A Desperate Deed

Mount Pleasant, Utah, Sept. 20.—Special to the Salt Lake Tribune.—Sheriff Burns of San Pete county was shot and almost instantly killed this afternoon by Morino Kofford and James Mickel of Spring City. The affair is related by an eye witness as follows:

Scott Bruno of Moroni had obtained the assistance of Burns in getting some sheep from the murderers, which he claimed on arriving at the sheep corral at Reeder Ridge, about fifteen miles east of Spring City, Burns and Bruno made an examination of the flock, and the latter claiming positive identification, Burns said they would have to give up the sheep.

Kofford said he would not, and the Sheriff told him he would have to arrest Kofford, and advanced to do so. Kofford reached for his gun and Burns grappled with him, but the former had succeeded in forcing his weapon, and firing upward, struck Burns in the jaw. Burns's hold relaxed, and Kofford jumping back ward, emptied the contents of his revolver at the Sheriff.

In the meantime, Mickel picked up a Winchester lying at his feet outside of the corral, and jumping inside the enclosure, fired several shots. Burns fell after the fourth shot, not being able to get his gun into use for self-defense. Two other men with Burns and Bruno, as soon as the shooting had ceased, broke and fled to Spring City. Two shots were fired at them, and as Bruno was still missing at 8 o'clock, it is not known definitely if he is also kill or wounded. About eight shots were fired into Burn's body, some of them after he fell.

Kofford has been in trouble regarding sheep stealing on former occasions, and had been arrested for it. It looks as though this was a premeditated affair, that if Burns would attemp to take those sheep, or arrest them, both were to shoot. Kofford bears an unfavorable reputation. Mickel has not been heretofore been thought to be dangerous.

The body will be brought to the city, where the funeral and interment will take place. It is expected the remains will reach the city early in the morning.

Sheriff Burns leaves a wife and five children, two of the latter being grown. Telegrams to apprehend the murderers have been sent to every available point, and their speedy capture is anticipated.

Manti, Sept. 28.—The fugitives are making their way toward the Blue Mountain country. Marshall J. T. Heinrie and posse leave here tonight, and hope to overtake them in the morning in Emery county. Kofford was tried in the District Court last term for sheep stealing and acquitted. Burns had a warrant for his arrest on a new charge, threat excitement prevails, and they may be lynched if brought here to-night.

RAILROAD NEWS.

Encouraging Prospects for a Road to This City.

W. W. Cluff made a trip to Salt Lake last Monday on business connected with the great Utah Company, of which he is a member. Mr. Cluff, on being interviewed by a Times representative, said that he had nothing just at present for publication, but promised to give us all the news of public interest as soon as definite arrangements had been completed.

It is rumored, however, that an informal meeting of officers of the Utah Company and representatives of the Union Pacific Railroad was held at Salt Lake last Monday, and that negotiations are pending with regard to freight rates on coal between the two companies. We understand no direct proposition has been made by the Union Pacific company, but that one may be expected soon.

The Union Pacific will undoubtedly assist the company in fashioning a proposition as possible, as it is well understood that their object is to stop coal railroad competition to this point. We doubt, however, that the Utah Company will accept the proposition, as they have a more important object in view than merely a cheap freight rate on coal to Salt Lake. They need a connecting line of road to their coal mines for the purpose of handling their own fuel necessary in the operation of their various other projects, the principal one being the building of a road to the coast. Besides this, there is no doubt that there will be eastern roads that will jump at the chance to connect with the Utah Company's road to the coast, and an independent road is an exhaustless coal supply will be valuable property.

In the meantime, the grade up Green creek is being put in good shape, a good portion of the old grade is already repaired, and it will be extended direct to the company's mines with all dispatch.

***

The announcement of important railway construction is becoming an everyday occurrence in Salt Lake City. The Utah and Wyoming come to the front yesterday, when its directors decided to go ahead with the line from this city to Coalville. The project has been slumbering for some years until quite recently, while negotiations have been prosecuted to float the securities of the company. The directors decided to complete the line from Salt Lake City to Coalville, via Park City. From the latter point to Coalville, it is claimed, a narrow-gauge grade is completed and ready for the ties. The route from this city lies up Emigration canyon, and it is claimed the maximum grade is 2.3 per cent, but to secure this it will be necessary to construct a tunnel.

The company is capitalized at $100,000, divided into 2000 shares of the par value of $50. The officers are B. F. Raybould, president, W. L. Pickard, vice-president; S. F. Walker, secretary and treasurer, and Edmund Wilkes, chief engineer.

Just when the actual construction work will commence is not stated, but Mr. Wilkes said it was decided definitely to push the line to completion at the earliest possible date.—Tribune 22nd.

***

Reports received at the local offices of the Utah Company yesterday were to the effect that the grading of the six miles of the Green Creek terminal railway is progressing very favorably, a large force of men being engaged in the work. It is understood that the materials for the road have all been ordered, and shipments will soon commence to arrive on the ground.

The directors of the Utah Company have not held any general meeting for several days, but executive sessions are held daily. No move has yet been decided upon regarding the main line of the coal road between this city and the company's coal mines, but negotiations are still on looking to the selection of the route.—Herald, 25.

THE STATE OF TRADE.

