SAYS HUSBAND OWES ALIMONY

DIVORCE CASES DROPPED

THREE DECREES ARE ENTERED QUICKLY IN DISTRICT COURT.

"I told him I needed stockings, but he told me to get out and work for them, because he wasn't going to pay the alimony any more," said Mrs. Louie Holberg yesterday in the divorce matinee before Judge C. W. Morse, in an effort to collect about $55 which, she says, is still due her from Charles A. Holberg, who has failed to pay her alimony during the last eight weeks.

According to Holberg's figures, he owed his wife only $2.45, and he said he could not pay that until next Saturday night, when he would draw his check. Holberg, in his own defense, started to tell the court that his wife was not at home nights, but was out at dances at the Salt Palace and at Saltair, leaving her two children with another family, but Judge Morse did not care to hear about it.

Mrs. Holberg was explaining, as best she could, what moneys had been paid to her for the support of her children when her attorney asked her when was the last time her husband had sent her anything to eat.

"Oh, it was about last Tuesday, I think," she replied. "That time he sent up twelve cantaloupes, four tomatoes, eight potatoes and a box of wood. We needed meat and potatoes worse than we needed cantaloupes."

The young wife charged her husband with threatening to kill her on several occasions, and said this was the reason she did not remain at the home on which he was paying rent near Eighth East and Fifth South streets. The case lasted for nearly an hour, when Judge Morse continued it until 10 o'clock this morning, with several other divorce cases.

Gets Quick Divorce.

Carrie Dray filed suit for divorce from J. P. Dray yesterday afternoon, and the decree was entered in her favor within a few hours. She married J. P. Dray in Salt Lake on April 10, 1893, but has received no support from him for several years. T. E. Bird corroborated her statements in regard to support. Mrs. Dray works at the Ohio rooming house, 29 South West Temple street.

Weiss Case Is Dropped.

It appears that Anna Weiss has made up with Herman Weiss, the proprietor of the Swan pool and billiard hall on First South street, who recently figured in a police court case for cutting another man with a knife, for the case was stricken from the calendar yesterday. Last week the case was called, but a hurried consultation was held between husband and wife, and the matter was put off for a week. Yesterday neither party appeared, and Judge Morse dropped the case.

Clair C. Christian brought suit against Myra Christian several weeks ago, but his wife entered such strong counterclaims in her answer that she became the plaintiff, and yesterday she received a divorce. She was married here on Aug. 18, 1908, and the divorce comes after only one year of married life. She charged failure to provide and a number of serious things. She received a divorce and $760 as permanent alimony, to be paid in installments of $8 on the 12th of each month.

James Grantham and Cora B. Grantham, who charged each other with a number of things during their married life, seem to have made up also, as this case, too, was stricken from the calendar yesterday.

Judge Morse granted a divorce to Katherine H. Anderson, who married F. A. Anderson here Nov. 25, 1903. She said she had received only $160 from Anderson during the last three years for the support of herself and two children. Three years ago her husband went to Germany to "see his mother," and never returned to America.

Two Morning Cases.

In the morning session of Judge Morse's court two unhappy wives were given divorces. In each case, the husband failed to provide.

Mrs. Mildred Steevers, a pretty stenographer, received a decree separating her from W. M. Steevers, a traveling salesman, whom she married in Greeley, Colo., Nov. 17, 1894. She said her husband left her and did not contribute to her support, not long after their marriage, and she had been unable to find him, though she tried through the Omaha lodge of Elks, of which he was a member.

Sarah Todd received a divorce from Harry R. Todd, was given the custody of her son, Harry, aged 8 years, and $25 a month alimony because her husband deserted her and failed to provide for her. They were married at Pueblo, Colo., Nov. 30, 1899.

IOWA MAN IS BUILDING

John Ollinger of Dubuque Has Plans Made for Combined Store and Dwelling.

The faith that outside investors have in Greater Salt Lake is shown by activity in various parts of the city. Architect J. A. Headlund is busy preparing plans for John Ollinger of Dubuque, Iowa, for combined stores and dwelling to cost about $6,500.

The building will be erected at the corner of Eleventh South and Fourth East streets. It will be two stories in height, and will be of brick construction. The lower floor will be occupied by a drug store and a grocery store. The second floor will be reserved for dwelling purposes. The building will have a twenty-two-foot frontage and will be sixty feet deep.

Mr. Ollinger is a capitalist of Dubuque and has various property interests in this city. Arrangements have been practically completed whereby leasers will take possession of the building as soon as completed.

WALKS OUT OF A WINDOW

Dennis Finn Has Injured Heel—He Takes an Early Stroll in His Sleep.

"It was not the fall that hurt me, it was the painful sudden awakening," said Dennis Finn, foreman of the Utah Construction company, who is lying in the Emergency hospital at the city jail suffering from a wrenched back and a badly bruised heel caused by walking while asleep from a two-story window and suddenly coming in contact with the earth.

Dennis came to the city Thursday morning and after taking a few drinks with the boys went to his room at 556 West Second South street. He slumbered on peacefully until about 5 o'clock Friday morning, when he was suddenly awakened by coming in contact with the pavement sidewalk.

The most peculiar part of the accident is the fact that he lighted upon his feet after walking in a sleeping condition from a second story window, and escaped with a bruised heel and a wrenched back.

TO SECURE DATA ON STATE NEEDS

Manufacturers Prepare Circular Letter Asking Important Questions.

With a view to securing information which will be used in acquainting people with what Utah needs in the way of manufactories, a circular letter is being prepared by Secretary D. S. Collett of the Utah Manufacturers' association, which will be addressed to manufacturers of the state. The following questions will be submitted for answer: Kind of factories; amount of capital invested; value of materials used; value of products; number of persons employed; total wages paid per year; where factory is located; need of additional capital; factories, not existing in Utah, most needed.

The object of the Manufacturers' association is primarily to gain information which will be used in preparing a circular letter to be gotten out and mailed broadcast. The statistics obtained will be a valuable asset in the office of the association. Whenever inquiries are received, the information will be on hand to furnish necessary replies.

A circular letter has already been prepared by the secretary of the association calling attention to what Utah offers in the way of manufactured articles. The next circular will deal with what this state has not got in manufactories and what is needed.

Great Opportunities Here.

The Manufacturers' association calls attention to the fact that there is great opportunity in this state for the investment of capital in factories. Many of the products of the soil are sent east and west to be made into manufactured articles. These same products must, of necessity, bring profit to the various factories which use them, and with such the case, it is pointed out that they could be used at still greater profit in this state.

Among the factories which are now said to be needed are broom factories, fruit box factories, glass factories, match factories, paper mills, starch factories and fruit and tomato canneries.

NEW EQUIPMENT IS COMING

Heretofore D. & R. G. Has Had Struggle to Get Cars to Handle Eastbound Traffic.

Trains on the Denver & Rio Grande from the east came through yesterday within an hour or two of schedule time and within a few minutes the Pullmans were ready for the return trip. The local passenger department has been making a strong, though at times, ineffectual fight to get enough equipment from Denver to handle the crowds eastbound.

The situation has been such that on the arrival of Pullmans from the east it has been necessary to put guards on the platforms until a force of cleaners could go through and put them in fair condition for the return trip. In answer to further appeals for equipment, the Denver offices wired yesterday that two trains of deadhead equipment would be sent to Salt Lake immediately.
