HOME AFFAIRS.

CITY NOTES.

—Roose sends New York papers in advance of the mail.

—The fire-plug at the corner of Ninth and Q streets, which was broken, has been repaired.

—A slight disturbance took place at six o'clock last evening at the corner of Ninth and O streets. It's cause was a fight between a colored and white boy.

—Moses Pitney, the well-known restaurant keeper, has opened "My Office," corner of seventh and E streets northwest. The public would do well to give him a call.

—An extra large attendance last night was at the Fair and Festival of the Fifth Baptist Church, given at Blake Hall, on Seventh street, between Maryland avenue and B street southwest.

—Last night while Mrs. Welker, who keeps a boarding house on Ninth street, between E and F streets, was walking up F street near Ninth street, she slipped and fell, spraining her ankle so badly that she had to be carried home.

—A practical deed of charity can be performed any day on the F or Ninth street cars. When you see a poor woman about to pay the exorbitant price of seven cents to the railroad company, give her one of your tickets for five cents, and let her save the two. No other city would stand the seven-cent monopoly.

—The sparrow man gives daily matinees to large audiences on Pennsylvania avenue, between the Capitol and Fifteenth street. No objection can be made except that the large crowd usually feeds knights of the pencil, who imagine a runaway has occurred, and running with all their might to get on them. And that "Miss Jenny" is requested to take "Sister Kate" out for a ride, while the boss sparrow goes around with a hat soliciting alms.

—Yesterday afternoon, about two o'clock, as a buggy containing a lady and gentleman was proceeding along H street, between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets, it collided with a wagon belonging to the Union Transfer Company. The shafts were broken, and the horse, becoming frightened, attempted to run away, but was prevented by a colored man, who grabbed him by the bridle and held on until the lady was removed from the vehicle. The team was taken to the stable, and the pleasure-seekers continued their journey afoot.

Among the Hucksters.

Yesterday afternoon a representative of THE REPUBLICAN concluded to do the Centre Market, and see what the display of vegetables, fruits, &c. for this morning amounted to. The first point visited was the section allotted to the country wagons on B street, but except a little cabbage and sweet potatoes nothing of interest could be seen, as most of their produce had been gobbled up by the hucksters and commission merchants. After four trials at as many doors, an entrance was finally effected into the market building proper, when a pleasant sight greeted the beholder. The different varieties of apples were piled up in pyramidal shapes. Northern spys, rambos, lady fingers, spitzenberg and maiden's blush, with shiny coats, made one's mouth water at every turn; clusters of Isabella and Malaga and California grapes, renowned for their sweetness, looking as though they had just been plucked from the vines; long rows of golden butter, the dealers arrayed in spotless white aprons; beautiful "Irish pippins," better known as potatoes, lay winking out of their numerous "eyes" at the passer by; the pride of the garden cabbage could be seen also looking for its friend bacon; in fact a detailed account of all that the reporter saw would weary the readers, so, for the information of house keepers a schedule of the prices asked is furnished herewith: Apples, 25c. per half peck. Butter—Good, 40c. per pound; Philadelphia print, 50c per pound. Eggs, 25c. a dozen. Cabbage, 3 to 5c. per head. Corn, 25c. per dozen. Potatoes, 10c. per quarter peck. Turnips, 10c. per half peck. Sweet potatoes, 15c. per half peck. Pumpkins, 20c. to 40c each. Walnuts, 10c. per half peck. Cocoanuts, $1 per dozen. Havana oranges, 30c. per dozen. Lemons, 25c. per dozen. Dried fruits, 10 to 20c. per pound. Honey, 25c. per pound. Chestnuts, 10c. per quart. Cranberries, 10c. per quart. Game is not so plentiful as might be expected at this season, and what little there is commands good prices. Woodcock are worth 50c. each, partridges 25c., pheasants $1.25 per pair, mallard ducks $1.50 per pair and rabbits 30c. each. Turkeys, undressed, 21 each. Chickens, $2 to $2.50 per dozen.

