CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS

Forty-First Congress—Second Session.

FRIDAY, June 3, 1870.

SENATE.

Mr. Kellogg, from the Committee on Commerce, reported a resolution providing for the appointment of a special committee of five to consider the subject of reclaiming the alluvial lands on the lower Mississippi from overflow, and to provide a complete levee system, and what action is necessary by Congress to secure said objects, the committee to have power to sit during the recess and to employ a clerk. Adopted.

Mr. Hamlin, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, reported, with amendment, House bill to arch Tiber creek.

Mr. Morton presented memorial and resolutions of the Israelites of Indianapolis on the subject of the recent massacre of Jews in Roumania, and asking the prompt interposition of the President to stay the further effusion of innocent blood. Referred to Committee on Foreign Relations.

Mr. Sumner offered a resolution requesting the President to communicate any information he may have in reference to the recent alleged massacre of Jews in the Province of Roumania.

Mr. Sumner, in offering the resolution, said: I will remark that the news that we have is so absolutely horrible that it is difficult to believe; it is incredible. One is disposed to believe that there is at least some gross exaggeration in the report. It is important, however, it seems to me, in the interest of humanity, and in that guardianship of humanity which belongs to the great republic, that we should possess ourselves at once of all the information attainable on the subject.

Mr. Sprague. The facts that will be obtained from a contemplation of this subject will result in my opinion in this. The Jews in this principality had obtained possession of the whole of the trade, a great portion of the lands and about all of the business connected with the affairs of that people. There was then exhibited on one side a population, poor, without occupation or business, and on the other side a rich, trading, monopolizing class. It was in consequence of that condition that has brought this people, these Jews, to the condition which the world is called upon today to contemplate and to sorrow over. There is food for reflection in the condition of things every day in this country. There is food for reflection for us in contemplating this subject and contemplating our own condition.

Mr. Stewart. I do not think it would be wise to establish a bill that a man, when he gets rich, must be killed. [Laughter.] I do not think it would agree very well with some of us. The resolution was then passed.

Mr. Trumbull called attention to the bill to apportion representatives in Congress among the several States. He was important that this bill should pass at an early day. The late large addition of the colored element to the voting population would make changes in the representation of several of the States. The census was now being taken, and it was necessary that all necessary legislation be perfected as soon as possible.

The Indian appropriation bill was then proceeded with, and various amendments agreed to, reported from the Committee on Indian Affairs, amounting in the aggregate to about $1,500,000.

Mr. Williams introduced joint resolution authorizing the Secretary of the Interior to increase, in his discretion, the compensation of the assistant marshals for taking the census but not to an amount exceeding $6 per cent.

At 4:30 p. m. the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Mr. Beaman, of Michigan, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported the deficiency bill passed by the House making appropriation for the pay and mileage of members with Senate amendments appropriating $1,000,000 for expenses of collecting the customs, and $20,000 for the pay of special counsel for the Government.

Mr. Brooks (N. Y.) wished for some more definite information in regard to the appropriation for collecting customs, and asked that the bill stand over.

Mr. Beaman said he was among to take the sense of the House upon the subject, and would ask the previous question.

Upon the passage of the bill the ayes and noes were ordered, and the bill passed—ayes 116, nays 45.

Mr. Winchester (Ky.) asked leave to offer a resolution in relation to the late reported massacre of Jews in Roumania.

Mr. Schenck said there was very little evidence of the truth of this report, except what was contained in the telegraph. It might be a hoax. He, therefore, hoped it would be referred to the Foreign Affairs Committee for inquiry. It was so referred.

Mr. Butler, of Mass., as a privileged motion, wanted to report the bill for the admission of Georgia to representation in Congress.

The Speaker ruled that that was no higher privilege than the pending tax bill, and it could not be considered unless the tax bill was postponed.

Mr. Butler moved to postpone, but not more than a dozen members rose well with him.

The House then resumed consideration of the amendments to the income tax section of the tax bill.

