THE COURTS.

EQUITY COURT—Chief Justice Cartter.—The Court opened at ten o'clock Thursday, and considered the following cases:

739. George Hill, jr., vs. the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company. An application to dissolve an injunction granted by Judge Fisher restraining the Canal Company from stopping the supply of water obtained from the canal by the mill of Mr. Hill, at the corner of Potomac and Water streets, Georgetown.

It appeared that on the 2d of January, 1864, Mr. Hill leased from the Canal Company for twenty years, from the 1st of July, 1867, at the rate of $500 per annum for the first ten years, and $600 for the last ten years, the right to use from the canal as much water as would pass through an orifice of two hundred square inches; the lower edge of said orifice to be not less than two feet from the bottom of the canal. This orifice was made forty-two inches wide, and, to secure the water flowing through, a flume of the same width was constructed carrying the water from the canal bank for a considerable distance to the mill of Mr. Hill. The quantity thus delivered was insufficient to work the mill, and a greater orifice was used for the purpose. On the 10th of May and 1st of June, 1866, the canal board adopted a resolution providing that the engineer should ascertain the additional quantity of water needed by Mr. Hill, and that such additional quantity should thereupon be leased to him upon the usual conditions, and the payment of five dollars per inch bonus. Mr. Manning, the engineer, thereupon made the examination required, and ascertained that an orifice of seven hundred square inches (including the two hundred already leased) would be required. Demand for the bonus and additional rent upon the additional area of aperture was made on Mr. Hill, who, denying the justice of the claim, refused to pay. Thereupon the company were about to cut off the supply of water for Mr. Hill's mill, as by the lease they had reserved the right to do, when they were restrained by the injunction of Judge Fisher, who had, upon granting the same, compelled Mr. Hill to pay into court the rent and bonus which the Canal Company claimed to be due them.

Mr. Davidge appeared for Mr. Hill, and Mr. Cox for the Canal Company.

It was contended for Mr. Hill that as the original lease authorized him to draw water at a depth of two feet from the canal bottom and an average of four feet from the water-surface, and as the additional extent of aperture given was above the first aperture, rising to within five inches of the surface, and had very much less pressure upon it and delivered a far less quantity of water than the original aperture, therefore an addition in aperture corresponding with the increased elevation would be needed to place second lease upon the same terms as the first.

Mr. Cox, for the canal company, held that while the lease allowed Mr. Hill to make the width of the delivery orifice as great as he chose, yet, as he had, of his own accord, made his flume forty-two inches wide, the only possible mode by which the canal company could give additional aperture was by extending the opening upwards, as had been done. The canal company had not contracted to furnish a given amount of water or to deliver it at any defined depth. The heighth from the bottom specific was a restriction on the power of the lessee, not a stipulation on the part of the canal company. As the heighth of the orifice was the consequence of the base furnished by Mr. Hill, he was entitled to no deduction of rent because the quantity furnished was thereby lessened.

The court said that this was a contract to supply water-power. The quantity of water was the body of the contract. As to the first two hundred inches, if it was an original question, the court would hold that Mr. Hill was entitled to draw water as far below the surface as he could consistently with the provisions which kept him two feet from the bottom, but he had settled this by his own act, and relieved the court from need of further consideration of this part of the subject. All that remained was the construction of the resolutions which, by their passage by the Board and the acceptance of Mr. Hill, became the contract as to an additional lease of water. This contract, like all other contracts, should be construed equitably, and in this view the quantity of water secured is the object of the contract. It is to be supposed that Hill expected to get all the water he could above the limit of two feet from the bottom, and contracted with that view. The quantity of water was the corpus of the contract—not the privilege of cutting a hole of certain dimensions in the canal. Under all the circumstances, the court held that it would be proper to refer the cause to a skilled person to report proper methods of adjusting the rental value of the additional water delivered to Mr. Hill under the resolutions of the 10th of May, 1866. Mr. Hutton, engineer in charge of the water works, was suggested as a proper commissioner for this purpose, and it was agreed that the case be adjourned until this morning to enable the counsel to frame the order of reference.

604. Merriman vs. Bargy. Injunction refused.

992 Joyce vs. Bass. Order for defendant to show cause why injunction should not issue to prevent the sale advertised under a deed of trust, the allegation being that the deed was fraudulent. The answer of the defendant swore away the equity of the plaintiff's bill, and the order for an injunction was dismissed.

700. Prayser vs. Crome. Order ratifying auditor's report.

592. Clarke vs. Payne. Decree appointing W. F. Mattingly trustee to sell.

158. Marbury (administrator) vs. Douglas et al. Order of publication.

984. Angus vs Angus. Decree appointing J. W. Angus trustee to sell.

817. Deely vs. Shanahan. Decree appointing Charles Walter receiver of rents, &c.

The court then adjourned until Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

ASTROLOGY!
THE WORLD ASTONISHED
AT THE WONDERFUL REVELATIONS
MADE BY THE GREAT ASTROLOGIST,
MADAME H. A. PERRIGO.
She reveals secrets no mortal ever knew. She restores to happiness those who, from doleful events, catastrophes, crosses in love, loss of relations and friends, loss of money, &c., have become despondent. She brings together those long separated, gives information concerning absent friends or lovers, restores lost or stolen property, tells you the business you are best qualified to pursue and in what you will be most successful, causes speedy marriages and tells you the very day you will marry, gives you the name, likeness and characteristics of the person. She reads your very thoughts, and by her almost supernatural powers unveils the dark and hidden mysteries of the future. From the stars we see in the firmament—the malefic stars that overcome or predominate in the configuration—from the aspects and positions of the planets and the fixed stars in the heavens at the time of birth, she deduces the future destiny of man. Fail not to consult the greatest Astrologist on earth. It costs you but a trifle, and yet may never again have so favorable an opportunity. Consultation fee, with likeness and all desired information, $1. Parties living at a distance can consult the Madame by mail with equal safety and satisfaction to themselves, as if in person. A full and explicit chart, written out, with all inquiries answered and likeness enclosed, sent by mail on receipt of price above mentioned. The strictest secrecy will be maintained, and all correspondence returned or destroyed. References of the highest order furnished those desiring them. Write plainly the day of the month and year in which you were born, enclosing a small lock of hair.
