WASHINGTON, JANUARY 12, 1880.

DON'T forget the Home-Rule boom this week!

THE nine members of the Vermont Republican State Committee are all for GRANT. This is the echo of the boom among the Green Mountains.

IT is amusing, if nothing else, to hear men who have held public office without or with more or less intermission all their lives, prate against a Third Term for General GRANT.

THUS far in the session the majority party in Congress has behaved itself remarkably well. But the animus of sedition and enmity to the Government will break out sooner or later, and with all the more vigor, when it does show itself, because of this temporary and forced repression of its natural impulses and instincts.

GOVERNOR LUKE P. BLACKBURN, the yellow-fever fiend, begs the legislature of Kentucky to do something for the honor of the State in the way of reforming certain abuses in the penitentiary at Lexington. Any reform that would land him inside of the walls of that institution would be in the nature of an adoption of his suggestion.

IT is said that a majority of the House Committee on the District of Columbia are opposed to suffrage here at the Capital. Possibly they are, for they are Democrats; but we would rejoice to see them put to the test by a vote in the House on that question. The record of that vote would be a fine thing to spread broadcast among their constituents.

WHEN the POTTER Committee was engaged three years ago in attempting to disprove the validity of President HAYES' title, the Democratic press pooh-poohed the charge that Bourbonism and Greaserism were synonomous terms and denied that the Democrats would ever attempt to Mexicanize the country. Perhaps they will deny the same charge now, in the light of recent affairs up in Maine!

AT Chicago in 1868 not a single vote was cast against the nomination of General GRANT. At Philadelphia in 1872 the same record was made. No other President in our history enjoyed such unanimity of support among his partisans for two consecutive terms. And now that the Third-Term spook has been allayed by the intermission of four years since the close of his last Administration, it is not improbable that at Chicago next June this same record will be repeated again.

DANA and the BRISTOW gang generally have discovered that their charges of corruption against General GRANT have no weight with intelligent people. They are, therefore, compelled to resort to arguments against a Third Term as their only resource of opposition to the GRANT boom. And these arguments are answered by the fact that no such thing as a Third Term for General GRANT, in the obnoxious sense of the stupid phrase—that an Administration may use the public patronage to perpetuate itself—is now possible.

"DISTRICT DAY" in the House is to be abolished under the new rules of that body. But this will make very little difference in the amount of attention bestowed upon District affairs. Washington has grown in importance, and especially in the estimation of Congress, to such an extent during the past six or eight years that our municipal interests are not likely to suffer from this change of proceedure. Besides this, Home Rule is now practically assured to us, and before long we will be able to attend, in part, to our own business, as other free citizens do.

E. B. WASHBURNE, the friend and protector of the German residents in Paris during the Franco-Prussian war, is talked of more than ever as the "dark horse" at Chicago. But the facts prove that his course while Minister to France was sustained if not prompted by General GRANT'S Administration. In short, General GRANT'S avowed sympathy for the Germans as against Napoleonism, so to speak, during that eventful period, is now a matter of history. While this does not detract from Mr. WASHBURNE'S credit, it will serve to "set some people to thinking."

WHILE the Democrats are talking so much about the influence of Democratic States in the coming Republican convention, would it not be well for them to give their views of the influence of Iowa, Massachusetts and other Republican States in their own delegated gathering? Pennsylvania, for example, will probably urge HANCOCK'S nomination in their convention—i. e., if SAM RANDALL and SAM TILDEN succeed in destroying Senator WALLACE. But, however this may be, it is an assured fact that the next Democratic nomination will be effected by agencies which can have no possible effect in the contest for the election of the ticket.

ON Friday afternoon—which was one of the most gloomy and disagreeable days that have fallen upon this locality in months—the Greenback convention adjourned, after a gusty sort of session. We entertain no disrespect for the majority of those identified with the occasion, but truth compels the assertion that throughout it was a sort of windy affair. Friday evening was devoted to a pyrotechnic display of eloquence, when the show closed its entertainments, folded its tents and left. The very elements seemed to rejoice that the affair was over, for on Saturday morning following its close the clouds dispersed, the sun rose into a clear sky and looked down cheerfully upon the city throughout the day. It looked very much on Saturday as if nature was greatly pleased when the Greenback conference, with KEARNEY on the lead, had closed its labors and departed, to reappear on the stage next at Chicago in June. The affair was quite harmless to any but the Democratic party, which stands godfather to the Greenback bantling.

CANADIAN INDEPENDENCE.

There is now some talk of the political independence of the Canadian Dominion, which has a son-in-law of Her Majesty the Queen as its Governor-General; but we apprehend that the Dominion will make haste slowly to sever its connection with the mother country. There is evidently something of the kind in the wind, as it is announced that journals designed for advocating Canadian independence are soon to appear simultaneously in London, Toronto and Montreal. This may be mere gossip, and it may turn out fact, but when those simultaneous journals do appear as the decided and earnest advocates of Canadian independence, and succeed in maintaining an existence for any considerable period, then we will yield faith in the sincerity of the movement. That the people of Canada are now and have been for a long time dissatisfied with their condition more than with their form of government, we are ready to believe, for a neighborhood experience of fifty years has brought the symptoms of such a state of feeling under observation in some degree.