The first amendment was that offered by Mr. Cox, of New York, to make the percentage 3 instead of 5. This was agreed to—yeas 115, nays 78.

The question then recurred on Mr. Hawley's amendment, as amended by Mr. Hale, to make the exemption $2,000; which was agreed to—yeas 138, nays 52.

Mr. Judd's amendment to relieve salaries and profits from taxation, was agreed to.

The question then recurred upon Mr. Judd's amendment to strike out the clause imposing a tax on the amount of sales of live stock, sugar, wool, butter, cheese, pork, beef, mutton, or other meats, hay and grain, fruits, vegetables or other productions; and, also, to strike out the words "and all other gains, profits and income drawn from any source whatever." This was rejected—yeas 75, nays 112.

Mr. Finkelnburg's amendment limiting the amount of exemption for house rent at $500 was agreed to.

The question was then taken upon Mr. Potter's amendment, to add the following proviso to section 35: "Provided that the tax imposed by this section shall not continue or be collected after the expiration of the year 1870." Rejected—yeas 73, nays 106.

The amendments proposed by Mr. Winans, of Ohio, and Mr. Mungen, of Ohio, were rejected.

Mr. Woodward's amendment to strike out all of section 35, and to substitute a clause taxing the interest of United States bonds, was rejected.

A number of other amendments to perfect the sections were agreed to.

An amendment was agreed to making families of Shakers, or other religious communities holding their property in common, to consist of five members to each family.

Mr. Holman's amendment to tax the interest on bonds of the United States 10 per cent. was rejected—yeas 45, nays, 138.

The amendment offered by Mr. Ambler, of Ohio, to include in the objects to be taxed all legacies and distributive shares of personal estate, and the cash value over and above incumbrances of any real estate, or interest in real estate, received from the estate of any decedent other than the husband, father, or mother of the person returning the income, was rejected—yeas 63, nays 102.

The other amendments were rejected, or those adopted were not of special importance.

The question was then taken on striking out all the sections relating to income tax, and the motion was rejected by a vote of 56 yeas to 136 nays.

The vote in detail was as follows:

Yeas—Messrs. Archer, Axtell, Biggs, Bird, Bowen, Buffinton, Burr, Cleveland, Covode, Cowles, Crebs, Davis, Dickinson, Fitch, Fox, Garfield, Getz, Haight, Hamill, Hill, Hooper, Hotchkiss, Jenckes, Johnson, Kelley, Kellogg, Kerham, Laflin, Lynch, Mayham, McCarthy, Milnes, Moore of N. J., Morrell of Pa., Morrissey, Myers, Negley, Newsham, Nihlack, O'Neill, Potter, Randall, Reeves, Ridgeway, Sargent, Schumacher, Slocum, Smith of Oregon, Starkweather, Stevenson, Stiles, Strong, Swann, Taylor, Trimble, Twitchell, Upson and Wood—58.

Nays—Messrs. Allison, Ambler, Armstrong, Arnell, Asper, Atwood, Bailey, Barry, Beaman, Beatty, Beck, Benjamin, Bennett, Benton, Bingham, Blair, Boles, Booker, Boyd, Brooks of Mass., Burchard, Burdett, Butler of Tenn., Clark of Texas, Clarke of Kansas, Cobb of Wis., Coburn, Cook, Conger, Callom, Dawes, Degener, Dockery, Donley, Dox, Duval, Dyer, Ela, Eldridge, Farnsworth, Ferriss, Finkelnburg, Fisher, Gibson, Gilfillan, Hale, Hamleton, Hamilton, Harris, Hawkins, Hawley, Hay, Hays, Heflin, Hoar, Holman, Ingersoll, Jones of N. C., Judd, Kelsey, Kerr, Knapp, Knott, Lash, Lawrence, Lewis, Logan, Loughridge, Marshall, Maynard, McCormick, McCrary, McIlrow, McKenzie, McNeely, Mercer, Moore of Ohio, Moore of Ill., Morgan, Morphis, Morrill of Maine, Orth, Packard, Packer, Paine, Peck, Perce, Peters, Phelps, Plats, Pomeroy, Porter, Prescer, Rice, Roots, Sawyer, Schenck, Scofield, Sheldon of La., Sheldon of N. Y., Smith of Ohio, Smith of Tenn., Smith of Ky., Smyth of Iowa, Stokes, Stoughton, Strickland, Sweeney, Taffe, Tanner, Tillman, Townsend, Tyner, Van Auken, Wallace, Ward, Washburn of Mass., Wheeler, Whitmore, Willard, Williams of Ind., Wilson of Ohio, Winans, Welker and Woodward—120.

