THE REPUBLICAN will, as usual, be issued to-morrow in double sheet form, with fifty-six columns of live, interesting, and well-arranged news. There will also be found matters of social and personal mention of general interest, such as fashion notes, items for the household, notes of the stage, book reviews, and matter selected from the latest magazines.

THE WEEKLY REPUBLICAN, with its large amount of varied and interesting reading matter, is now out, and can be obtained at the business office, in wrappers, ready for mailing. It contains a complete record of the doings of Congress and the various Departments, personal and social events at the National Capital, besides a large amount of selected matter of special interest to the agriculturalist, to the household, and to the general reader.

A Wail from Old Virginny.

The question now arises whether the State of Virginia exists any longer or not. The people elected Governor Cameron and a Readjuster Legislature. The Legislature, in the exercise of its lawful and undisputed authority, has chosen judges. In making the selections the majority, strangely enough, voted against the minority. This audacious conduct led to the election of those who received the larger number of votes, and, horrible to relate, these were not Bourbon Democrats. Willingly would we draw the veil at this point in the story, but newspapers must make history, and when a great State like Virginia is ruthlessly torn from the Bourbon grasp by "a mass of illiterate voters turned loose to the polls," as a Virginian Bourbon informs the Critic has been done, we shall record the wailings of the defeated. The Bourbon referred to is vouched for by the Critic as a prominent one, "whose information on this and all kindred subjects is equal, if not superior, to that of any man in that State." This woeful person declares that the wicked "Readjusters are turning out all the tried and trusted judges in the State, and putting in their places men whom it was impossible to respect." Think of it. The idea of putting out judges tried and trusted by the old mossback Bourbons, and then putting in their places men who can not command mossback respect. It is enough to make the cold chills run down one's back. No wonder that "information" set in with this highly-informed Virginia Bourbon interviewer. The "old reverence" for ermine-wearers has departed—i. e., Bourbon reverence. Oh, for the good old times! True, the Readjuster leaders and the mass of their white associates were in the confederate army, and have always been Democrats; and so long as they voted the "regular" ticket they were just as much people as anybody. But now they are not people. The Bourbons, and no others, are "the people," no matter whether a majority or a minority. All others, irrespective of former party affiliations, are "a mass of illiterate voters."

Why this fine old Bourbon Virginia gentleman, all of the olden time, tells us that "the Readjusters are carrying their vandal hands into every nook and corner of the State." Was there ever such an impudent majority? They are just going for the trustees of State institutions, and even the story goes that the directors of the Virginia Military Institute (where General Mahone was educated) and of the University of Virginia (where Governor Cameron, and Senator-elect Riddleberger, and Hon. John Wise were educated) are to consist hereafter of fugitive Democrats escaped from service and labor on the regular Democratic plantation. The saddest thing of all in all this strange, eventful history is that "the cohorts of Mahone" are about to be appointed notaries public. We cannot proceed with the harrowing tale. We have supped full of horrors. It is enough to say that, owing to the "turning loose" as aforesaid, and the "carrying of vandal hands," &c., and the gross misconduct of the "cohorts" in pursuit of notarial honors in "the State now is in a condition of chaos." And the architect of all this ruin—Mahone, of Virginia—sits calmly in his seat in the United States Senate, and gazes with his mind's eye upon the chaos, and all that sort of thing, and sheds no tears.

THE Congress of the United States has no right to abdicate the government of this District. If it is too much trouble to consider the most ordinary and important interests of the city, then a local government, with sufficient powers, should be created. We want a copious supply of water. We want that Potomac Flats appropriation. It is time for Congress to be reminded that it is our only District government now.

THE people of the District should importune Speaker Keifer whenever and wherever they can meet him to promptly move in the matter of fixing a day for the consideration of District matters in the House. People are heard nowadays for their much speaking.

Slandering the Gamblers.

There is no surer barometer of a gambler's luck than the daintiness of his appetite. When everything is running his way he disdains the bill of fare and orders the "best in the house," which also includes the cellar. He has the fastidious taste and fault-finding faculty of the most elegant epicure. While fortune turns up for him upon the green table everything must be served up to a turn for him on the table-cloth. But let the fickle jade desert him, and he will change his restaurant in twenty-four hours. He will go to some eating-house where he can get a square meal for less than a tip his late waiter would despise. Here he picks up the bill of fare with an attempt to be bored with the necessity of making a choice. He will casually murmur over the names of the higher priced dishes, dismissing each with a lordly "I don't feel just right for that to-night," and finally orders a "coffee and sinkers," price ten cents.—Chicago Herald.

