MR. COOK'S OPINION ON THE SCHOOL QUESTION.

We publish elsewhere the opinion of Mr. William A. Cook, corporation attorney, in relation to the admission of the child of Rev. Sella Martin to a white school. The opinion fails to meet the expectation of our citizens, white or colored, for Mr. Cook studiously avoids reference to the main question of the right of colored children to be admitted to white schools, and he argues solely upon the point that under a rule of the board, as the girl secured a certificate, she cannot now be ousted.

Mr. Vashon, who granted the certificate, was appointed by the Mayor trustee of the schools of Washington city for the First school district. He was not appointed to decide questions of color. A professor of ethnology was not contemplated in his selection for that position. According to the rules and regulations governing the Board of Trustees of Public Schools, a trustee has the right to issue a ticket of admission to any child that is a suitable candidate, and who makes the proper application.

No one knew better than Mr. Vashon that the child of Rev. Sella Martin was the child of colored parents. He knew also that there was no such thing as a line of distinction in granting tickets of admission. Though nearly white, the child was, nevertheless, classed with the colored children of the city of Washington. Inasmuch as it had never been determined whether an admixture of African blood invalidated the claims of those who might appear white to seats in our white schools, Mr. Vashon, by his assumption, plainly violated the very law of the school board cited by Mr. Cook in his "opinion."

But Mr. Cook, being a lawyer, construes this rule as conferring upon a trustee plenary power to violate every law of the school board, which he, in his individual judgment, may see fit to do. The case presented to Mr. Cook was plainly this: Has a trustee of public schools the right to discriminate where there is a question of color? But he evades it, and finds the word most suitable for his purpose is the word "suitable" in the rule itself.

Mr. Vashon is a trustee of the public schools of Washington, and as such Mr. Cook argues he is authorized to issue tickets of admission to children without regard to their color, if he thinks the candidates are suitable. Mr. Vashon being of that opinion in the case in question, "it must be allowed to remain as a pupil, and in all respects be regarded and treated as such."

There is, however, another phase of the subject, and one which Mr. Cook failed to discern. Mr. Vashon is the trustee of the white schools of Washington.

The rules and regulations governing that board were framed and approved for the white schools of the city of Washington, and the line of distinction never was drawn, nor was it ever intended to be drawn in granting admission to children to enter the schools under their control. Mr. Cook knows that the question of providing for the payment of the proportionate part of the money required by the act of Congress to be paid to the trustees of the colored schools admits of no discussion.

It recognizes plainly that there are colored schools, and that they must be supported. It does not specify what class of children shall attend them, but it positively provides that they shall be colored, and it matters not whether they are of pure African descent or by intermixture merely tinged with African blood. If such a question could arise as "caste," would it not be equally balanced? If Mr. Martin's child is so white that it can attend the white schools, and yet by virtue of its parents being colored, still entitled to a seat in the colored schools, would it not, we ask, compel the issue to be made, to which of the schools does that child belong?

An appearance is not a reality, and when Mr. Cook evaded the law, and construed the rules to meet his own views and wishes, he knew as corporation attorney that he was willfully upholding a corporation official in violating the rules prescribed for his guidance. He refuses, however, to give an official opinion on the other questions presented by the sub-board. They are not in evidence, and can only receive his official cognizance when properly presented from the board through the Mayor of the city.

Let us ask Mr. Cook, if a trustee's judgment is all that is necessary in deciding who shall be pupils of our public schools, what need of appropriate legislation to settle the entire subject of mixed schools in this city? If Mr. Vashon has the right, by the rule of the school board, to judge who he will admit, he can grant tickets to every colored child that wishes to enter for instruction, and by his individual authority establish mixed schools. If he has the right in one instance he certainly has the right in every case presented to him. And this would apply equally to every member of the board.

But if mixed schools are not yet established, and Mr. Cook admits that it is a question he is ready to consider whenever it is properly presented to him, how does he contrive to convince himself of the right of Mr. Vashon to decide the question for the corporation attorney?

