WASHINGTON, NOVEMBER 2, 1880.

FOR PRESIDENT,

JAMES A. GARFIELD,

of Ohio.

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT,

CHESTER A. ARTHUR,

of New York.

THERE is no hope in the democratic heart.

THERE is no cloud in the republican horizon.

THERE will be plenty of republican huzzas and no rebel yells to-night.

TALK about sending missionaries to the heathen! Send them to Denver.

PRESIDENT HAYES has seen more of his country than did any of his predecessors.

THE undertaker is hovering around the democratic camp, a fit precursor of its future.

MOREY is the Mrs. HARRIS of the political field. He was invented by Mrs. Sairey Gamp BARNUM.

IF a fair election is held in the south to-day HANCOCK will not carry a solitary state in that section.

THE manufacturers and agriculturists of the country are important factors in to-day's operations.

GENERAL GRANT expects a majority of not less than 50,000 for GENERAL GARFIELD in the state of New York.

AN honest election is a republican victory everywhere. Democracy succeeds and thrives only by corruption, fraud and crime.

YESTERDAY betokened a bright day to-day, and a smiling Providence to-day insures republican success and national safety.

THE complicity of SAM RANDALL in the Chinese forgery case should divorce every republican voter from his cause. This done, and he is defeated this time.

CAR-LOADS of democratic repeaters were shipped from this city to Philadelphia yesterday morning. Look out for them. They all wear the SAM RANDALL brand.

THE strongest confidence exhibited yesterday among the democratic sports of this city was $100 to $300 against GARFIELD'S election. This is very weak—next to nothing.

THE highest motive of action that now prompts the democratic party is to burn and pillage the residences of the defenseless Chinese. This is democratic bravery and toleration.

CHRISTIANITY will not make much progress among the Chinese as long as its influence upon society finds expression in such outrages as were perpetrated upon the helpless in Denver on Sunday night.

REPUBLICAN fidelity to-day secures a republican victory in the nation and gives the country a republican president and vice-president, with a republican congress. This will be glory enough for one day.

THE last act of democratic desperation has been developed in circulating a handbill to the effect that Mr. BAYLY has withdrawn from the canvass in the eighth Virginia district. It is an act of rascality. BAYLY sticks.

THE fruits of democratic teachings were seen in the mutilated bodies of black men at Hamburg, S. C., in 1876. In 1880 the fruits of the same party teaching is seen in the mutilated bodies of yellow men in the streets of Denver. There is a devilish consistency in that party.

THE democrats are very peculiar in their methods and habits. They claim everything from the "solid south" down to Nevada, and yet, though a party of chance and nerve by profession, its organ and mouth-piece advises this party of gamblers that their feeling of confidence "should not be manifested in the pool-room." This is what the sports call throwing up the sponge, and is a virtual abandonment of their cause.

THE democratic organ said yesterday: "We earnestly request our democratic friends not to bet on the result of the election." This is good advice. But whence this anxiety to prevent its "friends" from losing money? Is it in the nature of an amende for sending that bogus dispatch to be read in the theatres and saloons on the Wednesday night after the Indiana election? by which some of its friends were cheated out of money for the benefit of other of its "friends."

THE democratic organ asserts that if the republican party obtains the popular indorsement at this election, "there is not the remotest hope that it can ever be displaced by constitutional methods." This should not call for the disbandment of the democratic organization. It has not heretofore hesitated to employ other than constitutional methods to wrest power from its opponents. It tried rebellion in 1861. Since then it has steadily put faith in ku-klux-ism, tissue ballots and bulldozing. Without the use of these methods it would not now have the shadow of a hope for the success of its candidate.

IF the democratic party, and especially its leaders and managers, have any sense of right or any consciousness of guilt after conviction they will have much to reflect upon and to regret when they take a review of the late canvass and the outrages and crimes they have perpetrated in the name of democracy. Never were party methods rendered so base all over the country as they have been in the late contest by Chairman BARNUM and his coparceners in infamy. There can be no good excuse or justification for the calumnies, the outrages and the crimes that have been resorted to by the democratic party, and which would bring shame to its cheek if it had the sensibility even of semi-barbarism. The shameless slanders uttered against General GARFIELD are all wanton aspersions. The pyramid of lies piled up to sustain the democratic cause remains to confront the liars. The corruptions heaped upon the elective franchise are not only dangerous to the public weal but shameful to the perpetrators. The crimes that have been committed for petty advantage are none the less crimes, and should subject the criminals to condign punishment.

ELECTION RETURNS.

The arrangements of THE NATIONAL REPUBLICAN for receiving election returns to-night and to-morrow are extensive and complete. Specials will be received from all parts of the country during to-night, to-morrow and to-morrow night, in addition to our usual arrangements for the news, which are quite complete in themselves. With our available resources we hope to give the readers of THE NATIONAL REPUBLICAN early and correct information from the results in all the states of the union, east, west, north and south.

