A Variety Theater License.

Special License Agent Raff Monday swore out a warrant against Colonel T. E. Snelbaker, of the Theater Comique, charging him with running a variety theater without a license. Mr. Raff says that a person running a variety theater must take out a $500 license. A $100 license has already been taken out, which is the tax for a theater where liquor is not sold to the audience. The $500 law has never been enforced since 1873, and during a consultation of the Commissioners with the assistant attorney for the District the question was raised as to who was responsible for the loss of revenue since 1873, and if it could not now be collected. Colonel Snelbaker said he was not aware that a warrant had been sworn out, and that he had paid his license of $100 on the 1st of this month.

Presentation to the Light Infantry.

Twenty-six of the merchants of Washington, desiring to express their gratification of the victory of the Light Infantry in Baltimore in winning the competitive-drill prize, Monday night presented the corps with a massive frame containing the portraits of the forty men who participated in the drill. The presentation was made by Mr. W. H. Clagett in a neat little address, commending the boys for their work. Captain Burton R. Ross responded in behalf of the company. A large life-size painting of Captain Miller was also presented to the corps. The presentation took place at 8 o'clock, after which the boys gave an exhibition drill, which was loudly applauded by the visitors present.

A SMALLPOX SCARE.

Chattanooga Said to be Infected—Some Contradictory Telegrams.

Assistant Attorney-General Freeman yesterday received a dispatch from Chattanooga, Tenn., which read as follows: "Smallpox here. The city hospital is filled. The United States barracks were sold here last week, and the city has since purchased the buildings, but they stand on government property. It is desirable to use them for hospital purposes. Admittance is denied by the superintendent of the National Cemetery. The buildings are isolated, and occupation will endanger no one. See the Secretary of War at once; every hour is valuable. I telegraph at the request of the citizens' government. We have not time to remove the buildings, and want permission to occupy them as they stand. Act promptly." The following dispatches were received later by Associated Press:

The Secretary of War also received a telegram from the mayor, H. Clay Evans, and others at Chattanooga, Tenn., asking permission to occupy a portion of the barracks grounds there temporarily for smallpox patients. In answer the Secretary telegraphed to the mayor saying that he had been advised that such action would be an outrage on Mrs. McIntyre, widow of Lieutenant McIntyre, who is residing there, and also upon the superintendent of the national cemetery and the employes, and in view of these facts he was compelled to deny the request.

CHATTANOOGA, TENN., Nov. 20.—The rumors of a disaster here are unfounded. They arose from an attempt of the city authorities yesterday to place a pest-house on the United States reservation attached to the National Cemetery. The superintendent ordered the city authorities off the grounds, and said he would resist intrusion by force of arms. A report reached him that a patient would be brought to the grounds, and he at once stationed armed guards around the place. Nothing was done last night, and there are no developments as yet to-day. Word is hourly expected from the Secretary of War. No further trouble is looked for, as the authorities will not act without permission from Washington.

CHATTANOOGA, Nov. 20.—The reports of a smallpox epidemic at Chattanooga are absolutely false. There are some cases here, but compulsory vaccination is being inforced, and the disease will soon be driven out of the city.

The Late Mrs. Susan Hood Russell.

The Rockville Advocate of Thursday tenderly refers to the death of Mrs. Susan Hood Russell, relict of the late Robert Grier Russell, who died there on the 10th instant, in the 93d year of her age. Deceased was the mother of seven children, and belonged to a distinguished family. Her eldest son, Major William W. Russell, of the United States Marine Corps, died October 31, 1862. Her surviving children are Pay Director Alexander W. Russell and Captain John H. Russell, of the United States Navy, and Miss Mary McPherson Russell. She lived and died in the oldest house in Rockville, which was built by her grandfather, Joseph Wilson. A modern addition had been made, but the old home, built before the Revolutionary War, has been kept in good repair and still retains the quaint features of the olden time. The close of her long and remarkable career is felt by the community in which she lived as an uncommon loss. She retained all her faculties except her hearing to the close of her life. She read fine print without glasses, kept herself informed of all of the news of the day, and was always bright, cheerful, and companionable. Three generations of her descendants besides her neighbors and friends were received and entertained by her in daily visits with wonderful adaptability to their several tastes, even to the youngest of the children. Honored as a mother in Israel, not only by the members of her own (Protestant Episcopal) church, but by the Christians of every church, she passed stated portions of each day in reading religious books, especially her Bible, and she passed from earth while engaged with clasped hands in prayer. Like a ripe sheaf at the time of the falling of the leaves in autumn, she is gathered into the garner of her Lord.

Ford's Opera House.

The Wilbur Comic Opera Company opened a week's engagement at Ford's Opera House last night. This company has never been here before, and the large audience was rather undemonstrative at the outset, but the quiet fun of the principals and the precision, and even smoothness, of the performance overcame this disposition and brought out numerous and emphatic encores. Mr. McCollin's Lorenzo and Edward Chapman's Rocco furnished a vast amount of fun. They made the most of their ridiculous parts, and kept the house in a continuous roar while they were on the stage. Pippo was well sung and acted by Mr. Brand. His voice is not heavy, but flexible and true. Mr. Conly's Frederick was well done. He has a light tenor voice of considerable sweetness and well adapted to the music assigned him. Miss Klewin's conception of Bettina is somewhat different from the stereotyped part. She keeps up the manner of the turkey-maid after she has doffed the silks of royalty, and her impetuous acting makes it a very effective part in the performance. Miss Samuels as Fiametta deservedly received a full portion of the applause. The opera was well costumed and fairly set. The chorus is made up of the handsomest set of girls that has been on this stage this season. To-night "Ovilette" will be given.

