Regular Republican Candidate.

FOR MAYOR,

MATTHEW G. EMERY.

CRACKING THE PARTY LASH.

We are glad to know that Senators of the United States are at last growing restive under the repeated attempts to dragoon them into voting for measures under the plea that "the party requires it." Throw conscience to the dogs, but vote with your party for the party's sake, has too long been the spur to force Senators into voting for measures that do not meet their approval.

This spur of party dictation has not been confined to Senators and Representatives talking to their peers, but certain papers in the country have been in the habit of denouncing honest Republicans who differed from them on important questions. Prominent among the journals that have cracked the party whip is the Chronicle of this city, which has at last been branded as it deserved.

When the Georgia bill was under consideration the Chronicle read every man out of the party who did not vote as it and Governor Bullock directed. It had very little influence, however, and the majority of the Senate voted in spite of it, and not with it. And we may remark in passing, that in view of the developments in the Judiciary Committee investigation, the slight influence it may have possessed hitherto in the Georgia matter is gone, and gone forever.

Again, the other day, when Senator Ferry, of Connecticut, in the exercise of his rights as a Senator, uttered his sentiments on the fifteenth amendment bill and spoke his honest convictions, he was denounced by the Chronicle, and in an article headed "A Technical Republican on the Rampage," that paper used this language toward him:

"The most remarkable harangue which has been heard in Congress for a long time was uttered in the Senate yesterday by Mr. Ferry, of Connecticut. His zeal in behalf of the colored people of the South, who are so severely punished by not being allowed to hold office, amounted almost to frenzy. In his diminishing he cast about him for some priority and in utter recklessness. In defense of his relief claims he attacked his former political friends with the bitterness which is only exhibited by a renegade. The virulence, the hardness toward his late Republican associates was in striking contrast with his tenderness toward the rebel members, which was so considerable as to cause Senator Drake to surmise that it might proceed from a softening of the brain as well as of the heart. . . . Mr. Ferry's speech was little more than a tissue of ugly epithets, and base defiance of rebel leaders."

The idea of accusing Senator Ferry of sympathizing with rebels was so preposterous that the whole article was simply laughed to scorn.

We expect to see in the Chronicle to-day an article reading Senator Tipton out of the party because of words spoken yesterday in debate.

While the resolution for final adjournment was under consideration, Mr. Drake accused the Republicans of uniting with Democrats to defeat the legitimate legislation of Congress. In the course of his remarks, Mr. Drake said:

"I simply undertook one thing, and that has been accomplished; to let the country know that there has not been a quorum of this Republican party in the House of Representatives, therefore the Speaker from Massachusetts, whom the country to understand that we are not responsible for the action of the House in refusing to act on this subject, are following the lead of the Democrats of the House of Representatives. Sir, his manner of dealing with the subject was not that of a Republican. The Chronicle has been persuading that some men Senators in this Chamber for many months past. In order to silence men in terms and tones other than those in which the Republicans in the House of Representatives or in the Senate but in conjunction with the votes of the members of the Democratic party."

At this point Mr. Tipton was interrupted by the expiration of the time allotted to the discussion of this question, but it was again taken up, and Mr. Tipton resumed his remarks as follows:

Mr. Tipton. Mr. President, I was speaking with some degree of feeling on this subject that we have been subjected recently to a course of treatment that has been laid up to the door of our constituency and of the country as the result of a portion of the Republican Democratic party voting with the Democrats, and the prophecy was made that the principle of the Bingham amendment could never pass the Senate unless by the assistance of a portion of the Republican party in the Department.

Now, by reference to the vote by which the substance of that proposition was incorporated in the House with the amendments of the Senator from Kansas, (Mr. Pomeroy,) it will be found that that proposition finally passed the Senate by a clear Republican majority of at least two. The amendment, therefore, in that instance failed most signally; and, if necessary, there were one or two instances where it was carried, which might have added to the number. And now what I say to this subject I desire Senators to hear, for what I say is vital to the interest of the party to which I have been devoted from the first hour of its organization.

