COALVILLE, FRIDAY, OCT. 12, 1894.

COALVILLE HONORED.

We see in the prize list of awards made at the fair in the Deseret News that Mr. A. Steedman of Coalville received a handsome silver medal as first prize for his model stationary engine on exhibition there. This is indeed a great compliment to Mr. Steedman's skill as a workman, for the display of machinery in competition was a very complete one. Mr. Steedman's modesty is doubtless the cause of his not having received such awards before, as it took all the flowery oratory Mr. G. Y. Bullock could command to induce Mr. Steedman to send in this exhibit at this time. It is hoped he will not be so backward in the way of letting specimens of his work be seen hereafter.

While on this subject, it may be well to mention the fact that had Mr. Thomas Beard sent in the two onions he left at this office, he would have secured both first and second prize, as were the prize onion exhibited only weighed two pounds and one ounce, while those raised by Mr. Beard weighed two and three-quarters and two and one-quarter pounds, respectively. We are sorry Mr. Beard did not embrace this opportunity, as it would have been an honor to be proud of to come out best in such a display as was on exhibition at this fair—acknowledged to be the most complete in the history of the territory. It would not only have been a great credit to him as an expert gardener, but a feather in the cap of Summit county as a vegetable producer. It will have to be overlooked this time, but don't let such a thing occur again.

THE "TIMES'" FAIR.

The contributors to our display of Summit county vegetables this week are as follows:

Mr. L. L. Randall of Upton had some very fine specimens of squash and sugar beets, and when Mr. John Clark copied them his interests in putting Upton to the front immediately prompted him to purchase them and bring them to this office. The squash, a yellow Hubbard, weighed twenty-five and one a half pounds and the sugar beet nine pounds. They were raised by Mr. Randall on his place in Upton.

The next contributor to the display was Mr. Lewis Hills of Coalville. He brought in specimens of potatoes, horse beans and sheep. The seeds from the horse beans came from England, and the specimens show that they will thrive here. The potatoes are very nice, though not so good as those sent by Mr. Rippon. The rabbeg is a species of rutabaga, the top and root resembling a cabbage. Mr. Hills informs us that they make the best and cheapest feed for hogs that is known. They grow rapidly, yield abundantly, and their fattening qualities are of the best. He grew them in his garden in Coalville, and says when once the farmers find out their great value as a pork producer, they will be widely cultivated. The seed for these also came from England.

The territorial fair and conference the past week at Salt Lake attracted more people than for many years. It is estimated that 5,000 visitors were in daily attendance. And this in looks that times are improving in the territory, especially among the farming people, for a large percentage of the visitors are farmers from all over the territory. And the prosperity of the farmer is a sure indicator of general prosperity, for the successful operation of this branch of industry has a more general effect than any other.

WASHINGTON LETTER

(FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.)

WASHINGTON, October 8, 1894.

That "politics makes strange bedfellows" is an adage that has grown trite, but it did not seem possible a little while ago that politics could ever make bedfellows of Senator Hill and President Cleveland. Yet a movement is now under way to do that very thing, and many politicians believe that it is going to succeed. The idea, according to your correspondent's information, is that Mr. Cleveland is to use the influence of his administration to help elect Senator Hill governor of New York and that in the event of his election he is to announce that he prefers remaining in the senate and resign the governorship, allowing Congressman Dan Lockwood, the candidate for lieutenant governor, who is a strong friend of Mr. Cleveland's, to become governor. Secretary Lamont is now in New York working on this scheme, which will, if successful call off all the democratic opposition to Hill.

The grand shake-up in the treasury department is over. The bureaus which the Dockery committee recommended should be abolished are no more. Advantage was taken of the reorganization to make about 300 changes in the classification of the clerks in the treasury, mostly in favor of the clerks who belong to the dominant party. There is a wide difference of opinion as to the reorganization, some contending that it will be beneficial to the government as well to those who do business with the government, while many predict that the removal of checks and safeguards upon the expenditure of public money is a hazardous experiment to make, one that is likely to encourage crookedness. Time will tell which are right.

The working of the indictments found this week by the Washington grand jury against Havemeyer and Searles, the president and secretary of the sugar trust, for refusing to answer questions asked by the senate investigating committee sounds very much, in places, like a political campaign document, although there is no good reason for believing that the lawyer who drew them had any such intent in. The indictments open by giving the terms of the sugar schedule of the McKinley tariff law and say "that the several terms and provisions of aforesaid schedule of said act were of great benefit and advantage to the interests of a certain corporation called the American Sugar Refining Co." (the sugar trust.) The indictments give a complete history of the tariff legislation, so far as it relates to the sugar interests, and after quoting newspaper articles charging that the senate sugar schedule was made in the return for the contributions of the sugar trust to the Democratic party conclude by finding that "these matters are especially pertinent to an inquiry as had for the object the ascertainment, as a matter of fact, whether the said amendments to the tariff bill had been made by the refining company, or whether they had been permitted to dictate the amendments in consideration of large sums of money contributed by the company to the campaign committee of the Democratic party to aid in the election to the senate of members of that party." Somehow nobody seems to think that the indictments are going to result in any punishment for the sugar trust men.

Ex-Senator Wade Hampton, of South Carolina, who is now United States Railroad Commissioner, has been somewhat harshly criticised because of a published interview with him, in which he argues against government ownership of railroads and said the demand that the government should foreclose on the Pacific railroads, when they default in the payment of their bonds held by the government to secure money loaned them, did not come from the best-informed people of the Pacific coast. His critics contend that owing to his official position it was bad taste for him to publicly express such opinions. It is worthy of note that every railroad commissioner since the office was established has been extremely friendly to the Pacific roads. The office is in fact little more than a sinecure, and the only wonder is the congress has not been asked to abolish it long ago.

It is easy for the visitor to the congressional headquarters of the Democratic and Republican parties to see that the campaign has reached the anxious stage for both the old parties. Both are loud in their claims, so loud, in fact, that they thereby show their anxiety and uncertainty as to what the result is to be. Documents, nine-tenths of which will probably never be read by anybody, are being sent out by the ton by both committees.

Our Kind of Girl.

The genuine girl is absolutely unexplainable. Nobody understands her; she doesn't understand herself. She is a delightful bundle of contradictions. As wise as a serpent, she is as modest as a violet and sweet as a barrel of molasses. She is as stay as the winter apple, and as plump as an Indian summer partridge. She knows something about a piano, and lots about making biscuit. She is tender with her sweetheart, and sets the dog on the other fellow. She is an armful of delights, and blessed is the youth who takes into partnership in wearing out the sofa. She is a daisy and a dumbling, and in all God's created creation there is nothing worthy to be named in the same breath as her. Them's our sentiments, and the man who differs from us has treason in his soul and bile on his liver.—Ex.

HEART DISEASE!

Fluttering, No Appetite, Could Not Sleep, Wind on Stomach.

"For a long time I had a terrible pain at my heart, which fluttered almost incessantly. I had no appetite and could not sleep. I would be compelled to sit up in bed and belch gas from my stomach until I thought that every minute would be my last. There was a feeling of oppression about my heart, and I was afraid to draw a full breath. I could not sweep a room without resting. My husband induced me to try and am happy to say it has cured me. I now have a splendid appetite and sleep well. Its effect was truly marvelous."

MRS. HARRY E. STARR, Pottsville, Pa.

Dr. Miles Heart Cure is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at $5, 6 bottles for $5, or it will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.
