers, yet there was no evidence of evil intent, and for that reason the dismissal was made.

Owing to the non-appearance of one of the most important witnesses, a man by the name of Crabtree, the case of Foster Jones, charged with battery, was continued until today. A bench warrant was issued for Crabtree.

This case in which Oliver McManus, colored, is the complaining witness, is the aftermath of the recent affair at the Fair grounds, in which a white man was stabbed in the jaw and McManus narrowly escaped lynching after being maltreated by a mob.

DIRECT NEGOTIATIONS.

Austria and Bulgaria May Arrange Matters With Turkey.

London, Oct. 19.—The latest phase of the Balkan difficulty points to the possibility of the most serious issues being settled by direct negotiations before the purposed international conference meets, leaving to the conference the work merely of ratifying and legalizing the arrangements already made.

Confirmation is had from Vienna of the statement that negotiations have been opened between Turkey and Austria concerning Bosnia and Herzegovina, with fair prospects of success, while Constantinople dispatches are more hopeful that Turkey and Bulgaria will reach an understanding on the Oriental railway and Rumelian tribute questions. The Bulgarian charge d'affaires today informed Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, that his government authorized him to give most positive assurances that Bulgaria would take every possible step to agree with Turkey.

GIRL DRAWS FIRST PRIZE

Miss May A. Melser of Kennebec, S. D., Gets Choice of Farms in Tripp County.

Dallas, S. D., Oct. 19.—The winner of the first number in the Tripp county opening was Miss May A. Melser of Kennebec, S. D. She is 32 years of age. She lives with her parents on a farm about four miles from town. Her application was mailed from Presho, S. D., and her affidavit was sworn to before a notary at Presho. Kennebec, S. D., is a new town of 300 inhabitants and is thirty miles west of Chamberlain.

The next names drawn were:

Peter Swift of Ponca, Neb., second, and E. Hannen of Meadow Grove, Neb., third.

The opening of the heavy iron cans was quickly done.

After Thomas W. Cale had finished speaking, the little girls, Delia Rose and Virginia Wagner, was introduced by Judge Witten. They were heartily cheered.

Just two minutes after the cans were opened and thoroughly stirred, Delia Rose was carried to the front of the platform by Judge Witten and told to walk anywhere she pleased and pick up an envelope from behind her back. The little miss, who is only 4 years old, was frightened and about ready to cry. She walked to the middle of the pile of envelopes and reached down and picked up the winning envelope.

BULLET IN BRAIN.

Pittsburg Man Fires Shot Which Will Prove Fatal.

San Rafael, Cal., Oct. 19.—O. M. Hartzell of Pittsburg, father of L. M. Hartzell of that city, attempted to end his life here today by firing a pistol bullet into his brain. He cannot live many hours. Hartzell, who has been here since last July, has stated that he was connected with the Carnegie Steel company of Pittsburg, and has shown great familiarity with the affairs of that concern. No cause is assigned for his attempt on his life, other than that grief over the death of his wife, which occurred some time ago, may have unbalanced his mind. His attempt was carefully planned, as he ordered the manager of the hotel at which he was staying to come to his room, and the manager on his entrance discovered Hartzell in a chair with a bullet hole in his head, the revolver lying on a bureau at his side.

TAKEN UNDER ADVISEMENT.

Pittsburg, Oct. 19.—After hearing motions and arguments today in the proceedings having for their ostensible object of bringing here Harry Thaw, slayer of Stanford White, to testify in the voluntary bankruptcy petition filed several months ago by Judge Young of the United States district court late today reserved until 1 o'clock tomorrow his decision in the points raised in today's proceedings. These are, first, whether Judge Young shall accept jurisdiction or whether the matters must be presented to Judge Archbald of Scranton, Pa., by whom the writ of habeas corpus ad testificandum was issued, Judge Young having been in Europe on vacation when the application was made; and, second, whether Thaw shall be brought here to testify in the bankruptcy proceedings.

SOME DATES OF IMPORTANCE TO ALL CONTEST CANDIDATES

OCTOBER 24.

Until this date 500 votes will be given candidates for each new subscription secured.

Candidates in The Herald's Great Popular Election and their friends are hustling with might and main to secure as many subscriptions as possible this week in order to take advantage of the extra vote offer which expires on Oct. 24. Under the terms of this offer every candidate will be entitled to 500 votes, in addition to the regular schedule, for securing new subscribers. For instance, a subscription for one year is entitled to 1,900 votes, and 500 additional votes if it is a new one, making a total of 2,400 votes. This is quite an increase over last week's schedule, and every live candidate in the contest is devoting his or her entire time this week to securing votes from new patrons.

Many candidates have expressed surprise at the ease with which they are able to secure votes from people who have taken some other newspaper. The Herald is recognized as a clean, bright, up-to-date metropolitan newspaper. It compares favorably with papers in some of the largest cities in the country, and no one is sorry when they give their favorite candidate votes through a subscription to The Herald.