National Theater.

"The World" was presented at the National Theater last night before a large audience. This drama has proved an immense success wherever it has been produced, and it will no doubt prove so in this city. It is full of thrilling incidents and striking situations. The mechanical stage effects are among the most realistic that have been presented here. The company is a strong one, headed by Mr. J. M. Hardie as Sir Clement Huntingford, Mr. George R. Sprague as Harry Huntingford, Mr. Maurice Pike as Mo Jewel, and Mr. Charles T. Nichols as Martin Rushford acted their several parts with exceptional ability, while Miss Fanny Barry as Mabel and Carlotta Evelyn as Mary Blythe showed dedided ability far above the average melodramatic actress. The "World," will be given throughout the week with the usual matinees. The liberal applause of the audience at each striking scene showed how thoroughly the performance was enjoyed.

French and American Claims.

The French and American Claim Commission met Monday morning. The subject of the extension of time for taking testimony has heretofore been discussed at considerable length. Monday the commission made a long order limiting the time for preparing cases. The order recites that the commission is so limited that it will expire on the 1st of July, 1883, and that more than 500 cases must be examined and decided by that time. The following claims have been disallowed: Louis Dalmas vs. The United States, Francois Sohuc vs. The United States, Stephanie Tronle vs. The United States, Guillaume Beaudenet et al. vs. The United States. Awards have been made in the following cases: Theophile Lairoux vs. The United States, Marc Clareesie vs. The United States, and Rene M. J. Valiee vs. The United States.

Immigration in October.

During the month of October there arrived in the customs districts of Baltimore, Boston, Detroit, Huron, Minnesota, New Orleans, New York, Passamaquoddy, Philadelphia, and San Francisco 57,689 passengers, of whom 45,965 were immigrants, 9,367 citizens of the United States returned from abroad, and 3,357 aliens not intending to remain in the United States. Of this total number of immigrants there arrived from England and Wales, 7,659; Ireland, 3,415; Scotland, 1,055; Austria, 558; Belgium, 198; Bohemia, 481; Denmark, 566; France, 511; Germany, 17,693; Hungary, 963; Italy, 1,524; Netherlands, 263; Norway, 1,161; Russia, 205; Poland, 147; Sweden, 2,316; Switzerland, 859; Dominion of Canada, 6,446; and from all other countries, 215.

The Rule for the Meeting of the House.

Discussion of the members of the House of Representatives already here as to the holding over of the rule to meet at 11 o'clock develops a disposition to change it back to 12 o'clock. Since the announcement has been made, the first meeting will be at 11. The Senate will meet at 12, and there are many Representatives who regard the spirit of the 11 o'clock order as having expired with the adjournment in August, it having been made to facilitate business at the end of the long session. It is unofficially stated that one of the first acts of the House will be to change the hour back to 12 o'clock.

Theatre Comique.

The Theatre Comique was crowded as usual last night with an audience that came for fun, and they got it. Jake Budd, in imitation of Gilmore, directing the Peace Jubilee, made a decided hit. The variety programme was up to its usual high standard, and met with a good reception, Miss Lizzie Simms, Miss Lucille, Barney Sloman, and and Sullivan and Harrington coming in for the leading honors. The programme will be given thoughout the week, with usual matinees to-day, Thursday, and Saturday.

Sensible Girls.

Cigarette smoking has taken on a new horror. Some of the young ladies have resolved that they won't kiss anybody who smokes cigarettes. This will certainly discourage the practice. No young man who understands the real delights of life will hesitate in his choice between the poisonous cigarette and the red lips of a girl.

Death of Colonel Milton Cogswell.

Colonel Milton Cogswell, major (retired), U. S. A., died suddenly of apoplexy at about 6 o'clock Monday morning, at his residence at the Soldiers' Home here, where he was on duty as deputy governor. He was a native of Indiana, whence he entered at West Point in 1845 and graduated July 1, 1849. He was first appointed brevet second lieutenant Fourth Infantry, but was promoted to second lieutenant Eighth Infantry the next month. He was promoted to first lieutenant in August, 1855, captain May, 1861, and major October 8, 1864, and retired on that rank September 5, 1881, for disability. In July, 1861 he was made colonel Forty-second New York Volunteers, was transferred to the Second New York Heavy Artillery in October, 1862, and mustered out in April, 1865. He was brevetted major for gallantry at Ball's Bluff, and lieutenant-colonel for Petersburg, and colonel for gallantry during the war. Since his retirement he has twice been ordered to duty as deputy governor at the Soldiers' Home, the last time in July last, when he succeeded General John S. Mason. The funeral will take place at the Soldiers' Home Wednesday afternoon, November 22, at 3 o'clock. He leaves a family.
