WASTE OF WAIST.

My lady sighs,
And her languid eyes
Look sad in the morning light;
Head and heart both ache,
And her hands they shake,
And her lips and cheeks are white;
Of the pains of pleasure she knows the taste,
And the price she pays for a tiny waist.

Dear damsels who
Your bodies screw
Into half their true proportions,
If you only heard
The terms conferred
On your ugly, vain contortions,
You would not be in such painful haste
To make a display of your tiny waist.

Up, women and men!
By tongue and by pen
Let us drive out this folly between us!
For Nature has given
A spirit of Heaven
Unto you and the form of a Venus;
Why spoil such a figure, so sweetly graced,
And blight life's roses for a tiny waist?

—Whitelaw Reid.

TURKEY WINGS.

—A sign of indigestion—"Gone to dinner; be back in five minutes."

—The boy who was kept after school for bad orthography said he was spellbound.

—If a two-wheeled vehicle is a bicycle, and a three-wheeled a tricycle, it does not follow that the one-wheeled is an icicle. It is a wheelbarrow.

—Somerset County sends us November strawberries—marks of affection that assure the existence of our long-lost brothers of the Eastern Shore.—Baltimore Gazette.

—One by one the beautiful legends of the world are fading into nonentities. It is now said there is no race of tailed men in Borneo. Perhaps they didn't put the premium lists high enough and the men wouldn't race.—New Haven Register.

—A woman who carried around milk in Paris said a naive thing the other day. One of the cooks to whom she brought milk looked into the can and remarked, with surprise: "Why, there is actually nothing there but water!" The woman, having satisfied herself of the truth of the statement, said: "Well, if I didn't forget to put in the milk!"

They had a little game of draw at the surveyors' camp, near Cherry Creek, the other day, and the negro cook took a hand. He also took the disputed "pot," and then the row began. The negro butted one man in the stomach and then hid in a tent. They hunted him out of that, but are no doubt sorry they found him, as he ran the blockade by doing some scientific butting, seeing that one of his opponents was armed with a knife and one with an axe. One man got it in the mouth and the other in the stomach, and the negro made for the woods. His mode of fighting was a revelation to the boys. After getting so hungry next morning that they would rather eat than fight, the cook was permitted to return to camp.—Salt Lake Tribune.

—A motherly-looking woman yesterday carefully handed the stamp clerk at the post-office a letter marked "in haste," and inquired if there was any extra charge for writing that on. "Oh, none at all." "How soon will the letter go out?" "In about forty minutes." "No sooner than that?" "Well, we might hire a special train and get it off in about twenty minutes." "Would it be too much trouble?" "Oh, none at all." She thought for a moment, turned the letter over three or four times, and finally said: "I guess I won't ask you to hire a special train, but if you will be kind enough to telegraph my sister that I have written her a letter to tell her that I can't come till Monday, and to be at the depot to meet me, and that mother didn't go to Toledo after all, I shall be ever so much obliged. Good morning."—Sunday School Gazette.

SAYINGS.

BY J. INOG.

'Tis distance lends enchantment to the view,
And robes broken banks in a cussed hue.

Nothing can be said that does not directly or indirectly concern mankind.

The devil is a humorist on a large scale. The "Meet-me-to-night" columns of the Cincinnati Enquirer must be fun for the devil when he remembers how well those columns pay the Christian stockholders.

What this country needs about as hard as it needs a navy is a first-class hotel that will furnish a few bills of fare in the United States language, merely for occasional reference. Sometimes, though seldom, a man is found who cannot eat fluently in French.

There are scientists to-day who are better acquainted with the life and character of the Lower Silurian era than they are with the life and character of the multitude they meet every day; and there are ministers who know more of Lazarus than they do of the crying, starving children now living in our own land.

It looks a little like something is wrong somewhere when I see railroad companies and high officials of the Government cutting down the wages of men who work day and night, in all kinds of weather, in order that trains may be on time and baggage and mails safely transmitted, while the railroad bosses and those high officials are junketing over the country in "special parlor cars," as stiff as if they had been feeding on ramrods.

Some people entertain the sick man by telling him how many persons they have known to die of his complaint, and if their words are doubted they will bring out the census figures to swear by. An old lady of my acquaintance always had a cheering though pathetic story to relate beside the bed of the sufferer. It was a lengthy account of the last illness of her late husband, "Isick," with a graphic description of the way he swelled up after death, so that she had to try three coffins before she found one large enough for "pore Isick." These tender narratives are relished by the invalid. It is well they are not forgotten.

VIRGINIA NEWS.

The question of a paid fire department for Richmond has been abandoned.

The interior of the capitol at Richmond is being repainted by a convict from the penitentiary.

The Washington steamer Excelsior was fined $300 on Wednesday for failing to clear from the Norfolk custom-house.

