TAPS GOLD ORE WORTH $133 TON

Superintendent of Yerington Gold Company Brings in Cheering News.

At a depth of thirty feet in a winze from the main tunnel level on the Yerington Gold Mining company's property, in the Mason mining district, Lyon county, Nevada, fourteen inches of ore that sampled $133 per ton in gold was opened up on Tuesday. The news of the strike was brought in to the local offices of the company yesterday morning, when Superintendent James Larson arrived from Yerington.

"Before the present company secured the property," said Mr. Larson, "some fine ore had been mined above the tunnel level and, at a point some distance back from where the winze was sunk, what is thought to have been the same shoot we have now struck was understoped to a depth of five feet from the floor of the tunnel and the ore at that point went $111 in gold per ton.

"After sinking the winze thirty feet I decided to drift for the shoot exposed above to see that it was still in evidence and that the values were there. I expected to have to run twenty feet to get it, but less than five feet carried us into rock, and I was surprised to find that it was worth $22 a ton more than it was twenty-five feet above. The strike also proves one of two other things, namely, either that a new rich shoot has been tapped or the old one is longer. The latter, I think, is apt to prove the case. But to my mind the most important thing about the disclosure is the fact that the ore is found to be going down and that it is improving in richness with depth. To me it looks as though we were just getting down to where the real mine is going to make."

Mr. Larson says that the showing in the Yerington Gold property is causing quite a little excitement in the vicinity of the mine and that several locations were made and some ground jumped previous to his taking the train for Salt Lake.

DANIEL GUGGENHEIM MAY HAVE TO RETIRE

Although Daniel Guggenheim has been home from his disastrous Mexican trip for several months, he has not attended to business since, and his intimate friends express the fear that he will never again take as active a part in the conduct of the Guggenheim enterprises as in the past. Mr. Guggenheim is not confined to the house, but his physicians will not permit his attention to business, says the Boston News Bureau.

Murray Guggenheim, in the absence of Daniel, is practically the head of the Guggenheim enterprises, but as a matter of fact, the organization of the smelter trust has undergone very radical changes. The many high-priced mining engineers who made this smelting company famous, no longer have Guggenheim affiliations, and the seven brothers in the smelting business have been practically reduced to two.

S. W. Eccles is now a prominent factor in the operating end of the American Smelting & Refining company and subsidiary companies, and he is a very popular official.

Ore and Bullion.

Ore and bullion settlements in this city yesterday, as reported by McCornick & Co., amounted to $30,000, as follows: Silver, lead, gold and copper ores, $20,000; base bullion, $70,000.

DELAMAR CAMP MAKING RECORD

Strike in Bamberger's Magnolia Thirty Feet Wide—Other Properties.

This is a very peculiar camp, being, as it is, isolated from the rest of the world, but as a steady-going camp it has no equal. Lead, silver and copper may fluctuate, but Delamar is always the same, and business men can have a close idea at the beginning of the month about what their receipts are going to amount to, says the Delamar correspondent of the Ploche Record.

The sole product of this camp is gold, and up to the present time the semi-monthly shipments of bullion have amounted to about the same, always requiring five figures to designate the value of precious metal sent out to the government mints.

But in the future the shipments promise a heavy increase, for the reason that the management of the Bamberger-Delamar Gold Mines company has concluded that it will be more profitable to do its own work on the Magnolia mine, and with the view to permanent development, rather than turn the whole property over to lessers, who usually look for the richer ores without regard to the condition they leave the mine in.

The company, realizing that the Magnolia is a bonanza not equaled in richness and extent by any mine in the state, proceeded a short time ago to push an old abandoned tunnel, which had been run several years ago, further into the mountain to tap the ledge at a depth never before reached. The tunnel had been run but a few feet when it encountered a body of ledge matter, which proved to be thirty feet in width and containing a great deal of ore assaying up into the thousands of dollars to the ton. The Magnolia is situated about two miles from the company's mill, at the old town of Helene, and the ore is hauled to the place of treatment by six-horse teams.

Nor is the Magnolia the only mine in this section. George T. Banovich is the possessor of a group of three claims adjoining the Magnolia, all of which assay as favorably as did the Magnolia at the same depth. "China Ed" owns a group of claims near, and there are several other properties in the near vicinity upon which development work is being prosecuted.

Neither is prospecting and development confined to this immediate locality. To the east, northeast and north of Delamar several parties are engaged in delving for the metallic riches of the earth, and many have reported finds as rich as some nearer to town.

The population of the town of Delamar is composed principally of Slavs and Italians, but a more peaceable and contented community would be difficult to find. The wage paid in the camp is low, yet the laborers are satisfied, and therefore strife between the company and its employes is unknown.

There are three general merchandise stores here, one clothing house, two butcher shops, two restaurants, three lodging houses and six saloons, all of which appear to be doing a thriving business.

EIGHT FEET OF ORE EXPOSED IN TWO DRIFTS

Every day's work at the Harrington-Hickory property of the Majestic Mines company in Beaver county, adds not a little to the expressed belief of Manager A. D. Moffat that he is opening up one of the biggest bodies of high grade ore that was ever found in the county. He returned from the mine two or three days ago, and found everything looking fine, and the reports that are daily forwarded to him by the mine superintendent are couched in most enthusiastic terms.