Sindram Stolidly Awaiting His Doom.

William Sindram sat in the corridor of the Tombs prison yesterday, closely watched by his guards. He received all who were allowed to speak to him with courtesy. His broken-hearted mother called upon him in the afternoon. At the time Commissioner Brennan was talking cheerily to him. The heart-broken mother left the supporting arm of a gentleman who accompanied her, and throwing her arms around her son's neck, broke forth in such an outburst of grief that all who witnessed it were greatly affected. Sindram tried to cheer his mother, but failed. Commissioner Brennan motioned the guards away, and left the poor woman alone with her son. The Rev. Dr. Morgan called upon Sindram, and was respectfully received, but Sindram's rejection of orthodox views of human destiny is unshakable.—New York Sun yesterday.

A Card from Mr. Eveleth.

To the Editor of THE REPUBLICAN:

It was announced in your issue of the 28th that suit has been brought by District Attorney Corkhill against myself and bondsmen to recover $2,700 of public money advanced to me from the Treasury, for which amount I have failed to account. Now, in noticing this calumny I desire to say that for more than forty years I have been a disbursing officer of the Government; that for the greater portion of that time millions of dollars were advanced to me from the Treasury upon no other bond than my long-tried and well-established personal integrity, every cent of which has up to this date been faithfully accounted for, and to add that any allegation to the contrary is unmitigatedly and cruelly false, no matter from what source such allegation may emanate.

JAMES EVELETH.

Can It Be Possible?

To the Editor of THE REPUBLICAN:

FROM THE REPUBLICAN of Thursday I learn that Representative Candler (Republican), from Massachusetts, reported favorably from the Committee on Accounts a resolution providing for the employment of a Bourbon Democrat as a messenger for the House. This same committee recently refused to report favorably to the House a resolution providing for the placing on the "soldiers' roll" the name of an ex-Union soldier who left both legs at Gettysburg—and a staunch Republican, at that. In the language of ex-Senator Conkling, as expressed in an autograph letter addressed to this disabled soldier upon the occasion of his removal from the employment of the United States Senate by the Democrats in 1879, "Time sets all things even." BUSINESS.

The Dog and the Telephone.

A gentleman in Warren, R. I., who has sometimes assisted in the transmission of messages by telephone, owns a beautiful pet dog named Pat. The dog, having lost sight of his master, went to the telephone office in search of him, and the operator, understanding the object of Pat's visit, called for his master at a place he thought he might be, and informed him that Pat was looking for him, and was immediately answered, and, placing the instrument to the dog's ear, he at once evidently recognized his master's voice, and started for the door, greatly excited, and asked in a dog's language to be let out that he might go in pursuit of him.—Providence Journal.

A Curious Library.

A colored janitor of Philadelphia, named Joseph W. H. Catheart, has a curious library, which may eventually prove useful to historians. For twenty-five years he has assiduously collected in scrap-books whatever especially struck his fancy in the newspaper press, until now he has one hundred large volumes, which he regards with affectionate pride. Three of these are devoted to "China and Japan," "Incidents in the Life of Jefferson Davis" (ill two volumes; "The Freedmen's Bureau" and "Slavery" claim each five volumes. One of the most interesting collections is "Poetry of the Rebellion," which contains about a thousand warsongs.

Business Realism.

You may say what you please about realism and high art, but one of the most disillusionizing things that can happen to a theatre-goer is to sit in an inside stage box at the Baldwin and listen to Alice Dunning exclaim in agonized tones: "Great heavens! and can it be possible that my poor, injured child still loves her miserable, guilty mother?"

And then hear her distinctly add in an aside: "Forty-two—and four are forty-six—and—eleven—fifty-seven—carry—by—great—king—Bradley, there aren't over thirty-five dollars in the whole house!"—Derrick Dodd.

Michigan's Acknowledgment.