A Summary of Special Telegrams to Bradstreet's.

The conditions of general trade this week is an improvement over one week ago, in that favorable features reported then have been maintained. The surprisingly good reports of business south, and, with some exceptions, west, are indicated by our special advices from Baltimore, Nashville, Chicago, St. Louis, Portland, Ore., and San Francisco. Baltimore jobbers in all leading lines report the volume of merchandise distributed in excess of expectation, especially dry goods in South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama, except in fruit and coal regions. Other southern products being in good supply, orders continue liberal and certainties collections easy. Nashville, while reporting no improvement over favorable features made last week, notes their continuance and that collections are prompt. One sale is reported of 10,000 bales of southern pig iron this week. Activity reported in almost all lines at Chicago a week ago is confirmed, merchants being satisfied with the volume. Far western buyers who used to buy in eastern markets are purchasing stocks at Chicago. Greatest activity is shown in dry goods, clothing, millinery and shoes. Wool, too, is active, one lot of 700,000 pounds having been sold to a Rhode Island manufacturer. St. Louis jobbers and jobbers of clothing and hats report business heavier than in their preceding experience in like period. Sales of millinery and dry goods are large, as well as those of lumber. The season's shipments of wheat from Portland, Ore., and San Francisco have begun, one vessel having sailed this week from the city first named and six from the Golden Gate. General trade is larger in cities on the Pacific coast has improved in leading lines. Receipts of Alaska salmon have been very heavy and exports promise to be correspondingly large.

The [illegible] features of trade which [illegible] are considered to be [illegible] for the week, [illegible] cent more than last week, 2 per cent larger than in the third week of September, 1893, but 24 per cent earlier than in the like week of 1892. Further favorable feature is found in the [illegible] value of steel rails by northwestern [illegible] railroad companies and [illegible] increased demands by railroads [illegible] car iron and the like. Heavier [illegible] are in the increase of production of [illegible] from last month, when it [illegible] and depressing prices. Demand for [illegible] has fallen off, so have steel billets.

Heavier exports of wheat from New York City, San Francisco and Montreal have further increased the weekly total of wheat and flour as wheat exported from both coasts of the United States and Canada within six days, as exclusive [illegible] reported to Bradstreet's, took [illegible] 5,857,000 bushels. Last week the aggregate was 2,780,000 bushels. A year ago it was 4,727,000 bushels. In 1892 it was 3,711,000 bushels. The year before this 4,711,000 bushels, but in the third week of September, 1890, it was only 1,130,000 bushels.

Prices throughout this week is downward, cotton having sold to within two points of the lowest price on record, and wheat having gone off sufficiently to make another "lowest record" for that cereal. Other decreases are shown in hogs and cattle at western markets, wool on heavy receipts, of Bessemer pig iron, steel billets, Indian corn, oats, naval stores and refined sugar. In addition, anthracite and bituminous coal prices have been weak; those for lumber likewise, at some eastern markets, and quotations for pig iron generally. Steady quotations during the week are announced for pork and lard at eastern markets, and advances have actually taken place in leather, coffee, and to a relatively small degree in wool, notwithstanding the attendance of many American buyers at London wool sales. There are 217 business failures reported in the United States this week, against [illegible] last and as compared with [illegible] 256 in the third week of September, 1893. In that week of 1892 there were [illegible] only 174 business failures reported, but in 1891 the aggregate for the week was 250.

Gains in volume of [illegible] eastern cities in the [illegible] are generally maintained. Boston reports less active in dry goods, with cotton goods firm, due to the strike, and demand for dress [illegible] active with mills well employed. Neither Buffalo nor Pittsburg announce any gains or reductions, except in the [illegible] Philadelphia textile [illegible] manufacturers are only fairly busy, retail [illegible] active trade in other lines being [illegible] dry goods and notions. Providence reports improvement in cotton yarns, manufacturing due to the Fall River strike.

Charleston telegraphs that general trade is fair, with [illegible] new features. Chattanooga, that there has been some slight improvement in business. Memphis, that business [illegible] quite active, especially in dry goods and groceries. Atlanta, that collections are fair and trade is improving; Savannah, that the volume of business continues to improve, and that extraordinarily heavy dealings in spirits of turpentine has taken place. Dry goods jobbers at Augusta have been doing a larger business now for some time previous, while at Jacksonville local trade has been cut into by heavy rains. Only a fair volume of business is reported from Birmingham, and at New Orleans there has been very little change. Galveston reports that sales of dry goods will continue smaller until the middle of October, when orders will be received. Texas cotton beginning to move, which helps business and collections.

At the west favorable features announced by Cleveland a week ago continued, the volume of trade being larger than a year ago; at Cincinnati the tendency to gain is substantialized. Only a fair volume of business is reported by Detroit, although collections are better, but Louisville expects to do a larger business in dry goods, groceries, paints, oils and glassware. There is still fair to an improvement in staple lines at Kansas City and in live stock, and even at Omaha there is a fair volume of business, but without good activity. Milwaukee, too, reports a change within the week, but at both places there have been receiving orders unusually and for larger amounts. St. Paul and Minneapolis report a fair volume of business, with special activity equaling that elsewhere.

A good word is an easy obligation, but not to speak ill requires only silence, which costs no money.—Tillotson.
