DOLLY COMPLIMENTS THE RESIDENTS OF SALT LAKE

DOLLY DIMPLES,
As she appeared yesterday morning.

regard them attentively, but I know that he was searching diligently.

For fully five minutes I stood beside a young lady wearing a long white sweater coat and another girl, her companion, who wore a gray suit. They were charming girls and their bright, witty talk was most entertaining.

Changed Her Mind.

As before, a great many people surrounded my dear American car, evidently expecting me to enter it. A middle-aged lady in navy blue stood near me for several minutes. She seemed to want to address me and then seemed to change her mind.

Who was the vastly important and terribly mysterious young lady in purple? Her ridiculous assumption of ostentation, her pompous air of self-importance greatly amused me. Her object was plainly obvious and provoked many derisive comments from the crowd, which she should have overheard. She attended my noon appointment yesterday at Second South and Main streets, appearing upon the scene with a flourish and keeping up a display meant to be "mysterious." She deceived but very few into believing her to be Dolly Dimples and no one enjoyed her absurd maneuvers more than I.

She was small and purple clad and possessed of a magnificent air and a notebook. She flitted in and around the crowd continually and entered notes with grand significance into its pages with a pencil.

When her singular behavior first attracted me I followed her about, resolved to protect her from the crowd should she be silly enough to proclaim herself Dolly Dimples, but when I saw that the assemblage did not take her as seriously as she took herself, I did not worry over her fate, and let her pursue her ridiculous course.

Do Not Be Deceived.

Do not be deceived, my friends, by girls who, eager for the notoriety of being taken for me, act "mysterious," or tell the crowd that they are Dolly Dimples. I do not act at all mysterious and I will not announce my identity except at the time I am captured, and then I will readily amdit it.

When properly accosted with the correct salutation I will quietly accompany my captor to my American Traveler and drive to The Herald-Republican office. It would be very silly for me to attempt to attract notice. My getups are always without exception plain and unobtrusive appearing in the extreme and I make my way about quietly.

The sweet little blue-eyed blonde lady whom I mentioned in Wednesday's paper was again on hand. She wears a red suit and red hat, with black plumes. This time she was accompanied by a young lady who wore a black hat trimmed with green velvet and green wings and a striped suit. This young lady's eyes were brown. I edged as near them as I could without attracting their attention and I overheard her remark to two older ladies that all she wants is another chance, same as she had Tuesday. It seems she remembered seeing me standing near her, but, my dear little blonde lady, I seldom assume the same getup twice. I was near enough yesterday for a few moments for you to have touched me.

A Smiling Policeman.

Smiling Policeman No. 5 was much in evidence and his evident appreciation of the bright side of life is most pleasing.

Conductor No. 69 was in the crowd and I noticed an A. D. T. messenger, No. 19.

The jolly girl in blue, who Tuesday noon was in company with a girl in white, was again on hand, this time with two other girls, one of whom wore a long light cloak. I passed the young lady in blue on two different occasions, first as she entered The Herald-Republican office and again in front of the National Bank of the Republic.

Of a gentleman who stood in front of the bank I asked a very absurd question, one which I was sure he would remember.

If the gentleman will look in the want columns he will find his description, and by applying at The Herald-Republican office and repeating the question I asked him he will receive $5 in gold.

The gentleman in the greenish suit was again present and this time he carried a copy of The Herald-Republican.

A chap in gray was doing some searching and the man in black was among those on hand.

Near the drug store there were many ladies. I particularly noticed one in a striped suit, who had a copy of the paper in her hand. With her was a lady in blue with a baby in a go-cart.

Towards the close of my engagement I walked up Main street to First South. There I noticed a very pretty blonde, wearing a long white coat, board a South Temple street car. From this point I also boarded a car for my hotel.

Dolly's Busy Day.

Yesterday was my busy day, but because the day was so beautiful I did not in the least mind. I had outlined such an extensive program for myself that I could not carry it all out. I did call on an influential Salt Lake business house in quest of a situation, and I was amazed at the courteous treatment I received and charmed with their admirable business policy.