The following letter has been received by Captain Tyler, the treasurer of the Michigan relief fund in this city, acknowledging the donations from the Capital:

DEAR SIR: Your esteemed favor of the 2d, with enclosure of draft for $296.80 for Michigan sufferers, has been received. Please convey to the generous donors, through us, the heartfelt thanks of the sufferers. We are now aiding individual cases among the sufferers with cash assistance on the reports of our agents. One donation supplies have been all sent to them. The Legislature of our State is now in session, and it is to be hoped that they will make an appropriation sufficient to carry them over the winter. The committee wish to be kindly remembered to Hon. O. D. Conger, member of the State Relief Commission. Yours very truly,

M. B. ALLARDT, Secretary.

Readings and Recitations.

Miss Ida K. Hinds, whose talents as a recitationist are well known, will give a public entertainment on Saturday night at the Congregational Church. Miss Hinds has remarkable versatility, a most sympathetic voice, and is an actor of unusual talents. She heightens the effect of her recitations by appearing in costume, an unusual feature. Alone and unaided, Miss Hinds would give an evening of rare enjoyment, but, added to the attraction of her various characterizations, Miss Ames, of New York, gives a musical number, as do also the Misses Harvey and Mr. Charles Dean, while Professor Bischoff will render the accompaniments. This entertainment should call forth a large audience, who will be most agreeably entertained.

A Pastor's Resignation.

Rev. Owen James, the pastor of the North Baptist, on Fourteenth street, near R, has resigned on account of the dissatisfaction on the part of certain members with his views on the subject of conversion. The pastor does not believe so much in demonstrative or emotional conversion as conversion from the results of reflection and reason.

The Eastern North Carolina District.

It is necessary to have the laws vigorously enforced in the South, that a free ballot and a fair count shall be secured. This important duty devolves upon the Department of Justice. But this cannot be done unless the material to be used for prosecuting officers is of the very best. In the Eastern District of North Carolina the frauds committed in the ballot-box in 1880 defeated the Republican State ticket and two members of Congress, and, from the best information to be obtained, the present district attorney has only instituted prosecutions in one or two cases. This shows clearly a want of sympathy with the defeated party on the proper capacity to enforce the law. The present incumbent's time is about to expire. The Stalwart Republicans of that district are anxious to have ex-Congressman D. H. Russell appointed to the position. He is the ablest lawyer in North Carolina; was made a judge in 1868, when but twenty-two years of age; served six years with great ability and satisfaction to the people, and was elected to Congress in 1878. He is considered one of the most aggressive, bold, and progressive in the South. His appointment will be sufficient notice to the Southern Bourbon ball-dozer to guarantee a free vote and fair count in the future in the Eastern District.

TWILIGHT FANCIES.

Only a few and foolish rhymes,
Reminders of those far, fair times,
When hope and heart were young—
When life was all a melody,
Whose sweetest notes were yet unsung;
But now its mournful threnody
Falls faltering from the tongue.

I sit alone at the phantom hour,
When the weird night begins to lower
And the darkness is peopled again;
And the stillness finds a voice.
And there move before me women and men,
Who once did live and rejoice.

The unseen with the living blends
And countenances of familiar friends
Now come and disappear,
Like faces out of mist;
Again I feel the soft touch near
Of childish hands I've kissed.

O gossamer threads of feeling,
What mysteries are ye revealing?
The filaments of the brain
Stretch hither and thither,
Herein west of joy, there a web of pain,
That ends for us mortals—whither?

CONGRESSIONAL NEWS.

Thursday's Proceedings—The Chinese and Consular and Diplomatic Bill.

The President pro tempore submitted resolutions of the board of directors of the Union League of Philadelphia recommending the plan of Mr Oliver Evans Woods for better securing the delivery of dead letters, both foreign and domestic.

Mr. Ferry asked that they be read, as the subject was important.

Mr. Edmunds objected, as the paper being lengthy would unnecessarily encumber the record.

Mr. Ferry replied that his object was to attract public attention to the matter.

The paper was referred.

Mr. Butler presented a petition from all the bank presidents, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and a number of leading business men of Charleston, S. C., asking a modification of the treaty with the Hawaiian Islands.

Mr. Lapham presented the memorial of the Chamber of Commerce of Los Angeles, Cal., in favor of the bill to incorporate the Nicaraguan Canal Company.