Rev. E. P. Wilson, the newly appointed pastor of the Methodist Church in Manchester, was presiding elder of the Petersburg district, and is a man of family.

Mr. James C. Taylor, delegate-elect to the General Assembly from Montgomery County, is spoken of as likely to succeed Judge Garland, of the Corporation Court.

The Virginia conference of the M. E. Church, recently in session at Charlottsville, passed a resolution favoring the passage of a law for the cessation of the liquor traffic.

The round-house of the Richmond and Alleghany Railroad has been located at Duke's Pond, two miles below Lynchburg, and over a hundred workmen are now employed in its construction.

One Richmond real estate agency has sold $60,000 worth of property within the past two or three weeks, most of it land adjacent to that city. Most of it was taken up by Northern purchasers.

The hippodrome attached to Coup's circus will winter in Richmond, at the fair grounds. The circus, under the management of Mr. Haight, will make a tour of the Southern States during the winter months.

Ex-Judge William I. Clopton, of Manchester, and Mr. Samuel M. Page were arrested at the Chesterfield court-house Tuesday, charged with being about to commit a breach of the peace by engaging in a duel.

Mr. Horace A. Saeed was killed on Saturday night, while going from Richmond to his home in the country, by falling from his horse and breaking his neck. The bridle broke and he was thrown over the horse's neck.

With the advent of the cool weather the fraternity of tramps are beginning to move South. They go South in winter and return North in summer—that is, the great body of them. Some few obtain permanent employment and locate here and there in the South.

Mr. I. C. Fowler is most prominently mentioned in connection with the Readjuster nomination for speaker of the house of delegates. His friends are confident of his nomination. Mr. T. H. Cross is the only other Readjuster who has been mentioned so far in connection with the office.

Some landlords in Manchester have been badly fooled lately by their tenants, who, seeing the landlords coming to collect rent, threw to the breeze white flags, to indicate that smallpox was around. The plan succeeded only for a few days. One day there was only one case of smallpox in the city, but more than thirty flags were flying when house-rent fell due.

Thomas H. Dunlap, lessee of the Central Virginia Iron Company's property, in Nelson County, has been put in formal possession, and operations in the mines will be resumed this week. The original cost of this property was $4-0,000, and Mr. Dunlap, the receiver, states that $90,000 has been expended in developing it.

The iron-manufacturing industry about Richmond appears for the time to be paralyzed. The James River Iron and Steel Manufacturing Company, the works of which are located about three miles above the city, on the line of the Richmond and Alleghany road, is said to be in financial distress, and has suspended operations entirely.

The French Language in Omaha.

The following colloquy took place recently between His Honor the mayor of Omaha and the spokesman of the distinguished French guests of the only metropolitan city of the Missouri Valley:

Mayor—Bon jour, garcons; je suis bien aise de vous voir.

General Boulanger—Bon jour, Monsieur le Mayor. Nous avons beaucoup de plaiser de vous rencontrer.

Mayor—Asseyez vous, messieurs, sans ceremonie.

General Boulanger—Mon Seur le Mayor, introduit, s'il vous plait, vous amis.

Mayor—Oh, mon cher Monsieur Boulanger, ces messieurs sont a qui nous disons reporters dans ce pays ici. Ce ne pas necessaire de leur introduire.

General Boulanger—Oh, oui; nous avons le meme chose dans la France.

Mayor—Je suis bien aise de vous voir et bien adjourd'hui.

The conversation then dropped into l'Anglaise.

"THERE may be some virtue in all of them," he said, "but for great worth and rapidity of effect I know that nothing made can excel Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup."

The Most Depraved Man Alive.

At Fort Wayne I heard of a man who had fallen very low in the social scale. The man was up before Judge Foster for illegal voting, and in his cross-examination he developed a line of family depravity seldom heard of. I confess I never heard of a family springing from such a depraved moral source.

"What has been your profession previous to your arrest?" asked Lawyer Johnson, one of the proudest lawyers in Fort Wayne.

"I have kept a saloon, sir."

"Anything else?" asked Lawyer Thompson. "You have not kept a saloon for ten years, have you?"

"No, sir; I was a negro minstrel for a year, and then I went with Coup's circus."

"Do you not think the life of a negro minstrel and a traveling circus man a very low calling?" asked the lawyer.

"Yes, sir; they are low callings, I will admit; but they are honest. You see, my father started very low, and I could not seem to get ahead."

"But your father never occupied a lower position than you, sir. He couldn't. Impossible," said the lawyer.

"Yes, sir; but he did."

"Well, what?"

"Why, he kept a faro bank. He had bad luck at that and kept going down hill. He ran away from mother just before I was born, leaving us children to starve. Then he began to get drunk and sleep on saloon floors. He got lower and lower, and became a low tramp, and next we heard of him over in Kalamazoo, utterly shameless, practicing law."—NN Perkins in New York Sun.