"That Old Suit"

For some days past has been a theme of intensely absorbing interest. Approach a group of men engaged in a spirited discussion and you find them disputing about "that old suit." Ministers and deacons intermingle their prayers and exhortations with references to "that old suit." Mothers quiet their children with tales of "that old suit." Husbands who "stay out late at night" appease the wrath of their indignant wives by allusion to "that old suit." We talk of it by day, and at night our rest is disturbed by fantastic visions of dancing demons arrayed in "that old suit," and as illustrating the suspicious characteristics of mankind generally and the proprietors of old suits particularly. Every man thinks his own shabby habiliment is being criticised; hence the rush, the eager thronging to Messrs. Habig Bro.' mammoth clothing house, corner Seventh and D streets, where for from $5 to $20 each scores of men are daily arraying themselves in handsome "new suits" and we would say "go thou and do likewise," that we may have a rest on "that old suit."

Condemning Premises.

The Board of Trade met at their rooms last evening.

Dr. Cox, from the sanitary police committee, reported on the case of Mrs. Daniel Altman, who had nine cows impounded, recommending the return of eight dollars to the party, which was agreed to.

The wood structure and premises No. 130 D street northwest was declared a nuisance, and the health officer ordered to abate the same.

The various liquor officers under the board were required to have their annual reports ready for submission to the board by the 15th instant.

"That Old Suit

Won't do to go to church in any more, and the times are so hard that I can't afford to buy a new one." That is what a young gentleman said this morning when he realized that the "cold, chilly winds" were with us once more. Never mind, young man, don't be disheartened, and don't stay away from church on any account. There is one firm in this city who have prices low enough to suit your pocket, and the goods to suit your taste.

We Have Not Got

One million suits at $3 per suit, but we will sell you a better suit of clothes for less money than any house in the District. Call and be convinced of the truthfulness of this our assertion.

KAYZENSTEIN,
The fashionable tailor and clothier,
510 Seventh street.

DISTRICT AFFAIRS.

Commissioner of Deeds.

In response to the application of Thomas J. Hunt, of Philadelphia, to be appointed a Commissioner of Deeds for this District, the Commissioners state that a question has arisen as to the validity of the law authorizing such appointments, in consequence of which they have revoked all appointments of Commissioner of Deeds for the District, and declined to make any until further action of Congress definitely fixes the right of appointment.

Wanting Licenses.

Licenses have been issued to the following parties: Richard Crait, jr., livery stable; R. E. Smith, liquor dealer; R. H. Darnes, livery stable; Richard J. Pervine & Co., commercial agents; Renee I. Dable, liquor dealer; L. Parks, liquor dealer; Mary McKenney, liquor dealer; Ellen Martin, liquor dealer; Thomas H. Smith, liquor dealer; J. McKenney, insurance returns; M. DeAlley, produce dealer; G. N. Rider, book agent; Louis Faber restaurant; M. G. Fox, restaurant; E. W. ser, produce dealer; Louis E. Tavernier, hotel; J. O. Johnson, photographer; Charles Bradley, insurance company; Jacob Left, cattle broker; Thomas A. Boyer, liquor dealer; D. D. Taulman, apothecary; Daniel Jackson, liquor dealer; Julia Lynch, liquor dealer; Mrs. Harriet Hurdle, liquor dealer; J. C. Morgan, peddler; Shelter & Stevens, attorneys; S. Duffy, bar; C. L. Winchole, bar; Woodbury & Barker, barg J. W. Usher, bar; E. Murnanin, bar.

The Salary of School Officials.