It was when I was hurrying along in West Second South street that the mischievous notion to apply for a situation of some sort occurred to me. "I'll watch out for the first big store," I said to myself, "and ask for a job."

The great, handsome show windows of the Mullett Clothing company, with their artistic display of stunning garments, attracted me, and almost before I realized it I was walking down the main aisle. Towards the rear right in the center of the store I noticed workmen busy working on a square piece of flooring.

"What are they doing?" I asked one of the courteous clerks.

"Why," he responded, "they are going to build a stairway leading into the basement. We will have a workingmen's and children's department there."

That gave me an idea. "Where will I find the proprietor?" I asked.

"At the rear of the store, in the office," was the reply.

A very nice gentleman in the office, whom I have since learned was Mr. Miner, turned me over to Mr. Slade, the genial president of the concern.

I represented myself as having heard of their proposed new department and asked for the situation of saleslady in the children's department.

Dolly Is Well Received.

Mr. Slade was perfectly charming. I gave a list of previous employers, which appeared to satisfy him, and he consented to consider my application. At my request I was shown through the new department and through the entire store.

I was amazed at the magnitude of the establishment and at the line of stock they carry. The store is magnificently equipped and stocked, and with a grade of goods of the very highest quality.

You ladies who imagine that the stock of a men's furnishings store would not interest you should go through Mullett's big, modern store, and those of you who are single will long to enter the enchanted realm of matrimony, so that you can help "dearie" select his clothes; and those of you who are married will decide that "hubby" needs a new suit as soon as you see the dandy, swagger, new Mullett models.

Have you ever noticed what a distinctive cut there is to this garment? Well dressed men know that they can depend upon Mullett models for style. There is a correctness in the cut of these clothes which cannot be duplicated. Time was when the high-class tailors set the fashion, but that day is past. Nowadays it is the big leading clothing manufacturers who design the newest things, and the Mullet Clothing company are one of the biggest concerns of the kind in the field.

It is easy to trace the source of the Mullett company's great success. The keynote to it all is enthusiasm, harmonious co-operation on the part of both proprietors and employes, and a square deal to the public. The public is quick to discover where it can secure the fairest dealing and this store's pleased patrons number many thousands.

Inspects Mullett Store.

Mr. Slade himself conducted me through the establishment and I became as enthusiastic as though I were a part of the great concern. This store is one of the leading stores of the west, and would be a credit to Broadway, New York, or State street in Chicago.

When Salt Lake folks see the great new surprise the Mullett company have prepared for them in their new basement they'll feel even a greater regard for these prominent merchants.

The new basement which will be opened to the public in a week or so is to be devoted entirely to workingmen and children. The object of this splendid concern is to offer to the public a line of stylish, well made garments of quality at such moderate cost that the humblest wage earner in Salt Lake will be able to secure an entire stylish outfit from hat to shoes at a surprisingly low expenditure.

For instance, they will carry a line of one and two dollar hats in the most swagger shapes and styles, and suits of modish cuts in classy materials for less than $10. Entire outfits for both men, boys and children, each separate garment moderately priced, will be the feature of the new department.

Pioneer in Field.

The Mullett clothing house is the first this side of Chicago to institute such a department, and it will prove of great advantage to Salt Lake folks.

It was most interesting to visit the partially constructed basement. It is roomy and spacious and when the handsome mirrors are placed and the interior decorations completed, will be very pretty. Like the main store, this department will be done in green and cream color—a most effective scheme.

I saw rows and rows of shoes which were being arranged in the new shoe department. There were over 3,000 pairs. There was a well stocked hosiery counter, in the newest styles.

I obtained a peep at some of the new suits and they were stunning. There was pretty underwear and lovely neckwear, and everything one could think of for men.