The people of Canada are generally loyal to the Crown. This is what has held them so long in the relations of dependency. Their border lies along that of the United States for some two thousand miles, much of the distance divided by the chain of lakes and the rivers that connect them with the sea. Where the lakes divide, there is but little communication between the two countries, but along the remaining portion of the dividing line the communication is such as to teach that people how far they are behind their neighbors on the American side in business enterprise and advancement. With a soil equally fertile, and with a climate equally salubrious, the Canadians have long discovered the fact that their neighbors were rapidly outstripping them in the race of progress, and they have not been fully satisfied with the comparison. The thought has been long pressing upon their minds that perhaps their form of government has something to do with their tardy march, and yet their love of country has long handicapped all efforts looking to a change. Time may have wrought upon the people of Canada a material change of feeling and sentiment relating to their governmental relations, but unless such is the case, Canadian independence will be of tardy growth.

One thing is evident—whatever of independence obtains in the Canadian Dominion means annexation to the United States; nothing more, nothing less. That event has long been regarded as the inevitable with Canada, and it will come when the question shall have so far ripened as to become the controlling theme of open and earnest discussion, and not until then. Then the Canadas will ask the mother country to release the bonds that now hold them together, and they will turn to the United States and ask this Government to extend its arms and take the Dominion to its embrace. There will be no clash of arms over such an event. It will come by negotiation and through the processes of good fellowship and peace, or it will not come at all. It is not surprising that the Canadian people should desire it. Every prompting of interest lies in that direction. They see how they are falling behind in the race of progress, and they are not insensible to the importance of securing to themselves the stimulus under which the people and enterprises of the United States are forging ahead, and they are now, as they have been for a century, the architects of their own fortunes on both sides of the dividing line.

GENERAL GRANT'S TOUR AROUND THE WORLD. With a sketch of his life. Illustrated. Chicago: Rand, McNally & Co.

This city is now being canvassed for the sale of the above work. It contains a succinct history of General Grant's life, well arranged and interestingly written, including his two terms as President of the United States. In addition to this the volume describes the scenes and incidents of his foreign tour—together with the places he visited, the people he met, the objects in art and nature he beheld and the honors that were paid as a representative of the American Republic, which, as the Viceroy of Egypt puts it, "he had once rescued and twice ruled." It is a very interesting volume of nearly three hundred pages.

POLITICAL NOTES.

GOVERNOR ANDREWS, of Connecticut, has shown the same good sense as Governor Cornell in abstaining from a discussion of National affairs in his message.

THE Moline Dispatch says sarcastically that if there are any more candidates for Governor of Illinois they should not be backward in coming to the front.

THE Republicans of Indiana will hold their State convention on June 17. February 24 is fixed as the date of the Pennsylvania Republican convention.

THE New York Tribune says that David Davis "fled in consternation" recently when a newspaper man asked him about the legal aspects of the Maine imbroglio.

IT is interesting to learn that the session of the bogus Senate at Augusta was opened with prayer. No legislative body now on earth is more in need of intercessory supplication.

GARCELON'S Southern encouragers now point the slow, unmoving finger of scorn at him for a "Flunker." They say he crawfished by submitting those questions to the Court.

L. POPE WALKER, ex-Secretary of War in the late Southern Confederacy, is a candidate for the seat in the United States Senate made vacant by the death of Senator Houston.

THE Kentucky Republican State Committee is to meet in Louisville on Thursday, the 22d inst., to call the state Convention to elect delegates to the National Convention at Chicago.

THE Democrats were never famed for temperance, but when they read the Maine law, as expounded by the Supreme court of the State, they will be more intemperate than ever.

IT is twenty-four years since the opponents of the Republican party in Maine have had control of the legislature. They got desperate and stole what they could not honestly obtain.

EVIDENTLY the Democracy proposes to defraud United States marshals of their fees, as no disposition is evinced to report the deficiency bill providing for the payment of their back salaries.

THE Democrats of California do well not to ally themselves with the Greenbackers. Such alliance has never resulted in anything but either downright disaster at the polls or in such association and trouble as they have got themselves into in Maine.

A REMARKABLE opinion has been given in the Virginia Court of Appeals by Judge Anderson, one of the judges in the case of Latham vs. Latham, to the effect that Republicanism is a good ground for divorce.

GOVERNOR BISHOP issued three pardons on Tuesday, thus swelling the total number issued by him in two years to 251. The mill is still running and the old fellow can get out a half dozen more before Monday next.

THE Springfield Republican, in addition to killing off the Grant movement, has undertaken to start an Edmunds boom. It thinks the Vermont Senator would be stronger in New York than any man in that State.

IF the Democrats find themselves able to steal the Governorship of Maine, Garcelon is the man for them to put in it. He is the leader of the gang of thieves, and as such is entitled to the largest prize in the "swag."
