BRIEF TERRITORIAL ITEMS.

Died at his home in this city Saturday evening, September 8, 1894, Theodore Dorrance. He is one of the oldest citizens of the place and is the first Islander that settled in Utah.—Spanish Fork Herald.

William Hyde, an early settler in Utah and a former well-known Salt Lake official, died at Mancos, Colo., last Thursday morning. He lacked only a few days of being 62 years old.—Ogden Press.

A 12-ton lot of ore from the Diamond mine was shipped to the Sandy smelters this week. This is the first time The Bulletin has had the pleasure of recording a shipment from the Diamond mine, and we are now glad to mention it as one of the new producers of the "Old Reliable."—Bingham Bulletin.

The heavy wind Wednesday and rain storm that night piled bushels upon bushels of peaches, apples, pears, etc., upon the ground in this vicinity. The loss the storms have caused our fruit growers is heavy. The orchards in all parts of town were strewn with ripe and unripe fruits of all kinds Thursday morning.—Brigham Bugler.

John Golden of Salt Lake City is engaged in the removal of all the buildings from the Hawkinsee mine to the Phoenix and will superintend their erection upon the latter property. The Hercules Mining Company who are working in Phoenix propose to immediately equip that mine with shaft house, bunk house and all other necessary and convenient buildings and will push the development until the Phoenix ranks with other big producers, as all indications point that it will.—Tintic Miner.

Mrs. Annie C. Sharp, mother of W. S. Sharp, died about 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon, September 13th, of heart failure, at the advanced age of 72 years, 5 months and 15 days. Mrs. Sharp was an extremely active old lady for one of her age, and up to 2:30 o'clock on the day of her death was enjoying her usual health, hence her sudden demise was a severe shock to her son and numerous friends. At 2:30 o'clock she was stricken down, but rallied and appeared to be gaining steadily until about 5 o'clock, when she had a second attack and quickly passed away.—Park Record.

While paring turnips yesterday morning Mrs. Nicholas Rose stumbled on to a freak of nature that knocks silly the much-mooted letter "H" on cat blades. In cutting one of the turnips in halves she found the letter "W" marked on each half as plainly as if it had been printed there. Realizing that she had stumbled onto a curiosity the lady sent both pieces to this office where they are now on exhibition. Numerous persons have examined the vegetable and the letters, and the general remark is that it means waging war or woeful wanderings which it is hard to determine, though a majority are inclined to the latter. Just the same, the mark is plain and is worth seeing.—Park Record.

There is a movement on foot to reclaim the swamp. As it exists at present there is some four or five thousand acres of good land covered by water. It is proposed to build a levee around the west side of the swamp, and turn all the water from Sanpitch river along the west side of the dam. The land on the inside of this dam, which would form a kind of horse shoe around the swamp, could then be brought under cultivation. The cost of the work would not reach higher than about $2,000. Mr. Niels Thompson of Ephraim and others are interested in the scheme.—Manti Sentinel.

THE STATE OF TRADE.

A Summary of Special Telegrams to Bradstreets

All the features of improvement in general trade reported a week ago are retained, and from a number of the more important business centers still further gains are reported. Commercial travelers from Baltimore are making their second trip to the south, and regard the business prospects as exceptionally bright. Transactions in wool at Boston have been very heavy, one sale amounting to 1,200,000 pounds. It is added that several new and to American manufacturers hitherto unfamiliar varieties of foreign wools are being purchased with a view to experimenting. At various northwestern centers colder weather has stimulated sales in dry goods, clothing and shoes. Woolen dress goods are not sold as actively as in previous weeks, jobbers not carrying supplies beyond what the public are likely to take before January 1. Encouragement is gained from improved demand for money at Savannah, Augusta and New Orleans, due to increasing receipts of cotton and demands for advances on the crop. At Chicago money is also more active, and some bankers have withdrawn from the agreement to pay only 1½ per cent on balances of country banks, and will pay 2 per cent. The southern pig-iron market may be gauged by sales at Nashville thus far this month equal to total sales during August. Inquiries are received from the north for heavy blocks of pig iron. Demand for pig iron is also marked at Chicago, but has decreased at Pittsburgh and at St. Louis.

Bank clearings for six business days ending with September 13 aggregate $855,000,000, 7 per cent more than in the week before, and nearly 8 per cent more than in the second week of September, 1893, though 23 per cent smaller than in the corresponding week of 1892. From this it will be observed the last night's clearings record corroborate Bradstreet's previously published report in regard to improvement in the state of trade during that period.

The check in purchases of wool after heavy buying tends to weaken prices, and cotton has reacted ⅛ (16c. after its marked advance. Pig iron is 25 cents a ton lower, and hardware and dry goods jobbers at western centres report increased sales, due to lower quotations. Live stock at Kansas City and at Omaha have weakened on heavy receipts of commoner grades, all of which comprise the chief decreases in price of staples. They are offset by firmer markets and advances for leather, petroleum and sugar, for print cloths due to decreasing stocks, and cotton goods owing to the strike of operatives. Wheat is up ¾c., corn 1⅞c., oats 1½c., pork 15c., lard 7½c. and coffee ¼c.

Exports of wheat, both coasts of the United States and Canada, for six business days ending with September 13 (flour included as wheat), continue fairly well maintained, the total equaling 2,789,000 bushels, contrasted with 3,267,000 last week, 5,257,000 in the second week of September last year, 3,384,000 in the week two years ago. There are 223 business failures reported throughout the United States this week, against 207 last week, 200 in the week a year ago, 146 in the week the year before that, and 240 in the week in 1891.

Boston reports quite an improvement in general staple lines, due to the heavy reduction in country stocks, sales in preceding months. At Philadelphia there is a better demand for cotton yarns, petroleum, stoves and drugs. No change is reported in favorable business at Baltimore, except that orders have increased from mining districts. Trade is practically unchanged at Pittsburgh and Buffalo.

Wool

Sales of wool at the three chief markets were 4,140,100 pounds against 4,375,200 last year, and 8,812,000 for the same week in 1892. In two weeks of September the sales have been 8,255,200 pounds against 16,428,800 in 1892. This indicates a consumption not much exceeding half that of a full season. The trade is waiting for the London sales, since prices are now to be determined in that market, and many buyers have gone thither to attend the sale, although some grades are now lower in this country than in London. Markets abroad are strong and expected to advance by competition. Here holders are generally firm, though prices of domestic are somewhat lower.

PAIN FACTS

A writer in one of our exchanges who kept books with a cow and fifty hens discovered that the former yielded $184 in milk the hens netted $150. And yet there are people who think poultry is an insignificant factor in the revenue of the farm.

The following is a good ration for milch cows: Ten pounds corn meal, 2 pounds ground oats, 2 pounds ground rye, 5 pounds bran and 1 pound oil meal, the grain to be ground.

A stockman gives the following recipe for sale by a horse: Dissolve a half teacup of common soap and draw his tongue out with one hand while placing something between his jaws, to drench him.

California combined harvesters have reached no high degree of perfection that they will cut and thresh at the rate of an acre of grain in fifteen minutes.

Every cow that is giving milk should receive extra rations when pasture begins to fail. Green food should be freely given at this season if the cow is to be properly developed and made to do her best.

Two-fifths of the entire area of the United States consists of arid land and upon 600,000,000 acres crops could be produced with water. Of this vast area less than one half 1 per cent is under irrigation.

"All run down" from weakening effects of warm weather, you need a good tonic and blood purifier like Hood's Sarsaparilla. Try it.