We repeat, as we said in the beginning, that the opinion fails to meet the issue presented, and is weak at every point. And what is the meaning of the closing paragraph if it is not a threat to appeal to Congress to settle a question which Mr. Cook admits is yet unsettled? Let Congress be appealed to, and let it, if it will, decide arbitrarily that we must have mixed schools, and we predict a long farewell to our excellent school system. Private schools will then prosper, while the public schools will deteriorate. The agitation of the question has already resulted in the withdrawal of some of our best pupils from the schools.

A REMARKABLY INTERESTING SERIES of original oil sketches of American scenery, by Charles Lanman, are on view and for sale at Philip & Solomons' bookstore, which cannot fail to attract lovers of art. Similar sketches by Mr. Lanman have been engraved for the Illustrated London News and Appleton's Journal. It is the intention of Messrs. Philip & Solomons to exhibit from time to time the works of our best artists, and in a few days some excellent water color drawings, just received from Europe.

THE TARIFF QUESTION.—Considerable comment is made upon the fact that the high tariff men propose to inaugurate the campaign by enlarging the free list. By examining the proposition it is found to be simply a tub to the whale. While proposing to put cayenne pepper in the free list it enhances the price of soap by fostering a monopoly of the raw material of soda ash and admitting it free of duty.

THERE IS NOW ON EXHIBITION at Metzerott's a pen-drawing by L. Waldecker, esq., of a diploma of honorary membership of the Washington Sangerbund for the composer of its prize song, Mr. Franz Abt. It is splendidly executed, and is well worth seeing by all who admire fine works of art.

PETITIONS to be presented to Congress in behalf of "Cuba and her freedom" are circulated in this city, and have already received a large number of signatures.

Personal.

Hon. H. H. Starkweather, of Connecticut, and Hon. T. M. McNeeley, of Illinois, are at the Ebbitt house.

Hon. Justin S. Morrill, of Vermont, arrived in town yesterday, and is at his old quarters, No. 360 A street. He expects his family here next week.

Senator Chandler and family arrived in New York yesterday from his extended European tour.

The President yesterday appointed W. E. Smith postmaster at Woodstock, Illinois, in place of Major F. Irwin, suspended.

Mr. John B. Kerr, recently appointed solicitor of the Sixth Auditor's Office, will enter upon the discharge of the duties of that office to-day.

Sherman Platt, clerk in the Third Auditor's Office, has been promoted from a second to third class.

Rev. John K. Lewis, of Syracuse, New York, has been appointed chaplain in the United States navy.

Second Assistant Engineer Charles R. Roelker has been ordered to duty in the bureau of steam engineering at the Navy Department.

F. A. Liebschutz, who resigned a clerkship in the Sixth Auditor's office, on the first of June last, has just returned from a visit to Poland, and is now in this city.

Judge S. S. Nichols, formerly chancellor of Kentucky, died at Louisville Saturday, after a brief illness, of congestive chills.

Miss Anna E. Dickinson was twenty-seven years old last Sunday, it being her birthday.

James Fisk, jr., says he has paid David W. Field $122,000 for legal services during the past year. Wonder if the statement is not "spiritualism."

Hon. Charles Sumner is to lecture in New York on Friday evening next on "Caste."

Wendell Phillips was born on the twenty-ninth of November, 1811.

The rumor that Mrs. Abraham Lincoln is engaged to be married to a German nobleman, and the reflections upon her in some of the opposition papers, says a correspondent, are as cruel as they are unfounded. Mrs. Lincoln is living in great retirement at Frankfort, goes into no society, and rarely sees any visitors.

Gen. O. O. Howard lectured in Boston Monday night before the Christian Association.

Mrs. Livermore is going to take her woman's rights paper, the Agitator, to Boston.

Hon. W. E. Chandler, of this city, and Hon. E. H. Rollins, of New Hampshire, are at the Astor house, New York.

Hon. W. J. Smith, of the Eighth district Tennessee, arrived in the city last night.

