Guilty as Indicted.

Such was the verdict of the jury yesterday afternoon in the case of Charles J. Guiteau, tried for the murder of President Garfield on the 2d of July, 1881. For ten long weeks the trial has been in progress, and in its several phases is probably the most remarkable trial in the records of criminal jurisprudence. The evidence of the prisoner's guilt as being the person who assassinated the President was not combatted by the defense—in fact, the shooting was admitted. The prolonged trial was caused by the line of defense set up—to the effect that the prisoner was insane, and therefore not responsible for the consequences of his act. The largest latitude was granted the prisoner and his counsel during the trial, the Court being indulgent to an extent that provoked much severe criticism in the outside press. The charge of Judge Cox to the jury was a clear and unbiased statement of the law, and presented no ground for any well-taken exception, and his whole conduct during the exciting trial was governed by the just rule that every accused person was deemed innocent until he was proved guilty.

The promptness with which the patient jury rendered their unanimous verdict after receiving the Judge's charge is evidence that no doubts of fact or law clouded their judgment. Thus substantially closes this most remarkable trial, and to the honest verdict of the jury the civilized world will say Amen!

IT would appear that Thomas A. is willing to ride behind Samuel J. in the presidential race of 1884 provided Samuel J. will agree to dismount and run away as soon as the goal is reached, leaving the fruits of victory to the rearmost rider. In the absence of anything more tangible relative to the next quadrennial campaign this piece of sentimentalism will do to amuse the populace. But there are many obstacles to the consummation of such an agreement, and, were the agreement duly made, the bargain would be repudiated by the Democracy in national convention assembled.

IT is believed that yesterday's verdict in the Guiteau trial will have a much desired effect upon the numerous army of conceited cranks roaming about the country disturbing society and violating law under the guise of "inspiration." The verdict "guilty as indicted" is a warning as pronounced in its meaning toward maliciously inspired idiots as it is the death-knell of the convicted Guiteau.

THE spectacle of a person arraigned for murder who admits he committed the heinous crime, and in defense files a plea of insanity and testifies and argues to the court and jury in his own behalf to sustain his plea, is unprecedented in the history of legal practice, and will go down in the annals of criminal jurisprudence as the most remarkable case and trial ever recorded.

LORNE is sound in his conclusion that it is not best for Canadian emigration agents in England to send emigrants to United States ports. Emigrants designed for Canada should be shipped direct. If they land south of the border there is not one chance in ten that they will go north. Only the imbecile will leave the States to settle in the Dominion.

IF Congress were to remain in session continuously and devote nine-tenths of its time to private bills it could not dispose of a tenth part of them. All the ends of justice and sound policy would be best served by creating a tribunal for the adjudication of such claims as now load the files of Congress and block the wheels of legislation.

BISMARCK is certainly not a coward, and nothing can be gained by applying that ugly adjective to him. He has the courage of his convictions, but his convictions are out of joint with the age. He is better qualified for a prime minister to the Czar of Russia than to the amiable old Emperor of Germany.

WHY should Democrats complain of the protective cast of the Ways and Means Committee? Speaker Keifer never saw the hour when he could get more protection into a Ways and Means Committee that did the Democratic Speaker of the Forty-sixth Congress.

THE King of Siam has a warm affection for Americans. This is the reason why he desires to make a "White Elephant" of General Halderman.

THE country expects the House Elections Committee to do good work, and to do it with as much promptness as its rules admit of.

THE new Congressional Library is a pressing need. The corridors of the present one closely resemble a junk-shop.

HON. MATT CARPENTER.

His Memory Kept Green—Eulogistic Remarks in Both Houses.

In the Senate on Wednesday, immediately after the reading of the journal, Mr. Cameron, of Wisconsin, submitted resolutions commemorative of the late Senator Carpenter, as follows:

Resolved, That the Senate has heard with profound sorrow of the death of the Hon. Matthew H. Carpenter, late a Senator from the State of Wisconsin, and extends to his afflicted family sincere sympathy and condolence in their bereavement.