But the children's department most interested me. It is easy to account for this store's popularity with Salt Lake mothers, for there is a separate children's department, well equipped and devoted entirely to juvenile apparel. There were stunning exhibits of exclusive fashions for little tots and growing children, and I was delighted. So many stores forget all about little brother. Everything was so moderate, too, that I felt like buying things for all the children I know.

My visit to this store was both entertaining and instructive, and girl vanity is not confined to the fair sex. You should see the array of rainbow colored silk pajamas, dainty hued underwear and pretty neckties that I saw.

This afternoon between 2:30 and 4:30 I will attempt another visit to the Mullett Clothing company's store. I will endeavor to make a purchase of some kind; if possible I will buy one of the cute new ladies' scarfs they are showing. They are the latest and most swagger thing shown in ladies neckwear this season. They are called "throw" scarfs and are prettier than furs.

Visits Country Club.

Yesterday I went for an outing in my dear American Traveler. "Bobby" drove me out to the beautiful Country club, which was recently honored by a visit from the nation's chief executive. Folks about the Country club point out with pride the distance that President Taft covered in one strike while playing golf. It sure must have been a master stroke. The golf links are dandy; so is the tennis court. The location is quite ideal. The spacious level grounds have the appearance of being walled in by mountains, some of which are white-capped. It was such a delightful place that I remained there for some time. The drive, too, is most enjoyable. The roads are wide and smooth and my big green American Traveler flew over them like a great bird.

An American car is designed for speed and, unlike most machines, improves with usage. My car is not a new one, and has been in constant use for some time, yet it has perfectly wonderful speed and endurance. Those are two important items to be considered in the selection of a car. No auto is worth riding in if it is not durable, as a car which is constantly out of repair is a continual worry to its possessor. Then, whether one cares to speed or not, one likes to know that one's auto can beat all the other ones and race with a train if necessary. Speaking of trains, I am proud of the record which my big American Traveler recently made.

A very wealthy mine owner from Park City was in Salt Lake on business. It was imperative that he catch the 8:15 a. m. train for home, as important matters there necessitated his immediate presence. He missed the train by some minutes. The gentleman was in despair. Missing the train meant the loss of a great deal of money to him unless he could find other means of reaching Park City at once. Finally a happy thought came to him and he hurried to the Rooklidge-Gilmer garage. It was ten minutes of 9 when he reached the garage, and his heart sank when he looked at the clock, but he resolved to try.

Overtake the Train.

"Can you overtake the 8:15 Park City train?" he asked.

Mr. Gilmer looked at his watch. "Yes," he said, "I can;" and jumping into my big green American Traveler, they started. The road led through the mountains and was all up grade, but an American car is the greatest climber there is. In just fifty minutes they overtook the train, which had thirty-five minutes the start of them. I have used cars of all makes and I know that no other car but an American could have such a record. And it was my own dear, plucky American Traveler, a perfect giant of endurance, which accomplished this feat.

Dolly Answers Correspondence.

Mrs. E. D.—I was standing there at time you mention.

Alfred—Sometimes as a blonde.

D. F. R.—May visit there soon.

Admirer—It was not.

Mrs. Q.—Yes, I often attend such meetings.

Sleuth—One Sixty-Six—Will call first opportunity. Keep on the lookout.

$500 REWARD.

For the capture of Dolly Dimples, The Herald-Republican will pay the following rewards:

$500 in GOLD if the captor shows Miss Dolly Dimples a receipt for subscription to The Herald-Republican paid up to Oct. 15, 1910, and a copy of The Herald-Republican of the day's issue, and use the following words of identification: PARDON ME, YOU ARE THE MYSTERIOUS MISS DOLLY DIMPLES OF THE DAILY AND SUNDAY HERALD-REPUBLICAN.

$300 in GOLD if the captor shows Miss Dolly Dimples a paid-up subscription receipt to The Herald-Republican to Nov. 25, 1909, and a copy of The Herald-Republican of the day's issue, and use the following words of identification: PARDON ME, YOU ARE THE MYSTERIOUS MISS DOLLY DIMPLES OF THE DAILY AND SUNDAY HERALD-REPUBLICAN.