Secretary John H. Brooks, of the School Board, has furnished a reply to the Commissioners in answer to their inquiry regarding the salaries paid to the principals of the First and Fourth districts and the Normal School. He says that the salary of a principal of a male grammar school was fixed by an act of the city councils, approved May 23, 1868, at a minimum of $1,600 and maximum of $1,800 per annum, the last-named amount to be received after four years' experience and service. An opportunity was offered to the trustees to secure a principal for the first school district whose successful experience as a teacher and supervisor of schools was well known to them. It was deemed wise economy to employ him at the maximum salary. The salary of the principal of the Normal School was fixed at $1,500, the amount now paid, by act of the Legislative Assembly, approved June 26, 1874. The trustees thought it best to limit the salary to $1,200 per annum the first year, while the school was an experiment, and when its success was assured to increase the same, which has been done.

Disallowing a Street Railroad Claim.

Some time since the president of the Metropolitan Street Passenger Railroad Company filed a claim with the Commissioners, requesting an allowance of $45.37 for expense incurred by the company in consequence of the workmen engaged in making a sewer connection at New Jersey avenue and C street, interfering with said street railroad—cutting off communication during the time the men were making the sewer repair. The claim was referred to the attorney, who replies: "The District is not liable for these bills for incidental expenses expended by the company itself in the care of its own property. The locus in quo was already dedicated to municipal purposes, and the rights of the railroad company become an added servitude to be exercised in a way least detrimental to the rights of the public. The District, in prosecuting its improvements, does not indemnify other parties having rights for any loss or damage, except that occasioned by want of care or skill on the part of its servants. The question involved in this claim is the same as in the case of the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad Company against the District. In all this class of cases the owners of franchises must care for and protect their own property."

Minor District Notes.

—Mr. W. L. Hinds has been granted fifteen days leave of absence.

—Mr. C. A. Erich asks to withdraw his $50 deposit as a plumber.

—Permission has been given Fred Williams to erect a coke stand on B street, in rear of No. 920 Louisiana avenue.

—Mr. Z. Strasburger has been notified that the District is unable to lay a sewer on H street, between Fourth and Fifth streets northwest, but will furnish the pipes if those interested will put in the sewer.

—The commissioners decline to allow the deputy marshal of the Police Court any extra compensation for his services. They assumed that he has been fairly paid for all work performed, or he would not have done it.

—The following permits for repairs have been issued: A. Willige, show-window, &c., $200, George T. Simmons, sale stand, $15; Hoffman, inclose Riggs market, $150; Mrs. J. Reichenbach, shed, $25; H. B. Brewer, underpin house, $150.

—Engineer Hoxie has recommended and the Commissioners approved of the suspension of the contract work of laying a pipe sewer on B street, between New Jersey avenue and South Capitol street, and having other parties placed on the work.

CANAL.

A number of men employed in rebuilding the outlet lock on the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal were yesterday dismissed, the work having reached so near completion as to warrant a reduction of the force there employed.

COAL TRADE.

During the week ending yesterday, 212 boats from Cumberland reported at the Collector's Office of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal. The average tonnage was 106 tons, making in all 22,472 tons of coal received at this end of the line.

A SWINDLING CANAL MAN.

On the 6th instant, the boat Frank Byroad, the property of John Byroad, laden with coal, reported to the collector's office, in charge of a man named John Miller. Mr. Byroad, who is lying sick at Seneca, entrusted his boat and cargo to Miller, with instructions to draw $20 of his freight money from the Consolidation Coal Company, to which the boat was consigned, and to use the money in purchasing forage for his stock and food for the crew, and leave the balance of freight to his, Byroads' credit. As soon as the boat arrived Miller went to the office of the Consolidation Coal Company, drew the full amount of freight money, viz.: $30, and departed, and has not since been heard from. He left the boat without forage for the stock or food for the crew, and Mr. Byroad's little son, who accompanied him. He was not satisfied with robbing his employer of his freight money and the stock and crew of sustenance, but carried away with him Mr. Byroad's oilcloth coat.

Miller, whose whereabouts are unknown, is a small man, with dark complexion, small blue eyes, and wore a small blue blouse with red edge.