Resolved, That, as an additional mark of respect for the memory of Mr. Carpenter, the regular business of the Senate be now suspended, in order that his former associates in this body may pay fitting tribute to his memory.

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate be directed to transmit to the family of the deceased and also to the Governor of Wisconsin a certified copy of these resolutions, with a statement of the action of the Senate thereon.

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate communicate these resolutions to the House of Representatives.

Eulogistic speeches were made by Senators Cameron of Wisconsin, Gar land, Logan, Kellogg, Bayard, Edmunds, and Davis of Illinois, and the Senate (at 1:40 p. m.), as a further testimonial of respect for the memory of the deceased, adjourned until Thursday.

In the House of Representatives.

On motion of Mr. Reed the Senate bill permitting Associate Justice Ward Hunt, of the United States Supreme Court, to retire was taken from the Speaker's table for present consideration. Mr. Reed explained the provisions of the bill, and then yielded the floor to Mr. Townshend, of Illinois, who opposed it. First, because it would set a dangerous precedent; second, because he regarded it as a reflection upon the high tribunal to presume that one of its members would for a pecuniary consideration be induced to do what it was his duty to the people to do.

After debate the bill was passed—yeas, 137; nays, 89. The majority of the Republicans voted in the affirmative and the body of the Democrats in the negative.

Several bills and resolutions were offered.

At two o'clock all business was suspended, and the House proceeded to pay its last tribute of respect to the memory of the late Senator Matthew H. Carpenter, of Wisconsin. Messrs. Williams, Caswell, Humphreys, Hazelton, and Deuster, of Wisconsin; Kasson of Iowa, Dunnell of Minnesota, Orth of Indiana, Robeson of New Jersey, Tyler of Vermont, and Butterworth of Ohio pronounced eulogies, and then, at 4:35 p. m., the House, out of respect to the memory of the deceased, adjourned.

Judge Porter Mistaken.

Sitting at breakfast this morning at Willard's, I noticed a gentleman of probably sixty years, who took a chair directly opposite me, and who was particularly remarkable for his nervousness. He was soldierly-looking, his hair was white, his eyes were blue, and his handsome moustache was waxed and pointed. I was especially interested in furtively watching his nervous efforts to pare and eat an orange, until another gentleman came along, addressing him as "Judge," asked him when he would make his speech. "On Thursday, I believe," said the Judge, "although I cannot say. I must be ready whenever the other side have finished." The other man passed on, and I clutched firm hold of the thread of the conversation which he had dropped.

"Of course," I said, "everybody is interested in wondering what the jury will do, and you, Judge Porter, ought to be able to guess better than an outsider." The Judge was inclined to affability. "That is where you are mistaken," he said. "I have no means of judging, excepting observation of the countenances of the jury."

"I suppose you feel satisfied with that observation?" I hazarded. "I can say this, that I believe there will not be more than one dissenting voice to a vote of guilty."

Avoiding impertinence (after the manner of my kind) I waited for him to particularize. "I did not wait in vain. "If I am afraid of anybody," he said at last, "I am afraid of the negro. The negro's face is generally one easily read, and sometimes I have my doubts about him."

Let us hope that the nigger in this jury-box—that is to say, in this wood-pile—will prove that the judgment of the Judge was defective.—Washington Correspondence Omaha Republican, January 22.

From an Old Veteran.

Captain Charles L. Young, formerly of the First Regiment, Sickles' Brigade, and General Hooker's staff, and at present senior vice-commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, writes as follows from Toledo, Ohio, to an old friend in this city:

To have been a "high private" in E Company, First Excelsior, was a greater honor than to be an officer in any other company. I am delighted to hear from you, and especially at the instance of Major "Joe" Denniston. Occasionally I meet an old comrade. In fact, a few reside near me. Many, though, have been "mustered out" to the Grand Encampment above. Colonel Farnum is dead, and only the other day Captain Hoxey was laid away in New Jersey. Key, Major William J., is a teller in the New York post-office money-order department. Daniel E. Sickles, a major-general on the retired list of the regular army, called purposely to see me not long ago, and thus the old links are kept together. I had hoped once again to grasp dear old "Joe" Hooker's hand ere he passed from us; but it could not be. In memory of my service on his staff the family, through the administrator of his estate, sent me the yellow sash worn by "Fighting Joe" in the field. I value it next to wife and babies, as you may readily appreciate. In relation to your fair, I will address you again before the opening date. Among the patrons I notice many familiar names. Believe me very sincerely yours.