The question then recurred upon the amendment offered yesterday by Mr. Beck to tax United States bonds. A number of amendments were offered to the amendment, and it was somewhat modified.

Mr. Schenck opposed the amendment, and Mr. Beck advocated it.

Mr. Butler argued that the interest of United States bonds was taxed to-day. All honest men paid that tax, while the rogues and the dishonest men paid it. It was only proposed now to exercise the method applied to rogues and to withhold the amount of taxation. He asserted that men evaded the law because, while the increase of bonds was part of the income, they did not return it. The rascals kept that back.

Mr. Benton, of New Hampshire, asked if all were rascals who held bonds.

Mr. Butler replied that all were rascals who owned bonds and swore they did not because they wanted to evade the tax. He called the attention of the House and the country to the fact that we had taxed the amounts that servant girls and others deposited in saving banks, and now wanted to refuse to tax the wealthy bondholder. Referring to the foreign bondholder he denied that the country had ever given a pledge that the bonds of the United States should not be taxed.

Mr. Benton inquired how many of the bondholders had sworn they did not own bonds in order to evade the tax.

Mr. Butler. Count the sands of the sea, or the stars of the heaven for multitude for an answer. [Laughter.]

Mr. Hotchkiss, of N. Y., argued that to tax the bonds would be a violation of the pledged faith of the Government.

Mr. Schenck said the question was not discussed in the spirit in which it should be. Gentlemen ran off to discuss the character of men who held the bonds, when that had nothing to do with it. The only question to be determined was whether we had a right to tax the bonds, and he contended that there was no such right.

Mr. Eldridge, of Wis., argued in favor of the taxation of the bonds and the right of Congress to do it.

Mr. Butler wanted to consider what effect the taxation of those bonds would have upon the credit of the Government. He admitted it would be disastrous if the Government had pledged its faith not to tax these bonds, but he denied that such pledge was ever given. If such a pledge had been given he would not press his motion to a vote. He denied an insinuation that this smacked of repudiation. All other bonds, of county, State and railroads were taxed, whether in the hand of the foreigner or in the hand of our own citizens, and we heard no cry of repudiation until we came to bonds of the United States. He repeated what he had said upon a former occasion, that all other nations taxed their bonds and they were not accused of repudiation.

Mr. Schenck said it was asserted and insinuated that all who held United States bonds were rascals. He denied that, and no one who made the assertion ever believed it. It was mere clap trap. He admitted that there was no direct pledge that the bonds should not be taxed, but there was an implied pledge which was understood by the whole world, and for this Government to now tax the bonds of the country was to lessen confidence in the credit, good faith, and punctuality of the Government.

The question was then taken upon Mr. Beck's amendment to tax the interest of United States bonds five per cent., and to collect the amount in like manner as tax on railroad and other bonds are collected.

The amendment was rejected—yeas 78, nays 110.

The vote in detail is as follows:

Yeas—Messrs. Adams, Archer, Axtell, Beck, Benjamin, Briggs, Bird, Booker, Brooks of N. Y., Burr, Butler, of Mass., Cleveland, Cobb of Wis., Coburn, Crebbs, Cullum, Dickinson, Dockery, Dox, Dyer, Ela, Eldridge, Farnsworth, Fitch, Fox, Getz, Gibson, Grinnold, Haight, Haldeman, Hambleton, Hamill, Hamilton, Hawkins, Hay, Hays, Heflin, Holman, Ingersoll, Johnson, Jones of N. The Courts.