After the issue of our regular edition to-morrow morning specials will be received and extras issued as often as the news will justify it.

"STICKING TO THE LIE."

Subornation of perjury easily follows subornation of forgery in the list of democratic crimes. In his endeavor to bolster up the MOREY letter so that it would last until after election, BARNUM sent an agent to Lynn, Mass., where he had been informed that an old town-pauper woman could be found whose name was MOREY. The agent of the democratic national committee brought with him an affidavit written out for her signature. It was to the effect that the old pauper woman had a son named H. L. MOREY; that he had frequently visited her until within the past eleven months, since which time she had heard nothing of him. The woman signed the prepared affidavit and BARNUM published it to the world by telegraph. GEORGE O. TARBOX, the justice of the peace before whom this affidavit was signed, now states that the poor old woman was paid in his presence a considerable sum of money after she had signed the paper. She has since been questioned by him and admits that she never had a son, but that she once adopted a relative named GEORGE P. HOBBS, and that he is now not twenty years of age. If he was ever known as MOREY it was as GEORGE MOREY—not H. L. MOREY. The old woman said she signed the statement because she was paid for it and was told there was no harm in it. We suppose these suborners of forgery and perjury, these telegraphers of lies and slanders, will wish to be received into the society of gentlemen after the election. There may be those who will look leniently on the methods of the democratic campaign and quote the proverb that "all is fair in love and war," but for our part we hope that President GARFIELD and his cabinet will be made of more self-respectful stuff. BARNUM, RANDALL, HEWITT & Co. should be made to feel, for four years, at least, that at the White House and the departments they have placed themselves outside the pale of social and official intercourse with gentlemen.

THE WINNERS OF THE FIGHT.

The democrats made a new discovery in Indiana at the October election, and it will be dilated somewhat to-day. The Hon. CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW of New York, one of the most graceful and effective speakers at the hustings, gives the following as the democratic explanation of their disaster in Indiana in October:

On the Central road the other day I met a gentleman returning from Indiana, who had been sent there representing Tammany hall for the purpose of assisting in the election in that state. I said to him: "How is it possible that, surrounded as you were by a body of wealthy and frequent voters, you failed in this contest?" Said he: "The reason was that I came across a lot of fellows I never met with before. They were called the manufacturing and agricultural classes." It is the manufacturing and agricultural classes who have taken this contest out of the hands of the professional politicians and are running it themselves in their own interests. We have had in the past issues upon great moral questions—issues in which the patriotism of the people was appealed to for the preservation of the republic, but in the present contest we have issues which appeal directly to every man who has anything at stake in capital, business or labor. We are in a condition of unprecedented prosperity and hope for the future, and the question which presses itself upon every man is: Shall this prosperity be continued by the policy, the measures and the men who have brought it about, or shall we abandon them, to embark upon an experiment doubtful upon its best premises, and disastrous if judged by the record and principles in the past of the party which advocates a change?

This is the real reason why not only Indiana but the whole north has wheeled into line with irresistible power in this contest. The "manufacturing and agricultural classes" have done the work. They saw a "solid south," a section of our common country made solid for the democratic party, through methods and agencies the most dangerous to republican institutions. They saw the danger that this proceeding impended over the perpetuity of the republic. They could see no way of averting the danger save by uniting "the manufacturing and agricultural classes" in a solid phalanx to counteract and defeat the solid south and its infamous practices to overthrow the freedom of the ballot. What this democratic Tammanyite discovered in Indiana to overwhelm him and his party with surprise is not confined especially to that state. It will appear to-day in Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey and New England. "The manufacturing and agricultural classes" never pooled their issues and fortunes everywhere at the north so completely and effectually as they have in this contest. This action has been inspired by a sense of danger that has been spread over the country to a degree that has not been felt since the close of the war. This "lot of fellows" whom the democrats have never met before in such formidable numbers are not confined to Indiana. They will be met everywhere to-day, and they will so direct their efforts that to-night their work of saving the nation in the hands of these classes will show itself to a degree not heretofore anticipated by the devotees of Tammany or by anybody else, for that matter. This has been a campaign of surprises, and the last grand surprise of the result will be more confounding to the democrats than anything that has yet occurred, especially if their strongly expressed confidence is not as hollow as their principles and patriotism.

A FIT ENDING.