$200 in GOLD to any captor who shows Miss Dolly Dimples a copy of The Herald-Republican of the day's issue and uses the following words of identification: PARDON ME, YOU ARE THE MYSTERIOUS MISS DOLLY DIMPLES OF THE DAILY AND SUNDAY HERALD-REPUBLICAN.

The reward is effective at all hours of the day and night after 11 a. m. From the time the paper is issued, 5 a. m., until 11 a. m., Miss Dimples has her freedom, but at all other hours the contest is open.

If you have addressed Miss Dolly Dimples, using the exact words above given, and hold to her view a paid-up receipt and copy of The Herald-Republican of the day's issue, she will at once admit her identity, take you to The Herald-Republican office and one of the above three rewards will be paid.

When you arrive at The Herald-Republican office you will be required to make an affidavit that you have been a resident of Utah for the past ninety days. The reward will not be paid to any outsider, but only to a bona fide resident of the state of Utah. This rule effectually prohibits any collusion and makes this contest of skill absolutely fair and above board.

Boys under 18 years of age are also prohibited from securing the reward, and will not be recognized in the contest. The same rule applies to any person directly or indirectly connected with The Herald-Republican, or any member of his or her family.

Here is a chance for some person to display cleverness and at the same time secure a free gift of one of the three rewards.

Miss Dimples will positively not recognize anyone detaining her for any length of time in order to procure a Herald-Republican, or anyone in any way whatever who stops her longer than a reasonable period in order to repeat the salutation correctly. It must be distinctly understood that Miss Dolly Dimples will immediately admit her identity if correctly saluted. There will be no need of holding her at any time, either betweeen the hours that the contest is enforced or when it is not.

Charcoal Lozenges Powerful Absorbents

Offensive Breath and Stomach Gases Cannot Exist When They Are Used.

Charcoal, by virtue of its porous nature, takes up gases mechanically just as a sponge takes up water. Its capacity in this respect is in proportion to the number and fineness of its pores. Charcoal made from poplar, beechwood, vegetable ivory, cocoa-nut shells and willow-wood, is a compact, heavy substance, having a metallic luster, the pores being quite invisible.

Chemical tests of various kinds performed by expert chemists have revealed the fact that charcoal made from willow wood, is not anly absolutely harmless, but that it is by far the most powerful absorbent of all kinds of gases. Certain other woods, mentioned above, are used by some manufacturers in making charcoal, and besides not being half as effective in absorbing stomach-gases, have also been found to be positively harmful to the digestive system.

Willow-wood charcoal is, then, the very best for the purpose of absorbing excessive gas of the stomach, removing intestinal flatus, and purifying foul breath. Charcoal to be effective against gastric flatulence must be introduced among the gases of the stomach in the same state as when fresh from the crucible. The means of effecting this is to compress them into soluble lozenges, so that after being dissolved in the mouth and swallowed, the charcoal is "set free," and at once begins its work of oxidizing and absorbing foul gases, and also, through its antiseptic properties of purifying the entire alimentary tract.

It is definitely known that the absorbent and cleansing action of charcoal is protracted and continued through the intestinal system as well as in the stomach, and it proves beneficial there also.

In STUART'S CHARCOAL LOZENGES we have a gas-absorbing remedy which readily takes precedence over all others. The charcoal used in them is the very best that can be obtained. They are composed of the finest young willow-wood, converted into charcoal by the special, carbonizing Stuart Process, and before being compressed into Lozenges, the powdered charcoal is rendered sweet and thoroughly agreeable to the taste by being mixed with pure honey, and the result is a product equally as palatable as candy.

Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges have attained a wide popularity among the people, millions of boxes being sold every year. They have, over and over again, proven their efficiency as rapid and powerful absorbents of foul stomach-gases, relieving and curing flatulence, belching, or the eructation of gases, and finally in the purification of offensive breath.

Buy a package of these little lozenges from your druggist for 25 cents and forward us your name and address for free sample package. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 200 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.