THE CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILWAY.—The recent meeting in Richmond of the stockholders of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad resulted in a complete defeat of the anti-progressive element which turns its back on profiers of Northern capital. The proposition of Northern capitalists was adopted by a vote of fifty-one thousand shares against five thousand. The amount of money already expended in the construction of the road is $10,000,000 in gold. The debt of the company is $3,000,000. The contracts entered into is to complete and equip the road to the Ohio river, at the mouth of the Big Sandy, at a cost of $15,000,000—$10,000,000 for construction, $5,000,000 for equipment; distance to be built, 200 miles; work to be begun next month. The heaviest work on the route is the Greenbrier tunnel, one mile and a quarter long.

DISPATCHES FROM THE ASIATIC SQUADRON.—In dispatches just received from the flagship of the Asiatic squadron, the following reference is made to the arrival at Yokohama of His Royal Highness, Prince Alfred: "The Prince saluted Admiral Keppel, (English,) but did not salute either Admiral Rowan or the French commander. The day following he hoisted his royal standard, which every one saluted with twenty-one guns. After the firing was over word came on board that His Royal Highness would have a reception on shore, and people wishing to know him could have an introduction. As he had not treated the American or French commanders with common courtesy in the matter of the salute, they both declined to attend. This caused considerable talk, and the next morning Prince Alfred hauled down his royal standard, hoisted the 'gridiron' at the foretop and saluted first the American admiral with thirteen guns, and afterwards the French, thus acknowledging the corn."

The United States steamer Idaho, on this station, was last month caught in a typhoon and was only saved by being worked to port under jury masts. Her bottom is so badly damaged that she will be turned into a storeship at Yokohama.

THE POLICY OF SECRETARY BOUTWELL in reference to the purchase of bonds receives the unqualified approbation of many of our ablest financiers, and the condition of the gold market is the best evidence that he has pursued the right course. From the 11th of May, 1869, to the 25th of November the amount expended in purchasing bonds was $89,283,273.13, their nominal face value being $75,478,800. Such is the flattering exhibit made in the forthcoming report of General Spinner, United States Treasurer, and he has added to his report several pages on the subject of reducing the debt, showing that if purchases continue to be made as begun, adding on the accrued interest, the public debt will be wiped out in thirteen years.

THE BOARD OF VISITORS to the Military Academy at West Point recommended, in their report, that the cadets be divided in two classes. One class was to return to civil after having graduated; and the other class, embracing the most promising youths, was to study the higher branches of military science, and supply officers for the army. This recommendation is not indorsed by the leading officers of the army, who express a preference for advanced schools for cavalry, infantry and artillery, similar to the existing artillery schools at Fortress Monroe, rather than a prolonged course at West Point.

DIED.

LAZENBY.—Miss MARY LAZENBY died at her residence, near Sandy Springs, Montgomery county, Md., on the morning of the 27th ult., of pneumonia, aged 41 years. She died as she had lived, a consistent member of the Church of Christ. "Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God." T. A. L.

HAYS.—On November 29, after a long and painful illness, which she bore with Christian fortitude, Mrs. MARGARET E. HAYS, aged 6 years. She was a descendant of Benjamin Harrison, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, and the grand-daughter of Major W. B. Harrison, of Revolutionary fame.

Her funeral will take place from her late residence, No. 501 street, this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The friends of the family are respectfully invited to attend.

Important Notice to Postmasters and the Public.

On and after January 1, 1870, the exchange of mails between the United States and France will cease, in consequence of the abrogating of the present Postal Convention between the two countries, to take effect on that date.

The correspondence addressed to France, or received from France, on and after the first of January next, by steamship or other vessels running direct between the two countries, will therefore be subject to the following rates of United States postage, to be prepaid by stamps at the office of mailing on matter sent, and collected at the office of delivery on matter received:

Letters ten cents per single rate of half an ounce or under.

Newspapers two cents each, and

Books, Packets, and Samples of Merchandise four cents per each four ounces or fraction thereof.

Letters for France may also be sent from the United States in the ordinary open mail to England without prepayment of postage, but printed matter and samples cannot, under existing regulations, be so sent.

Inasmuch as all direct postal relations between the Postal Departments of the United States and France will cease on the first of January next, it will not be practicable to forward correspondence after that date to any foreign country or place "by French mail." The rates of postage "by French mail," as stated in the "Table of Postages to Foreign Countries," will therefore be inoperative after the thirty-first December proximo.