The New Library of Congress.

The new library of Congress had better be built, no matter where it is put or what the cost, and too much outside discussion of the question will only throw the matter over for another year, or, perhaps, for years, while meantime the best collection of books in the country for literary, legal, and professional purposes is becoming unavailable for want of shelf-room. It is one of the defects of the United States that it has no national library to compare with those of England and France and first-class nations, out of which libraries come the thorough books of all kinds which the present age is producing. Our country is being filled with costly private libraries, not available, and not much consulted by their owners. The Library of Congress will take this position after it is properly housed. Before any building can be finished the collection will probably amount to five hundred thousand volumes. "In Americana and in American manuscripts it is already worthy."—Gath.

An Important Decision.

Secretary Kirkwood, after a consideration of the oral arguments made for a rehearing in the Ellisal case, has denied the motion and directed that the decision already rendered in this case be carried into effect. In this case the Secretary held that an executive officer of the Government has no power to reverse the findings of a court of law, thereby reversing former decisions rendered by the Commissioners of the General Land Office. The decision is one of great importance to parties concerned in land matters, and as it reverses the rules of practice that have governed the Land Office in the transaction of this class of business it may lead to many motions for rehearings in cases which have been regarded as finally disposed of.

A Hot Plate.

It's funny! but a soft-palmed woman can pass a hot ple-plate to her nearest neighbor at the table with a smile as sweet as distilled honey, while a man, with a hand as horny as a crocodile's back, will drop it to the floor and howl around like a Sioux Indian at a scalp-dance.—Curl Schurz.

Modesty.

Colonel Cook and A. M. Gibson have asked the Government to pay each of them $7,500 for their services in the star-route cases. They are modest. But what can they show for it?—Inter-Ocean.

Senator Hill's Musicale.

Senator and Mrs. Hill, of Colorado, entertained a brilliant and most enjoyable party of about one hundred guests on Tuesday evening. A few of the most prominent of those present were Hon. Sackville West and Miss West, Mr. Outrey, General and Miss Sherman, Colonel Bliss, General and Mrs. Parke, Mr. and Mrs. Preston, ex-Secretary and Mrs. Blaine, and Miss Dodge, Judge and Mrs. Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Pollock, Governor Anthony, Senator Hale, Senator and Mrs. McPherson, Dr. and Mrs. Loring, and Colonel and Mrs. Quinn. A prominent feature of the occasion was the vocal music, and conspicuously the singing of Miss Hattie Simms, whose splendid voice and manifold graces and accomplishments have won the admiration of the many Washington friends of Senator and Mrs. Hill.

The Case of Contempt.

The rule against J. M. Dungan, Jacob Rich, and W. A. McIroy, to show cause why they should not be punished for contempt of court, was returned and heard in the Circuit Court yesterday. Explanations were made by Rich and McIroy, and the court, holding them good, discharged the rule against them. In the case of Dungan Judge Wylie decided that he had not purged himself, and that he was not the proper man to have possession of the goods. The assignment to Rich would be annulled and a receiver appointed.

A Big New Bridge Opened.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 24.—The great double-deck, double-track railway and highway bridge over the Hudson River at Albany was formally opened to the public to-day by Jose F. Navarro, of New York, President A. Bleecker Banks, and Chief Engineer A. P. Boller. It is 1,400 feet long, has in it the largest draw span in the world, and was built in the short time of eight months, at a cost of about $1,000,000, exclusive of damages for land taken.

AT THE DANCE.

Like a beautiful queen on her throne she seem'd
Crowned with her golden hair;
Her brilliant eye with splendor beam'd
And her face was passing fair.

