The Bill to Pave Pennsylvania Avenue.

In the House yesterday, Mr. Cowles, of N. Y., a member of the District Committee, introduced under a call of States (New York being called) a bill to pave Pennsylvania avenue, which was passed with scarcely any opposition.

The bill provides that the Secretary of the Interior, Brevet Brigadier General W. Michler, engineer in charge of public buildings and grounds, and the Mayor of the city of Washington, or their successors in office, be, and they are hereby, appointed a commission to determine the best kind of pavement to be used in paving Pennsylvania avenue, and to have said thoroughfare paved therewith from the northwest gate of the Capitol grounds to the crossing of Fifteenth street west, as hereinafter provided.

Sec. 2. Within ten days after the passage of this act the commissioners named shall meet and organize by the election of a president and secretary from among their number, and shall proceed to perform the duties devolved upon them; and within thirty days after they shall have determined upon the pavement to be used they shall contract for the paving of said Avenue between the points named on the lowest and most favorable terms possible, after having caused notice of the letting thereof to be given in one or more newspapers published in Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York, for twenty days prior to the letting, giving the time and place of such letting, and kind of pavement, requiring the paving to be done in the best and most substantial manner, and without unnecessary delay; and that a good and sufficient bond, with sureties, to be approved by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, guaranteeing that the terms of such contract shall be strictly and faithfully observed.

Sec. 3. The cost of laying down said pavement shall be borne and paid for in the following proportions and manner: By the Washington and Georgetown Railroad Company for that portion of the work lying between the tracks of their road, and for a distance of two feet on each side thereof, by the owners of private property lying and abutting on said Pennsylvania avenue, and in proportion to their frontage thereon, for that portion of the work in front of their lots or parts of lots from the curb line of said avenue to the line two feet from the track of the railroad aforesaid; by the Corporation of Washington for the intersection of all streets and avenues and opposite to all public parks lying and abutting on said avenue except such portions of the intersections lying between the tracks of the Washington and Georgetown Railroad Company, and two feet on each side thereof, which will be paid by said company as hereinbefore provided. The said railroad company shall have the right to construct that portion of the pavement which it is required to pay for, under the direction of said commissioners, and if said railroad company shall not construct that portion of said work with the same material, except between the rails, and in a satisfactory manner and as rapidly as the residue of said work shall be constructed, then the same shall be constructed under the direction of said commissioners in the same manner as the other portion of said work. The said railroad company shall have the right to select the material with which the pavement between rails on each track shall be made: Provided, That the said pavement on said tracks shall be made to the satisfaction of the commissioners. The losses of Market Square, between Seventh and Eighth streets, shall pay for that portion of the pavement between said square and the line two feet from the railroad track aforesaid. The portion of the said pavement lying between the Botanic Gardens and a line two feet outside of the railroad track of the railroad company shall be paid for by the United States Government: Provided, That the cost of laying such pavement shall not exceed the sum of four dollars per square yard.

Sec. 4. The assessment contemplated in the foregoing section shall be made by the commission above authorized, and the same so found due shall be collected and held, but as a special fund by the collector of Washington, in accordance with existing laws, and the moneys so collected and held shall be paid by him to the contractors for the work above authorized on the warrant or order of the said commission in such amounts and at such times as they may deem safe and proper in view of the progress of the work.

Sec. 5. If the Washington and Georgetown Railroad Company, or any private citizen, or other corporation or person, shall neglect or refuse to pay the amount assessed for the paving herein authorized (within thirty days after the notification of such assessment shall have been left at the property assessed) in front or adjoining their property, when the work so fronting or adjoining their property shall have been completed to the satisfaction of the commission, and assessed by them, the said commission shall issue certificates of indebtedness against the property, which certificates shall bear interest at the rate of ten per centum per annum until paid, and which, until they are paid, shall remain and be a lien upon the property or for against which they are issued. And if the said certificates are not paid within one year, the said commission shall, upon the application of the holder thereof, proceed to sell the property against which they are issued, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay said tax, such sales to be the first duly advertised, daily, for three successive weeks, in some paper published in the city of Washington, and to be made at public auction to the highest bidder; and a deed given by the commission in pursuance thereof, shall be deemed and held to be a good and perfect title to any property bought at such sale hereby authorized: Provided, That the owner of said real estate shall have the right to redeem the property sold by paying the amount of purchase money and twenty per centum on the amount of the said purchase within one year from the date of the sale.

