LOCAL BREVITIES.

The new cages for the county jail will soon be in position.

The Park City Record says there is almost an epidemic of typhoid fever in that city.

The People's Mercantile company this week received another carload of general merchandise.

News was received in Coalville this week of the death of Mayor Daniel Heiner's mother, of Morgan.

The Vernal Express this week comes out in an enlarged and improved form. It is now published as a six-column folio.

Quite a quantity of snow fell Wednesday, and this is about the first strong reminder this year that winter is really at hand. The weather is still perfect.

David Frisby has been very busy the past week setting posts and polishing globes for the nine new street lamps that are soon to be added to the number now in.

Quite a number of strangers have been in Coalville during the week. This is nothing strange for Coalville, but we just mention it to show that we noted the fact.

A man named H. J. Wilson, 27 years old, from Cache valley, after losing all his money gambling in Salt Lake Wednesday, committed suicide by taking strychnine.

The division of the Home Comfort Range Company under Superintendent Lollar which has been located in Coalville the past six weeks, take their departure to Ogden next week.

Rev. W. S. Hawkes will preach in the Congregational Church next Sunday evening. He will bring a minister with him who will hereafter visit Coalville every two weeks. We were unable to learn the name of the latter.

Daniel Heiner, the popular mayor of Morgan, had another addition to his family last week. It is a boy, and is the twelfth son, and Mr. Heiner can now content himself that Jacob of old had none the best of him in this line.

The city council met on Monday night. Mr. Mark Hopkins was chosen secretary for the night. The council then adopted resolutions of condolence to be presented to Councilman Clark in his bereavement and then adjourned out of respect to him until next Monday night.

The Salt Lake papers of Friday contain an account of how Edith Karrens, daughter of a prominent citizen of Lehi, was entrapped into an assignation house and outraged. Billy Lynch, a prize fighter, is in jail for the crime, and if he is found guilty, it is hoped by all good citizens that he may be lynched.

On Monday the wife of a New York capitalist eloped from Salt Lake with her husband's friend, and also with his cash. They came to Salt Lake on a visit. The capitalist's name was Mulvaney, and the paramour was called Valentine. The eloping couple have been arrested at El Paso, Tex.

David Reese, Alf Brim and others, have almost completed the ditch which is to change the course of the creek at Castle Rock. The ditch is about a half mile long, and its construction has cut off a large trestle, which will be filled in and made into a grade instead. It is a great improvement and a good job.

What came near proving a serious accident happened Sunday on the spur road leading to the Hopkin mine. Mr. George Edgington, Joseph Fisher and another man were standing in front of a team, when the engine blowed off. This frightened the team, and they started up instantly. The two latter gentlemen got out of the way, but the unlucky one struck Mr. Edgington, knocking him down and rendering him unconscious for a time. He was picked up and carried to shelter, however, and soon recovered. Fortunately he escaped with only a bruised thumb and severe shock. For a short time it was thought he was dead. The team, too, had a narrow escape, the boy who was in the wagon succeeded in stopping them.

In comparing the delinquent tax lists from the counties in various sections of the territory with that of Summit county, we find that, wealth considered, our county makes the most prosperous showing of all the counties.

We have it. The Brigham of late have been experiencing mild skies at the instituted good weather, and Tuesday we wrote an article predicting that Indian summer weather would set in for several weeks yet. The next day it snowed.

Dr. Lepper with his concert company has been holding the boards at Child's Hall the past week. The performances have been only moderately attended. The entertainments are given in advertise the medicines that the Dr. carries with him. It is their intention to depart Monday for the west.

We have this week added to our exchange list two more bright and newsy territorial papers—the Tooele Transcript and the Deseret Eagle. The former is the new paper started at Tooele about five months ago, and is lacking, neat and newsy. The Eagle is gotten out at the Utah school for the deaf at Salt Lake.