Her bust had charm'd a sculptor's eye,
And oh! that bewitching glance!
As she gazed on the revellers passing by
In the maze of the festive dance.

My soul was burning, with passion I pray'd
My gallant friend De Meuil
To appeal for me to the beautiful maid
To dance in the next quadrille.

He smiled and said, with a comical leer:
"Don't ask me again, I beg."
Then the demon whispered into my ear,
"She's got—a—wooden leg!"

THE DISTRICT COMMISSIONERS.

Current Transactions at the Various District Offices.

The total mortality in the District of Columbia for the week ending Saturday, January 21, 1882, was 62, being less than during the preceding week, or at the rate of 17.3 per 1,000 per annum. Of the decedents 9 were white males, 21 white females, 12 colored males, and 20 colored females, making an annual death rate of 12.7 per 1,000 for the white population and 26.3 for the colored. Seven white and 15 colored were under five years of age, and 14 white and 4 colored were 60 and over. There were 56 births reported—viz., 12 white males, 15 white females, 16 colored males, and 13 colored females—making an annual birth rate of 11.4 per 1,000 for the white and 23.9 for the colored population. Marriages reported, 6—white, 5; colored, 1. Stillbirths, 4—white, 2; colored, 2.

The liquor license board yesterday approved the applications of W. L. Beuchert, 661 Pennsylvania avenue southeast; John Crowley, 3226 M street northwest; H. C. Christman, Eighth and L streets southeast; Frank Foster, 311 Eighth street northwest; Ernest Leiffer, 111 New York avenue northwest; Lorenzo Stetzle, 1007 E street northwest; and disapproved that of Edward Donnelly, 1216 Pennsylvania avenue northwest.

Revision of assessments have been completed against alleys in square 595.

The Health Department has received an appropriation of $2,000, to be used in vaccinating the poor of Washington.

Building permits have been issued to Timothy Costello, to build a dwelling-house on Seventeenth street, between I and M northwest, $1,500; Sears & Metcalf, to make general repairs.

The Health Officer has written to the Commissioners, urging a number of measures for the prevention of the spread of smallpox. The most important is that the smallpox hospital be refitted and improved, so as to be in fit condition for the reception of the patients.

The Commissioners in a communication to Congress have transmitted the report of Lieutenant Greene concerning the work done in filling the old canal, in which was included the estimate of $29,114 as the cost of continuing the filling to completion. They also state that the work mentioned in the report gave employment to a large number of poor persons, rendered much valuable land, and improved the several streets in the vicinity; that it is very desirable it should be completed to N street as contemplated. If an early appropriation be made by Congress it will give further work to the poor classes, instead of leaving them dependent upon charity. Congress for several years has appropriated money for this purpose, and it is to be hoped it will do likewise this year.

THE INDIAN COMMISSIONER.

Sound Reasons Why His Pay Should Be Increased.

The Senate and House Committees on Indian Affairs held a joint meeting yesterday for the purpose of hearing the Secretary of the Interior in explanation and advocacy of the bill recently prepared by him to provide for improving the condition of uncivilized Indians, the reduction of their reservations to proper limits, and the allotment of their lands in severalty. Secretary Kirkwood's arguments yesterday were substantially the same as those advanced by him in his annual report. The Secretary also took occasion to recommend with much earnestness that the salary of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs be increased, and that he be given an assistant commissioner to relieve him of routine drudgery and enable him to devote more time to the investigation of the important questions which continually arise in his bureau and which should have his personal attention.

French and American Claims.

The French and American Claims Commission met yesterday. The French counsel moved that the judgment dismissing the case of Sigismund Roman vs. The United States be suspended for twenty days, which was granted. The Commission rendered a decision in the case of Virginie Datriliar vs. The United States, sustaining the demurrer and dismissing the case. The French counsel moved that the Commission take up and consider the case of Sudeur vs. The United States on its merits, without argument. The counsel for the United States objected, unless the claimant should produce the original book of entries, upon which some of the items in the claim are based. A motion was made in the case of the heirs of Duminet vs. The United States, and also in the cases of Guiberteau vs. The United States, to amend the memorials, which was reserved. The French counsel moved that an order be made requiring the cases to be called in the order in which they appear upon the docket; and that, if cases are not ready for final submission, application for extension of time must be made upon causes shown, and that after the 1st of March next all the demurrers will be reserved until the cases are considered on their merits. The commission took the motions under advisement and adjourned to Saturday, January 28, 1882.