Frederick Douglass on Prescription.

Frederick Douglass made a public speech some time since in Philadelphia, in which he said something that displeased some of his colored brethren of Bethel church in that city. In consequence thereof this church held a meeting and passed some extraordinary resolutions, rather more in accordance with "thumb screw religion" than anything else. This action, however, has called forth a reply from Mr. Douglass, an extract of which we insert below:

"Trials for heresy in our day and country, where liberty of thought and speech are conceded to be the humblest member of society, are usually deemed farcical and harmless. It was once, indeed, a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the church. History proves that there is no malice or cruelty so bitter and unrelenting as that malice and cruelty which clothes itself in saintly robes, and professes to be contending for the faith once delivered to the saints. A few centuries ago, the weapons of religion against heresy were carnal enough. 'Cord and steel, fire and sword, halter and rack,' were the chosen instruments. Thanks not to faith, but to the enlightenment of the age and the growth of rational ideas among men, to differ with the church to-day does not bring torture and physical death.

"The worst that bigotry can now do is to assail reputation and fill the mouths of the vulgar crowd with meaningless epithets. There is no doubt that religious malice is the same to-day as three hundred years ago. It would bite, sting and devour now as then, if it had only the power. It would crush living flesh to-day with the same sanctimonious ferocity as it does reputation. The will to do is manifest, the power only is wanting. The Church and the street are about the same in point of authority and in point of excellence. Both are ever on the side of popular wrong, and both are against unpopular right. The condemnations, maledictions and denunciations of the Church, whether Bethel or St. Peter's, to the outside world, have no more significance than the vulgar curses of the crowd. It may be said of Bethel, as of other religious bodies, that are 'naught but men and women,' and no wiser or better than other men and women."

Referring to the Church which instituted these remarkable proceedings, he says:

"Nothing that I said was likely to cast the least doubt upon the theological soundness of our Bethel brethren. That Church has never been noted for heresy; for heresy implies thought, inquiry, and reflection. The members of that ministry walk scrupulously in the old clothes of Methodist theology of a half century ago, and indulge in the same wild worship. Their thoughts, like their clothes, are after the most ancient pattern, and they abhor nothing more than they abhor innovation.

"If Bishop Campbell, the instigator of this sham trial, in place of getting up these church meetings to try distant heretics like myself, would honestly go to work and endeavor to reform the character, manners, and habits of the festering thousands of colored people who live in the utmost misery and destitution in the immediate vicinity of Big Bethel, he would do more to prove his Church sound than by passing any number of wordy resolutions about thanking God."

The point Mr. Douglass makes is a good one. Just now, the Church in America is paying too much attention to the outside of the platter. We want less profession; less wordy thanking of God, and more real work; more charity, more freedom of action, and a freer religion.

Hon. Amos T. Akerman—The Georgia Republicans.

The nomination of Hon. Amos T. Akerman to the position of United States Attorney, as announced by our dispatches this morning, meets the approbation of the Republican party in this State, and is a fitting tribute to the merits of that gentleman as a jurist and a man. It is also a timely recognition of his services as a free and undoubted Southern Republican, who has given much of his time and talents to the cause of reconstruction in Georgia. Mr. Akerman has been closely identified with the Republican party in the State from the day of its formation to the organization of the loyal State government. He was a member of the Constitutional Convention called for reconstruction acts, supported Gen. Bullock for Governor; was Presidential elector at large on the Grant ticket with Senator Farrow; supported the organization of the Legislature under the act of December last; and though a personal friend of Mr. Hill, has never allowed himself to be drawn into position of antagonism to the Republican party in this State. He stands well with his party, and commands the respect and confidence of all men regardless of party who know him personally. We therefore congratulate the Republicans of Georgia upon his nomination to the honorable position in Cabinet Minister at Washington.

The fact that Mr. Akerman has been so closely allied with the fortunes of the Republican organization in this State, is in itself a sufficient guarantee of his endorsement by the President of the party of which he is and has been a leader; and this endorsement is all the more satisfactory and gratifying in view of the fact that the chairman of our State Central Executive Committee, Hon. Foster Blodgett, is now in Washington and was consulted in this fitting recognition of the claims of the party in Georgia.