Postal Savings Banks.

Just at this time, when so many banks are going off like dynamite bombs, the idea of establishing postal savings banks is likely to be carefully considered. The showing of the institution in Great Britain is surely most satisfactory. Any sum from one shilling to one hundred and fifty pounds may be deposited, and interest will be paid at the rate 2½ per cent., and from the fact that the depositor can put his money into any post-office where he chooses and draw it from any office where he may chance to be, merely by presenting his certificate of deposit, the system has gained an immense popularity. In the United States the fact has been noted by former Postmasters-General that in the greater part of the country there are no savings banks, and no likelihood of any. Small towns, villages, and country places are deprived of the "luxury," and the savings of the people are either carried to a distance to be invested or hoarded in some way or other, and liable in any event to be lost by robbers, burglars et al., not excepting cashiers and innocent bank examiners. The confidence in our banking institutions is not very great, but the confidence of the people in their country is unbounded. In the Government there is a sense of security greater than in any private concern, however well managed, and the postal savings bank is sure of a warm welcome.

Nautical Nonsense.

"Father," asked Johnny, "what is a log?" "A log, my son," replied Brown, stealing a hasty glance at Mrs. B, to see if she was listening for his answer, "a log, my son, is a big piece of wood or timber. Why do you ask, Johnny?" "It tells in this story about heaving the log, and it says the ship went fourteen knots an hour. What does it mean by knots, father?" "Knots, Johnny—knots? Why, you have seen a log almost always covered with knots, haven't you? Well, that's what it means—fourteen of them—the ship got by fourteen of them in an hour. That's all, Johnny," said Brown, with a sigh of relief that he had got out of it so easily.

Where He Fell.

Passing down the Highland Railway the other day, I heard an old gentleman tell his son, an undergraduate of Cambridge, that the stone standing in yonder field was to mark the spot where Lord Dundee fell. "Oh," said the young man, hastily calling the attention of a chum who sat beside him, "do you see that stone standing in the field? Well, it's to mark the spot where Lord Dundreary fell!"—London World.

Entertainment at Mount Pleasant.

There will be a literary and social entertainment at the residence of Mr. S. P. Brown, at Mount Pleasant, this evening. The literary exercises will commence at seven o'clock, and last, it is expected, about two hours. Then dancing will be indulged in. The object of the entertainment is so raise funds for the Mount Pleasant school library.

Nothing Extraordinary.

A San Francisco journalist claims to have written a column a day for the last eighteen years.—New York Tribune. There is nothing extraordinary about this. We have pocts connected with our waste-basket staff who could give this Californian a good start and then walk in ahead of him.—Chicago Tribune.

The Reason Why.

John V. L. Groesbeck.—"Why do editors lie so badly?" John, you think it smart to ask that cruel question, but we will answer it, although such questions do not deserve an answer. Editors lie so badly because they are not used to it.—Texas Siftings.

THE largest ink house in the world (Thaddeus Davids & Co.) is at 127 Williams street, New York, and Mr. George W. Davids was induced to employ St. Jacob's Oil in seeking relief from the pangs of rheumatic gout, a disease which he inherited, and which at times proves very troublesome. He has used the remedy with very great satisfaction, indeed. It relieved him within twenty-four hours after commencing to apply it of a pretty sharp attack of his hereditary foe. He was therefore disposed to think kindly of it as an extremely efficacious liniment. Mr. Davids further stated that St. Jacob's Oil had been used by members of his family for neuralgia, and in one case for the mumps, with the most gratifying results.

A Card from Wm. M. Galt & Co.
FIRST PREMIUM FOR THE BEST BARREL of Flour made from Spring Wheat this day awarded to entry No. 28, in Section 28, Class 25, Department 26, to Wm. M. Galt & Co.

J. M. WHARTON,
W. P. NEWCOMER,
JOHN D. NEWMANN,
Experts on Flour.
Attest: JAS. S. EDWARDS, Marshal.
P. S.—The above-mentioned Flour is CERES, the celebrated Minnesota Patent Process Flour, which was awarded the first premium against all other competitors at the National Fair in 1879 and 1880 (gold medal), and now again in 1881. The competition in Flour was certainly a very lively one this year, and the premium was well contested for, but it was simply an impossibility to beat CERES, and the above premium just awarded is only adding another triumph to the magnificent success this so celebrated Flour has gained in this community.
We would also respectfully mention the fact that Mrs. S. P. Anderson received the first premium for the handsomest rolls and biscuits on exhibition, and they were made of CERES FLOUR, which is only another proof that it stands A No. 1 among the best Minnesota Patent Flours known to the trade.
