Special Notices.

RULES AND REGULATIONS IN REGARD TO SMALL-POX.

The essential nature of small-pox is to diffuse it, and under ordinary favorable conditions it is not easily communicable from person to person, but capable of being transported to great distances.

To prevent the spreading of this epidemic poison, the following sanitary regulations have been adopted by the Board of Health and approved by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia:

Parents and guardians shall cause their children and wards to be vaccinated before they attain the age of two years, and be vaccinated whenever the Board of Health shall, after five years from the last vaccination, require it.

The Board of Health hereby orders and requires the vaccination of all the inhabitants in the District of Columbia, and whenever, in their opinion, the public health demands it, the vaccination of all persons who do not furnish satisfactory evidence that they have been successfully vaccinated or revaccinated within five years.

The Board of Health will furnish the means of vaccination to such persons as are unable to pay for the same. The physicians employed by the Board, or their assistants, will be directed to vaccinate the poor gratuitously, and whenever the exigency requires it, to visit at their own cost any house to house in the purpose of vaccinating all people who need vaccination.

Physicians, incorporated manufacturing companies, superintendents of alms-houses, reform and industrial schools, female hospitals, and of all other institutions, where the poor and sick are received, the trustees of homes of correction, jailers, keepers of prisons, and directors or officers of all institutions supported wholly or in part by public money, shall at the expense of their respective corporations, or institutions, cause all persons thereof to be vaccinated immediately after the passage of this order, or produce sufficient evidence of previous successful vaccination having taken place within five years.

Parents, guardians, or those who are able to incur the expense of coffin and burial, any undertaker appointed to furnish coffins to the poor shall provide the coffin, and the cost of the same shall be charged to the house in which the corpse lies, but shall not above said expense to the coffin, or take any part in laying into the grave, or burial, of any person, unless the properly fumigated and disinfected his clothing. The laying out the body and the burial shall be done by the officer appointed for that purpose by the Board of Health.

The smallpox ambulance shall be kept at the smallpox hospital.

The ambulance shall be accompanied by an inspector whenever needed for the removal of smallpox patients or corpses.

The inspector accompanying the ambulance and the driver are forbidden from entering street cars or any public conveyance.

They shall also keep a suit of clothing to wear during the service of removing smallpox patients; and when not in use, the clothing shall be kept in a separate apartment, and under no circumstances shall they wear the said clothing when off duty.

The inspector shall be present at the removal of smallpox patients to emigrant patients and the driver of the ambulance shall, until otherwise ordered, wear a linen suit while on duty.

The inspector shall be present at the removal of smallpox patients shall fumigate and disinfect the dwellings where smallpox exists occur. He shall see that the clothing of persons taken to the hospital is carried safely in the ambulance and destroyed. He shall keep an account of the clothing or furniture of poor persons which have been destroyed, the probable value of the same, and the names of the parties to whom they belong, and give a receipt for the same.

The inspector of smallpox shall not be allowed to carry in the streets, except for such length of time as will be required to remove the patient or the body.

The ambulance shall not be taken to any place for repairs; but if repairs is needed, a person having had the smallpox shall be engaged to mend it at its expense of the driver.

In driving the ambulance to any point care shall be taken to avoid crowded streets, schools, and frequented places. The driver shall, as far as practicable, keep out of crowded thoroughfares, and shall avoid meeting any funeral procession, or passing in large concourse of people.

The inspector shall display the yellow flag from every place in which smallpox exists, and it shall flag be taken away without authority, the Health Officer must be immediately notified of the fact.

The inspector of each district shall be notified of the presence and locality of smallpox cases in his district, and it shall be his duty to see that this quarantine regulation is duly observed, and that the smallpox within are properly enforced, and that no person exposed to the contagion be allowed to go out of the dwelling or come out of the dwelling and other persons.

The inspector shall in an urbane manner inform the people of the quarantine regulations imposed by the Board of Health regarding smallpox, and shall cause as unnecessary hardship.

The inspector detailed to attend to the smallpox shall first ascertain whether the case can be isolated in the dwelling so as not to expose the other inmates to the disease.

Whenever a patient in a tenement, lodging-house, boarding house, or hotel is so situated that he cannot be isolated from other inmates, he or she shall be removed and taken to the hospital; and if any person interferes with the execution of this order, or the patient refuses to obey, the law shall be enforced against such person or persons.

If it comes to the knowledge of any inspector that cases of smallpox are kept in tenement-houses, lodging-houses, boarding-houses, or hotels, without the proper notice being been given to the Board of Health as required by law, the inspector shall make immediate report to the Health Officer, stating the names of the person or persons causing or abetting in the violation of this law.

In all cases where there is doubt whether a person is really afflicted with smallpox, a physician's opinion should be secured before removing the patient.

The inspector shall see that the rules regarding the interment of persons who die of smallpox be complied with.

The foregoing rules and regulations are made and promulgated by the Board of Health of the District of Columbia, in accordance with an act entitled "An act for the prevention of diseases in the District of Columbia," passed by the Legislative Assembly of said District, and approved by the Governor thereof, June 18, 1872.