The curt, impartial message which came over the wires from the press agent at Denver, Col., told our readers yesterday of an episode which fitly and legitimately closes the national democratic campaign of 1880. Fifteen hundred hoodlums, the scum of our plains, the outcasts of our cities, the parishs of our society, stimulated by their masters to the exercise of their smouldering, brutal passion for cruelty, arson, murder, rapine and mutilation, gathered together in the streets of Denver on Saturday and fell upon the few inoffensive, defenseless Chinese and slew them. They faithfully carried out in all their ghastly details the crowning acts of an ante-election democratic riot. The story cannot be read by the people of the United States without a feeling of shame, of self-degradation. It is the story with which the people of the north have become sadly familiar during the last fifteen years; it is only a change of location. Ku klux in North Carolina, red shirts and rifle clubs in South Carolina and Mississippi, the burning of negro orphan asylums in New York city, the murder of Chinese in California and Colorado, all proceed from the same source, are incited by the same teachings and carried into execution by the same class. Whoever has known of republicans massing together for outrages and murders upon the weak or the defenseless? No one. But if the source of the teachings, the stimulus and the executors of these crimes are sought for they may be found in the hearts, the acts, the character of the democratic leaders; and the fit and ready instruments for the Denver riot can be found wherever democratic ascendency exists or where democrats can be congregated together in sufficient numbers to make them overwhelmingly strong. The question of guilt, of moral responsibility, goes deeper than any police investigation may decide. We hold the leaders of the democratic party as first in degree of guilt. This crime in Colorado is the last act of a campaign conceived in iniquity, begun with lies, carried on by subornation of forgery and ending in the insolent defense of the detected forger. The villainy which procured the writing and uttering of the Chinese letter, and the defense of it and its author after the infamous forgery has been proved, is the provocation, the inducement, of this Denver riot. Before the people we arraign Senator BARNUM and Congressmen RANDALL and HEWITT for this shameful atrocity. The blood of these poor, peaceful Chinese is upon their hands. They are the authors, inciters and finishers of this iniquity; as such we hold them up to the American people for the reproach and contempt which are justly theirs.

WHAT WE EXPECT.

GARFIELD to carry Maine by 1,500 majority; New Hampshire by 2,000; Vermont by 26,000; Massachusetts by 30,000; Rhode Island by 4,000; Connecticut by 1,800; New York by 15,000; New Jersey by 2,000; Pennsylvania by 25,000; Ohio by 25,000; Indiana by 5,000; Illinois by 15,000; Iowa by 35,000; Kansas by 25,000; Wisconsin by 10,000; Michigan by 20,000; Minnesota by 15,000; Nebraska by 12,000; California by 3,000; Colorado by 2,000; Nevada by 500; Oregon by 1,000. Total electoral votes for GARFIELD, 231; popular majority in the solid north for GARFIELD, 276,000.

POLITICAL NOTES.

ESONSH rather enjoys the Chinese forged letter. It shows other leaders of the party so much meaner than he is that he is scarcely mentioned.

FATHER O'FARRELL of St. Peter's Roman catholic church, New York, preached a sermon in favor of the democratic candidate for mayor last Sunday. Mr. Grace is a member of the Roman church, and hence this partisanship.

THE Selma (Ala.) Southern Argus, which is understood to be Senator Morgan's home organ, says in its issue of the 22d instant: "The defeat of the republican party would give freedom to the people of the south—freedom of thought, of speech, of action. For this freedom the south supports Hancock with his eastern ideas, eastern advisers and eastern sympathies. For this freedom southern tariff reformers, southern anti-national bank men, southern inflationists—and there are many of these—fall into line under the leadership of Barnum and Scott and Wallace and Randall, with whom they have nothing else in common.

THE Rev. Dr. Newman on Sunday last preached in the Central methodist episcopal church, New York city, a political sermon, in which he said:

"The whole future of the country is bound up in the public schools. To the public school system the catholic church is opposed; they want parochial schools. Cardinal Antonelli once said that he would prefer to have a child run in the streets than receive the education given by the public schools of Massachusetts. Let the history of Europe," said he, "lift up its warning voice for resolute action to save our public schools from that power which smites and destroys free institutions. All the faculties of man say that no one man shall rule this city. The catholic candidate for mayor is the shadow of a man who is the shadow of another man, who is the shadow of a third man, who is the shadow of a fourth man, and I don't want to vote for a shadow. The issue has come down to that grand institution, our public schools. The crisis is upon us. We are called to meet the question next Tuesday. We must forget for the moment that we are democrats or republicans. Do your duty boldly and successfully on next Tuesday."

WHETHER the continent of South America is rising or falling is evidently of great moment to those who are expected to invest in Panama canal shares. Dr. W. Weiss read a paper before the Berlin geographical society at a recent meeting, in which he advanced the theory, founded on a comparison of observations which had been made at the mouths of rivers, that the continent is rising. The Isthmus of Panama seems to be rising, and signs of elevation are apparent on the north coast of the continent.