Presbyterian Sociable.

Tuesday evening last the congregation occupying Clabaugh Hall, on Fourteenth, near R street, held another of their very attractive sociables, which was largely attended and was admirably conducted in all its details. Mr. Richard Thompson presided and announced the order of exercises. These exercises consisted of a duet on the piano by Miss Jennie M. Tustin and Miss Marian Antisell; reading, Mr. E. T. Hodges; solo, Miss Kilby; reading, Miss Antisell; solo, George A. M. Prevost, esq.; reading, T. H. Whitaker, and a duet by Misses Daniels and Easterbrook. Refreshments were dispensed under the direction of Mesdames Eldridge, Patch and Hodges, and the entire programme was pronounced quite one of all who participated in its preparation. Rev. Mr. Patch, who is ministering to this infant congregation, is meeting with no little success, and an organization according to Presbyterian requirements is in contemplation at an early day.

Illinois Republican Association.

The Illinois Republican Association met last night in St. George's Hall and had a rousing time. A large number of new members were elected, and other business of importance was transacted. The following were chosen officers for the ensuing year: Colonel W. L. Wood, president; T. L. Lamb, vice-president; Theodore L. De Land, secretary, and W. R. Gass, treasurer. The following resolution was adopted:

Whereas we notice with pleasure that one of our citizens, S. P. Rounds, of Chicago, is an applicant for appointment as Public Printer; Therefore,

Resolved, That we, knowing his steadfast principles as a Republican and his qualifications as a practical printer, desire to second what seems to be the almost universal sentiment of the press and Republicans of the Northwest in favor of his appointment to the office, and would hail the same with genuine satisfaction.

Walter, $500, for the benefit of St. Patrick's Church, and a hundred masses are to be said for the repose of her soul. To her husband, Patrick Farquhar, a house and lot in lot 28, square 131. Professor Greener's Entertainment.

Professor R. T. Greener entertained at his residence on Monday evening a number of influential and prominent colored Republicans, mostly from the South. Among them were Register Bruce, Washington, D. C.; George Pinchback, Louisiana; T. J. Minton, of South Carolina; Colonel Harlan and son; J. H. Pyles, esq., of Ohio; J. L. Lynch, of Mississippi; Phillip Joseph and James R. Roper, of Alabama; W. A. Bozemon, of Kansas; J. W. Cromwell, Virginia; T. T. Fortune, esq., of New York, editor of the Globe, and W. E. Matthews, of Maryland. Matters pertaining to the interests of the colored people at the South were discussed.

The Potomac Flats.

The Secretary of War has ordered the reference of Colonel Abert's plan for the reclamation of the flats of the Potomac River to a board of engineers, consisting of General Gilmore, General Comstock, and Colonel Craighill, which board is now engaged in certain engineering work upon the Cape Fear River in North Carolina. The board will meet in Baltimore in a few weeks, and will visit this city for the purpose of inspecting the Potomac and agreeing upon a general plan for its improvement.

Washington Light Guard Fair.

The Washington Light Guard's fair meeting was well attended last evening, notwithstanding the impediments thrown in the way of the attendant ladies by the ungallant weather clerk. Prizes to the value of $700 were secured to be distributed among the holders of season tickets, and the various musical organizations will have an opportunity to bring their popularity to a test by the competition for one of the finest grand pianos ever brought to this city.

A Valuable Donation.

Mr. W. A. Short, corresponding secretary of the Union Veteran Corps, received yesterday from Messrs. L. Prang & Co., the celebrated chromo publishers of Boston, a handsome collection of chromos, valued at $100, for the use of the corps next month. Due acknowledgment of the donation has been suitably made.