Also resolutions of the Buffalo Board of Trade favorable to the permanent organization of the Signal Corps.

Mr. Platt, from the Committee on Patents, reported favorably the bill to regulate practice in patents.

Also, adversely, the bill for the refunding of fees in all cases of void registration of trade-marks.

Mr. Sawyer, from the Committee on Post-Offices, reported favorably, with an amendment, the bill to provide for the payment of the amount due the Burlington, Cedar Rapids and Northern Railway Company for transportation of United States mails.

Mr. Ferry introduced a bill to grant additional pensions to those who have lost an arm or a leg in the service of the United States.

Mr. Gorman offered a resolution directing the Postmaster-General to transmit a statement giving the amount expended during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1881, for special facilities for fast mails, a list of railroad companies receiving the same, and the amount paid to each company, the additional service furnished by each company, if any, and to what extent the service has been expedited; also a detailed statement of contracts made for special fast-mail facilities during the present fiscal year to date, the amount to be paid to each railroad company, and the character of the additional service to be performed by each company. Adopted.

Mr. Kellogg, from the Committee on Commerce, reported favorably the bill recently introduced by him to extend the limits of the port of New Orleans, and for other purposes.

He offered a resolution, which was adopted, directing the Secretary of War to transmit an estimate of the cost of removing wrecks and other obstructions from Bayou Lafourche, Louisiana.

Mr. Vance offered a resolution reciting that the cost of collecting the internal revenue tax in the sixth collection district of North Carolina is nearly 69 per cent., being greater than that of any other district in the United States; that many and serious charges against the officials are openly made in the newspapers and elsewhere, and are generally believed; providing for the appointment by the President of the Senate of a committee of three to investigate the charges and complaints, with power to compel the attendance of witnesses, &c.

The resolution went over under objection of Mr. Sherman.

Mr. Conger, from the Committee on Commerce, reported favorably, with amendments, the House bill to promote the efficiency of the Life-Saving Service and to encourage the saving of life from shipwreck. The amendments consist of two sections of the Senate bill, which provide a pension for two years for the widows and children of keepers and surgeons who may lose their lives while in the service, and for the payment of salaries to keepers and members of crews during the time of sickness or disability resulting from wounds or disease contracted in the line of duty. Placed on the calendar.

At 1:40 the Senate took up the Chinese bill.

Mr. Grover advocated the bill in a lengthy speech.

Mr. Farley followed, and then yielded the floor for an extra session.

Mr. Aldrich introduced a bill appropriating $20,000 for the erection of a light-house at or near Sakonnet Point, Long Island.

The Senate (at 2:55) went into executive session, and at 4:18 adjourned.

House of Representatives.

Mr. Kasson, from the Committee on Ways and Means, reported a bill admitting free of duty certain steam-plow machinery belonging to M. C. Fisher, of California. Referred to the Committee of the Whole.

There was a good deal of confusion in the House, owing to the fact that a number of members were demanding the recognition of the Speaker, but Mr. Aiken declared his intention of objecting to everything until order was restored.

Mr. Harris, chairman of the Committee on Naval Affairs, reported a bill authorizing the construction of vessels of war for the navy. Printed and recommitted.

Mr. Berry, from the Committee on Mines and Mining, reported the bill to exclude the public lands of Alabama from the operation of the laws relating to mineral lands. Committee of the Whole.

Mr. Jacobs, from the Committee on Elections, reported a resolution dismissing the contested election case of McDowell vs. George, from the State of Oregon. Adopted.

Mr. Townshend laid before the House a communication from the Secretary of the Treasury transmitting a letter from the director of the Mint stating that from March, 1878, to December, 1881, the average monthly cost of silver bullion purchased by the Treasury was $2,067,805.40, and the average amount of coinage, $2,236,891. Referred.

The morning hour having been dispensed with, the House (at 12:45) went into the Committee of the Whole (Mr. Rice, of Massachusetts, in the chair) on the consular and diplomatic appropriation bill, which appropriates $1,198,530—being $12,000 less than was appropriated last year, and $115,000 less than the estimates. After a lengthy debate on the diplomatic service the committee rose without action.

