A CERTAIN CURE FOR
Menstrual Disturbances,
Such as
Irregularity, Exaggeration, Suppression, Etc.
A large number of testimonials could be furnished, but I select only one, because all the readers of this paper know him. I is from Dr. E. E. Grisolle, an experienced druggist and a man of the highest integrity. He says:
NASHVILLE, TENN., Nov. 8, 1877.
Rev. M. M. Lin—
Dr. Blake, of the Cumberland Presbyterian Publishing House, Nashville, gave me a bottle of your "WINE OF CARDUI." As I have been in the drug business in this city for a number of years, I know of several ladies who were great sufferers in consequence of menstrual disturbances, and one in particular, whose suffering was so great at her "monthly periods," that she frequently fell spasms. I felt that this would be a good test, and I gave the medicine to her. She took it as directed by you, and it entirely relieved her. It is certainly a wonderful remedy, and I trust that the day will soon come when all the women who suffer thus will have access to your medicine.
Yours very truly, E. E. GOODLETT.

SITTING BULL.

A Personal Sketch of the Great Sioux Chief—His contempt for Yankees.

Correspondence New York Herald.

Chief Sitting Bull is a full-blooded Teton Indian, the Teton being a branch of the great Sioux nation. In stature he is rather inclined to be stout than tall. Perhaps in his moccasins he will measure five feet eight or nine inches. Weight, 170 pounds. His age is about forty-eight; his hair is a little gray, his eyes dark, and his whole appearance that of a full-blooded Sioux on the war-path. He is brave, ambitious, clever in the Indian fashion only, active and, in the Indian creed, somewhat fanatical. He has long cherished the conviction that he is ordained as the Indian who must wrest from the whites the country of his fathers. He has a great and almost immeasurable hatred toward Americans, as distinguished from Europeans or Canadians. He is even expert in detecting white men from the United States and who are not, and instances are not wanting in his bloody and savage career where he has shown wonderful patience and humanity, often with his own hand protecting captives toward whom he took a liking or whom he regarded with so much contempt as to let free for the sake of showing the captive how little he esteemed him. Of course he is a polygamist, having three squaws in his tepee who are his wives according to the Indian code, but he had more constancy than Bear Spirit, his brother-in-law, chief of the Yanktons, and other associate chiefs. His "private life" is described by unbiased hunters, who have long been acquainted with him, to be excellent, according to the Indian code. His great ambition seems to be directed in a military way—to become a great soldier—and he intends, even yet, to carry out the Indian policy, "America for the Sioux."

THE CIVIL SERVICE LAW.

Will Hayes Revoke His Famous Order.

Washington special to the Cincinnati Enquirer.

The President has been surprised by anxious Republican politicians from Pennsylvania, New York and Massachusetts to revoke his civil service order, that he is reported to have relented at last, so far as to allow a member of the Cabinet to print an explanation of it in a Boston paper. It is understood that his explanation, which is to appear shortly, will be writ on by Devens and printed in the Boston Journal; that the substance of it will be that the President only meant to prohibit Federal office-holders from controlling nominating conventions; that they are at liberty to discuss match political work as they please after nominations are made, and that this explanation, or rather revision, is to be printed in Boston, in hope of saving Massachusetts to the Republicans, Pennsylvania and New York being conceded to be lost already.

Papers That Dont Gush Over Hayes.

Memphis Appeal, Brownsville Democrat, Shelbyville Commercial, Clarksville Chronicle, Columbia Herald and Mail, Gibson County, Milan, Franklin Review and Journal, Benton Banner, Humboldt Herald, Gallatin Tennessean, Hartsville Sentinel, Waverly Journal, Fayetteville Express, Lawrenceburg Free Press, Murfreesboro News, Lebanon Herald, and Knoxville Times.

These papers may not be "charmonized" or "reconciled," but they fail to grow wild over the "Southern Policy" of the Presidential fraud. What is going to be done about it? There are others which have escaped our notice, and we will increase the list next week.—Brownsville Democrat.

An Enormous Grain Shipment.

New York Tribune.

The steamer Faraday sailed on Friday for Liverpool, loaded with grain and provisions, besides 500 horses and cattle on her decks. The Faraday was constructed expressly for cattle freighting, and with the Great Eastern had all the cable connecting the Old and New worlds. She has vessel of 4,000 tons burden, and all the available space, including the receptacles for the cattle, was filled with grain. The Great Eastern, of 10,000 tons, is on the way to New York on a similar errand, and it is said that enough orders have been received for grain, on English account, to give employment to every idle British vessel afloat. Said a well-known shipper: "England is preparing for next season's crops, and must rely on America for her food. The Black Sea is closed. Only the Prussian provinces on the Baltic are open, and as they must necessarily be closed if the war is prolonged, America will be England's only resource. Fortunately the crop is large and ample enough to feed the entire world."

Senator Conkling's Opinion.

Washington Special to the Cincinnati Commercial.

Conkling said to-day that if this kind of thing was to go on it would be bad for the Administration, and that unless Key, Schurz and Evarts are put out of the Cabinet within sixty days, there would be very little of the Republican party left to work for or live for.

ATTORNEY GENERAL DEVENS, writing from Washington excusing himself from active participation in the State campaign, says: "I learn with surprise and regret that many of the Republican officials hesitate either to speak or vote, alleging as a reason the President's recent civil service order. In distinct terms that order states that the right of officials to vote and express their views on public questions, either orally or through the press, is not denied, provided it does not interfere with the discharge of their official duties. If such gentlemen choose not to vote or not to express or enforce their views in support of the principles of the Republican party, either orally or otherwise, they at least should not give a reason for such a course which is not justified by the order referred to, which is simply a perversion of it."

It is possible for the small partisan majority of the Senate to admit Kellogg, Lewis and Corbin; but who will then answer for the sweep of the returning wave of retribution? Who will halt in the relentless prosecution of Wells and Anderson and Kellogg and their criminal associates, and who will shield Patterson and Corbin from a sudden transition from the Senatorial toga to the prison stripes? And who should do so? Will not the handwriting on the wall, telling of six Republican seats in the Senate already decreed to Democrats by the popular will, admonish the Republican leaders that Republicanism can not survive the admission of the rotten carpet-baggers to the legislative body that holds in its keeping the honor of the Republic?—Philadelphia Times, Ind.

It must be admitted that Speaker Randall has done the correct thing for Tennessee. Messrs. Whithorne and Bright remain at the head of the committees on which they have done the country such valuable service, and Mr. Atkins is advanced to the chairmanship of the committee on appropriations, which office requires his eminent talents, incorruptible integrity and long experience in public affairs.—American.

UNLESS there is a "change coming" about it, Stoughton, of New York, goes to Illinois. [illegible] Kelly and Hinder [illegible] learned the extraordinary envoy business in Louisiana. [illegible] one trip to Louisiana [illegible] defending the [illegible] American.

WHEN Grandmother Davis votes with the Democrats he accompanies the act with a prompt apology. In 1876 the bungling old gambler for the Presidency will be left severely alone in his glory by a Democratic majority of from eight to twenty-five.—Omaha Herald, Dem.