"The letter received this morning," said Manager Moffat, "states that there is a full eight feet of fine ore exposed in the face of both the north and south drift on the 500-foot level. The distance between the faces of these two drifts is now over eighty feet, and every inch of the distance is through solid ore—ore of a first class commercial grade. It is extremely gratifying to me that the mine is developing in this manner, because it is verifying the opinion I entertained and expressed at the time I consented to take the management. As I have previously stated, it is the intention to sink the shaft another 100 feet as soon as possible, but everything is looking so well on the 500 that it would be folly to let sinking interfere with developments there; I must see the limits of the shoot on the 500—at least I want to determine its limits—before going deeper. Then I shall want to open up one level after another as fast as men, powder and steel can accomplish it."

Mining Notes.

Eleven carloads of ore from Utah mines were released from the Taylor & Brunton sampler yesterday.

Manager Grant Snyder left for a trip to the properties of the Cliff Mining company at Ophir last night.

There was released from the Pioneer sampler yesterday four carloads of ore from Utah mines and one from Nevada.

Manager Tony Jacobson of the Columbus Consolidated, who is just back from the mines, states that twenty teams are now hauling ore from the lower terminal of the tramway, and that the number will be increased just as quick as it is possible to secure outfits in the valley.

Captain Duncan MacVichie, general manager of the Western Utah company's gold-copper mines in the Deep Creek country, stated yesterday that he hoped to get away for a trip to the properties this morning. Important matters having to do with the future of the proposition require his attention.

The Brilliant Mining & Milling company, organized at Minersville to exploit the Brilliant claims in the Star mining district, Beaver county, filed articles of incorporation yesterday. The capital stock consists of 300,000 shares of the par value of 25 cents each. Ward P. Thompson is president; Earl Alverson, vice president, and George Marshall, jr., secretary and treasurer, and these also are the directors.

U. S. SMELTING OFFICIAL OUT

Former President R. D. Evans Disposes of His Holdings and Resigns.

A special from Boston yesterday announced that Robert D. Evans, a director of the United States Smelting, Refining & Mining company, and at one time president, as well as a member of the executive committee for a long time past, had tendered his resignation, to take effect at once. The message states that his withdrawal removes the only disturbing element in the United States company's organization, which now boasts an official household that is in absolute harmony.

The understanding here is that other members of the board of directors have purchased the holdings of Mr. Evans at a cost of several millions of dollars. Private wires of the brokers announced that the news had been well received on the street and that the shares of the company had jumped about $3 in consequence, a fact that is taken to indicate the confidence that is entertained in the present management in Boston.

In the face of the low price of the metals, the records of the United States company show that it is making substantial earnings in excess of its dividend requirements, while its properties in California, Nevada and Mexico, as well as its refining companies in Indiana and New Jersey, are showing exceptionally gratifying results.

The company's Centennial-Eureka mines in Tintic are one of the finest assets of the company, while there is reason to believe that its acquirement of the Bullion-Beck, in the same district, will soon be adding good money to its earnings. Good profits are also coming from its Bingham mines, and the belief is that the company's big smelting works down the valley have passed through the worst of their troubles and that it will not be long until the earnings from this portion of the company's extensive holdings will be showing profits that compare favorably with the rest of the subsidiary and affiliated companies of the huge corporation.

BOSTON AND NEW YORK STOCK MARKET REPORTS

Following is the daily market comment of Paine, Webber & Co., Boston, together with the range of prices of copper stocks and other Boston listings in which the west is interested, as well as a similar report on New York curb transactions, by James A. Pollock & Co., and from whom it is secured for use in this department of The Herald.

Boston, April 16.—Heavy scattered buying of North Butte caused a strong opening in the stock this morning, the bear party having ceased operations for a time. The same class of manipulation in United States Smelting made that stock strong and active at the highest prices for some time. Toward the middle of the session a strong demand sprang un for East Butte, which found very little stock in the market, and it advanced easily fo 15½. There was quite a little strength noticed in Franklin and Superior & Boston on the good news on the properties. The general market showed the effects of the gradual liquidation which has been going on during the week and which was more pronounced in the last hour, when the market was very active and at about the weakest of the day. We don't think this liquidation is over, but that the decline will go further and would advise buying them for a few days yet.

MINING STOCK EXCHANGE.

Market Takes on a More Settled Aspect and Prices Are Stronger.

There was a steadying down in the stock market yesterday and prices ruled firmer than for several days. Iron Blossom behaved much better and the sentiment all through made it look as though the worst was over and that there was a good chance for gain in a number of the stocks that have been roughly handled during the past week or ten days. Toward the close it looked as though an effort was being made to hold Iron Blossom down, and had not such a move been inaugurated, it is possible the stock would at least have gone to $2 a share.

During the two regular and open board calls a total of 144,624 shares of stock, with a selling value of $93,800 changed hands. Following is the list of final quotations and record of sales made during the day:

Never before have Tans and colored Footwear been in such strong demand. The colors must be right, however. Tan of the right shade and the right colorings in other leathers.

Some of the new shades are the chocolate and wine colors. They're very rich and handsome.

The short vamp gives the Shoe a very dainty appearance.

The new Oxfords, Ties and Pumps are the favorite models and we show unusually fine creations.

Letter From Louisiana.

Mrs. A. C. Brainard of Jennings, La., wrote on April 21, 1904: "Please send me three bottles Graefenberg Children's Panacea for the enclosed $1.50. We used it many years ago, in Minnesota, for our children, and now we would like to get some for our little grandson, so that his teeth may come easier and quicker. I consider it the best medicine for the little ones that I ever knew of. It saved my son's life when he was an infant, thirty-five years ago."

There must be great merit in a remedy which produces such records. Advertising alone could not keep a children's medicine in such high favor for so many years