You who have been planning to assist your favorite candidate with votes, the time to do it is during the present week, in order that the candidate may receive the benefit of the 500 extra votes for a new subscription. Do not wait for a candidate to call on you. Send your check today, as by so doing you will greatly assist a candidate who is trying to see all of his or her friends in a short time.

OCTOBER 31.

Decrease in the number of votes given for subscriptions and classified ad coupon books after above date.

Oct. 31 is one of the most important dates in The Herald's Great Contest. From now until that day more votes will be given than during the closing weeks of the contest, and it will therefore pay every candidate to turn in as many subscriptions and classified ad votes as possible before the night of Oct. 31.

Interest in this big election is great at the present time, as indicated by Sunday's publication of votes. Several of the candidates are reserving some of their votes to turn in later, and the contest bids fair to become exciting after the close of this voting period.

Excellent opportunities exist in almost every district in the contest for new candidates to enter and win valuable prizes. In fact, there will not be a time during the contest until the last vote is cast that it will not be possible for a new man or woman to enter and, with the votes of his or her friends, capture a prize of value.

All that is necessary in order to enter the contest is to send your name and address to the Contest Editor at The Herald office. You secure votes by getting your friends to subscribe for the paper or by selling them one or more classified ad coupon books. Those who secure the most votes according to the conditions of the contest will win the prizes. It is the opportunity of a lifetime for every hustling man or woman in this section. The Contest Editor will be glad to supply information about the contest if you will call, telephone or write him.

NOVEMBER 1.

Four costly special prizes, headed by a $375.00 Sterling Piano, to be awarded then.

On Nov. 1 four magnificent and costly special prizes will be awarded to four candidates in The Herald's Big Election—two to men and two to women. The first special prize is a $375 Sterling Piano, which is on exhibition at Walter J. Poulton's Piano company, from which it was purchased. A handsome leather lounge, library davenport-bed constitutes the second special prize. The third prize is a large leather arm rocker, valued at $125, and another library leather rocker, valued at $50, is the fourth prize. These furniture prizes were purchased at the Store Beautiful (Greenewald's), where candidates should call and inspect them.

The above prizes will be awarded to the four candidates, one man and one woman in Salt Lake City, and one man and one woman outside of Salt Lake City, who makes the largest increase in their votes between Oct. 15 and Oct. 31, inclusive. No votes received before Oct. 15 will be counted for these prizes. Votes received to count for the special prizes will also count for the capital and grand prizes to be awarded at the close of the contest.

Of the four candidates eligible under the above conditions to win these prizes, the one having the highest increase in votes will win the first prize. The candidates having second highest increase in votes will receive second prize, and so on. Thus it will be seen that any candidate in the contest, man or woman, whether living in Salt Lake or outside of Salt Lake, you can win the $375 Sterling Piano on Nov. 1.

NOVEMBER 25.

Costly array of magnificent prizes to be awarded on this date, the close of the contest.

The night of Nov. 25 will mark the close of The Herald's Great Popular Election, and the magnificent array of costly capital and grand prizes will be awarded to the fortunate candidates.

The capital prize is a beautiful $6,000 house and lot, located in Newhouse park, formerly Popperton. This beautiful residence will contain seven rooms, with bath, and there will be no more cozy and attractive home in the city. The Herald has already practically completed arrangements for the erection of this home, and expects to start work on it in a short time.

The highest vote for this magnificent prize is only 132,000. When you consider the value of the prizes and the fact that you can secure 10,400 votes with one new subscription to The Herald, you must realize that your opportunity of winning it is excellent.

Just think of it! Between now and Nov. 25, by simply devoting your spare time to this contest, it is possible for you to win a $6,000 home in one of the most attractive residence sections of the city, and a $375 Sterling Piano. This is your opportunity. Seize it without delay!

Many do not earn in a year as much as you can win in one week in this big election. Your friends will gladly assist you if you will but make the effort.

Remember that The Herald's contest is absolutely fair and square. No "chance" or "guessing" about it. It is simply a straightforward campaign for circulation. The contest books may be inspected by any candidate at any time.

When the big prizes are awarded it will be found that the hustlers who allowed no discouragement to stop their work were the fortunate winners.

NOTES OF INTEREST ABOUT CANDIDATES

Mrs. F. A. O'Brien, 2624 Grant avenue, Ogden, Utah, is a very popular candidate, whose many friends are determined to make her a winner. Mrs. O'Brien has been doing some good work during the last few days and is confident of winning one of the special prizes on Nov. 1. Her friends are all greatly interested in her campaign. At present she stands third in district F among the women, but expects to take first place in a short time.

Many candidates entered the contest last week, and indications point to a great many more nominations during the next few days. A number of people are just waking up to the opportunities presented by The Herald's Great Popular Prize Election, in which the aggregate value of the prizes is $12,500.

The Contest Editor would be glad to have friends of candidates send in photographs and notes of general interest about their favorite candidates for publication in these columns. All photographs will be preserved and returned. For further information of interest to candidates in the contest, see page 3 in today's paper.

The standing of candidates was published last Sunday. Tomorrow (Wednesday) votes received up to 3 p. m. today will be published, together with the increases in votes turned in to count for the Special Prizes.