Peter Johnson, an employe at the Ontario mine, had his right leg broken this morning while handling a team. A gang of men were preparing to haul a heavy pump and Johnson started to back his wagon up to it. One of the horses always backs quite accurately, and seldom stops until the wagon strikes something solid. He did that this morning and caught Johnson's leg between a wheel and a heavy timber breaking both bones just above the ankle. Drs. Gregor & Wilson set the broken limb and Johnson will go to the hospital this afternoon.—Park Record.

The number of teams from Ogden and Salt Lake that come to Coalville for coal are daily increasing, and THE TIMES representative interviewed one of them in regard to the business. The man with whom we talked was from Ogden, and stated that he could make fair wages hauling coal by team to that city. He had only an ordinary team, but says with the roads in their present good condition he can easily haul 4000 pounds, which sells in Ogden for $5 and $5.50 per ton. In addition, he says that when winter fairly sets in and sleds can be used, there will be dozens engaged in this business to where there is one now. He thinks that coal loading from this point will grow to such favor that the railroads will be [illegible] in freight.

The new bloomer bicycle costume for ladies is thus described. They are not very expensive, and we would judge that it would not require a first-class dressmaker to make them fit: "It is simply a pair of trousers very baggy at the knees, abnormally full above the pistol pockets and considerably loose where you strike a match. The garment is cut decollete at the south end and the bottoms are tied around the knees to keep the mice out. You can't put it over your head as you do your corset, but sit on the floor and pull it on just as you do your stockings—one foot in each compartment. You can easily tell which is the right side to have in front by the buttons on the neck-band."

David C. McLaughlin, as receiver of the Park City Bank, which made an assignment June 12, 1893, proposes to compel the shareholders of the defunct bank to pay to him for the liquidation of its debts some equal to the par value of the stock held by them. The capital stock of the bank was $50,000. Its assets are estimated at $50,000, but included in this estimate is real estate to the value of $15,000, which the receiver states cannot be disposed of at present, and bills receivable, valued at $25,000, which Mr. McLaughlin believes will not be collected for a long time. The assets, he says, are insufficient to pay more than 50 per cent of the liabilities, leaving a balance of indebtedness of $75,000.—Record.

It seems like mock justice when a paper like The Tribune has to stand the expense and annoyance of a protracted lawsuit just to convince the few who do not read the paper that they have told the truth about some scoundrel and exposed a crime—a service to the community at large, and in a straight line with their duty. But the last "hot and injured" subject who was anxious to get something for nothing "got it where the chicken got the ax" for the jury in the Feuntermaker-Tribune libel case returned a verdict for the defendant by ten to two. Carrie Hansen, the girl who was alleged to have been driven out on the deseret, appealed to the police for protection from the Feuntermakers, and got it.

The Salina Press, one of the very brightest weekly newspapers published in the territory, has just started on its fourth volume. From the tone of its comments on this fact, it would seem that the people of Salina, like those of nearly every other section of the territory—Coalville no exception—do not half appreciate the value of their home paper and rally to its support as they should, and it is a reflection on the intelligence of a community that a paper as good as the Press should not be prospurous. The editor of that paper says: "When a newspaper man is compelled to wear a government blanket to cover his nakedness and to retire at night with his belly full of lemons, times are truly miserable."

The work of laying the track on the spur road leading to the Hopkin mine is rapidly progressing, and Boles will soon be running ores to keep the output from this property. The Hopkins mine is not a superior quality of coal, a great deal of development work has been done on it, and this mine promises soon to be one of the largest producers in this vicinity.

The dispatches of Wednesday announced that the Union Pacific would mine at Alma, Gunnison county, Wyoming, which has been idle over a year, Thursday 200 men went out of work, and have been closed ever since. It will be opened next Monday with the [illegible] going to work. State Mine Inspector Thomas has been there since last Friday and declares the mines this evening ready to be opened again at full capacity with safety. The mines will be in charge of Hiram Bowen, the former superintendent. This will be good news to many in Coalville, as a number of our citizens were former residents of Alma, and some of them were thrown out of employment by the disaster mentioned above.