There is much to cheer the Republicans of our State in this morning's news. The appointment of one of our radical Republican leaders to the high Cabinet office of Attorney General of the United States, and the action of the Reconstruction Committee in overruling the decision of the commissioner, made when several of the members were absent, by striking out the Bingham proviso, will be very satisfactory to our party friends, and very discouraging to the Tryant wing of the Democracy.—Atlanta Era.

JAMES MADISON, an United States soldier charged with the murder of Wm. P. Boley, of Lynchburg, was found guilty on Saturday last of murder in the second degree, and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary. The Lynchburg Republican, speaking of the case, says:

The trial of the soldier James Madison, concluded yesterday in the Corporation Court of this city, should convey to all honest minds of either section a significant lesson. Madison was charged with the murder of one of our citizens, Mr. Wm. P. Boley, and the command to which the accused belonged had made itself justly offensive here, by the practice of repeated excesses and outrages. There was in consequence, much indignation excited at the time of the killing of Mr. Boley, and though no violence was attempted or even threatened, there was a stern determination entertained by the people, to bring those who spilled his blood to a rigid responsibility. But when the case came into court, all these feelings of prejudice and bitterness were calmly put aside, a fair and intelligent jury was empanelled, and the whole judicial process was conducted from beginning to end, without any display of vindictive or excited sentiments. The verdict, which may seem to some her lenient, was probably justified by all the circumstances as elicited in the course of a full and patient examination of the witnesses; and the prosecution was as free from all appeals or influences of section or politics, as if the accused had been one of our citizens.

Certainly, here in Virginia, the people mean well and honestly; and in our courts, if anywhere on earth, justice is administered with even hand, without fear, favor and affection. Our people prove themselves worthy of a generous confidence and a liberal treatment at the hands of the Government, and disgrace by a noble magnanimity and integrity, all the slanders of their enemies and persecutors.

RULE AGAINST MARSHAL PARKER FOR CONTEMPT DISMISSED.—The rule issued against Col. D. R. Parker, United States Marshal, of Virginia, by Judge Wellford, to show cause why he should not be fined for contempt of court, having been made returnable Saturday, Col. Parker, through counsel, J. W. Jenkins, appeared before Judge Wellford.

Mr. Parker gave in as his answer that he arrested and held the prisoner, Pat Woods, by authority of the House of Representatives of the United States, and that he was unable to respect the writ of habeas corpus, as the authority under which he was acting required him to produce the prisoner before the last of Congress at an hour previous to that at which the writ of habeas corpus was made returnable; and that said Woods is now in custody of the said Congress of the United States, and not in his custody or under his control. He disclaimed any intention to treat the court with disrespect, and asked that the rule against him be discharged.

Major Jones then stated the case to the court, and asked for a rule, at the request of counsel for complainant to the rule, the rule against D. R. Parker be discharged.

Judge Wellford replied, that, in accordance with the request of Wood's counsel, it should be done.

The Court held that as it appeared from the answer of said Parker that the petitioner is now in the custody of the House of Representatives of the United States on a charge of breach of privilege, no further action upon the part of this court upon the case will would seem to be necessary or proper. Said Parker disclaiming any intention to treat the authority of the court with contempt, the rule against him is hereby discharged.

This action of Major Jones was in accordance with instructions from Washington from General Bradley T. Johnson. Judge Wellford was evidently very reluctant to discharge the rule for contempt, and only did so at the earnest solicitation of Wood's counsel.

"GOOD FLY" ILLUSTRATED.—We were shown last evening by some of the officials of the post office a dilapidated Congress shoe, attached to two pieces of pasteboard, the latter obviously having served the purpose of book-covers in days gone by. These covers are stamped all over with the names of the post offices through which the strange missive has passed; are illustrated by a picture of Greeley driving off flies with a broom, and adorned with various manuscript designs, such as Quincy, Peoria, Chicago, Portland, Oregon, the Panama steamship lines and various points on the Central Pacific railroad, are among the places at which the covers have been stamped. While our readers are poring over this paragraph the shoe and its appendages are traveling toward New Orleans' hot to steam can carry them. Who conceived the joke, or where the shoe began its travels, we cannot tell, nor will we venture to find out the end of its wanderings.—Cin. Gazette.