Mr. Beach introduced a bill to authorize a retired list for non-commissioned army officers who have served for forty years. Referred.

Senate amendments to the post-routes bill were concurred in, and then (at 4:50) the House adjourned.

ARMY AND NAVY NEWS.

Lieutenant Albert J. Russell, Seventh Cavalry, arrived at the Ebbitt House last week.

Colonel Valentine C. Hanna, major retired, arrived here last week, and is at No. 2004 G street.

Captain Hamilton S. Hawkins, Sixth Infantry, has been granted three months' extension of leave.

Major Samuel M. Whiteside, captain Sixth Cavalry, is in the city, visiting at No. 1634 Fifteenth street.

Lieutenant-Colonel Robert S. La Motte, Twelfth Infantry, has been granted two months' extension of leave.

General John E. Smith, colonel retired, U. S. A., late Fourteenth Infantry, is residing with his family in Chicago.

Lieutenant Walter S. Scott, Twenty-fifth Infantry, is granted six months' leave from June 20 next, with permission to go abroad.

Captain Gullan V. Weir, Fifth Artillery, who is a member of the court-martial at the arsenal, is quartered with friends at No. 1419 K street.

Lieutenant James D. Maun, Seventh Cavalry, is ordered to St. Louis, on expiration of his leave, to accompany recruits to his regiment and then join his troop.

Major Simon C. Vedder, lieutenant Nineteenth infantry, has been ordered to accompany mounted recruits from St. Louis, Mo., to Texas, and then join his company.

Commander Harry C. Taylor, commanding the training-ship Saratoga, arrived here Wednesday morning from Boston, and is at No. 614 E street, with Mrs. Taylor.

Captain O. Robert F. Bradford has been ordered to duty as a member of the board of inspection, relieving Commodore John Lee Davis, who is placed on waiting orders.

Lieutenant Sidney H. May, U. S. N., registered at the Ebbitt House last week, having just returned from Chicago, where he went to assist at the wedding of Master Harry McCrea last week.

Commodore John Lee Davis has been ordered relieved from duty as member of the navy inspection board and placed on waiting orders, and Captain Robert F. Bradford is detailed on the board.

Thirty recruits are ordered to be sent to Toyah Texas, for the First Infantry; thirty to San Antonio, Texas, for the Sixteenth Infantry, and fifty mounted recruits to Omaha, Neb., for the Fifth Cavalry.

The bill to restore Major William H. Gill to his former position as military storekeeper, United States army, has passed both House and Senate. Major Gill, who has been clerk of the Senate Military Committee for several years, was mustered out in 1879.

The Navy Department is informed of the arrival of the Vandalia, Captain Meade, at Aspinwall, February 13, from Cartagena, having called at Porto Bello en route, and of the departure of the Yantic from Aspinwall, February 14, for Routan and Belize.

Colonel Henry G. Litchfield, captain Second Artillery, who is on duty at Governor's Island, in charge of the target practice of troops in the Military Division of the Atlantic (General Hancock's command), arrived at the Ebbitt House last week from New York.

The Navy Department has ordered that the frigate Trenton, which is now at the New York Navy-Yard, shall be overhauled, repaired, and fitted out for sea, to be ready by July 1. She will have a new set of steel boilers, and it is rumored will be sent to the Pacific as a flagship.

Lieutenant-Commander Francis W. Dickins and Mrs. Dickins are living at No. 1405 H street. Mr. Dickins, it will be remembered, was seriously injured last summer by being struck on the head by a falling spar while he was executive officer of the training-ship Minnesota. His many friends will be glad to hear that he is wholly recovered from this injury, which at first was supposed to be fatal, and later was feared to affect his reason.

At a meeting of the House Committee on Naval Affairs last week a subcommittee was instructed to prepare a bill embodying the recommendations which have been decided upon by the full committee in regard to strengthening the United States navy. The basis upon which the bill was to be prepared was published at the time. Tuesday the full committee received the report of the subcommittee, and authorized Chairman Harris to report the bill to the House with a favorable recommendation.

Heartily Recommended.

Don't condemn a good thing because you have been deceived by worthless nostrums. Parker's Ginger Tonic has cured many in this section of kidney and nervous disorders, and we recommend it heartily to such sufferers.—News.