CIRCUIT COURT.—Judge Olin.—This court was still engaged yesterday in the trial of the ejectment case of Shoemaker vs. Ford—an action for the possession of some real estate in Georgetown, the merits of which have been before reported.

Adjourned.

CRIMINAL COURT.—Judge Humphreys.—The only business transacted by this court yesterday was the hearing of a motion for a new trial in the case of Van Buren, who was convicted of manslaughter on Wednesday last.

The court overruled the motion and sentenced Van Buren to two years imprisonment in the Albany county penitentiary.

Adjourned.

EQUITY COURT.—Judge Wylie.—This court has adjourned until Monday next.

MARRIED.

MARTIN—JOHNSTON—June 3, 1870, at Leesburg, Va., by Rev. Mr. DAVIS, Chas. C. MARTIN, of this city, and ANNIE M. JOHNSTON, of Leesburg, Va.

DIED.

GRANT.—Of consumption, in this city, Thursday evening, 2d instant, Capt. ALLEN A. GRANT, late of the Wisconsin volunteers, aged 32 years and 4 months.

Funeral on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, from Calvary Baptist church, corner Eighth and H streets. Friends of the family, members of the Wisconsin State Association, his comrades of the Grand Army of the Republic, and of the Boys in Blue of the District of Columbia are respectfully invited to attend without further notice.

[Milwaukee (Wis.) papers please copy.]

RAFFELL.—June 1, 1870, ANNA MARIA RAFFELL, beloved wife of Capt. Jas. Raffell, and daughter of C. Columbus.

Farewell, dear sister, a long farewell,
Farewell till we shall meet again,
Till we shall meet at Jesus' feet,
Where parting is no more.

We have buried our darling sister,
We have laid her down to sleep,
And about once a nightfall
O'er her those sighs keep.

We have given love's best tribute,
We have parted back the hair
From off the marble forehead,
And left the last kiss there.

L. M. G.

DU BARRY.—On the 3d instant, at West Point, New York, ADELAIDE, daughter of Col. Bookman and Helen Du Barry, aged 8 years.

GROSS.—On the morning of the 3d of June, at 1:30 a. m., MARY JANE, beloved wife of William Gross, in the 35th year of her age.

PROPOSALS FOR LUMBER.
OFFICE CHIEF QUARTERMASTER,
DEPARTMENT OF DAKOTA,
ST. PAUL, MINN., May 9, 1870.
Proposals in the usual form, and under the customary conditions, will be received at this office until 12 m. June 15, 1870, to furnish the following Building Materials for the construction of buildings at the new post to be created at Pembina, Dakota Territory, namely:
150,270 feet Dressed Lumber of Oak or Pine dimension.
9,900 feet of Oak, Rosewood, Whitewood, or Pine Boards, one inch.
34,200 feet Tongued and Jointed Flooring, one inch.
27,375 feet of Siding.
36,850 feet Dressed, Straight-edged Pine—first-class common Lumber.
4,627 feet of Plank, 2½ inch.
4,425 feet of Plank, 3 inch.
20,775 Shingles, Pine.
Bids will be received for all or any part of the above, delivered at the Post or on the Pembina river or Red river, wherever required, in such quantities as shall be required for immediate use. Bids will be received for the lumber or any part of it hewed into proper rafts and delivered in any part of Red river or the Otter Tail, whence it can be rafted down the same with sufficient water to Pembina.
It must be clearly stated what quality and what kind of lumber, as Oak, Rosewood, Whitewood, or Pine, will be delivered at Pembina or other point, and probably what time and times, and how much at a time—for times as well as cost will be taken into consideration.
By direction of Brevet Major General W. S. Hancock.