THE LIQUOR DEALERS.

The Liquor Dealers' Association met at Goddard's Hall last night. After the president had stated the object of the meeting, reporters and others not identified with the liquor dealers were invited to retire or pledged not to make public the proceedings of the meeting. The object in organizing is to secure Congressional legislation to put all liquor dealers upon an equal footing, and abolish the present system by which a liquor dealer may be obliged to close his establishment if he incurs the spite of his neighbors. It is proposed to have a system of granting licenses to any responsible person who may apply, subject to revocation if the dealer fails to conform with the law.

Law Summary.

—Robert Leitch has temporarily been appointed foreman of the grand jury during the absence of the regular foreman from the city.

—The court has granted a stay of execution of the sentence of Robert Thomas for twenty days.

—The court in General Term will meet to-day at eleven o'clock.

—The argument in the case of F. P. Sawyer, Brooks, and Haines, for a new trial, has been set for Monday next.

—The execution of the sentence in the case of Frank Ferguson, convicted of rape, has been stayed ten days.

—The petit jury has been discharged until Tuesday next.

—John J. Wimsatt pleaded guilty to the charge of common assault, and was fined $5.

—Within the past two weeks eighty-six cases have been tried in the Criminal Court, and at least three-fourths of them resulted in a conviction.

—The Craig and Bryant mule case will be the next to occupy the attention of the Criminal Court.

—The jury found Madison Barrett, in his absence, guilty of selling lottery tickets. A sentence of six months in jail was imposed, and a bench warrant issued for his arrest.

The Real Estate Forgery Cases.

The trial of John R. Brooks, indicted for forgery, was continued yesterday, and resulted in a verdict of guilty so far as he was concerned, and the acquittal of Anthony Brooks, indicted with him.

His Honor, in passing sentence, commented upon the rapid increase of this class of crime, to the terror and injury of the property-holders, and justice to the community demands that those found guilty of this offense should be severely punished. He then sentenced the prisoner to seven years in the Baltimore penitentiary. In the meantime there will be a stay of execution granted, and the case carried to the General Term on exceptions.

The remaining cases (four) against this party were sent over to next week.

Six Divorces Within a Week.

In the Equity Court, yesterday, Justice Wylie granted two more divorces, making six that have been made this week.

Louisa Butler and John H. Butler were married in this city, at St. Matthew's Church, by Rev. Father White, May 10, 1867. For three and a half years afterwards they lived together about one-half the time, the wife complaining that he contributed very little toward her support, while she labored and assisted in accumulating and improving his property. In the year 1871 she charges that he finally deserted and abandoned her, and she therefore has brought suit for divorce and alimony, which the Court granted.

In the case of Annie L. Gibbs, for divorce from her husband Isaac C. Gibbs, a similar order as in the case above was made. The parties were married at the Mount Vernon M. E. Church, in Baltimore, Md., by Rev. W. C. Webb, April 19, 1875, the maiden name of the wife being Annie Louisa Mullowney. They lived together in this city until April 15th, 1876, when, she alleges, that she was forced to leave and live apart from him on account of his habitually drunkenness. She also charges him with cruelty and brutality, and one time threatening to blow her brains out and kill her father.

THE VIRGINIA SYNOD.

Third Day's Session—Evangelization of the Colored People—A New Presbytery Proposed.

The session of the Virginia Synod was continued at the First Presbyterian Church, Alexandria, yesterday.

The consideration of the report of the Committee on the Religious Welfare of the Colored People was resumed.

Rev. Dr. Preston spoke in favor of the report of the Committee on the Evangelization of the Colored People, and said there was no reason why the Presbyterian Church should not embrace this opportunity for missionary work, and that there was no duty that was more binding upon the church than this one.

On motion of Rev. Dr. Bullock, the discussion of the report was suspended, and Rev. Dr. David Wills, of the Synod of Baltimore, (Northern Church), was introduced to the Synod.

