REPLOGLE STEEL PLUNGES LOWER

Other Steels, Oils and Rails Decline After Downward Crash

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—Replogle Steel, which unsettled the stock market by its extraordinary decline of almost 22 points last Tuesday, made another sensational drop today. It stopped at 30, then rallying to 35.

The rest of the market was not much disturbed by Replogle's erratic movement, although most leaders were one to three points under opening prices.

Stock exchange authorities are investigating the recent transactions in Replogle and an inquiry also is in progress concerning similar movements in Vanadium Steel and Houston Oil.

Variable accessions to yesterday's spirited rally were made at the broad opening to today's stock market, shippings proving the only conspicuous exception. Rails of the Pacific and coal divisions rose substantial fractions and equipments continued to strengthen on signs that the rail road companies are about to enter the market for supplies. Oils, coppers and food products were distinctly firm and Virginia-Carolina Chemical stood out among the specialties at a four point advance. Part of the rise was cancelled within the first half hour, however, when Crucible Steel, Baldwin Locomotive and Mexican Petroleum developed a reactionary trend.

The reaction made considerable headway during the morning, recent features of weakness, espec