We are, in the first place, a Republican party, composed of elements of the old organization of this country; we are from the old Whig party, we are from the old Liberty party; we are from the Democratic party. We have organized a party out of a conglomerate organization, and it is to be expected, therefore, that we shall often differ among ourselves in questions vital to the interest of the party to which I have been devoted from the first hour of its organization. If we do not concede to each other the right to differ, without being stigmatized as being recreants to our party, where shall we go, where Senators from a State differ, where members from a State differ, where a portion of them have been arraigned and need out of the party, that they will go home to their constituency and demand a vindication of their conduct. Then what have you? Then you have a split in the party, brought about by the assistance of men in the Senate and in the House of Representatives, and an effort to degrade men in the eyes of their constituency because they have voted according to their convictions of right.

Sir, this course of conduct has been continued so long that it has become utterly unbearable. I say, for the benefit of the Republican party, in justice that it should cease in this hall. I say that unless it ceases in this hall there will be harmony neither here nor elsewhere. Men will go on their votes before their constituency, if they are not so aroused as to stand the fate of that constituency.

Demanded as we were in this Senate, I took my position on the Georgia question boldly, distinctly, and emphatically, and I am sustained at home, though I was denounced here for the course I took. I court investigation; I court a scrutiny into my votes. I throw them before the face of every constituent I have, and will bide there to the record. If he can stand it, I can; and if he cannot, I am the senate representative of the State of Nebraska on this floor, and while I occupy that position no species of dragonism, as it has been designated by the Senator from Pennsylvania, will drive me for one single moment from occupying such position as I feel it my duty to occupy whether I am entitled by any Republican vote on this Senate floor or not.

The above are manly words. They are the words of a statesman and an honest man, and they will be indorsed by every Republican in all this broad land. Other Senators informed what Mr. Tipton said so well, and we opine that if the Chronicle attempts to read out of the party all who do not agree with it, that paper will soon stand alone as a party by itself.

THE MARKET-HOUSE BILL.—The President yesterday signed the bill incorporating the Washington Market House Company, and it is now a law.

Mayor Bowen's election depending upon the defeat of this bill, according to his own statement, will he now retire from the field, or will he still linger upon leading a forlorn hope?

We hope the new improvement will now be pushed vigorously forward, and that we may shortly see a handsome edifice in the place of the unsightly shanties which now disfigure what should be one of the finest avenues in the country.

Before these shanties are removed we hope that photographs of them may be taken in order that if Mayor Bowen should ever come up again as a candidate for any position a view of the nuisance he would have perpetuated may be shown as a sufficient reason for his rejection.

INTERNAL REVENUE receipts on yesterday were $607,113.71.

THE Chronicle yesterday contained a paragraph denying a statement published in the REPUBLICAN relative to the circulation of electioneering documents in the Treasury Department by John A. Graham, Assistant Register of the Treasury.

The denial, however, does not alter the facts, though it may serve to relieve Mr. Bowen and his friend (Mr. Graham) of the imputation so far as the readers of the Chronicle are concerned. But alas for the veracity of the Chronicle's "best authority for every fact as to the truth of the statement." The number of witnesses who substantiate every word of the statement we published is too large, their character is too high, and the weight of evidence too great to be quashed by the Chronicle's "best authority."

☞ TO THE VOTERS OF THE SIXTH WARD.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 16, 1870.

FELLOW CITIZENS: We have a candidate for Four-Bridge at the ensuing election—a gentleman, a Christian, and one whose loyalty cannot be questioned—for Mayor of this city, Matthew G. Emery, who I shall support upon questions I think outside of any partisanship of issue.

First, As a reformer and a working man, I will support candidates for aldermen in my ward who will vote for reformers in the different ordinances.

Second, To reduce the salary of the tax boards to what it was before they undertook to take which, upon the book, it appears, they have made over three years ago.

Third, To reduce the salary of paymaster of the corporation, which is, I am sure, too much.

Fourth, To abolish the office of superintendent of public schools, an office that is a nuisance and in the way of the teachers.

Fifth, To reduce the fees of the collector so that his salary shall not exceed $3,000 per annum after paying his clerks.

Sixth, No more taxes to be levied on the people than the present rate.

Seventh, The appropriation in no case shall exceed the amount of taxes paid.

Eighth, That all persons shall be paid monthly who are at work or otherwise engaged by the corporation.

Ninth, I am opposed to taxing the public schools, but am in favor of schools for all, under honest and efficient management, and I will do what I can to take the churches among their officers in their own way, with a strict eye to justice to all.

Fellow citizens, at the earnest solicitation of over one hundred voters I announce myself a candidate for the board of Common Council. In doing so, I ask if it is rightly understood that I am a Republican.

C. W. WHITE.