Rev. Mr. Pitzer said that the Presbytery of the Chesapeake had adopted an overture asking that the Presbytery be divided, and that the churches of Maryland be erected under a separate Presbytery, under the title of and asked that the overture be placed in the hands of the committee on bills and overtures, which was granted.

The discussion on the report of the Committee on the religious Welfare of the Colored People was resumed.

Rev. Mr. Hall opposed the report on the ground that there was language in the report that implied that it belonged to other denominations to

EVANGELIZE THE COLORED PEOPLE.

Dr. White desired to have stricken out of the report all the language that would imply that the Presbyterian Church, the great bulwark of Protestantism, was not adapted to the

EVANGELIZATION OF THE COLORED RACE.

On motion of Dr. Smith, the report was recommitted to the committee, in order that they might correct the language complained of.

The report of the Committee on the Method of Theological Education was then presented and received, recommending longer sessions at the seminary and shorter vacations for resting.

On motion of Dr. Markland, the overture of Chesapeake Presbytery, asking the erection of the churches in Maryland into a separate Presbytery, was read.

The discussion of the appeal in the case of Dr. E. T. Bond was then taken up, and Dr. Bond was allowed the privilege of the floor.

The question of the division of the Chesapeake Presbytery will probably be settled to-day.

North End of Washington Market.

The wholesale stores recently built between the east and west wings of the Centre Market are now nearly ready for occupancy. There are twelve large stores in all, ten of which have already, it is said, been leased. In the centre a large three-story building has nearly been completed. The second story may be used as a police-court building in case it is decided by the court in banc, before whom the case is now pending, that the District Commissioners have not the power to lease the Unitarian Church Building, which was rented to the District last summer, but never since occupied for the purpose for which it was rented, owing to the residents of the section of the city in which it is located securing an injunction which prevented the Police Court from moving in. The stores have large rooms over them, which will be used for various purposes in connection with the market. At present the prospects are that the following firms will occupy the ten leased stores about the First of December, beginning at the east end and taking them in regular order: B. T. Trueworthy, eating saloon; William C. Drury, John R. Whitmore, J. H. Richardson, E. E. Anderson & Bro., William F. Crowley, William O. Shreeve, Wooster & Adams, Andrews & Wade, Charles W. Brown & Bro., commission merchants.

Normal School Examination.

The first quarterly examination of the Normal School, Franklin building, was held yesterday, with Superintendent Wilson and Gen. Brown, Gen. Hovey, Dr. Cragin, Mr. Smith and Mr. Holland, trustees, as a board of examiners. The school showed itself wonderfully proficient, and deserves great credit for the progress they have made, in all the studies the pupils answered the questions put to them readily. The school reflects great credit upon the teacher, Miss Smith.

There are twenty young ladies in the school, all undergoing a thorough course of professional study in order to educate themselves for teachers. The exercises were very interesting. The programme furnished practice in phonetics and drawing, conducted by Mrs. Fuller, the drawing teacher; theory and art of teaching music, conducted by Prof. Daniels, and teaching in practice-room, female primary, by the pupils. It was very gratifying and pleasing to see how readily the little ones in the primary school answer and what great interest they take in the exercise. After a few complimentary remarks by Gen. Brown, Gen. Hovey, Dr. Cragin, Mr. Smith and others, the examination closed.

Relief for the Poor of Capitol Hill.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Capitol Hill met yesterday at McCauley's Hall, No. 209 Pennsylvania avenue, east, and organized for work during the coming winter. This society is composed of some of the most influential ladies of Capitol Hill. Last year, almost unaided, they brought substantial blessings into the homes of many of the poor and unemployed living on Capitol Hill and the Navy Yard. They resolved yesterday to relieve only the very old and very poor. The work of the society is done quietly, and the only aid they have received has come from benevolent ladies in other parts of the city who have become acquainted with the good done by the society.
